A year ago, according to the President, Sir Edmund Walker, Canada was faced with the problem of placing more fully all its resources of every kind at the disposal of the Allied authorities, and to-day the enemy being defeated, Canada is face to face with the serious problems of reconstruction. Sir Edmund regards them as being of as serious import almost as the winning of the war, and suggests the forces at the immediate disposal of the Canadian public that may be effectively applied to the building of a greater Canada. As it is customary to expect of him, he does not hesitate to indicate how the problems of the future can be met—those which pertain to constructive results as well as those, no less important, designed to avoid dislocation of business, and the troubles incident thereto, such as unemployment. Timely reference is made to this matter, and it is quite evident that Sir Edmund did not desire to be understood as meaning that the danger of trouble arising from the return of 500,000 to 600,000 men from the war to peace work was passed. With so large a proportion of the available labour force of the Dominion employed in the past two or three years in making war munitions of so many kinds, our exports could not be otherwise than in excess of imports. This gave rise to financial problems, not yet quite solved, which are lucidly explained. Canada's financial status, its relation to the future and its entirely changed position as a debtor to Britain, and made clear, and while speaking of these changes, Sir Edmund pays a tribute to the work of the United Kingdom which expresses admirably Canadian sentiment.

Following this review of work done, work which received the unstinted approbation of the Imperial authorities—we are presented with a statement of Canada's industrial position and possibilities under peace conditions.

"So far as tangible objects of wealth are concerned, we are hardly better off than when the war began," says Sir Edmund. "We have created many new factories and plants to make instruments of war, and acquired much skill in working these plants; we have large additions to steel and other plants immediately available for works of peace, and we have new shipyards, but because of four years concentration on war, we are in need of supplies in many directions." From this point in the address the possibilities of future developments are indicated—those in regard to greater population, the development of water powers, the production of food stuffs, the extension of foreign trade and the establishment of credits abroad to supplement the increased supply of domestic capital which it is hoped will become available by continued frugality on the part of the public. "We can now start afresh," says Sir Edmund, "with the problems of peace conscious that greater effort is necessary for the future, but that we are able to do many things, thought impossible before the war; that our war burden, heavy as it is, is slighter than that of several of the leading nations, and that with our small population and vast country we should be able to attract immigration more successfully than ever in the past."

Mr. W. H. Dunsford is the successful manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, which has an important part in the year's splendid record.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Put the Red Shield Drive over the top.

Peterborough never fell down during the war; it is not going to do so now.

The Salvation Army will help to keep demobilization from becoming demoralization.

Ask any returned soldier about the Salvation Army war work. He'll tell you the Army "was always ready to help."

And incidentally ask him about the Salvation Army Hostels at home.

We should have one of them in Peterborough. Support of next week's big drive may help in securing a hostel here.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I should hope that there will be a large addition to the labor organizations after listening to the address of Senator Robertson on the night of the 16th, for I am sure that he made it plain to all the benefit of united action on the part of labor. He is a labor man himself, and he has realized the benefit that comes to those that are united. Hoping that all those who stood outside the ranks of Oragnized Labor will see the benefit that has already come to those that are united. Come along fellow toiler, and help along the good cause. Yours for a united front,

One of the Toilers.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

Address of the General Manager at the Annual Meeting of the Bank.

The address of Sir John Aird, General Manager of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, at the annual meeting of the shareholders of that Bank held on 14th instant, will be interesting to our readers. Not only does it deal at length with the business of the Bank during the past year, which has been a most successful one for the institution, but it indicates the view taken of Canada's prospects by one of her leading bankers. Sir John said:—

For the first time since January, 1914, we meet without the sinister shadow of the great war upon us. Difficult as is the outlook before many of the warring nations and perplexing as are the problems for which a solution has to be found before a satisfactory peace can be concluded, hostilities have ceased and cannot be renewed on the same colossal scale. We rejoice that the sacrifice of life has come to an end and that those members of our staff at the front who have survived the conflict, and others who are near and dear to many of us, can now look forward with assurance to the welcome that awaits them at their home-coming. The past year has been pleasurably marked by the jubilees of both our President and Vice-President in their respective callings. We have, therefore, many reasons for a feeling of jubilation on this occasion, and this is added to by the excellence of the statement which we have pleasure in presenting to you.

An Excellent Statement.

The earnings of the Bank have been good, and the profits have again reached a new high level, amounting to $2,850,000, or $212,000 more than a year ago. We confess to a feeling of pride that we have been able to maintain the premier place among Canadian banks in this, to you, important item. Notwithstanding the apparent size of the figures, however, it must not be forgotten that the rate of earnings of this Bank, as of Canadian banks in general, is steadily decreasing, when measured by the services rendered and the extent of the effort put forth by our staff. On the average of our total assets during the year we have earned only 7/10ths of one per cent., as compared with 1.27 per cent in 1913, the last year prior to the war, and 1.37 per cent. ten years ago.

Increased Service.

The main causes of this, as I have pointed out in previous years, are, on the one hand, the enormous increase in the volume of those banking services which are performed for the public without remuneration, and the fact that banking is one of the few businesses in which changes are sometimes lowered but seldom increased, in spite of the general increase in the cost of everything else; and on the other, the increases in salaries and wages which are inevitable to enable our men to meet the great increase in the cost of living. It must not be forgotten that salaries and wages constitute the most formidable item of expense in the budget of a bank, and it will readily be understood that the responsibilities and the difficulties of dealing fairly with the members of our staff, in view of the high level of the cost of living are not small.

Depreciation Unnecessary.

An unusual item in our Profit and Loss account this year, which affords us much gratification, is the recovery of the appropriation of $1,000,000 set aside in the year 1915 to provide for the depreciation of securities. We then expressed the hope of saving this, or at least a part of it, at the end of the war, and it is a source of satisfaction to find our prediction fulfilled.

On the other side of the account, our disbursements in the way of dividends and bonuses to shareholders, and the amounts required to pay the special war tax on bank note circulation and for the Officers' Pension Fund, are the same as a year ago. Subscriptions to various funds of a patriotic nature, almost all of them the direct outcome of the war, have called for $102,550.

A War Memorial.

We have set aside $100,000 to defray the cost of a memorial we propose to raise in honour of the officers of the Bank who served in the great war, and for the cost of the history of the Bank to which I referred a year ago. The form of the memorial is not yet decided, but it will probably take shape when we come to erect a new building on our site here, an undertaking which cannot long be delayed if the natural development of the business of the Bank is not be hindered by cramped and unsuitable quarters. After doing all this, we have been able to transfer $1,500,000 to Rest account which thus becomes equal to the paid-up capital, a goal which we have aimed to reach for many a day, but which has called for long years of tireless striving, before we could consider it as fairly won. We might perhaps have made a better showing on the surface and have seemed to reach our goal in a shorter period of time, but our wish has been to build surely and carefully upon a firm foundation, and in the meantime to provide beyond peradventure for every weak spot in our loans and securities. We carry forward into the new financial year an undivided balance of profits amounting to $1,144,842, or $112,000 more than a year ago.

Note Circulation.

Turning now to the General Statement, the first item of our liabilities is notes in circulation. These amount to the very large sum of $31,563,000, or $7,582,000 more than a year ago. This increase is not far from double the large increase reported last year, but we think that the reasons advanced for it then still hold good, although it is possible that in addition there may be a certain amount of hoarding by a class of munition-workers who adhere to old habits, and hide their savings rather than entrust them to the care of a bank. If so, this cause should soon cease to operate, and we shall watch with much interest the course of the note circulation during the next few months, in which the greatest amount of contraction always takes place each year.

Increased Deposits.

The increase in our total deposits is $76,733,000, or 27.7 per cent., and the greater part of this is under the heading of deposits not bearing interest, which amount to $64,552,000. Deposits bearing interest show an increase of $12,181,000, an amount which would have been much greater had it not been for the Victory Loan of 1918. If we turn to the monthly statements to the Government we shall find that deposits payable after notice dropped $18,855,000 during November, which is solely due to the Victory Loan. On the other hand, it must be remembered that under the arrangements made by the Government for the deposit of the proceeds of the Victory Loan with the banks from which the money was withdrawn, a large part of this money is still at the credit of the Dominion Government, subject to its requirements.

How to Save.

Once again the Minister of Finance and the organization which controlled the Victory Loan campaigns have won an out standing success. The Victory Loan of 1918 was over-subscribed many times, and without the use of any compulsion save the mere breath of public opinion, the Government has been provided with more than the sum which it required. Yet, as I pointed out last year, the lesson in how to save, so strongly impressed upon the community by these campaigns, is their great result from the national point of view. Who may venture to predict what the knowledge thus acquired of how to invest savings wisely may mean to Canada in the years to come. Except for the increase in the productive capacity of the country this is perhaps the greatest material benefit derived from the war. Alongside it the loss of a few millions of deposits to individual banks is a very small matter, which, if the lesson is thoroughly learned, will require only a short period of time to remedy itself.

Bank Helped Loan.

Our efforts to assist the Minister of Finance in obtaining subscriptions to the Loan have resulted in our securing through this bank the large sum of $104,543,000, represented by 150,775 individual subscriptions. This amount included $100,000,000 of new money and represents 15 per cent. of the total. It is gratifying to know that we have far exceeded the proportion which might be reasonably expected from us. This result has not been obtained without very strenuous effort on the part of our staff, and also the expenditure of a large amount of money by the Bank. Unfortunately the heavy task came upon our staff just at the moment when their ranks were depleted by the ravages of influenza. In connection with this, as well as previous loans, we shall also be required to perform for the Government special services, such as the payment of coupons and interest during the term of the loans, the last of which does not mature until the year 1937. The Canadian banks were also called upon during the year to assist in the Dominion Government financing to a large amount, and we assumed our full share of these advances. In addition, we participated in a loan of $100,000,000 to the Imperial Government against Treasury Bills and renewed the advances made against similar security to the Imperial Munitions Board.

Finance Food Supplies.

Acceptance under Letters of Credit, offset in our balance sheet by the corresponding liability of our customers, which appears among the assets, show a large increase, represented by advances in Canada and the United States, secured in nearly every case by food supplies purchased for account of the Allies. Cash on hand, consisting of gold and silver coin and Dominion notes, amounts to $61,971,000, as compared with $54,652,000 a year ago, an increase of $7,319,000. Of this, we had $47,500,000 in the Central Gold Reserves, to provide cover for our excess note circulation. Our total holdings of gold and silver coin—principally gold, but including the necessary silver for the tills of the branches—are slightly lower than a year ago. We hold, however, a much larger amount in Canada, in the carrying out of the views I expressed last year in referring to this subject.

Maintain Good Standard

This was not accomplished without difficulty, owing to the embargo placed on exports of gold by the United States Government and to the demands of that Government and effort to increase our holdings has been further hampered by the decline in the output of the Canadian mines caused by the present cost of production. It is gratifying to find a substantial agreement with our views on this subject in the report of the Imperial "Committee on Currency and Foreign Exchanges after the War of which Lord Cunliffe, Governor of the Bank of England was chairman. In its first interim report this committee has emphasized the imperative need that the gold standard should be effectively maintained in Great Britain and that the necessary measures to this end should be taken without delay. Similar measures are being urged in the United States by a not uninfluential section of the press, and it is disquieting to hear a discordant note sounded in certain influential financial circles in this country. We think that the Government could well afford to pay a small royalty to encourage an increase in the production of the gold mines of Canada. The conditions of the last two years have very adversely affected the mining of gold, especially as compared with silver, and in the interests of the country we believe that the Government should seriously consider some plan for placing this industry on a profitable footing.

Large Volume of Transaction

The next item of the assets, consisting of notes and cheques and balances due by other banks shows an increase of $3,830,000, almost all of which is made up of larger holdings of cheques on other banks, which constitute the daily exchanges. This increase is due solely to an increased volume of current banking transactions. Securities of various kinds have increased $16,183,000, represented principally by larger holdings of British and Canadian Government securities. On the other hand, railway and miscellaneous securities have decreased slightly. Call and short loans show an increase of $8,324,000 of which the greater part is in loans outside Canada, and immediately available assets are $35,682,000 greater, standing at about 50 per cent. of our liabilities to the public. Commercial loans show an increase of $52,621,000, nearly all of which is lent in Canada. While there is no doubt a good deal of activity in such manufacturing as can be carried on under the circumstances of the past few months, a large part of this increase is due to high prices and to delay in realizing on our wheat and other produce, which has been reserved by the Government. The delay in this connection, while no doubt largely inevitable under existing conditions, has a prejudical effect on those immediately concerned. With the passing of the era of high prices, especially those of farm produce, and a return of wages to a more normal level than that of munition making, we must expect to see decreases in the volume of both our loans and deposits. Indeed, it will not be surprising if the figures of the present balance sheet are not exceeded for several years to come.

Total assets have increased $95,935,000, and now amount to the very large sum of $440,310,000. This increase is 27.8 per cent over the figures of last year, a remarkable showing when it is recalled that we have been marking time in the opening of new branches, and that we have not taken over the business of any other bank.

Reinstate Returned Men.

With regard to the staff, it is our desire to reinstate all officers who wish to come back to our service from military duty, and at the same time to avoid any hardship which might be created by dispensing with the services of the members of the temporary staff, who have filled the breach so acceptably during the past four years.

With sorrow we record the death in action of eighty-five additional members of our staff during the past year, making a total of 226 who have been killed in action, or have died of wounds, since the outbreak of the war. The number of wounded men reported to us has now reached 294; 7 still recorded as missing and 23 as in the prison camps. Under the terms of the armistice we trust that these prisoners have now been successful in reaching allied or neutral countries.

Increase Export Trade.

A year ago I urged the importance to Canada of stimulating the production and export of food, the need of organization for the purpose, and the attractiveness of the outlook for this branch of commerce. The ending of the war has in no wise dimmed the prospect. The last number of the Agricultural Gazette, the official publication of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, contains an appeal from the Dominion Government along similar lines, and particularly emphasizes the bright prospects of the meat export trade. Speaking of the outlook before this country now that the war has ended, the Minister of Finance, Sir Thomas White, writes "There would seem no reason to apprehend any failure of markets for all the food that Canada can produce. Our grain, live stock, and their products, with those of our fisheries, should all be in keen demand at high prices. . . . Increase in our agricultural production will not only help to furnish food for a hungry Europe, but will be a chief factor in maintaining our favourable international trade balance as well." All countries are seeking to increase their export trade all are hoping to be sellers and to limit their purchases. Under such conditions, the successful ones will be those which have special advantages for a certain line of production and which can find a market for the same line of goods. Is there any country better fitted than Canada for the production of food, or any branch of commerce in which an ample market is more assured?

Some Spending.

Any number of plans are afloat for the carrying on of large public works after the war. These are advocated on all sides in the hope that the era of free spending may tide over that of falling prices. Few of the promoters, however, appear to have considered where the money is to come from. By all means let a wise and statesmanlike view of the matter prevail, and all public works be undertaken which are in the best interests of the community, having regard to all aspects of the question. But let it not be forgotten that such works have to be paid for sooner or later out of the taxes, and the hope of every citizen at the present moment, I may safely say, is to see his tax bills reduced rather than largely increased. Even public borrowing cannot indefinitely postpone the evil day of payment.

Reconstruct With Savings

Some of our municipalities are already hampered by the load of debt incurred in former eras of prosperity, and no one would advocate any considerable increase at this time in the national debt of the Dominion. The safe course is wisely set out in the Cunliffe report, to which I have already referred. After speaking of the pressure that is sure to be brought to bear upon the state for capital expenditure in many forms for reconstruction purposes, it points out that all money expended on reconstruction work should come out of savings and not be obtained by the creation of new credit. The burden of prevailing high interest rates in the case of such works has also to be considered, and although the outlook as to the value of money after the war is uncertain, it seems probable that current rates in England are held below the natural level at present by war-time regulations, and that when these restrictions are removed, rates may tend upward rather than downward. It is clear that the importance of saving and economy in personal expenditures as a public duty will not be lessened by the ending of the war, but, if possible, increased.

It is interesting to note that the London Statist is of the opinion that after the war Canada will prove more attractive to emigrants than the United States, and that thus the drain up on the manpower of this country made by the war will be more than remedied.

The Future.

As to the future, we feel that we can look forward with quiet confidence. The multifarious restrictions which have neces arily been placed on business during the war will doubt less disappear before long, and they should be removed by the Government as speedily as possible. This will aid in lessening unemployment at home, and enable our exporters to resume their operations in other countries before the field is occupied. Attention should also be given to the prompt settlement of all outstanding contracts and obligations of the Government, and to the claims arising out of the cancellation of contracts. These are sometimes allowed to drag causing great injustice to individuals and corporations, and preventing them from resuming their accustomed place in the peace activities of the nation. By prompt attention to such matters the Government can assist materially in the restoration of a normal state of affairs in the business world. We have been fortunate in this country in that our participation in the war has not involved material damage at home. Our efforts have entailed no exhaustion on our part, and while the problems before us are many and difficult, we believe that a satisfactory solution will be found for all of them.

GERMAN PLOT IS FOILED

Spartacans Attempt to Abduct Hohenzollern Family in Holland.

Special to The Examiner:

AMERONGEN, Holland, Jan. 18.—Guards about Count Bentinck's castle were reinforced today, when it was reported that armed German Bolsheviks plotted to raid the place and seize the former Kaiser and Kaiserin and carry them off to Germany.

No man is ever great from his neighbour's point of view.

A good many people fail to appreciate salvation because it is free.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH

To-morrow, January 19th, the George Street Methodist Church will hold their Sunday School Anniversary. The Rev. S. L. W. Harton, of Waterloo, Ont., will be the speaker of the day. At eleven o'clock the school will attend in a body, and an object talk will be given by Mr. Harton. In the afternoon an open session of the school will be held in the auditorium of the church when an especially interesting talk will be given by Mr. Harton, and several special numbers will be rendered by the members of the school. An orchestra under the leadership of Mr. W. H. Cunningham will assist in all the services of the day. In the morning and evening the choir will be in their usual places. Members of the school are asked to assemble at 10:45 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. An interesting and helpful day is looked for, and an invitation is extended to all the friends of the school as well as any strangers who may be in the city.

GOSPEL HALL.

George T. Pinches, Evangelist of Iowa, U.S.A., will deliver a series of addresses on "Heavens Great Interventions."

Beginning Sunday, Jan. 19th, and continue every night for one week; these events are no mystical dreams. They are great facts deciding the destinies of man and the world. They have a more far reaching influence than the great war. All are invited. None should miss a single address. Mr. Pinches is also a good singer and every minute will be of interest. First meeting Sunday night at 7 o'clock in the Gospel Hall, corner George and Brock Streets. 4d-11

Fair Board Faces Post-War Problems With New Confidence

Hope to Build Horse Barns This Year and to Make Further Improvement to the Grounds—The Officers Elected for 1919.

NEW MEMBERS ADDED

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition directors yesterday afternoon brought out probably the largest attendance in the history of the Board. None of the members could recall any meeting that approached it in numbers and enthusiasm, and even the veteran William Collins, who has been a promoter of the Fair since the eighties, felt, as a survivor of the old guard, that their worries and their labours had not been in vain. Invincible hopes and the old spirit of harmony gave the directors a zest for their own post-war problems and expected expansion that even an overdraft of $2,000 could not spoil. Reports of last year's work showed that the directors had achieved a real success against unusual difficulties, that the public had manifested its approval of the necessary permanent improvements by their generous support, and finally that the plans to which the Board was committed should be pushed with renewed vigour and vision.

The presence and the interest of the large number of farmers yesterday, some of them from as far as Milbrook, was decidedly encouraging. The exhibition Peterborough hopes to develop to rank with the best in the province depends largely upon the farmers, and the tribute must be paid them of undertaking eagerly and efficiently those details that constitute the actual exhibition. The directors seek the assistance of all the farmers and citizens, and determined effort will be made to that end this season. The co-operation and confidence of the citizens are particularly desired. Mr. J. J. Hartley was appointed to the Board yesterday as a representative of the Trades and Labour Council, and other members are invited to take a share of the work, and to see from their own experience that it is a labour of love and not for remuneration. Everything possible will be done to remove the slightest friction and to lay the foundations of the greater exhibition of the future on fullest confidence of the people.

The Officers for 1919.

The officers appointed for 1919 were as follows:

President—Roland Denne.
1st Vice-President—W. J. Cox.
2nd Vice-President—Albert Roberts.
Secretary-Treasurer—F. J. A. Hall.
Honourary Directors—J. H. Burnham, M.P.; G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P.; Mayor Duncan, James Thompson, M.P.P.; J. A. Sexsmith, M.P.; E. A. Peck, Ed. M. Elliott, Wm. Collins, R. R. Hall, S. F. Redmond, R. W. B. Greatrix, Rev. C. J. Phelan, A. W. Cressman, W. G. Morrow, W. H. Denham, and R. A. Morrow.

Directors—C. E. Moore, Thos. Brown, Frank Wise, C. F. Kitney, J. A. Storey, John Gillespie, J. O. Ball, R. H. Turner, R. M. Glover, C. E. Graham, S. F. Milburn, D. Jordan, T. Cruikshanks, T. H. Hooper, W. J. Stacey, A. B. Mann, R. Shaw, T. O. Gibbs, Clayton Telford, Wm. Steinkrauss, H. G. Webber, Harold Baptie, W. F. Turner, E. W. Wood, W. S. Merrell, J. T. O'Connell, John Williams, W. Roseborough, Bruce Johnston, W. J. Fraser, J. J. Hartley, T. H. Theobald, S. A. Oke, S. Dickson Hall and W. R. Breyfogle.

Auditors—E. M. Elliott and Wm. Collins.

Delegates to the Fairs' Association—H. Baptie and R. Grandy.

A Horse Barn Proposed.

"To make the Fair better, we must go on," the president declared toward the close of the meeting. "We should build a horse barn at the west end of the grounds for the race horses, and we should have a new ring for the driving horses to avoid interference with the races. We also need a barn for the horses on exhibition. It should accommodate at least 150 horses. We propose to make another canvass this year in the city and county for these additional buildings, and I believe we can realize the amount we need."

Mr. R. H. Turner made a suggestion for the planting of trees that will be dealt with by the new Board, and the Spring "bee" at the grounds will accomplish a great deal of work if the directors are all of the spirit of William Steinkrauss, who promised a team of horses for two days, however busy he might be at home.

The Board has evidently secured an active member in Mr. J. W. Fraser, Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, who has had considerable experience as a director of the exhibition at St. Stephen, N.B.

The Vegetable Growers' Association came in for a share of the felicities, their display last fall being regarded as the best in the history of the Exhibition. Messrs. Sam Oke, Bruce Johnston and John Williams were appointed to the Board in recognition of the Association's help.

Mr. S. Dickson Hall's interest in the Fair prompted the directors to invite him to assume a share of the responsibility.

Rev. Benj. Greatrix and Rev. Father Phelan, who were among the volunteers last year, were promoted to regulars. Such material support as theirs was regarded as too valuable to be left unrecognized, and in a sense unharnessed.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Astigmatism

This form of Eye trouble is prevalent among young people and causes headaches, eye strains and all sorts of trouble.

Astigmatism is a Malformation of the eye ball, and requires specially ground lenses perfectly fitted and placed, to overcome the error.

System is Composed of Twenty-six Miles of Wire and is Divided Into Four Different Circuits—The Big "Red Devil" in the Fire Station May be Roaring and Ready to Leave Before the Actual Alarm Comes In.

The fire alarm system in Peterboro is composed of 26 miles of wire. The system is divided into four different circuits, north, south, east and west. There are 37 boxes connected up with this system, one of which is private and is the property of the Canadian General Electric Company., and is known to the brigade as 175.

When an alarm is required to be sent in the glass which is seen on the front of the door must be broken and this gives access to the key which opens the box. Before the door of the box is opened the circuit is "dumb." That is the box is not electrically connected with the fire station. The click of the armature at the fire station when these buttons are pressed warns the firemen that an alarm is about to be sent in, and the engine of the big "red devil" may actually be roaring and the firemen ready to leave when the real alarm is sent in. The system of disconnecting the boxes when not in use is a very modern one and does away with the danger of electricity damaging the boxes if in an electrical storm the wires were hit.

The Repeater.

By pulling down the hook inside the box an alarm is immediately sent to the station and this alarm also rings all bells which are connected up with the system, such as the tower striker (town clock), the pump house, and also all bells which would under the two platoon system be installed in every fireman's private dwelling. When an alarm is pulled from one of the boxes it registers the number of that box on an indicator situated in the watch room at the station. The watchman on duty is responsible for all alarms. On receiving the alarm the watchman gives it out to the department and the whole apparatus responds to the alarm.

On receiving alarms by telephone, the watchman knowing the position and the number of every box in the city, puts the number of the box on an instrument called a repeater which tolls out its beats on the city clock. Any fireman who may be off duty knows in what part of the city the fire is situated and by foot or the nearest vehicle is soon on the scene.

The General Alarm.

There is also one box called the general alarm. This is sent in cases where the department will need the co-operation of the merchants of the city, and are required to move their goods and chattels from the premises as soon as possible. The general alarm is distinguished by twenty beats from the city clock. This alarm cannot be rung by a citizen, but by the Chief only from either the fire station or the fire box closest to the fire.

The waterworks in case of a fire co-operate with the fire brigade. In the watch room there is a pressure guage which shows the water pressure of the city, generally ranging from 70 to 80 pounds. When an alarm comes through the bell that is in the pumphouse rings and warns the operator that there is a fire, and he immediately increases the pressure 20 or 30 pounds, which brings the total pressure up to 100 pounds. If additional pressure is required, the Chief calls the pumps house by telephone and asks for an additional 10 or 20 pounds. After the fire is extinguished the Chief sends two dots from the telegraph key at the fire station or the nearest box to the pump house, which informs the operator that the pressure may be reduced to normal. Without exception Peterboro has the highest water pressure in the whole Dominion and consequently is that much more efficient in fighting fires. In the big city of Toronto, the normal pressure is only between 40 and 50 pounds, and their fire pressure is not above 70 pounds.

Under the present system every man is on duty 24 hours every day, and is as is well known soon on the scene of the conflagration. The promptness in which the fire brigade responded to the alarm sent when Yeates' pool room was ablaze, was an instance. The brigade was on the spot before the youngster who sent in the alarm at the corner of Charlotte and George streets was able to get back to the pool room, and the proprietor is still unable to understand how the brigade was able to be on hand so promptly. Yet this is only one of many examples. Every eighth day a fireman has a day off duty; yet in no sense can it be called a holiday, because if an alarm is sent in he must respond whether he is home with his family or whether he is attending the theatre. No matter where he is when an alarm is sent in he must respond. Every 16th day a fireman is on duty in the watch house at the fire station, and must not leave the room. He watches for alarms and keeps account of the men no matter where they are, testing boxes, inspecting premises, or working about the fire hall.

Even the Chief who watches fire conditions all over the city, informs the watchman where he may be found in case of an alarm so that he may be called for in the little red car.

Citizens are at all times at liberty to visit the station to inspect the premises and see the intricate system which is used to send in alarms.

Peterboro Dry Goods Merchants Anticipate Big Year's Business

The Christmas Trade Was Exceptionally Good—Merchants Are Laying in Large Stocks.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

The most sanguine hopes for a year of unprecedented prosperity are held out by the merchants generally in the city. While since the outbreak of war the dry goods men have suffered perhaps more heavily from the sudden streak of economy most of the world practised when they darned and patched and remade old garments, they are well satisfied with conditions at present and with the business they did during the past year.

From the earliest hint of a possible peace last year merchandise began to sell until December when buying reached its height and according to most of the merchants the Christmas season was the best by long odds they had ever known.

A Record.

Mr. Dickson Hall said that 1918 was a record of prosperity for his firm and business had been splendid during the entire year with the exception of the two weeks when the 'flu' epidemic practically killed all the trade. The Christmas sales, however, compensated any slowness caused by the epidemic and his store did the best business in years. With the outbreak of gaiety caused by the cessation of hostilities in the war there was a heavy demand for evening clothes for which there had been little or no demand in years.

Mr. Hodgins, proprietor of the J. C. Turnbull Company, said that he is well satisfied with present conditions and forsees a big year ahead. He, too, quoted the Christmas sales of 1918 as being phenomenal.

Normal Conditions.

Mr. Robert Fair was not so disposed toward optimism for the prospects for the coming year and things will only reach normal during 1919. He believes the closing of munition plants and other trade conditions will have a reaction on the sale of goods.

Mr. Creseman said that not only had the Christmas sales been the largest in years, but the spirit of buying has stayed with the people, making January, which is usually the slowest month, better than usual. He said that the criterion of what kind of a season the merchants expect lies in the stock he lays in, and his firm is buying especially heavy, anticipating a very big year.

Some of the merchants attribute their prosperity to the fact that country people are beginning to dress as smartly as their city cousins and forgoing the old time satisfaction of laying by all they made to buy the latest the stores have to offer. "In years gone by," one merchant said, "the farmer's wife was quite content to buy clothes dating back two years or more to save a few dollars. To-day she dresses up to date."

Lance-Corp. John Daynard Taken Ill Near the Rhine

The following letter from Lance-Corporal John Daynard, who went overseas as one of the youngest recruits in the 93rd Battalion, has been received by his mother, Mrs. J. Daynard, 569 Albert street:

Stourbridge, Military Hospital,
Worcestershire, Eng.,
December 23, 1918.

Dear Mother,—Just a line to let you know how I am getting along. I guess you will have heard before this about me being admitted to hospital. I left the battalion about one day's march from the Rhine. I had an interrupted ride in a motor ambulance about fifty miles through Germany to a casualty clearing station inside the Belgian border. I stayed in bed there about 24 hours and was then put on an ambulance train. We were on that over two days going through Belgium and France and finally landing at Boulogne. I was then taken to No. 3 Canadian General Hospital outside of Boulogne and stayed there about 4 days and they marked me for "Blighty". So the next morning they put me on a stretcher and I had another trip in the "blighty waggon" down to the boat.

Well we got on the boat, O.K. and had an uneventful voyage; what I mean to say, is I wasn't sick.

We landed at Dover and was put in a Rea Cross train at once and finally landed where I am now, Worcestershire about ten miles from Birmingham.

Two lady representatives of the Canadian Red Cross Society came to see us and brought us a small kit consisting of razor, soap, hair brush, comb, pencil and pad, etc., also apples and cigarettes. As I haven't told you what was wrong with me I yet I will tell you now, it was influenza and pleurisy in my left side.

However, I am up and walking around the ward now, so there is no need to worry, as I will be out in a few days. I will be spending Christmas here and I don't know about New Years as they are sending half the patients that are up away on 12 days special leave and the other half at New Years and I might be able to ring in on the New Years leave.

All the boxes that were sent to me will go to boys in the platoon at the battalion so you know who will get them. They are all my chums so I suppose you don't mind much.

I know I would like a nice big box now but that is out of the question as I will be moving around quite a bit from now on and I may as well tell you that I am not in the 2nd Battalion any more for when you go to England you are struck off the strength of your unit and I don't expect to go to Germany and join the battalion again.

My mail will be a long time getting to me as it will be going from one place to another but that can't be helped.

I will give you this address but I don't expect to be here more than a couple of weeks and then I will go to a convalescent hospital or else back to my reserve and my mail will follow me.

I always wanted to see what a hospital was like and though I couldn't see by getting wounded I saw what it was like by getting sick and I hope it is my last time too as I have seen all I wanted to.

The food is worse than at the battalion and that's saying something but I will soon be out I hope.

Well, mother, I think I will close now hoping this finds you and Elsie in the best of health and wishing both of you a happy New Year. I remain

Your affectionate son,
JACK.

$25.00 FOR A LETTER

CAN YOU WRITE ONE?

Thirteen Prizes to be Awarded in a Letter Writing Competition.

Thirteen Prizes to be Awarded in a Letter Writing Competition.

Some years ago the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., offered a series of prizes to residents of Ontario for the best letters describing cures wrought by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Hundreds of letters were submitted in this competition, and yet there must have been thousands of other users of the pills who did not avail themselves of the opportunity to win a prize. To all these another letter writing competition is offered. Thousands of cures through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have never been reported. These will furnish the material for the letter to be written in this contest. There is no demand upon the imagination; every letter must deal with facts and facts only.

THE PRIZES:

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before the 20th day of February, 1919, from residents of Ontario, on the subject: "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $10.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received; a prize of $5.00 for the third best letter, and ten prizes of $2.00 each for the next best ten letters.

THE CONDITIONS.

The cure or benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case, or one that has come under his or her personal observation.

More than one cure may be described in the letter, but every statement must be literally and absolutely true.

Every letter must be signed by the full name and correct address of the person sending it. If it describes the cure of some person other than the writer of the letter, it must also be signed by the person whose cure is described as a guarantee of the truth of the statement made.

The writer of each letter must state the name and date of the paper in which he or she saw this announcement.

Fine writing will not win the prize unless you have a good case to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of the award.

It is understood that The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. shall have the right to publish any letter entered in this contest if they desire to do so whether it wins a prize or not.

The contest will close on February 20th, 1919, and the prizes will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. Do not delay. If you know of a cure write your letter NOW. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows:
The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.,
Brockville, Ont.
Letter Contest Department.

A PRISONER IN GERMANY

Letter from an Englishman studying in Germany when war broke out, and kept a prisoner there till peace was declared:

London, Dec. 29th.

You will remember no doubt how very interesting and exciting things were during the whole mouth preceding the final collapse, and they were no less interesting and exciting for us, as good news after good news came through until the hope of a general all-round collapse became a glorious certainty. West front—Bulgaria—Palestine—Italy—everything followed in quick succession, and then Germany asked for an armistice. To us, in Ruhleben, situated as we were, with opportunities of weighing up the complete situation, it was obvious that it could only mean one thing. We were certain that, whatever terms were put down, Germany would have to accept, and then, to clinch everything beyond all possible doubt, they had their revolution. From that point Germany, who up till then had shown remarkably stolid face, in face of all these disasters, just broke down under the strain, and in every conceivable way gave up the ghost. All dignity, all hope, all pride—in some cases even common decency, everything went by the board. Of course all restrictions went with the old regime, everybody spoke and wrote as he wished, and even from the little literature we could obtain it was obvious that any amount of pent-up feeling was being thrown around in all directions. Discipline, as far as our camp was concerned, simply ceased to exist.

Discipline Ceased to Exist.

As soon as th state of affairs in Berlin guaranteed comparative safety there was a general exodus from the camp. Leave to Berlin, and even to the provinces, was granted wholesale, and if for some reason leave was not granted, well, the fellows simply took it in any case—the French variety—over the wire. The system of sentries was a complete farce and afforded no check whatsoever. A piece of soap, or little cocoa was the effective "Open sesame," to any gate in the camp. I went out one day quite legitimately (i.e., with a pass), and had a very enjoyable day in Berlin. It was very interesting walking round and drawing comparisons. You see, I was in Berlin for a few months before the war broke out, and so was able to judge fairly well the changes that had taken place, and my word! what changes too! You know they have been playing a gigantic game of bluff. From their papers you would have gathered the impression that for the whole period of the war there has been very little real shortage of everything; you would have thought that, apart from certain unimportant commodities, the domestic life went on as before—but they must have been living on the very absolute minimum amount to keep body and soul together, for years. It says wonders for the solidity (or submission?) of their people—or for their censor system and order that regulated everything...when one remembers that there has been little or no trouble or even protest from the people.

Fear Removed.

I suppose really it was the tremendous fear, born of years and years of inexorable regulation and order, that has kept them quiet so long. But remove the fear of the official and his uniform, as did their little revolution, then the tremendous outcry from all of them simply expressed itself in everything they did or said or wrote, and woe betide any man who crosses them now. If Kaiser Wilhelm ever dares enough to go to Berlin, I'll be the most surprised man on earth if he leaves it alive. The one thought of the people, as far as I could see, was "peace," and at any price, and then—reconciliation, and, above all, food. Everywhere in Berlin you met people anxious to be friends again, and literally begging us "not to be too hard on them." This spirit was expressed by the people who took over the administration of our camp, —some sort of soldiers' council. They issued two manifestoes to us asking us to take home as kindly a view of them as possible, and to tell every one that the German people, as a people, never meant any harm—they were led blindly by their rulers. The guards of the camp dropped every semblance of pride and dignity. From raking around in our dust heaps for things we could not take with us, they descended to begging from box to box (our prison camp had been a racing stable), and even to stealing when the occupants were away for the moment.

Leaving the Camp.

Needless to say, our impatience to be getting away was becoming acute, and we hardly knew what to do with ourselves. We had everything packed up days before we finally left. At last the list of men for the first transport was posted. It was all the men from 25 upwards, and being one of the "kids" I was not included. The evening before the first batch went, another fellow and myself, by means of judicious bribery, managed to get more passes for Berlin, and we went to the theatre and saw "The Merry Widow," in German. It was a very mediocre performance. The first batch left, and we did feel lonely. We were so afraid that a counter-revolution or something would break out and prevent our departure, and I can tell you those last two days in the camp seemed longer than the four years. However, nothing happened, our list went up in due course and my name on it. I am not going to describe my feelings as we went out of that camp, boarded the train and then felt it start at last. It was cold—Oh! terribly cold: half the windows of the train were broken, the cars were dirty and uncomfortable, but we were quite happy. Ruhleben was out of sight, and we were actually on our way home. We travelled due north to a little seaport on the Baltic, called Sassnity. We were twenty solid hours on that train—all of that night it was so cold as—I can't think of a comparison, but we didn't care. The next morning we reached Sassnity, and by 9 a.m. were on a Danish boat, out of the hands of the Germans. It was great. Not much time was lost — soon we were steaming away from Germany across the Baltic to Copenhagen. It was intensely cold but the sun was shining gloriously and it was calm. From the moment we left Germany our troubles ceased. Everything possible was done by the Danes to make us comfortable and happy. We reached Copenhagen that night, and were greeted by crowds of noisy people. We were transhipped the same night on to two fast boats, and by 12 o'clock were out of Copenhagen and on our way to England. When we came on deck next morning we were rounding the northern part of Denmark and heading straight for the North Sea. It was not quite so calm now I can tell you. These boats were built purely for speed, and consequently had rather a fierce action. It wasn't so bad till the afternoon, when it began to blow, and by evening we were feeling it properly. She rolled sometimes to most alarming angles. I was sitting up near the funnel most of the evening, and it was simply great. I had a beautiful sleep that night. Next morning we were taken into Leith (Scotland), and I'll never forget the welcome they gave us. It was simply wonderful. They fed us, feted us, gave us flowers and speeches and all kinds of things. They drove us from the docks to the station in motors, through decorated streets lined with cheering crowds. We might have all been kings. I am certain that George himself never had a better welcome anywhere. From Leith we were taken to a camp in Yorkshire, where we underwent the usual medical examination and inevitable formalities, and finally I and four other friends reached London, after a journey lasting six days. There I said "au revoir" to the others and proceeded home, and here I've been ever since basking in the sunshine of glorious fires and unlimited attention and kindness from everybody.

THRIFT RECIPES

ISSUED BY THE CANADA FOOD BOARD.

OATMEAL BETTY.

2 Cups cooked oatmeal.
4 Apples cut small.
½ Cup corn syrup.
¼ Teaspoon cinnamon.
½ Cup raisins or dates or other dried fruit.

Mix and bake for one-half hour. Serve hot or cold.

Issued by the Canada Food Board.

Hot Pot of Mutton and Barley.

1 pound mutton 4 potatoes
1-2 cup pearl barley 3 onions
1 tablespoon salt Celery tops or other seasoning herbs.

Cut the mutton in small pieces, and brown with the onion in fat cut from the meat. This will help make the meat tender and improves the flavour. Pour this into a covered saucepan. Add 2 quarts water and the barley. Simmer for 1 1-2 hours. Then add the potatoes cut in quarters, seasoning herbs, and seasoning, and cook one-half holur longer.

All Are To Be As Bolsheviki

Russian Red Terror Overspreads Lithuania, Committing Atrocities

WARSAW, Jan. 16. — Bolshevik guerrilla bands are carrying out many depredations in Lithuania as they advance in the direction of Warsaw. A landowner named Michulsky, who lived in a village near Baranovichi, has arrived in Warsaw and relates how he and his wife were tortured by the Bolsheviki.

One day his house was surrounded by a band of twenty armed men. Only Michulsky and his wife, a Frenchwoman, were in the house. The men demanded money and Michulsky told them he did not have much. The leader of the band then told his followers to undress Michulsky. The bandits tore the clothes from both Michulsky and his wife. They bear the landowner's wife with a whip and pounded Michulsky with the butts of their guns. Michulsky finally agreed to give the men 15,000 roubles.

To Overrun Europe.

After accepting the money the band rifled the house and stole all the clothes of Michulsky and his wife. They told Mme. Michulsky that she belonged to the "dirty allies," adding: "All your people will soon be like us. There will not be any more property-owners. We are going to Warsaw and then we will overrun Europe."

Later the bandits asked for more money and tortured Michulsky and his wife until Mme. Michulsky became unconscious and her husband's wrists were broken. Michulsky gave them 15,000 roubles more, all the money he had. Then, after stealing all the valuable in the house and the horses on the farm, the men demanded liquor. There not being any liquor about they gave the Michulskys a final beating and then went off to a neighbouring house.

Germans Taking Part.

They did not find any money there, so Michulsky says they set fire to the house and shot down the family as they attempted to escape. A girl of eighteen almost made good her escape, but was brought down with a second shot as she ran. The bandits then beat the girl to death with the butts of their guns.

Up to this time the Lithuanian peasants had taken no part in the robberies and cruelties of the Bolsheviki. The peasants themselves are being robbed by the Bolsheviki.

The Commanders of the retiring German troops are reported to be carrying on systematic schemes of getting money. One plan is to sell the farms back to their owners before retiring, or, if they are unwilling to buy, to sell them to the peasants. One proprietor was told he could have his wheat crop for a payment of 30,000 marks, with the threat that if the offer was not accepted the wheat would be sold to the peasants.

Every time a man gets it in the neck he realizes how little he amounts to.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons From Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at Once if Bilious or Constipated

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless 'fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES AFFECTED BY THE BRITISH EMBARGO

The British embargo on the export of Canadian produce has temporarily affected the business of the Quaker Oats Company, the Campbell Milling Company, the Peterborough Cereal Company and Matthews-Blackwell, Limited, according to local information. An Ottawa despatch recently stated that this embargo has caused the congestion of immense supplies at Canadian ports for shipment overseas, and created a serious and disturbing condition. One explanation of the reason for this embargo is that Great Britain and France have been piling up great stores in anticipation of the continuance of the war, but with peace and the reversion to the normal movement of business, and the handling of troops, the port congestion may be understood.

Europe's Industry Has Hard Struggle

MANY CLOSE DOWN OWING TO HIGH WAGES AND SHORT HOURS

WITH THE AMERICAN PEACE COMMISSION, PARIS—As it is the concern not alone of democracy but the liberty and civilization that provisos and established at the Peace Conference which will thwart similar attacks such as the Germans made upon the working world your corerspondent has been closely following the preliminary inquiries of our peace commissioner into European labor conditions.

This side-line quest has a double barrelled interest, in that, beyond the necessity of the rejuvination of France and Belgium as prosperous nations in counterpoise to future world attempts of Germany under other leaders there rise to view new trade opportunities for the United States as an outcome of deminished Eurbpean production.

Industrial power as well as military power is based upon man-power. Our investigations have revealed that the problem turns upon three distinct factors—population, wages and the aptitude of the mechanic to resume his former occupation after four years of soldiering, to say nothing of the permanent displacements occasioned by the introduction of women into the factory shop and mill.

Anybody can estimate lost manpower by simple totalling the battle losses of the various countries, but for birth and recuperation possibilities, one is confronted by the startling fact that during four years previous to the war, when one child was born in France, eight were born in Germany. The outlook is exceedingly dubious for France ever passing Germany in forced population growth.

HIGH WAGE SCARE

Wages have reached such a height that I have authority to predict that hundreds of European employers, scared by the rise, are simply going to snuff out and never resume business.

In France and Belgium there is such a fear of high wages and enterprises, that paid excellently before the war are either closed out or for sale at bargain price. Crossing the Atlantic with American soldiers has been the doctrine of shorter hours and more pay, making fresh worries for the European manufacturer, already menaced upon their eastern horizon by Bolshevism.

But more serious to immediate European production than either of the foregoing curtailments is the general attitude of the soldiers upon the return of their former occupations. My observations have been made principally in Belgium where industry is feebly struggling to lift its head from the ruins left by Germans. Curiously enough, soldiering or enforced idleness, as the case may be, has robbed the individual of incentive to work, even in instances where the hand retains its former skill at the loom, lathe or plough.

Men recenter the old jobs, work a few hours or weeks; and then aimlessly wander off, never to return. It will take years of industry over here to get back into its pre-war stride. Meantime opportunity rides with those countries least disarranged in their labor habits to fill the huge gad caused in world-production for in peace labor cannot be controlled or coerced by Government edicts as in war.

The Protection of Pasteurized Milk

UNLESS one has been engaged in milk production, or in the delivery of milk, it is difficult to realize the great changes that have taken place in this dairy industry.

PREVIOUS to the last twenty-five years, little control was exerted over the producer or the distributor of milk to safeguard the people's interests.

MOST people then, as now, did not know that there are many grades of milk. They had always bought milk and asked no questions, as long as it did not sour.

MANY of the ways by which disease-producing organisms could pass from the cows or the milkers to the consumer were unguarded, and so it become recognized that entirely different methods must be used to protect health. Thus is came about that THE PETERBORO MILK PRODUCTS, Limited, have provided the people of Peterborough with a milk which can be certified to as EVERY DROP PURE

BARRIE'S SALE OF FURS

This Season's Fur and Fur garments are a triumph of the Furriers' Art. Perfect Skins, Faultless Workmanship and Clever Fashioning, combine to make Our Stock the VERY BEST.

You can have any Fur Garment in Our Stock at a Special Price during this sale; and IT WILL PAY anyone to BUY NOW as good Furs last many years and prices are advancing on all kinds of Fur Skins.

We do not quote discounts or write fervid statements, but for REAL VALUES in Furs we guarantee that none of like quality or style can be procured at as low prices. We leave you to be the judge as you look about and compare among the countless sale values you are solicited to inspect.

Many lines of Furs will be much HIGHER NEXT SEASON; and we know of none that will be lower. This is owing to the increased demand—the fact that there is a meager supply on hand—a new European demand, and a growing scarcity of Fur bearing animals.

This sale, therefore, means much to those who buy wisely NOW.

We ask all to spend wisely now—keep men and women at work and they too can spend. So start and keep things going—an endless chain. Guarantee prosperity.

That OUR RESPONSIBILITY in this matter be fully met, we are going to let the question of profits go for the next two months, that our Fur factory be kept going to full capacity and at the same wage scale as has prevailed. We want to do our bit to help over the transition period. This is the only way we can accomplish it, and we ask support from all branches of industry to a similar end—the maintenance of wages.

Some Solid Reasons for Business Confidence

and the Object Underlying This Sale

Farming

There are many armies to be fed—armies of the Allies, of the Prisoners, of the Disabled; there are multitudes of destitute in the war-stricken zones, throughout Central Europe, in the Balkans, in Turkey and in Russia.

It will be a year at least, maybe two, before the supply of food will meet the world's demand.

That means continued prosperity for the farmers, who represent half of our population.

Clothing

Every returned soldier will require a new outfit of clothing. The demobilized armies of Great Britain, France and Belgium also will need to be clothed.

Moreover, there will be a great demand on the part of the civilian population for all articles of leather, wool, cotton and silk. There is hardly any article of temporary or permanent use in which we have not more or less stinted ourselves during the past four years.

For the period of demobilization, estimated to take three years, the clothing and textile and all allied industries will be working to capacity.

Building

More houses are urgently needed in Canada. Owing to the scarcity of materials and labour, depreciation of buildings and machinery has gone on almost unchecked. It must be made good.

In England the need is even more acute. And in Northern France and Belgium, in Serbia and parts of Russia everything will have to be rebuilt from the ground up. They will look to us for supplies.

Prosperity for contractors, builders and all the allied trades is assured.

General Manufacturing

Ships are needed, railroad engines and cars, electrical traction, and every means of transportation. All coal mining machinery and the machinery of the lace, silk and textile industries of Belgium and Northern France must be replaced. One authority estimates that there is a need of one million plows in France alone, and other agricultural machinery in proportion.

The steel industries, the machinery factories, the lumber yards, the shipyards will be called upon to the limit of their output.

Immigration

Authorities prophesy a gradually increasing immigation. Our almost unlimited natural resources only need men to develop the wealth that lies waiting.

We have the materials, we shall get the men.

The needs of Canada and Europe guarantee prosperity, if we live up to our opportunities and responsibilities.

Speakers in Opera House

A Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Hanbridge

An address and presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Handbridge on Monday last at their home, lot 18, concession 16, Otonabee. Mr. and Mrs. Handbridge, who are leaving the community, were taken by surprise. The presentation was made by Mr. Frank Savigny and the address was read by Mr. Oswald Gibbs. A suitable reply was made by Mr. Handbridge. The address was as follows:

The Address.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Handbridge,—When we heard of your intention to move from our midst we thought of what a loss you would be to the church in its social meetings, its Sunday school and its choir. Mr. Handbridge, since you have been with us since you were a boy we will always have pleasant memories of your help and cheerfulness and the good times that we have had together. And you, Mrs. Handbridge, since coming among us have endeared yourself to us in many ways, and we have always found a willing and valuable help in any worthy undertaking.

But as the time has come when you are leaving our community, we want to express to you our best wishes for your future prosperity and your spiritual good, and we trust that "He who doeth all things well" will be with you in every good work, and may your influence in your new home be helpful in the building of the good kingdom.

We now ask you to accept these chairs that you may have something to remind you of the friends you have left in Otonabee. We hope you will both enjoy them as the years go by and that we may often have the pleasure of meeting you from time to time.

Signed on behalf of your friends,
Oswald Gibbs.

An Officer Faces a Murder Charge London Thrilled

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A sensation was caused in military circles here when it was learned that Lieut.-Col. Norman Cecil Rutherford had been arrested, charged with the wilful murder of Major Miles Charles Seton of Melbourne. The murder occurred at the residence of Major Seton's cousin, Malcolm Cotter Seton, secretary of the Judicial and Public Department of the Indian Office Monday night.

Col. Rutherford, according to the police, was seen to enter the Seton house. The police were sent for a few minutes later, and when they arrived there they found Major Seton dead with three bullet wounds in his body. The reasons for the shooting have not been disclosed.

Major Miles Charles Seton was born in 1874, and served in South Africa in 1901 and 1902, and formerly was a captain in the Cape Medical Corps. In the male line he was the representative of the Setons of Cariston. He was made a Companion of the Bath in 1913. He was a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, and honorary anesthetist of Alfred Hospital, Melbourne.

GERMAN DELEGATES

The List Includes Prince Lichnowsky, Who Was Disgraced During Kaiser's Regime.

(United Press.)

MUNICH, JAN. 18.—German delegates to the Peace Conference will be the following, newspapers here stated to-day:

Prince Lichnowsky, former Ambassador to Great Britain, Count Von Brockdorff Rantzau, Foreign Minister, Carl Kautski, recently Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs and head of the Commission which investigated and recommended punishment for the Kaiser as a war maker and Count Arco.

Lichnowsky's memoirs of his experiences in London at the start of the war constituted an indictment of the Kaiser's course and showed he forced the war. For this Lichnowsky was disgraced during the Kaiser's regime.

Not Seeking Applause.

Washington Star.—"You didn't get much applause," said the manager of the op-ry house.

"I no longer ask for applause," said Mr. Stormington Barnes. "So many people accuse me of murdering Hamlet that I'm thankful for a mere alibi."

A gentleman stops at a friend's house and finds it in confusion. He does not see anything to apologize for —"never thinks of such matters." Everything is right, cold supper, cold room, crying children—"perfectly comfortable!" Good homes, where his wife has been taking care of the children or attending the sick, and working her life almost out. Then he does not see why things can't be kept in order; there never were such cross children before!" No apologies accepted at home! Oh, why not look at the sunny side at home as well as abroad, and try pleasant words instead of surly ones Why not be agreeable at home? Why not use freely that golden coin of courtesy?

THE WORLD OF SPORT

Time Ripe For National League to Convict Chase or Clear Up Charges

Early in August, while the Cincinnati Reds were playing on the Polo grounds, Christy Mathewson, manager of the Cincinnati club, suspended Hal Chase, his captain and first baseman, for the season, and made grave charges against him. Mathewson at the time said that Chase never would play league ball again.

It now is more than five months since charges were made against Chase of betting against the Cincinnati team, of which he was a member, and it seems high time these charges be proved or that Chase be declared innocent.

Chase already has started a suit against the Cincinnati club for salary he lost through his suspension. He also claims that salary owed to him before the period of his suspension never was paid him.

Hal Chase's long career has not been strewn with roses. He never had the disposition or perhaps the temperament to bring the full fruits of his remarkable ability to teams with which he has been associated. Chase has been wrong a great many times, and his attitude frequently has incensed men who were his admirers and friends But Chase has some rights.

Long in Service.

Hal has been no ordinary player. Though still retaining his boyish face and manners, he is to-day the veteran player of baseball. Among active players, only Leon Ames, the Cardinal pitcher, was in baseball when Chase broke in with the Yankees on the old Hilltop grounds in 1905. Few dispute that he is the greatest first baseman that baseball ever developed, and of modern players he only was excelled by Cobb, Ed. Collins, Speaker, Wagner and Lajoie.

He has been manager of a team in the largest city of the country, and has been batting champion of the National League. All this being so, it is no more than simple justice that the charges against Chase be either proved or dismissed.

This is no brief for Chase, and if the Cincinnati club has conclusive evidence that he bet against his own team he summarily should be dismissed from baseball. In the early days of the sport a handful of players were put tossing games were ejected without ceremony. The punishment meted out to Craver, Hall, Devlin, and Nicholls in 1877 was so severe that no players have tried to tamper with any games since then.

For that reason it is hard to believe that Chase attempted to throw any games last season. Chase has many faults, but no one ever called him stupid. Even when he harboured one of his grouches Chase never lost his head.

Veil of Secrecy.

The Cincinnati club and the National League, too, always have seen fit to throw an air of secrecy over the Chase matter. The accusations against Chase never have been made public, and only bit by bit the evidence against Chase came to light.

Much of it is said to come from Giant players. One of the accusations against Chase is that he told Larry Doyle during a game, "Come on, get these fellows out (Cincinnati batsmen) so we can get out of here."

A remark of that sort does not smack of good team morale, but one needed only to be a casual visitor at the Polo grounds last August to know that the great majority of games that the great majority of timent prevailing. Players realized that the game only was being permitted by the tolerance of the war department, and the motive of most players was to get nine innings over as speedily as possible.

If the Giants did consider Chase a crook it is significant that he played first base with the informal team of Giants which the New York players kept up after Labour Day. They played week-end games at Dyckman Oval and other nearby places.

The most damaging thing against Chase, however, is that a man of the integrity of Christy Mathewson made the charges against him. Mathewson is not the type of man to make charges against a fellow player, furthermore a player who starred in New York at the same time that Matty was at his crest, unless he gave the matter much thought and was sure of his ground. Mathewson considers the charges against Chase so grave that he said last season he did not see how Chase could return to league baseball.

John Heydler, president of the National League, said the Chase matter would be one of the first he would take up upon his elevation to the league presidency. However, the schedule meetings, the National commission controversy and other things have taken up Heyler's time, and the Chase case still remains undecided. It is hoped that immediately after the joint meetings of the two leagues this week Heydler will render a decision on a case which has dragged entirely too long.

CURLING

The main events on the curling calendar for next week are the Tankard and District Cup games that will be played in Peterborough and Lindsay, respectively, on Tuesday afternoon. Only these two clubs have notified Mr. R. M. Waddell of their entry in the local Tankard group, but Lakefield and probably one or two other rinks are expected to compete with Lindsay and Peterborough in the District cup games. This will bring the old rivals together in their annual encounters, and the talent are assured of keen contests if the ice freezes over the week-end.

Last night the rinks were concealed in gloom, the ice was submerged especially the centre sheets, and the players were upstairs trying to find victims for the Queen of Hearts. The atmosphere suggested the middle of March rather than of January. It was more like a seance, and if somebody had produced a "ouija" board there might have been an interesting session communicating with the departed masters of the old game, or perhaps have received projected advice as to what rinks were going to win the open bonspiel, the scheduled games, prizes, and the vice-skips' fixture. Of course there would be the problem of selecting a medium, but one might be suggested off-hand, but for the fact the season is a long way from the end and it isn't safe to take the chance.

Speaking of the Open Bonspiel there are intimations of big things in the morning and afternoon sessions of the regulars. It has been whispered that new trophies are in the making and that George Morrow's committee are planning this 'spiel on comprehensive and ambitious lines. The date has already been set for Tuesday, February 11th, and a seance would seem advisable if the club remains inactive much longer to discover the brand of weather Boreas has stored up for the week of the big event.

The Bobcaygeon club, it is stated, has the largest membership in its history, but the rink has been closed by the order of the health officer, although it is alleged that the number of influenza cases in the village is light.

Lindsay Team Has Defaulted

No Game Here Monday Night—Juniors Play In Port Hope on Tuesday.

The Junior game between Port Hope and Peterboro which was to have been played at Port Hope last night but which had to be postponed on account of soft ice, will be played on Tuesday night if the weather-man sends along a cold snap in time.

The Lindsay intermediates were to have played here on Monday night but have defaulted, believing that they haven't any chance in the group race. As a result there is not a local game in sight until Friday, January 21st when Port Hope will play the local Juniors here. The next intermediate home game is scheduled for February 3, when Oshawa will be the visitors. In the meantime the local club is endeavouring to have the famous Toronto Dental team here next Friday night for an exhibition game. It would be one of the star events of the season. Following is the standing of the two groups in which Peterboro teams are interested:

Intermediate

| | Won | Lost | To Play |
|---|---|---|---|
| Peterboro | 3 | 0 | 3 |
| Oshawa | 3 | 0 | 3 |
| Whitby | 2 | 2 | 2 |

Lewie Yeates not being able to play but will give them a better run for there money next time.

GHASTLY DETAILS OF EQ-CZAR'S FATE

Assassination of the Royal Family Substantiated by Photographs.

DONE BY BOLSHEVIKS

Omsk, Siberia.—Until recently the fate of the ex-Czar Nicholas and his family was uncertain. The shocking rumors regarding assassination recently decided the council of ministers of the Siberian Government to hold a judicial inquiry on the scene of their disapearance. This was carefully and impartially conducted by men who had no monarchial sympathies (being themselves advanced liberals), verified by witnesses and documentary evidence and was substantiated by photographs of scenes of the tragedy.

The Bolsheviki, drunk with power and the lust of cruelty, took the ex-Czar, his wife and their five children from the monastery of Aholak, thirtimiles from Tobolsk to Ekaterinburg where they were destined to spend their last days in physical and mental tortures.

They were interned in the house of Ipatieff. The building was of two stories with a small court yard surrounded by a high wood palisade The lower floor, comfortable, even sumptuously furnished, was occupied by the guards, men specifically recruited from the lowest class of Bolsheviki bullies. The prisoners occupied the upper floor.

INHUMAN CONDUCT

In the evening the "guards," brutes in human form, would carry the young ex-grand duchesses downstairs to their rooms, where the walls were covered with indecent drawings and obscene inscriptions. One can imagine too well what went on there—the poor, innocent girls shivering in the icy chill of terror, while their captors glared at them in triumph, the course jests—and worse—all literally within earshot of the agonized parents.

In the cold words of the report found in the enquiry is thepathetic record:

"We found in one of the upper rooms of Dr. Ipatieff's house, now occupied by the staff officer, General Paida, numerous bullet marks on the walls scarcely the height of a man's waist from the floor, and on the floor itself."

BODIES HACKED TO PIECES

There is a tragedy in each syliable. Those marks were not high up, as where men had fought, but low down and on the floor, as if unarmed creatures had crouched to avoid their fate. The blpodstains from the floor have disappeared, but the judicial investigators found "little pools of clotted blood filling the bullet holes to the brim," showing what must have been spilled there.

The very night of the murder the corpses were taken to a neighboring wood, there hacked to pieces and packed in barrels. Some of the local inhabitants say that these barrels were burned, others that they were buried.

When Ekaterinburg was taken from the Bolsheviki, the commission —consisting of representatives of the Government, the army and lawyers and doctors—appointed to investigate the last days and the death of Nicholas Romanoff and his family, arrested several people supposed to be witnesses of the tragedy, but their evidence regarding the disposition of the bodies was contradictory.

Strange to say when the ashes the fire in which many testified the bodies of the Romanoffs had been burned were carefully raked over, women's shoe buckles, corset steels, shreds of clothing, a cross of the Altar Order of Malta (of which the Czar was hereditary Grand Master) and some of the largest diamonds in the world (which the Czarina usually kept sewn in her bodice), were found but no bones. Yet the ashes had been undisturbed up to the time of the investigation.

THROWN INTO PIT

But the murdereds were not content with their terrible vengeance. On the same night they dispatched the ex-Czar with his wife and children, the gang proceeded to Alapievsk where the following members of the Imperial family had been taken three days before: ex-Grand Duke Serge, who at the beginning of the war was in command of the artillery and who until his murder had lived in comparative freedom in Ekaterinburg; Grand Duchess Elizabeth, sister of the ex-Empress, the ex-Dukes John, Gabriel and Igor, the ex-Czar's second cousin; Prince Palei and others.

The little group of innocent people the murderers now resolved to destroy by throwing them into a deep pit in the Alapievsk mines. They were dragged to the edge of the abyss.

Silence fell on the company while in careless accents, a man gave the dreadful order: "They are all to be thrown in."

One of the murders, in whom a spark of humanity remained, roughly blindfolded the former Grand Duchess Elizabeth. All the others were thrown in at random.

Flowers, Felt, Silk In the Spring Hats

Feathers Lead as Decoration, But Absolutely Nothing is Overlooked by Fashion.

The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la, may have nothing to do with the case, but they do have a great deal to do with the spring millinery. In the ordinary course of events the birds are considered as the first reliable indication of spring, so fashion has appointed the ostrich as a forerunner of modes, after which the flowers will follow thick and fast. Naturally, only the plumes of the bird will be used, but in such a state that it may be difficult to distinguish them; for they will appear as if treated to an April shower in what is called the drenched form.

It may be stated here that all the spring millinery shows a tendency to droop, and that is why the ostrich feather has been burnt, glycerined and otherwise treated in order to make it follow the required lines. As to the flowers, the real reason that the new hats will shortly bloom like a rose garden is because that is the only logical place for them when the price of natural blossoms is prohibitive.

The background for these flowers will be material if possible, and if not, only the rough weaves of straw will be seen. This is reasonable, too for the price of fabrics have gone up out of proportion to that of straw braid, and that proves that the material is to be preferred to the straw. In this way the frame of the hat will be expensive and the trimming of flowers will look as if they cost a great deal of money.

Felt will be used for summer hats because it is not particularly smart for winter, and in order to provide enough variety it must be utilized somewhere. No better way than to combine it with straw and trim it with wool flowers has been suggested.

All the materials will be present at the spring showing, for hats of the same material as the dress are preferred to all others; thus georgette, satin, taffeta, shantung and cotton fabrics will be seen. Likewise almost every colour will be in evidence, provided it be brilliant enough to keep up with the other modes of the season. Smart hats for the country are of material, taffeta perhaps arranged in concentric circles, each circle of a different colour and all in pastel shades. An apple, a pear or a small lemon may be the trimming in shades, reflecting the colours of hat.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Misses Katie Masterson has been called home to Roseneath on account of the illness of her aunt.

The many friends of Mrs. James G. Henderson will regret to learn that she has been removed to St. Joseph's hospital. The family desire to thank the many friends who have so kindly assisted during the illness of Mrs. Henderson.

Mrs. Angus Richardson arrived home yesterday from overseas and is staying with her mother, Mrs. Mather, Charlotte street.

Mrs. E.Purser of Vanesti, Alberta, who is visiting friends in this vicinity is at present the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. Adams, Ashburnham.

Mr. Douglas Laurie, Forest, is in the city visiting Mr. Paul Trebilcock.

Mr. Vernon Fiske returned yesterday to resume his studies at Trinity College School.

Sergt.Major Jos. S. Bell arrived in the city yesterday morning from St. John, N.B., on a visit to his mother, Mrs. H. Bell, 451 Water street. Sergt.-Major Bell is on his way home to the Pacific coast on release from the army after three years' service.

Mrs. Bradburn and Mrs. Stanley Robinson, Hamilton, are visiting Mrs. W. H. Bradburn, Homewood avenue.

Anyway, people who are always looking for trouble seldom meet with disappointment.

ARCHANGEL FRONT VAST SWAMP FOREST

Deep Rivers, With Rare Log-Hut Settlements on Their Banks, Radiate Through It.

PEOPLE IGNORANT, SUPINE

Our Troops With Other Allies, Hold Outposts Hundreds of Miles From Base

Archangel.—While the rest of the world is rejoicnig at the advent of peace, the soldiers here in frozen Russia are fighting to hold the ground gained on the last day of the old year, at a point 200 miles from this city. The boys lost and gained a log hut village. To-night they are holding it against odds.

It is difficult to convey a picture of the fighting. In all directions stretch the forests. In summer time they are impossible to travelers, who sink in the swampy grass, and during the winter months treacherous going. Cutting th forests like the fingers of an outstretched hand run rivers of great depth. Along these water routes tiny native settlements are built, and one finds isolated outposts. Some outposts reach 250 miles from Archangel giving a front that stretches like an opened fan for 400 miles. These fortified outpost villages often are fifty miles apart and between lie impassible forests.

Along the rivers run roads in summer and mud wallows in winter, with snow trails connecting the villages. Now and then a white church with five blue towers breaks the monotonous vista. Always there is a heavy, gloomy loneliness and on winter days the only sound of joy is the bells on the ponies. Because of the desperate fight for existence through centuries of ignorance and oppression coupled with their temperamental nature, the people have forgotten how to smile. Like primative people they are hospitable. The great forests are owned by the state, but they are cleared patches of poor land owned by communes and parceled to the peasants. Every ten years there is a new subdivision, so that no family can enjoy continuously better land. Hardy vegetables, marsh hay, and flax are grown, and these only after the ground has been smothered with fertilizer.

The mujiks make up 85 per cent. of the 180,000,000 Russians. There is great potential power in this sleepy boy giant. Many are impressed by tales of the Bolshevist atrocities, but they registered no real complaints of Bolshevist rule before the Allies came through fear of terrorist methods and reprisals. Today they are friendly with the Allies because they have no objection to outsiders coming into the country, but principally because the allied food commission sells flour and other food monthly.

"I don't like white flour," the post driver whiningly told us. "For almost fifty years I have eaten black bread and why can't I get it now?"

All the same the wail gives a true insight into the peasant's character. Nothing matters as long as they get black bread, cigarettes and tea enough to get along with. There is no real patriotism or national consciousness. They can't read or write and most of them don't know the world is round.

Into this different state of affairs our troops have been thrown. On Sept 4 three troopships sailed into this port. The Allies had been there just a month and conditions were not satisfactory. The allied command sent the troops far down the rivers and railroads. In the city itself there was some bad feeling. Handling things in military fashion had been different from the local government, but the foreign military commands having power dominated the civic affairs.

Upon arrival one of our battalions of infantry was sent down a railroad and another was loaded on barges and hustled up the Dvina. Influenza had broken out on ship board, and a number of deaths had occurred the day of disembarking the hundred cases with inadequate hospital arrangements, and this had its effect on the morale of the troops from the start. The morning after disembarking the battalion remaining in Archangel held a parade to impress the population.

It was understood that American troops would only assist in protecting supplies at Archangel, but placing our forces under the orders of the allied command resulted in our troops being dispatched up front line positions 200 miles from the bases they were protecting. Extra allied officers were sent to train and officer regiments of Russian volunteers, who were expected to fly the allied flag. But there was no patriotic rush. However, there was fighting on land and the Allies felt they were hitting the Germans by fighting the Bolsheviki. Bolsheviki shells and machine gun bullets killed some, more died from the influenza, but the soldiers had the feeling that they were helping their pals who were fighting and dying in France.

On Nov. 11, news came that the war was over. On its heels flashed the word that revolution had broken out in Germany and the Prussian war party, that was feared was completely crushed. The war was over and peace was here for all, they shouted. No longer was there a German military menace in the internal affairs of Russia. Soon the soldiers would be walking up the gang planks of homeward transports.

But instead of these orders came statements showing that it was wrong to leave Russia now. If the Allies withdrew, these read all Russians, living in territory occupied by the Allies would murdered, and a general reign of terror would follow. Many Russians in Archangel beleived this themselves, but their interest seemed limited to the conversational side of the fighting. They were not enlisting and spent more time worrying about the food distribution than in organizing a defense or offense. One newly raised Russian outfit refused to go to the front and fight, but the trouble was of short duration. Another Russian unit had two desertions.

All the time the Allies up on the firing line were wallowing in the rough, swampy forest or waist deep in snow, giving their lives, merely 1,000 Russians were in line.

WEDDING BELLS

JEFFRIES—WHITE

The home of Mr. and Mrs C. J. White, Toronto, on Thursday, was the scene of the marriage of their daughter Gladys Irene, to Mr. Harold C. Jeffries, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jeffries, formerly of Peterboro. The service was taken by the Rev. H. J. Bently, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Cleaver. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father. She was wearing a travelling suit of navy blue, with black hat, cross fox furs. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries left to spend their honeymoon in Quebec and the Martime Provinces—Toronto Star.

BUELL—LAWRIE.

Woodstock friends were surprised but pleased to learn of the marriage of Miss Bess C. Buell and Mr. Bruce W. Lawrie last Saturday, January 4th. The marriage ceremony was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards W. Rawlins, at 2035 Sherman Avenue, Evanston. Mrs. Rawlins is a cousin of the bride. Rev. F. A. Graham of Woodstock officiated. The wedding was celebrated quietly, only immediate relatives being present. Those attending from Woodstock were Mrs. Emma Buell, Attorney Charles S. Northrop and Miss Helen Northrop. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served, after which the happy couple left for a short honeymoon. Upon their return they will occupy the Buell home on Tryon Street. The principals to this happy event are both popular Woodstock residents. The bride is an only daughter of the late Frank W. Buell, for many years one of this city's best known business men. She is an active worker in church and social circles, and during the period of the war has been active in Red Cross work. She has a large circle of loyal friends, who admire her for her lovable disposition and true womanly qualities. The groom is a popular Oliver employee, where he has filled the responsible position of foreman of the repair room for many years. He is also active in musical circles, a member of the band, and highly respected in church and social circles. Woodstock friends extend hearty and sincere congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrie.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Mr. Bruce Lawrie is a brother of Mrs. James S. Arnott, of Otonabee.

OBITUARY

Objects to the Retention of the Rhinelands by the Allies

Interview With the Governor of the Rhinish Provinces—Forgets the German Steal of 1870.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 18.—If the Rhinelands are taken from Germany, a spirit of revenge will be engendered—a spirit that will bring on another war. Count Von Groote, Governor of the Rhinish Provinces, declared today to the United Press. "Marshal Foch, in an interview with the newspaper correspondents, made public to-day, declared that France, in self-defence, must keep its hold on the Rhine."

Von Groote made the emphatic assertion that the Germans would never forget any retention by France of Rhineland territory. Ultimate redemption of such territory by Germany would be the object of their "most ardent hopes and endeavours," he said.

Wants a Wilson Peace.

"Germany as a whole would consider such severance as a gross violation of the fundamental conditions for an equitable peace of nations, as proclaimed by President Wilson," Von Groote declared.

"The territory on the left bank of the Rhine belongs to Germany and is thoroughly German. This is the area at present occupied by American troops. We would never forget such a severance, and the re-union with Germany would be the object of our most ardent hopes and endeavours.

"These sentiments are most emphatically shared by the Rhinelanders themselves."

Dishonest!

They would consider their separation from the rest of Germany a great misfortune. I think the effects of such a separation are clearly evident. I do not doubt for a moment that such a procedure would create a permanent source of serious uneasiness and perturbation in the political life.

It is my opinion that the Rhinish Provinces do not wish separation from Germany, but that some of the inhabitants may consider that the peculiar interests of the Rhineland are not sufficiently guaranteed by the present relations with the Prussian State and that their interests would be better protected if the Rhineland, and perhaps other parts of Germany, were united into separate federal states within the German realm.

An effort to influence the Peace Conference decisions by whining or wheedling is evident in statements from German leaders.

Von Groote's plea and war hint follows an utterance from Bernstorff, wherein he insinuated that it would be dishonest for the Allies to retain the German colonies.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Jessie Annie Shiner, who died January 18, 1918.

She is not dead, the child of our affection,
But gone into that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ Himself doth rule.

In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion,
By guardian angels led
Safe from temptation, safe from sin's pollution,
She lives whom we call dead.

Sunady Evening Bulletin:

The Peace Delegation.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 19. —A Paris despatch says the real business of the Peace Conference yesterday was:

First, the submission of memorandums by all the powers on first responsibilities of the authors of the war.

Second, on responsibility of crimes committed during the war.

Third, legislation regarding international labour.

Premier Clemenceau, of France, was made chairman. President Wilson made the nomination, seconded by Premier Lloyd George and Italian Foreign Minister Sonnino. Vice-Presidents were then elected, representing each of the four great powers. Each power nominated a member for the committee which will draft credentials. The powers with limited interests, were asked to send a memorandum on questions of territory, finance, economics, etc., particularly interesting to each.

Saturday Evening Bulletin:

BASLE, Jan. 18.—The German government has appointed Count Von Brockdorff, Von Rantzau, Foreign Minister, and Philip Scheidemann as heads of the German peace delegation.

Demobilization Ordered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Demobilization of all army units in the United States has been ordered.

Troopship Arrives.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.— The Military Department has been advised that the Empress of Britain, with 3,138 passengers, the majority of them being Canadian soldiers, will arrive in Halifax harbour on Monday if nothing unforseen occurs.

British People Learned the Way

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Sir Eric Geddes, Minister without portfolio in the new Cabinet, in an address before the Associated Chambers of Commerce, said the biggest thing that had been learned in the war and the greatest benefit that could be gotten from it was that the British people had discovered as a nation what they could do if they pulled together.

They had improved machinery and methods and also electric power, the great modernizer of industries. They had learned much about German 'key' industries and the way the Germans controlled British industry before the war.

As an instance, Sir Eric mentioned spelter and tungsten, which, though controlled through Germany, came almost entirely from the British Empire, while the whole monopoly of magneto manufacture, indispensible to modern development in steel plants, was held back by the dumping of pieces of apparatus, such as crank castings, on the Tyne and the Clyde at prices lower than the cost of the raw material.

Even a fast man may not make a rapid recovery when he is ill.

A fool friend can wield a hammer as effectively as a bitter enemy.

The man with a grievance never misses an opportunity to mention it.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there's no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algonia Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

It is a widespread belief, both in Scotland and in Ulster, that

"Seagull, seagull, sit on the sand,
It's never good weather while you're on the land."

alluded to the fact that when the birds fly out early and far to seaward or remain on the sand, fair weather may be looked for; while if it takes a contrary course, storms most frequently follow.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Enthuses Over the War.

CHAPTER XCI.

Brian hung up the receiver, his mind in a peculiar condition. He was flattered that Mollie had missed him; yet a bit worried that she had called him. Suppose Ruth had been at home. He must warn Mollie not to call him at the house. Rachel, too, might answer and think it strange that a woman had called him. She was devoted to Ruth and probably told her all that happened in her absence.

"Mollie's a dear!" he said to himself as he often had said before. "She makes a fellow so darn comfortable."

Perhaps Brian was not so different from many other men, in that he admired a woman who made him comfortable. Most men are very sensitive to that sort of woman, and Brian was a very ordinary sort of man in most things—Ruth's belief to the contrary.

Brian's view of Mandel had not tended to make him happy. That prosperous, well-groomed man whom the lackeys treated with such subservience, was just the sort of man Ruth had been accustomed to all her life, and whom her aunt would have given as her husband had she been able. In a way, the sight of him—his evident prosperity — had made Brian more bitter toward Ruth than he had felt in a long time. Suppose this man did make love to her. Would she be able to resist him, his money?

The thought made Brian blush because of what it implied of his idea of Ruth. He knew she loved him, that she was good and true. Yet he had insulted her by thinking that, because of Mandel's money, his personal attractiveness, she would perhaps prefer him to spending her life with a poor lawyer.

"If I had half a chance, I'd show them," Brian muttered as he started for bed. That he had all the chance anyone else had, he did not believe. Midas had not spilled gold in his lap neither had he been favoured by the gods with the luck that comes to some men. So he figured. That the very men he envied, worked two hours to his one—that they neither spent their time in foolish grumblings against fate, or wasted it in other ways, he would not have conceded. It was just his luck not to get along like some fellows did.

Ruth's picture stared at him from his chiffonier as he prepared for bed. She looked so frankly into his eyes. There was such a sweet smile on her lips. That he raised it and pressed a kiss upon the glass.

"She's sweet," he said as he tugged at his necktie. "I wish she liked to stay home."

Had he known that Ruth was lying awake, her eyes wet with tears because she had not heard from him he might have felt a shade more guilty than he did. But he had put off writing—although he had thought of it—until he had something to tell her. That was the excuse he made to himself. But had he been truthful he would have said that he felt so ashamed that he had spent the entire evening before with Mollie, without a thought of Ruth, that he had not been able to write all that day. Brian was a temperamental soul. He did things when he felt in the mood, or he did them not at all. But before he slept he assured himself that he would write Ruth in the morning, for if he spent the evening with Mollie he would be late, and not feel like writing.

While sipping his coffee the next morning he read the paper with more than his usual interest. That war was getting mighty interesting. It had begun to look as if it would last indefinitely. How he would like to get into the game! His blood tingled at the thought. What an experience!

"If I wasn't married, I'd join the Canuks," he said aloud after reading of a particularly brilliant charge by the Canadian forces. "But no such luck for me."

He neglected his breakfast so that Rachel was worried and asked:

"Ain't yo coffee good this mawin'?"

"Why yes, Rachel! I was so interested I forgot it, that's all. Please give me a hot cup."

"Dog gone it, but that's hot stuff!" he ejaculated as he read an account of the Tommies' going over the top. "Wish I had been in that bunch."

Just then Rachel brought his coffee and he finished his breakfast, but afterwards, and all the way down to his office, there ran through his mind the thought of the Tommies and the wish that he might have been with them.

He wrote Ruth before he opened his mail. She would not have been unduly flattered had she heard the sigh with which he said:

"There, that's done."

Yet he had not written an unloving letter. He had told her he missed her dreadfully; and would be glad when she came home. It comforted Ruth immensely, and gave her courage to go on with her work instead of flying home to see if he were sick (as she had been tempted to do, because she had not heard from him). To-morrow—Ruth Plans A Surprise For Brian.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of eruption of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave can keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

FORESTRY FORCES.

Canadians Help the Allies With Axes and Saws.

Timber for war purposes became urgently needed as the war went on, and in February, 1916, Bonar Law, then Secretary of States for the Colonies, cabled for help from Canada. Canada's loyal reaction was instantaneous. Battalion after battalion of foresters was recruited until the Canadian forestry corps was in being and the Canadian axes and saws were musical over large areas of woodland in Great Britain and France.

Within three months from the receipt of Mr. Law's cablegram, No. 1 detachment of the first forestry battalion recruited had established itself in Windsor Great Park, England, and was delivering timber to the Imperial authorities. One month later Gen. (then colonel) Alexander Macdougall reported favorably on certain forests offered by the French Government for exploitation, and in November, 1916, drafts of Canadians were leaving England to cut trees and saw logs across the channel.

Canada equipped its forestry forces with its own machinery. Battalions, split up into companies of about 170 men, were sent into the bush in widely scattered parts of Great Britain and France. Among them were some workers of the highest skill, and others—though every Canadian is "born with an axe in his hand"—who had almost everything to learn about intensive forestry on a considerable scale. Each company had its tree fellers and loaders, its sawmill, its varied mill employes, and its light railway builders. Hutments sprang up magically, the Y.M.C.A. came with its bright and practical service, vegetable gardens, pigs and poultry were added, and the camps took settled form as hard-working forestry communities.

At present forty of these Canadian companies are operating in Great Britain and sixty in France. The total number of men engaged in the two countries is near 30,000. Of these some 800 are officers. Besides the Canadians working in Great Britain there are 319 Portuguese, 420 Finns and 589 prisoners of war. In France the prisoners of war attached to the Canadian forestry corps number nearly 5,000. While there have been no war casualties in the corps—though many of the mills in the fighting zone have been under bombardment from the land and from the air—by far the greater number of the present employes are men who have been wounded or who fell ill in battle service.

Irish Problem Still Acute

A REMARKABLE feature about Irish history, and particularly about that history in recent years, is pointed out by the Christian Science Monitor, one of the few important newspapers in the United States which has always viewed the position of the Ulster Unionists with favor. It is that whenever a solution or final decision of her great problem seemed imminent something has always turned up to postpone or destroy it. The Irish question is as far from being settled by agreement to-day as it has been since Gladstone introduced his first Home Rule bill. Ulster is just as firmly opposed to Home Rule as ever, although Ulster's position has been modified of late years by an admission that Nationalist Ireland has a right to govern herself as she chooses, or as the British Parliament in its wisdom may permit, so long as she does not pretend to govern Ulster. The other Irish provinces want Home Rule, but they admit that it would be fruitless if Ulster were excluded. To set up an Irish nation without Ulster and her wealth and industries would be like York County minus Toronto.

Five years ago the Irish problem had become so acute that the country seemed on the verge of civil war. The Ulster volunteers had been drilled into a formidable armed force. The famous Covenant had been signed. In July, 1914, it seemed that bloodshed could hardly be averted. After a conference with the King, at which he pleaded with the leaders of the rival factions for a peaceful settlement, Carson and Redmond retired ominously to their tents. The South, too, was armed. There had been a clash at Howth over gun-running. The whole world was gazing with strained attention at Ireland, when suddenly the German war burst upon the world. The Irish situation was transformed in a twinkling. The Ulster Volunteers were among the first to enlist in Kitchener's army, and on every battlefield of the war they generously shed their blood and testified to their devotion to the empire. Redmond and Carson in a historic moment clasped hands, and then turned to the task of raising recruits with a patriotism above all praise. The Irish question was shelved for the moment by mutual consent. It seemed that the comradeship of Ulsterites and Nationalists cemented in the trenches was a happy augury for a final solution of the great question when peace returned.

Unfortunately the Nationalists to whom Redmond addressed himself did not respond with the same enthusiasm as the Irishmen of the North. It soon became plain that Mr. Redmond was in no position to pledge the support of his followers to the cause of Empire. Rapidly he was losing his influence. His party was disintegrating, the Nationalists being absorbed by the Sinn Fein party, an organization openly disloyal and pro-German. Then in April, 1916, came the Dublin rebellion, fomented in Germany, executed by English-hating fanatics led by the Sinn Feiners. The beautiful Irish city was bombarded by British artillery; one of her finest streets was laid in ruins. Hundreds of lives were lost. There followed the quelling of the rebellion, the arrest of the principals, the trial and execution of Casement, the imprisonment of hundreds.

When the tumult had died down, Lloyd George made his notable effort to find a solution of the Irish problem. He made it plain once for all that the Irish problem is a problem for Irishmen, and that Englishmen and Scotchmen and Welshmen are willing to accept any solution that is satisfactory to Ireland. The Irish convention was established. It was composed of the leaders of all Irish factions and of representative Irishmen who had not been actively identified with any of them. The convention held meetings in different parts of Ireland for a year, and at times it seemed that a final solution was to be discovered. Eventually it was announced that the convention could not agree and it was discontinued. Irishmen had shown that they were unable to solve the Irish problem in a way satisfactory to the great majority and the influential minority of the country.

This was the situation last March when the desperate need of men determined the British Government to impose conscription upon Ireland. Then this decision was suspended and Ireland was given a last chance to do her duty under the voluntary system. It was announced that if she raised 50,000 men in a month conscription would not be applied. Once more Irish leaders joined in a great recruiting campaign, but just a few weeks before the collapse of Germany it was announced that only 7,000 men had been secured. It is probable that conscription would have been imposed by this time had it not been that Germany and her allies surrendered. The latest news is that the Sinn Feiners have captured more than a score of Nationalist seats by acclamation. The prospect seems to be that the Nationalist party will be extinguished in the present elections, and that there will be left in Ireland only the Unionists and the Sinn Feiners. Any likelihood of compromise between these parties is unthinkable. It is equally incredible that any British party will try to coerce Ulster. So the solution of the Irish problem bids fair to be a subject of sharp discussion by our children, if not by our children's children.

SILVER IN THE YUKON.

Will Be In the Class With Colorado, Cobalt and Mexico.

Yukon has struck a clear, new note. It is silver. It rings true.

Silver gives promise of big things to the Yukon. Beyond doubt there is an extensive belt of it in that country. It long has been known to exist in the zone from the Mayo district, on the Upper Stewart, and along the Twelvemile, a little north of Dawson. These two fields are 15 miles apart. Both are developing fine prospects.

Years ago the first silver was located in those districts. But it could not be opened in a day. Much hard work was necessary. Men of real grit and pluck tackled it, and they have not given it up, and they will not give it up. The glow on the horizon is more silvery to them to-day than ever before. It begins to look as though the dawn is at hand.

A little more hard work, a little more perseverance and the silver of the Yukon may put that territory in the class with Colorado, Nevada, Cobalt and Mexico. The white metal brought immense wealth to those countries, and made hundreds of millionaires.

Silver prospecting and mining, when there are any indications at all, it's not so stubborn a game as the quest for gold. Hence, since there are good prospects, and already some big shipments have been made of Yukon silver, the promise for the opening of a big camp of maybe two or more of them is most encouraging.

No more auspicious time has existed for the silver miner than to-day. In this he has it over the gold-seeker. The gold is marketable to-day only below par; that is, the product will purchase only half to-day what it will in normal times. The silver is worth to-day 99 cents an ounce, or twice what it was before the war. Hence, there is a great premium on the silver product.

The Federal Government is doing well in having its geologists in the Yukon field investigate the silver this year. It is pleasing to know the staff will look into the silver of the Mayo district at once and will visit the Twelvemile field later on. If any properties were not workable in previous years because of low grade, the fact that the product is now worth twice what it was then might lift a great deal of the once low-grade property to a profitable level to-day.

In the Old Days.

In the good old days in Toronto when the bars were open many of the hotelkeepers decided to prohibit the war chatter of the whisky warriors at their bars, as differences of opinion sometimes arose, and disputes and fights commonly occurred. One day a little old gent (who couldn't tell you who put the war in Warsaw) went into the Bloody Trenches Hotel and started to shoot a lot of learned stuff across the bar as follows:—

"Warsaw saw war,
Lots of war in Warsaw,
All the people were sore
To see the war in Warsaw,
Warsaw saw more
Bloody war in Warsaw
Than ever you or I saw,
Or any of us foresaw."

This attack rather staggered the bartender, but he pulled himself together and came back with a punch:

"We've had enough of Warsaw,
And don't want any more, sor,
"So kindly hold your jaw, sor,
Or get outside the door, sor."

Jesse James Was His Hero.

Floyd Walker, a 14-year-old Hamilton lad, has been sent to the Reformatory at St. Catharines for two months as a result of his adventuring on a recent Sunday, when he first appropriated an automobile, which he ditched; then stole the suitcase of Rev. Mr. Hibberton, of Toronto, with its valuable documentary contents; appropriated a rifle, ammunition, a mouth organ, two jack-knives and a silver watch; held up two men at the muzzle of the rifle; and was captured while attempting to steal a horse.

Like the British Tommies, our soldiers in Europe find the French names—especially when pronounced in the correct French manner—rather difficult to remember. A certain regiment of Alabamians, says Life, was given the name of the French town of Armandvilliers for a countersign one night. A soldier approached one of the sentries along toward midnight, and was promptly challenged. "A friend with the countersign," he replied in proper form. "Advance and give the countersign," directed the sentry. The soldier stepped forward, began to scratch his head sheepishly, and at last said, "Durned if I ain't forgot it!" "So have I," said the sentry. "Pass, friend!"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Unexpected

By PRICE DARROW

It was the happiest day of his life, and everybody about the great chemical works where Norman Wilde was an humble employee knew it, and with smiles and congratulations endeavored to express their honest friendliness. That evening he was to wed the woman of his choice, and he bustled about actively, aiming to leave everything appertaining to his work in ship-shape order while he enjoyed a week of honeymoon bliss.

He was a poor man, earned only fair wages and was marrying a poor girl—poor, indeed, in worldly goods, but inestimably rich in those sterling qualities of heart and mind that go for perfection. Norman had known Effie Deane for nearly a year.

It was just after noon and Norman was passing through the stock room, when his elbow tipped an upright rame holding a number of filled phials ready to be corked and labeled.

"Look out!" came the sharp warning from a worker nearby. "That's corrosive stuff, and dangerous."

Norman dodged, but not in time to void receiving across his eyes the contents of one of the bottles. He felt a glaze instantly come over his power of vision.

"Wait!" spoke the head chemist, going for some neutralizing acid and pouring it under the lids.

"How is it now?" he questioned.

"I can see all right now," said Norman. "Things are a little hazy, but that will soon pass away."

at the pass away, although the affected eyes showed red and swollen through the wedding ceremony. The next day, however, the wedding tour was interrupted by the discovery by Norman that any remote object presented an indistinguishable blur. They went to a hotel. Effie was all alarm and solicitude. She summoned the house physician.

"You had better return home at once," he advised, "where you can have rest and care. I shall have to bandage your eyes."

Practically a blind man, Norman Wilde returned to the Deane home. He was agitated and anxious. Months of idleness! It seemed a lifetime! The tender, soothing ministrations of Effie, however, made his affliction endurable. The sympathy and helpfulness of her parents showed the great depths of true natures.

A shaded room was awarded the newly married pair. There all through the long day Effie read to her afflicted husband, conversed with him, attended to his every want.

"Father Deane doesn't seem to be around much," observed Norman one day.

"Oh, father was always that way," declared Effie. "He has got some friends in the village who are great checker players, and it has been his delight for years to pass his time with them."

Then came glad news. At the end of two months the attending physician announced that all traces of permanent infection had disappeared from the eyes. The first day of restored sight Effie led Norman into the garden. His rapt gaze never left her beloved face except when she brought him some pretty flower or buried her head upon his breast to weep out her rare gladness.

"A letter," she announced, the next morning. "Shall I open and read it to you, dear?"

"Let me see if I'm not far enough along to do so for myself," suggested Norman.

Just then Effie went to the house to answer the call of the grocer. Norman opened the letter and trembled all over. He could scarcely realize its contents to be true. It inclosed a draft for twenty thousand dollars from a law firm who had for five years been attempting the collection of a claim preferred by his dead father against a great corporation. Long since Norman had given up all hope of ever recovering the claim. He tried to be calm and collected as Effie reappeared. The next day he went to the plant, to arrange for resuming work, he told her.

It was in the village that Norman obtained a solution of the mystery of the daily absence of Mr. Deane. He learned that the old man had gone to work as a factory gatekeeper while his wife had secured occasional employment at the local knitting mill.

"Dear, grand people!" uttered Norman, overcome with fervid emotion. "Ah! has any man ever before been blessed with such unselfish love and sacrifice?"

It was after supper that evening when he confronted Mr. and Mrs. Deane with his knowledge of their kindly action.

"Had to keep the meat box full, Norman!" chuckled the old man.

"Why, you are our own son. Why wouldn't we value the privilege of showing you how much we love you?" challenged Mrs. Deane.

"All right," said Norman, gayly. "But we're going to make a new deal," and he told them about his unexpected fortune.

"Why, Norman! what are you going to do with all that money?" breathlessly propounded the dazzled Effie.

"With half of it you mean," smiled Norman. "I've placed the other half in the local bank, to the account of the dearest people I ever knew—Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Deane."

Will Paint Historic Scene.

The historic scene in Sir David Beatty's cabin on the Queen Elizabeth when the German delegates arranged for the surrender of the German fleet is to be placed on canvas by Sir John Lavery, of the Royal Academy. Sir John made a special trip to the Grand Fleet at the request of the British Admiralty, to make the preliminary sketches for the painting. He was present in the admiral's cabin during the whole of the conference and painted a finished study of the scene, which will serve as a basis for the big canvas which he hopes to complete in the next few months. There will be fifteen figures in the painting, including Admiral Beatty, Vice-Admiral Sir Montague Browning, Rear Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, and the five German delegates. If the painting is completed in time it will be exhibited at the Royal Academy next year.

Killiecrankie Sold.

The historic estate of Urrard, Killiecrankie, has been acquired by Mr. Andrew Scott, Glasgow, for the sum of $85,000.

The estate, which lies on the northern bank of the Garry, extends about 2,000 acres, of which about two-thirds are moor, the remainder being arable land and woods. The rental is fully $6,000.

The estate is noted as possessing the battlefield of Killiecrankie, the conflict taking place on July 28th, 1689, on the plateau to the west of Urrard House, which was occupied at the beginning of hostilities by Gen. Mackay's troops. There is a large mound above which marks the spot where the clan were buried, and in a field below the mansion is a Druidic standing stone, marking the burial site of some important leader of the Picts.

Strength of Spiders.

The amazing strength of spiders is shown in a number of well authenticated instances. Thus we have an instance of a half-inch spider catching a two-inch fish. It was of the ground or wolf family. A scientist came upon it struggling with a fish on the edge of a little pool. Its claws were buried in the fish's tail; it had the tail out of the water, but the head still remained underneath. The spider struggled to pull the fish up the bank and the fish struggled desperately to draw the spider into the pool. For ten minutes the scientist watched this silent and deadly fight. Then he hurried away for a bottle in which to put the combatants when he captured them. He was gone about half an hour, and on his return the end had come. The fish was dead and the spider was slowly dragging its victim away.

"I SUFFERED SEVEN YEARS"

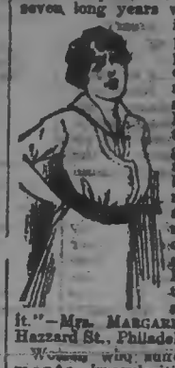
Was Eventually Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for seven long years with a lame back, irregularities and pain. I had one physician after another but they did me no good. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gave it a trial and in a short time I felt benefited and am now feeling fine, and without weakness or pain. Many of my friends have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and been helped by it."—Mrs. MARGARET NESS, 1846 E. Hazzard St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Women who suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, sideache, headaches or "the blues" should not rest until they have given this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special suggestions. The result of its long experience is at your service.

The Need of India.

The Englishman has never made his home in India. Judged by more number the British leaven is infinitesimal. But he has imported into Indian life not only the influence of his own higher standards of conduct, public and private, but above all western education which, though often very superficial and still confined to a very narrow circle—less than two millions, even if we include the large proportion for whom it means a mere smattering of English—has proved a most potent ferment, on the whole for good, but sometimes also for evil. It is the one force which must provide, at least in the earlier stages, the driving power for representative institutions and responsible government. It is not yet a century old, and two main causes have contributed to circumscribe its influence. Owing to the strict neutrality enforced by government in all matters impinging on the domain of religious beliefs and domestic institutions, the tendency of western education has been to train the mind rather than the soul, to develop the intellectual faculties rather than character. Even the intellectual training has until recent years been regrettably one-sided, literary studies having been consistently favored at the expense of science, though the latter provides a much-needed corrective to the natural proneness of Indians to imaginative exuberance. Still more serious results have attended the neglect of primary and popular education and the concentration of effort on higher and especially on university education.—Asia Magazine.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent 'lithia-water' drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

WAS ON KING'S STAFF.

Prince Arthur of Connaught Saw Service With Canadians.

Well-known throughout the Canadian Army Corps in France is Prince Arthur of Connaught, who recently visited Canada. The prince came to the corps as one of Gen. Byng's staff officers and stayed on after Gen. Currie's appointment, bidding good-bye to the Canadians when he was deputed by the King to go on the special mission to Japan.

Unostentatious, friendly and democratic, Major Prince Arthur was very popular with the Canadians, where he was a familiar figure in all parts of the corps area. So unconventional and devoid of circumstance is life at Corps Headquarters that visitors dining at Gen. Currie's hospitable mess have been frequently surprised to suddenly discover that a certain major chap, who might pass for a young English soldier attached to the corps, or even for a native-born Canadian, with whom they had been in converse, was none other than the son and heir of Canada's late Governor-General. For when the prince is introduced to visitors it is not customary to mention his name. Hence the hand-shakers often at first don't know who he is.

Prince Arthur is an interesting conversationalist. All who sit next him at mess can testify to this. His fund of anecdote about well-known personages would make an absorbing book. Eager to learn the opinions of his neighbor on various matter, he is always willing in return to express his own views—views of uncommon interest, based as they are upon an extensive knowledge of the great world and the men who do things. A warm admirer of Theodore Roosevelt, and of the Americans generally, is the prince. Japan, which country and whose people he has learned to know intimately from former visits, has always appealed most strongly to him.

At the staff college in France, where the prince took a course, along with a number of Canadian officers, he was known among his fellow-students as "Pip Ack"—though, of course, etiquette forbade that even his intimates should use this battlefield familiarity in his presence. The name was evolved in much the same way as that which the Prince of Wales had some five years ago at Oxford, where King's son and cook's son alike have their nicknames.

When signing official documents in the course of his duties, the prince affixes the two initials "P.A." Now the army signallers have occasion to use the letters of the alphabet singly and sometimes spelled out in words, when sending messages over the field telephones. To avoid the possibility of mistakes certain letters somewhat akin to others are represented by a special word. For instance, over the phone, "b" sounds not unlike "c" or "d" or "e." To prevent confusion "b" is represented by the word "beer," "d" is "don," "m" is "Emma," "p" is "pip," and "a" is "ack." Hence the play upon the prince's name.

Prince Arthur, who bade good-bye to the Canadian corps after a stay of some eighteen months, went to the front in September, 1914—a few weeks after the outbreak of war—and, with the exception of short leaves in England, had been there continuously until his late journey to Japan. Though his rank, like that of other royalties whose position in the state precludes them from being masters of their own movements, has limited the prince to the staff job assigned him by imperial general headquarters in France, he has been frequently in the trenches, and times innumerable under brisk shell fire. His knowledge of languages and wide experience make him most useful in liason work and he is often on the move between the Canadians and the various British and French armies. And yet to friends the prince speaks almost contemptuously of his work and regrets most keenly that fortune has not permitted him a more active part.

A Severe Winter.

In a recent review of the severe winter of 1917-18 Dr. C. F. Brooks says that a temperature of 86 degrees below zero Fahrenheit was reported in December from the Upper Yukon, at the mouth of the Pelly river, and that this observation, if authentic, establishes a "record" for North America. The lowest temperature ever recorded in the world (disregarding upper air observation) was 90.4 degrees below zero Fahrenheit at Verkhoyansk, Siberia, in 1892.—Scientific American.

Located by Press Photograph.

As soldiers are forbidden to acquaint their relatives with their exact positions "somewhere in France," Pte. MacClark, of Woodstock, hit upon a novel ruse to beat censorship. He had just received a copy of a local paper from home. So he wrote in reply "If you will look up the Sentinel-Review of the 2nd July you will see a picture of the ruined cathedral in this place."

Mothers!

Watch the tongue
Of your young!
Your little pets
Need candy "Cascarets!"
Sell for a dime—
"Work" every time.

When the kiddies' tongues turn white; breath feverish; stomach sour. When your little pets become cross, pale, bilious, constipated or have a cold, give Cascarets as directed on each 10 cent box. Cascarets taste like candy but work out the nasty bile, sour fermentations and poisons better than castor oil, calomel or pills. Children need never be coaxed to take this harmless candy cathartic. Cascarets are given to children aged one year and upwards. They never gripe. Never disappoint the worried mother.

LOOKED LIKE SEA CAPTAINS.

English Writers Did Not Have "Literary" Appearance.

William Morris, Arthur Compton-Rickett says, "is not the only Victorian man of letters whom the casual passer-by might have mistaken for a sea captain. There was the look of the sea captain also about Dickens and, to a lesser extent, about Robert Browning; Dickens had made a jaunty sea captain, with his love of bright colors; and Browning, with his dapper ways, a sprucer one. All these men were both dreamers and men of action; artists and men of the world. It needed all Dickens' simple homeliness and vivid sense of actuality to curb and restrain the fantastic extravagance of his dream self. As it is, his riotous imagination often broke bounds; and from one point of view, 'The Christmas Carol' is as Virginia says 'The Dream of John Ball'."

Browning's "liking for social functions" and his "southern tastes, his intellectual subtleties, found no counterpart in Morris. Yet in the elemental vigor and passion of the man, the fine audacity, the hearty love of the earth, the contempt for the trifler and mere dilettante, the two men had no little in common."

"Had it been possible to put Morris, Dickens, and Browning on the Underground Railway, and afterward to have compared their impressions, interesting variation of comment would have resulted. Dickens could have told us of the crowd of passengers and differentiated each one with his wonderful eye for external peculiarities. Browning would have found some psychological drama to his hand; and Morris, after declaiming on the hideousness of it all, would have seemed the most keenly alive to the minutest points of railway organization, which always interested him.

"Veins of likeness and unlikeness to one another, cross and recross with startling vividness the personalities of these three great Victorians. In unlikeness assuredly, for each was a man of highly distinctive and assertive individuality; but in likeness also, for each was a blend of contradictory selves, each enjoyed taking the middle-class Englishman by the scruff of the neck and shaking him with the best will in the world. Belonging to the middle class themselves, they knew all the family peculiarities, and the fact that none of them ever freed himself entirely of the conventions of his class, merely serves as another bond in common.

"Morris was a shrewd observer in his own special way, though he gave the opposite impression to the casual onlooker. He never seemed to be on the watch, yet little escaped him. Without any apparent effort of observation, he would come into a room and take in all the people there, their appearance and characteristics, with swift insight and acumen."

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

Pimples are a sure sign that the blood is not in its proper shape.

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, while the condition is often aggravated and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and eliminates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood; and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davidson Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters and after using two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always commend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Poincare's Opening Speech to the Peace Delegates

"Entire Provinces of France Have Been a Vast Battlefield, Laid Waste By the Invader, But Truth, Bathed in Blood, Has Escaped."

DETAILS OF PLOT ESCAPE FROM ARCHIVES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The Peace Conference was formally opened Saturday afternoon with a speech by President Poincare of France.

President Poincare thanked the allied nations for their having chosen Paris for their important work and praised the valor of the allied armies which had preserved the capital of France from the enemy. The President's speech was as follows:

"Gentlemen: "France greets and thanks you for having chosen as the seat of your labours the city which for more than four years the enemy has made his principal military objective and which the valor of the allied armies has victoriously defended against unceasingly renewed offensives.

Tribute to Heroic France.

"Permit me to see in your decision the homage of all the nations that you represent towards a country which more than any other has endured the sufferings of war, of which entire Provinces have been transformed into a vast battlefield and have been systematically laid te by the invader and which has id the human tribute in death.

"France has borne these enormous sacrifices although she had not the slightest responsibility for the frightful catastrophe which has overwhelmed the universe, and at the moment when the cycle of horror is ending all the powers whose delegates are assembled here may acquit themselves of any share in the crime which has resulted in so unprecedented a disaster. What gives you the authority to establish a peace of justice is the fact that none of the people of whom you are the delegates has had any part in the injustice. Humanity can place confidence in you because you are not among those who have outraged the rights of humanity.

"There is no need of further information or for special inquiries into the origin of the drama which has just shaken the world. The truth, bathed in blood has already escaped from the Imperial archives. The premeditated character of the trap is to-day clearly proved."

Huns Plotted for World Mastery.

"In the hope of conquering first the hegemony of Europe and next the mastery of the world, the central empires, bound together by a secret plot, found the most abominable of pretexts for trying to crush Serbia and force their way to the east. At the same time they disowned the most solemn understandings in order to crush Belgium and force their way into the heart of France.

"These are the two unforgettable outrages which opened the way to aggression. The combined efforts of Great Britain, France and Russia were exerted against that man-made arrogance.

"If, after long vicissitudes, those who wished to reign by the sword have perished by the sword, they have but themselves to blame. They have been destroyed by their own blindness. What could be more significant than the shameful bargains they attempted to offer to Great Britain and France at the end of July, 1914, when to Great Britain they suggested, 'Allow use to attack France on land and we will not enter the channel,' and when they instructed their ambassador to say to France, 'We will only accept a declaration of neutrality on your part if you surrender to us Brely, Toulon and Verdun.' It is in the light of these things, gentlemen, that all the conclusions you will have to draw from the war will take shape.

"Your nations entered the war successively but came one and all to the help of threatened right. Like Germany, Great Britain had guaranteed the independence of Belgium. Germany sought to crush Belgium. Great Britain and France both swore to save her. Thus from the very beginning of hostilities there came into conflict the two ideas which for fifty months were to struggle for the domination of the world—the idea of sovereign force, which accepts neither control nor check, and the idea of justice, which depends on the sword only to prevent or repress the abuse of strength."

Britain's Part in War.

"Faithfully supported by her Dominions and colonies, Great Britain decided that she could not remain aloof from a struggle in which the fate of every country was involved. She has made, and her Dominions and colonies have made with her, prodigious efforts to prevent the war from ending in a triumph for the spirit of conquest and destruction of right.

"Japan, in her turn, only decided to take up arms out of loyalty to Great Britain, her great ally, and from the consciousness of the danger in which both Asia and Europe would have stood from the hegemony of which the Germanic Empires dreamed.

"Italy, who from the first had refused to lend a helping hand to German ambition, rose against an ageless foe only to answer the call of oppressed populations and to destroy at the cost of her blood the artificial political combination which took no account of human liberty.

"Roumania resolved to fight only to realize that national unity which was opposed by the same powers of arbitrary force. Abandoned, betrayed and strangled, she had to submit to an abominable treaty, the revision of which you will enact.

"Greece, whom the enemy for several months tried to turn from her traditions and destinies, raised an army to escape attempts at domination of which she felt the growing threat.

"Portugal, China and Siam abandoned neutrality only to escape the strangling pressure of the central powers. Thus it was the extent of German ambitions that brought so many people, great and small, to align against the same adversary.

"And what shall we say of the solemn resolutions taken by the United States in the spring of 1917, under the auspices of the illustrious President, Mr. Wilson, whom I am happy to greet here in the name of grateful France, and if you will allow me to say so, gentlemen, in the name of all the nations represented in this room.

And Other American Powers.

"What shall I say of the many other American powers which either declared themselves against Germany—Brazil, Cuba, Panama, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Hayti, Honduras—or at least broke off diplomatic relations—Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Uruguary. From north to south the new world rose with indignation when it saw the Empires of Central Europe, after having let loose the war without provocation and without excuse, carry it on with fire, pillage and massacre of inoffensive beings.

"The intervention of the United States was something more, something greater than a great political and military event. It was a supreme judgment passed at the bar of history by the lofty conscience of a free people, and their chief magistrate on the enormous responsibilities incurred in the frightful conduct which was lacerating humanity. It was not only to protect themselves from the audacious aims of German megalomania that the United States equipped fleets and created immense armies, but also and above all to defend an ideal of liberty over which they saw the huge shadow of the Imperial eagle encroaching further every day. America, the daughter of Europe, crossed the ocean to wrest her mother from the humiliation of thraldom and to save civilization.

Greatest Scandal of World.

"The American people wisher to put an end to the greatest scandal that has ever sullied the annals of having prepared in the secrecy of the mankind. Autocratic governments, Chancellories and general staff a mad programme of universal dominion, and at the time fixed by their genius for intrigue let loose their pacts and sounded the horns for the chase, ordering science, at the very time when it was beginning to abolish distances, to bring men closer and make life sweeter, to leave the bright sky towards which it was soaring, and to place itself submissively at the service of violence; lowering the religious ideas to the extent of making God the complacent auxiliary of their passions and the accomplice of their crimes. In short, counting as naught the traditions and wills of peoples, the lives of citizens, the honour of women and all those principles of public and private morality, which we, for our part, have endeavoured to keep unaltered through the war, and which neither nations of peoples can repudiate or disregard with impunity.

"While the conflict was gradually extending over the entire surface of the earth, the clanking of chains was heard here and there, and captive nationalities, from the depth of their age-long jails, cried out to us for help. Yet more, they escaped to come to our aid. Poland came to life again; sent us troops. The Czecho-Slovaks won their rights to independence in Siberia, in France and Italy. The Jugo-Slavs, the Armenians, the Syrians and the Lebanese, the Arabs, all the oppressed peoples, all the victims long helpless or resigned of great historic deeds of injustice, all the martyrs of the past, all the outraged consciences, all the strangled liberties reviewed the clash of arms and turned toward us as their natural defenders.

"War gradually attained the fullness of its first significance and became in the fullest sense of the term, a crusade of humanity for right, and if anything can console us, in part at least, for the losses we have suffered, it is assuredly thought that our victory is also the victory of right. This victory is complete, for the enemy only asked for the armistice to escape from an irretrievable military disaster. In the interest of justice and peace it now rests with you to reap from this victory its full fruits.

"In order to carry out this immense task you have decided to admit at first only the allied or associated powers, and in so far as their interests are involved in the debates the nations which remained neutral. You have thought that the terms of peace ought to be settled among ourselves before they are communicated to those against whom we have together fought the good fight.

BE READY FOR EMERGENCIES.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when croup or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the SYRUP in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25-cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

WILLING TO WALK TWENTY MILES TO TELL ABOUT TANLAC

Miss McKenzie Gains Twenty-five Pounds on Tanlac and Health is Restored.

"I'm so grateful for the wonderful relief I have gotten from taking Tanlac, that I would be willing to walk twenty miles to tell anyone who suffers like I did, what this medicine has done for me," said Miss Adeline McKenzie, 424 Sixth Ave., South, Nashville, Tenn.

"I suffered for about eighteen months from nervous prostration and kept getting worse in spite of all I could do. I had no appetite at all, and after eating my stomach would burn like I had swallowed a fire-coal. I would turn cold one minute and hot the next at times, and I was so nervous I couldn't keep still. I could hardly sleep at all and I fell off at least sixty pounds.

"After I tried several different medicines without getting any relief, my brother got me a bottle of Tanlac and I started taking it. By the time I had finished my second bottle, my appetite began to improve and the troubles were greatly relieved. The burning sensation in my stomach has disappeared, the nervousness is all gone, I sleep like a child at night and besides gaining twenty-five pounds in weight, I am in splendid health again."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Ward Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Plowmens' Association Decided to Resume Match This Year

Mr. John Gillespie Succeeds Mr. Joshua Smithson as President—Boys' Field Competition Will be Continued.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The County Plowmen's Association held its fifth annual meeting in the City Council Chamber on Saturday with a good attendance of members. While no county match was held during 1918, good work was done and considerable interest aroused by the field competitions for men and boys on their own farms. This work will be continued and a competition arranged for two furrow plows instead of carrying on the boys class in the field contest.

During the coming season, it is probable that labour will be more plentiful on the farms and the Association hopes to conduct the annual County Match in the autumn of 1919 as formerly. Mr. Joshua Smithson, who has been president for the past three years and is retiring this year, was tendered a hearty vote of thanks by the members for his good work during his term of office.

W. J. Cleghorn will represent the Association at the annual convention of the Ontario Plowmen's Association on Jan. 23rd at Toronto.

The following officers were appointed for 1919:

President—John Gillespie.

1st Vice President—W. J. Cleghorn

2nd Vice President—Chas. E. Moore.

Sec. Treasurer—Hugh McFee, Keene.

Directors

N. Monaghan—H. G. Webber Walter McKee.

Russian Situation is Discussed by the Supreme Council at To-day's Session

French Ambassador to Russia Was Present at the Meeting—Progress of the Peace Conference.

DIFFICULT PROBLEMS

(Special to Examiner.)

PARIS, January 20.—The situation in Russia was taken up by the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference at its session to-day. Joseph Noulenc, the French ambassador to Russia, was present at the meeting and addressed it on the Russian question. This announcement was made in the official statement given out regarding the proceedings of the plenipotentiaries. The next meeting will be to-morrow.

(Special Cable from J. W. Dafoe, the Canadian Press Correspondent.)

PARIS, Jan. 20. — One of the many difficult problems before the peace conference is that of Poland, but this situation has been greatly improved by the coming together of two factions in the negotiations which brought this about, and in which a Canadian, W. J. Rose, of Winnipeg, played a considerable part. He spent many months recently in Poland and has been sent again on behalf of the peace conference with other delegates to report on the situation in that destroyed land of Paderskwski and Pilsudski.

A "SPEEDER-UP."

PARIS, Jan. 20. — Some of the French newspapers which have been consistently pessimistic regarding the probable length of the peace conference to-day predicted that it might end by April. They based this prediction on the appointment of Premier Clemenceau as the permanent chairman. He is noted as a "speeder-up."

MANY CHANGES.

PARIS, Jan. 20. — It is understood that at the Supreme Council of the international peace conference to-day plans for the league of nations took on definite shape, along the lines of W. J. Bryan's, plan, with many changes.

1,000,000 RUSSIAN PRISONERS DIED IN TEUTON CONCENTRATION CAMPS

Always Half-Starved and Under the Constant Stimulus of the Lash.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Of the 2,000,000 Russian prisoners scattered throughout the Central Empires, 1,000,000 died in captivity, according to the Morning Post. Repatriated British prisoners of war have brought reports of the inhuman treatment meted out to Russian prisoners in the concentration camps of Germany [illegible] Austria, and these stories have been borne out by report received by the International Red Cross [illegible] of its delegates who have just returned from Germany.

According to these reports, the Russians were subjected to terrible brutalities and were forced to do heavy and degrading work, whether sick or well. They were always half starved and were under the constant stimulus of the lash. Some 800,000 of the Russians still remain in Germany.

NOTES OF THE BIG DRIVE

Monday morning saw the teams off to a good start. The council chamber was used for a general rendevous in organizing for the start. The supplies necessary, cards, badges, lists, etc. were distributed on Saturday night to those of the captains present. The utmost confidence was expressed in the results to be attained.

As to be expected there were several changes in the personnel of the teams. In the team of Mrs. J. H. Renwick, Mrs. E. Bartley could not join in the canvas and Mrs. C. H. Shields came forward and was enrolled on the team. Other changes were necessitated by coming in of engagements and unforseen responsibilities.

At the meeting Sunday afternoon, a man in the audience wished to take the platform and give testimony, but his modesty prevented his so doing. He related that thirty years ago, he was a boy, and woking for a farmer, and at the time picking potatoes. He had saved $30.00 from his earnings. Just at that time came an appeal from the Salvation Army for funds to send missionaries to China. He thought the matter over, and finally walked ten miles to offer his money in aid of the cause. He said that now he knew that his action had been the turning point in his life and that he had been blessed since by gaining success in his business and earning money, beyond what he might have gained had he rejected the impulse to aid in the Salvation Army work.

BOLSHEVIKI TERRORISM

Women Commit Suicide to Escape —Education is An Excuse for Murder.

SEVERAL ARRESTED

Canadian Press

WARSAW, Jan. 20.—Men have been arrested at Vilna and other places by the Bolsheviki and have been released later, it is said, on payment of sums ranging from fifty to fifty thousand roubles, the size of ransom being in proportion to the terror of the victim and his power to pay. The Bolshevik are especially bitter against the Poles.

Miss Shebko, sister of a member of the Imperial Council, succeeded in escaping from Mohilev and has reached Warsaw. She says that she, with aged aunts, were driven from their home, which was turned over to the peasant forces. They themselves were fortunate, as many of their neighbours were massacred, she declared. The official of the Polish Legion, who went to visit Serbow Sherdowski, is alleged to have been murdered because he wore epaulets, which are forbidden by Boshevists. Miss Shebko says that this murder aroused the indignation of certain Jewish members of the Local Soviet. She says the sentence was finally approved when it was learned that the officer knew how to read and write. One of the speakers at the hearing was reported to have declared: "There will be perfect equity in the world only when nobody knows how to read or write." Miss Shebko says that many well bred women in Russia have committed suicide through fear of outrage.

A Large Detachment of Peterboro Soldiers Return Home Over the Week-End

The Men Reached Canada on the Olympic—Salvation Army Band Was on Hand to Welcome the Men.

ANXIOUS TO RETURN

A large detachment of Peterboro soldiers returned home this morning and were met at the station by the band of the Salvation Army. The men reached Canada on the Olympic and were immediately despatched to their homes. The Peterboro contingent did not reach the city in a body but arrived in scattered groups on both C.P.R. and G. T. R. trains from various points. The list includes the following,

P. P. Armstrong, S. F. Anderson, T. Casey, W. S. Griffin, J. Legros, J. P. Pritchard, J. Richards, F. E. Theobald, C. M. Thornton, R. W. Austin, C. R. Ashley, F. Davey, M. J. Quigley, Percy Stock, V. B. Carton, H. F. Gray, M. L. Laing, F. Meeks, C. G. Richardson, Sergt. William Mantell, F. Barrett, H. M. Kenneally, J. E. Parker, W. S. Rutherford, A. Kendall, W. G. Lightheart, R. Rollo.

Sergeant William Mantell, who resides at 8 Monaghan Road, also Corporal F. Davey and Private Ernest Gibson were among the war seasoned veterans to arrive home to-day. Sergt Mantell spent nearly three years in France and recently has been ill in England.

At least two of this morning's home comers have been prisoners of war, M. L. Laing and Tom Casey. Laing lives on Rubidge street and Private Casey, who was with the Mounted Rifles at Zillebeke in June 1916, is the son of David Casey of Douro.

Band Turned Out

The Salvation Army Temple band received word yesterday that a number of Peterboro soldiers were returning on the midnight C.P.R. train. They accordingly turned out and along with friends and neighbours waited for the train. As the first train pulled in at 12 o'clock it was found that there were no Peterboro returned men aboard and accordingly the bandsmen decided to wait for the second train which arrived at 1.15 A. M. Lieut. Percy Stock, son of Mr. Harry Stock was aboard, and was given a fitting welcome. More men arrived on the 8:10 G. T. R. train and the band was there to welcome them.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin has been notified of the expected arrival within a day or two of Privates Ed. J. Graham and H. E. McMillan.

Anxious to Return

LONDON, Jan. 20—"We are eager to get on with demobilization to save the restlessness which the men are showing," declared General Turner to the Canadian Press to-day. The latest reliable estimate here is that all Canadians will be repatriated by the end of July. Men are being returned from France to England at the rate of a thousand daily. They are sent to Kimmel Camp, Wales, and thence go for transport to Liverpool. Forestry and railway troops are chiefly being returned from France at the present time.

Bramshott Camp will be occupied by a Canadian fighting division whenever it leaves France. A good many members of the Canadian forces will desire demobilization in England, and although the general policy is for troops to be discharged in Canada only, the authorities will grant discharges here for men born here and having no dependents in Canada. We understand that the Imperial authorities have invited the Canadian and Australian army to provide two divisions each for continuing the army of occupation, but this invitation has not been accepted. Our information from the corps across the Channel is: "Every afternoon is a holiday. Mornings are devoted to physical drill. It is not a bad life, but everybody is dead tired of it and anxious to get home. Even England has little charm for them; they want Canada."

THE PEACE PROSPECT

Huns Want a Wilson Peace—Chancellor Ebert is Willing to Hang His Hat on Woodrow's Fourteen Points.

MUST BE FED

(By the United Press.)

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Chancellor Ebert told the United Press to-day that Germany will do everything to comply with peace conditions based on President Wilson's fourteen points, but that if the allies make further demands he will not take the responsibility of signing peace terms.

He said Germany needs peace immediately that she may get food and material so her people can go to work. He declared the Spartacans lost their revolt and that no further outbreaks will occur if the people are fed. If they are not fed, he said, "we must be ready for anything."

"We must have a fair peace," declared Ebert. "We stand on President Wilson's platform which was the basis on which we signed the armistice. We will do everything to comply with conditions founded on his points. It is possible, though, that the enemy will make further demands. Germany cannot accept them. I could not take the responsibility for signing the peace terms in that case. I could not take the consequences and I would resign. I don't know what would happen after that."

Spartacan Uprising.

Asked what he thought of the responsibility of the war, Ebert said, "That is a question I cannot answer off hand. Personally I feel that the blame was not Germany's alone."

The conversation was directed to the Spartacan uprising.

We need peace immediately, so we can get food and material that will enable the people to go to work," he said.

"The charge that the government encouraged the disorders so as to escape its debts is absolutely false. The reason we did nothing against Bolshevism at the beginning of the revolution was that the army, floating [illegible] ward after the armistice, was disorganised and useless. Now the government forces have been rebuilt and we intend to use every means to suppress Bolshevism which, without doubt, is an enemy to society.

"The great danger of a Bolshevist victory is over. The struggle centred around Liebknecht and his associates in Berlin. There are still traces of Bolshevism in certain centres outside of Berlin, nourished by agitators.

Must Be Fed.

"Examination of captured Spartacans showed they were mostly undernourished, sub-normal persons. If they are fed we need not expect any further serious outbreaks. If they are not fed we must be ready for anything. There is a sort of desperation in certain circles—a feeling that nothing makes any difference. These people are the victims of agitators also, we are certain, and are supplied with Russian gold. As soon as the economic situation clears up normal life will start again and internal troubles will cease. It is a question of peace and help from the Entente."

The Gospel of the Frying Pan

You Can't Talk Religion to a Man With a Empty Stomach.

What characterized the Salvation Army among the troops at the front was its understanding that you can't talk religion to a man with an empty stomach.

The Army has its own system of ministering to the needs of humanity. While its main purpose is to lead wayward people into the paths of virtue, it realizes the supreme necessity of ministering first to their bodily wants. With a plate of doughnuts in one hand and a pot of coffee in the other, the Salvation Army lass under the Red Shield Banner gains the respect and admiration of the exhausted fighting men.

Death Came Unexpectedly

Their Majesties Were Not Present When Son Died.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(Can. Press Via Reuters.)—The last moments of Prince John came so quietly and unexpectedly that there was no time for nurses who were with him to summon their Majesties to his bedside before he had passed away. The newspapers point out sympathetically how their Majesties have laboured unceasingly during war time to bury the tragedy of their youngest son's delicate health in the silence of their hearts.

In recent years the delicate health of Prince John necessitated that he always have an attendant. Consequently he was never seen on public occasions with other members of the Royal family, but lived in comparative privacy at Sandringham. Public sympathy was expressed for their Majesties in all the churches yesterday.

More Soldiers Returning

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Jan 20.— The steamer Aquitania, which is expected to reach Halifax on Thursday, has about 5,400 returning soldiers and 50 civilians on board. Those for districts are as follows: London 350, Toronto 1,348, Kingston 371.

THE WEATHER

With the temperature considerably above the freezing point each day for a week past, and the lowest each night being a very modest figure, the weather is proving to be more like the middle of March than cold January. A year ago Sunday morning it was 15 degrees below zero. A year ago this morning it was 16 below, and considerable anxiety was being felt by many because the bottom of the coal bin was becoming visible. The weather all over the Dominion (even to the farthest north) has been quite mild for a week or more, and in but a very few places has the temperature been down to zero. — W. P.

Sent a Note of Protest

Germany Blames Russia for Supplying Funds to Spartacans.

Special to The Examiner:

BERNE, Jan. 20.—Germany has sent a note to the Russian government protesting against the latter's support of the Spartacans, a Berlin despatch announced to-day. The note read in part as follows:

"We are in possession of irrefutable proofs that the revolts intended to overcome the German people were paid for with the money officially supplied for the purpose by the Russian authorities. Some of the authorities have even taken an active part in the movement. The German government protests against this intervention in Germany's interior affairs and will take vigorous measures against the Russians who aided the insurgents, and who are still supporting them."

It was also announced that on Saturday the Bolshevik forces advancing toward East Prussia, captured Mitau, Schaulan, Tukkum, Golduts and Beheljani.

Trouble Over Balkan Situation

A Closed Conference will Held this Morning—Wilson was Among Those Present.

(United Press.)

(By Wm. Phillip Simms.)

PARIS, Jan. 20. — President Wilson met representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan in a closed conference this morning to take up matters arising from credentials of some of the small nations delegates. These matters must be settled before the Peace Conference can get down to business on the League of Nations.

While nothing has been made public concerning any conflict in regard to representation, it has been known that the Balkan situation provided gate has been held in abeyance until the formation of the new Jugo-Slav nation is definitely accomplished.

A Rough Passage.

It is clear that the course of the Peace Congress will not be smooth until all questions of the eligibility of the delegates are amicably adjusted.

No date has yet been set for the resumption of the general peace congress but it was understood that it was expected to get under way tomorrow. Meanwhile memoranda on the League of Nations, international labor legislation and responsibility for the beginning and the continuance of the war was to be submitted to-day.

President Wilson and Senator Bourgeoise, French authority on the League of Nations, conferred this afternoon. They exchanged views on the league for the first time. A special report on the result of this conversation was to be made to the conference.

M. Sazinoff, former Russian Foreign Minister, held numerous conferences with associated representatives to-day and appeared confident that the form and manner of the Russian representation would be determined this week.

The coldest weather of the winter was prevailing in Paris to-day.

Application For Clemency

Sir Thomas White Was Interviewed in Toronto.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 20. — Sir Thomas White, during his week end visit to Toronto, was interviewed by A. W. Roebuck, counsel for Cheesman and Watson, who were recently convicted of having in their possession revolutionary literature banned by a Dominion Order-in-Council. Sir Thomas, as Acting Minister of Justice during the absence of Hon. Arthur Meighen in Western Canada, told Mr. Roebuck that the application for clemency on behalf of Watson and Cheesman would be considered in the usual manner by the Justice Department. The ordinary practice is for the Deputy Minister to ask the Judge or Magistrate who tried the case for a written report and for any recommendation he may wish to make upon this report, and the evidence taken. The Justice Department bases its advice to the Governor-General.

The American Seamen's Act

President of the Seamen's Union is on the Job.

By Lowell Mellett.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 20.—America's position as a strong maritime nation depends upon the ability of its peace delegates to uphold the high standard of working conditions affected by the American Seamen's Act, Furuseth, the President of American Seamen's Union, declared to-day.

Believing that while freedom of the seas is occupying the confreres' mind, freedom of the seamen may go by the board, Furuseth has brought his long, lean, angular frame here to haunt the Quai d'Orsay. He fears that other nations, particularly Great Britain, may attempt to obtain international legislation that would abrogate the American Seamen's Act, but is confident that the American delegation will oppose any such move.

George Street Sunday School Anniversary

Speaker for the Occasion Was the Rev. S. L. W. Harton.

Several hundred were turned away from George street church last night on account of insufficient seating capacity, so large was the congregation which turned out to hear Rev. S. L. W. Harton, of Waterloo, who conducted the anniversary services of George street Sunday school yesterday.

In the morning, when the first of the services was held, practically all of the ten hundred and seventy pupils of the school assembled in the Sunday school room and marched into the church. In the afternoon Sunday school was conducted in the main body of the church. Special music was provided by the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. W. H. Cunningham, at all three services.

RIOTING REPORTED IN GERMAN CAPITAL

The Spartacans Were Repulsed With Little Difficulty.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Rioting occurred in Berlin during last night after the Spartacans had attempted to destroy the ballot boxes used in Sunday's election, according to a despatch from Copenhagen. The Spartacans were repulsed everywhere. Fighting took place in Wilhelmstrasse and Hedemann Strasse and at Hallsche Tor, it is reported.

Abolishes Another Order-in-Council

Anti-Loafing Law Has Been Removed From Statute Books.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.— On recommendation of Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour, the Dominion government has abolished the "anti loafing law," put into effect by Order-in-Council during the latter part of the war to ensure the maximum effort of the nation to work for the early and successful issue of the war. With changed conditions, owing to returning soldiers and lack of employment, it is recognised that it would be unjust to continue the operation of this regulation.

Peterboro Nursing Sister Home

Mrs. Angus Richardson Had Considerable Experience Overseas.

Mrs. Angus Richardson, (Nursing Sister Louise Mather), who went overseas in 1916 with the Queen Alexandra Imperial Order of Nurses, returned on Friday to the city, after nearly three years service in France. During the first months of her service in France Mrs. Richardson was stationed at St. Omer and near Boulogne and more recently she has been on a barge plying between Bethuen and Calais carrying wounded men from the casualty clearing station to the case. The barge on which she was stationed carried, sixty men from the clearing station and in the care of cot patients one hunderd walking patients. Mrs. Richardson participated in scores of air raids which she said became so common that beyond taking the usual precautions of flying for the dugouts when the warning was given the inmates paid little attention to them. She was in Merville four days before its occupation by the enemy.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, JANUARY 20TH, 1919.

THE DRIVE IS ON.

The Red Shield Drive of the Salvation Army commenced this morning, under most encouraging auspices and the people of Peterboro who have never failed when a worthy cause appealed to them for support have now their opportunity of showing their appreciation of what the Salvation Army has done and is doing for our boys over there, and of endorsing the programme of activities that will be carried on in Canada.

The four main objects may be outlined, once more as follows:

1. Hostels for returned soldiers. Not only should the eleven existing hostels in Canada be permitted to continue their useful operations, but the number must be increased. Real homes must be provided for transient and lonely soldiers.

2. Emergency receiving and maternity homes for women and children. Thousands of our returning soldiers are bringing young wives with them. With the existing scarcity in houses, suitable provision for nursing and treatment must be made against the time of sickness.

3. Soldiers' Families' Home, Visitation Fund. Innumerable demands are being made upon this army of service. Their splendid war record justifies the confidence that they will solve many of the vexed and delicate problems of demobilization.

4. Overseas Comfort-Depots. The work already established overseas must be maintained. While the necessity exists there must be no curtailment of the activities of the 197 comfort depots.

These are objects which should commend themselves to every citizen of Peterboro. There should be a ready response to the appeal that is being made—no more worthy effort has asked for the assistance of the public.

One way to unsettle a question is to argue about it.

A REPATRIATION SALE

If Canadians tackle the problems of repatriation with the same courage and zeal as the problems of the war were met there is every reason to be hopeful for the future of this country. There is an individual responsibility in this matter and every citizen has a part to play in helping to carry Canada triumphantly through the transition period. In view of this fact the policy that has been announced by the well known fur firm of Barrie's Limited is especially gratifying. The firm has recognized the significance of the situation and its own responsibility and has met the issue squarely. In order to keep their fur factory in operation at full capacity and with the scale of wages unchanged Barrie's Limited have decided to let profits go by the boards. "We want to do our bit to help over the transition period. This is the only way we can accomplish it and we ask support from all branches of industry to a similar end. "the maintenance of wages", is the firm's announcement in connection with a special sale of furs. People who buy now not only make a wise expenditure on their own behalf but they keep men and women employed and these also are enabled to spend and keep others employed and the result is a continuous chain which will mean much to the general prosperity.

FINE IDEALS.

"Our task at Paris is to organize the friendship of the world," said President Wilson at Rome; "to see to it that all the moral forces that make for right and justice and liberty are united and are given a vital organization to which the people of the world will readily and gladly respond." This, he said, is to be a substitute for force.

Lofty and admirable idealism! It is not the first time in modern history that similar idealistic principles and aspirations have been uttered by a national ruler for the guidance and inspiration of the nations. A little more than a hundred years ago just such words as those of President Wilson were spoken by that crowned idealist the Czar Alexander I of Russia. And he succeeded in giving diplomatic effect to his ideals. It was he who conceived the Holy Alliance, signed by himself, Francis of Austria and Frederick William III of Prussia, the objects of which were stated in the solemn declaration which these sovereigns made. They pledged themselves to rule their subjects and maintain international relations in accordance with the precepts of the Christian gospel and the principles of justice, charity and peace.

There is little doubt about the sincerity of Alexander. He meant well. He even succeeded in impressing his views upon the other ruling sovereigns of Europe, all of whom, with the single exception of the British sovereign, formally endorsed his declaration. British statesmen were suspicious, and their suspicions soon proved to be justified. The Holy Alliance, which was intended to bring about the government of the world on Christian principles, soon became the instrument of absolutism and tyranny.

Good ideals are not sufficient. There must be behind them organized force. It is not safe to trust to the moral exaltation of the hour and assume that it will be maintained and will serve to keep the world from war. It will be necessary, if the proposed League of Nations is to succeed, to make it inexpedient and dangerous for any nation to play the game of war. — Hamilton Herald.

GET TOGETHER.

The manner in which the suggestion made by the Hydro-Electric Commission, that the City Council and the Board of Trade should form a joint committee to study the street railway situation in Peterborough, and recommend a plan for present needs and future developments, has been received by the Railway Committe of the Council, is disappointing. The aldermen who referred to the matter took the stand that they were the elected representatives of the people, and therefore did not need to consult anybody else. That attitude is a mistake. The council, it is true, have the sole executive power, but unless the aldermen are firmly convinced that all the wisdom and shrewdness and civic enterprise of Peterborough are wrapped up in the men who fill the council chairs—an opinion by the way which they will not find unanimously endorsed by the citizens—they are not justified in refusing to avail themselves of the advice or judgment of others. In deciding upon such an important question as the street railway extensions, there is nothing gained by adopting a stand-off attitude, especially in view of the fact that the Hydro-Electric Commission, by whom the plans will have to be carried out, has asked that an effort be made to decide upon a policy that will be endorsed by citizens generally.

It is disquieting to see that the new council instead of entering upon an entente cordiale with the Board of Trade, are apparently determined to have nothing to do with that body. Citizens who are sincerely interested in the progress and advancement of Peterborough, will regret this belligerent attitude. The Board of Trade furnishes, or should furnish, a means by which public opinion can be determined. It is an organization whose membership is open to all. There is nothing secret or underhand about its existence or its aims. In some cities the Board of Trade is proving a vast power for good, and the city managers are eager to co-operate with such a body. No reason is apparent why a similar condition could not exist in Peterboro. With problems of the magnitude of those to be handled by this year's council, it would seem but pure common sense on the part of the aldermen to seek the advice and assistance of an organization composed as is the Board of Trade of many representative citizens. If the members of the council persist in the stand they have taken they will be making their own responsibilities heavier, and the city's service can gain nothing.

The Board of Trade can only advise—it has no executive power in any way, as far as the Council is concerned—and surely the aldermen are not above listening to the opinions of others on subjects that are of general interest.

WAR SAVING STAMPS

The Dominion Government's War Saving Stamp scheme does not seem to be receiving from the people of Canada the support it deserves. This is easily accounted for of course. The sudden end of the war left many Canadians with the idea that there was no longer any need of investing in Government loans and this impression has prevented the interest that would have been shown in the plan had it been introduced during the war. People, however, should understand that the ceasing of actual hostilities has not put an end to difficult and dangerous problems and that it will take a considerable time for Canada to recover from the tremendous strain of the conflict. The success of the Victory Loan campaign has, of course, gone a long way towards meeting present demands, but it is probable that more financial assistance will have to be given by the Canadian people before normal conditions are restored. The War Saving and Thrift Stamp scheme provides a means of furnishing this assistance and its success depends largely upon the manner in which the plan is adopted by the wage earners throughout the Dominion. Many of these, of course, have subscribed liberally for Victory Bonds and are still paying for these securities on the instalment plan so that in many cases their capacity for saving is taxed to the utmost. There are many, however, who could do more and they should investigate the opportunity for saving offered by the new scheme. For those whose earnings do not warrant their undertaking to pay for a Victory Bond; a War Saving Stamp procurable by means of sixteen 25c Thrift Stamps should be an attractive proposition.

In England and the United States War Saving Societies, by which the inspiration of group saving and group competition adds to the enthusiasm and makes of systematic and continuous saving a recreation and a pleasure, have been formed in many industrial establishments and have been a help to the state and a benefit to the industrial. A similar plan could be profitably adopted in Peterboro establishments.

Hearty support of the War Savings Plan means that the people of Canada will be helping to keep industry moving during the reconstruction period and at the same time not only be making a good investment by an easy and attractive method, but will also be cultivating the habit of thrift upon which Canada's future prosperity absolutely depends.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Wonder if Sir George Foster is wearing that three-year-old suit at the Peace Conference.

Help the Salvation Army; help to solve the problems of demobilization.

The fact that the Army has been the last to appeal for help should not be allowed to interfere with the success of this week's campaign.

The money asked for in the Red Shield drive is needed for work over here and over there.

GROCERY MARKET

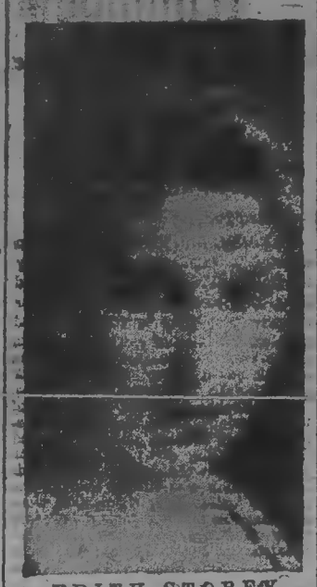
Revisions have been numerous, some representing advances, others providing for declines, says the Canadian Grocer. A general revision on many lines of canned meats has been effected, the new prices established generally being lower, though some advances have also been made. It is also noted that the new price list includes quotations on some products heretofore unable to procure.

Vinegar has undergone a revision upward, new prices for the season just out providing for an advance of 5 cents in blended cider vinegars, while spirit vinegars are up about 3 cents per gallon. Oyster shell has been advanced.

New prices have been named on a few lines of spices, these providing for a lower scale of figures than that formerly effective. This is the result of an effort on the part of grinders to get down to a better selling basis, the lines affected including cloves, black and white, peppers, caraway seed, and cream of tartar. Business is quite active, though demand generally is confined to immediate requirements of the trade.

Rolled oats have sagged about 25 cents per 90-pound bag, this being a direct result of the decline in the grain markets. That corn products may decline seems probable in view of the weakness of the grain itself.



EDITH STOREY

EDITH STOREY ENACTS STRONG, VIRILE ROLE.

In "The Demon," a Thrilling Story of Algerian Life, Star has one of Her Greatest Roles.

At the Grand, Three Days, Commencing To-day.

Edith Storey, star of the Metro production, "The Demon," an exciting story of life among the bandits of Corsica and Algiers, in which she portrays a young American girl raised in these wild surroundings, is the most fearless and intrepid star of the screen. Her work is always powerful and convincing, and her subjects deal with the strong virile side of life. This picture gives her every opportunity to demonstrate unwavering courage and ability of outdoor life in which she excells.

Some of Miss Storey's best motion picture work has been done in the Metro productions, "Treasure of the Sea," "The Claim," "Revenge," "The Legion of Death," and "The Eyes of Mystery." In the "Legion of Death" a gripping story of the heroic women of new Russia, Miss Storey reaches the heights of dramatic power.

Before Miss Storey became a screen star she was an actress of note on the stage, beginning her career at the age of ten when she made her debut with Eleanor Robson in "Audrey." Her evident talent was such that she was immediately engaged to play the child role in "The Little Princess.' After that she joined the company of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.' She remained with this production for two years, playing each successive child part as she grew older. In "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm,' she enacted the part of a girl of 16.

Miss Storey was born and educated in New York and her stage experience was gained in the leading theatres of that city. She is a noted athlete, excelling in all branches of sport—shooting, swimming, riding, motoring, and now, aviation, being among her favorite pastimes.

In addition to "The Demon" Charlie Chaplin will be seen in "His Date Devil Queen," and Chance and Vivian in a novelty singing and dancing act.

WHAT THE MONEY IS FOR

The Red Shield Drive is to obtain one million dollars for the following purposes:

1. The continuation of the Salvation Army's overseas service until the last boy is home.

2. Hostels for returned soldiers, to be established from ocean to ocean. Centres of good cheer and hospitality where soldiers can get substantial meals, and will find comfortable reading, writing and recreation rooms, clean beds, and pleasant social surroundings.

3. Emergency receiving and maternity homes for wives, widows, and dependent and orphan children of soldiers.

4. Soldier's families' home visitation.

5. Any and every form of social service, need for which may develop during the demobilization and reconstruction period and which the Salvation Army, with its wide-spread agencies and efficient organization, may be able to render.

F. W. G. JOHNSON DEAD.

Was a Son-in-Law of Mr. R. J. Winch of Peterborough.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17. — Mr. F. W. G. Johnson, who died here from pneumonia, was widely known in bank, insurance and fraternal circles. He was born in Montreal in 1860, educated here and in England, and then took up insurance. Later he transferred his activities to the Grand Trunk and still later to the Great Northern, which took him to St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Johnson eventually returned to Montreal and joined the staff of the Molsons Bank, serving at Sorel, London and in Montreal. In this city he opened the St. Catherine street branch of the Molsons Bank and managed it for about nineteen years. Mr. Johnson was a life member and a director of the M. A. A. A., and was also a member of the Royal Victoria Lodge. He was a son of the late Sir Francis Godshall Johnson, late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Province of Quebec. He is survived by a widow, two sons, just home from the front—Charles F. G. and H. Vance G.—three daughters, and and a brother, Mr. C. R. G. Johnson, Montreal.

The late Mr. Johnson was a son-in-law of Mr. R. J. Winch, 296 Stewart street, city.

New Liquor Rule May 1

Change in System of Selling Likely to Become Effective Then.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—Details of the plan under which the Government will carry on the sale of liquor for medicinal and other necessary purposes, when it takes over complete control of the business, have not yet been completed by the Cabinet. Consequently there is much speculation as to the course to be pursued not only in Government circles, but also in the minds of the public generally.

It is considered likely that the change from private vendors to complete Government control will go into effect on May 1, the beginning of the license year. It is doubtful whether, as has been suggested, several more liquor stores will be opened in the Province in addition to those already in existence. At present there are seven vendors. Some of these men may be retained on salary by the Government to manage the stores. If more than seven stores are opened the increase will be only a small one.

The Chief Abuse.

One of the principal abuses of the existing system which impressed the Government with the need for a change is the freedom with which a few doctors have issued prescriptions for liquor. There have been several prosecutions of medical practitioners for violations of the O.T.A. and heavy fines have been imposed, but this has not had the deterring influence expected. Much care will be taken by the Government on that account to prevent dishonest medical men continuing to issue unnecessary prescriptions for liquor.

Various suggestions have been advanced as to the best way to check this evil. One of the most feasible methods spoken of is a plan by which doctors who are believed to have openly violated the law will have their prescriptions refused.

TWO PETERBORO BOATS

The "Geneva" Began Its Days on Lake Simcoe Where the "Ottonabee" Ended Its Service.

In a sketch of Lake Simcoe shipping the Orillia Times refers to two Peterboro boats as follows:

The Geneva was the last large steamer to be constructed at Orillia. She was a sturdy, serviceable boat and was built for Mr. Wm. Thomson in 1905. She did a good local passenger and excursion business in both lakes until the summer of 1911, when she was purchased by the Peterboro and Lake Simcoe Navigation Co. and taken to Rice Lake, where she is still running.

About this same time the steamer Otonabee was brought here from Peterboro and ran until the summer of 1916 when one night while lying at Big Bay Point she caught fire and was completely destroyed.

"We Should Be Dead Before That"

French Aware Eight Years Before War That Germany Planned a Coup

Viscount Haldane has revealed with considerable detail the nature of the conversations with the French Government which led to the reorganization of the British Army between 1900 and 1914.

Incidentally he mentioned that we mobilized at 11 o'clock on the morning of August 3, thirty-six hours before we declared war.

Speaking at a lecture by Major R. M. Johnstone, Professor of History of Harvard, at Bedford College, he said:

"We were then all ready, and within a few hours after we declared war the British Expeditionary Force were, with the aid of our splendid Navy, right across the Channel. The concentration was made in nine days.

The French Ask a Question.

"Our effort began in peace time, and it was made under the influence of very fine military brains. I speak with knowledge, because it fell to me as War Minister to assemble the young Generals with whose assistance the Expeditionary Force and the Territorial Force were fashioned.

"In the great speech which Sir Edward Grey made in the House of Commons on August 3, 1914, which practically announced the determination to go to war, the then Foreign Minister told us how he had been approached by the French Government in January, 1906, and how it was conveyed to him that there was some apprehension of an attack from Germany which might menace British interests.

"What the French Government said in effect was, 'We don't ask you to bind yourselves; you must be free. We don't ask anything unreasonable, but if you consider there is a possibility of your being called on in your own interests to come to our assistance and prevent the invasion of the Northern part of France by Germany, then it is wise for your military authorities and ours to have conversations, without binding yourselves in any way, with a view to seeing what sort of military assistance you can give.'

Our Answer.

"It is very important to bear in mind what followed upon those conversations which were on the French initiative, and which were quite informal and unbinding between the two General Staffs of France and Great Britain. The upshot was the putting to the French authorities of a question—I remember it because it fell to my lot to formulate it—and it was this: 'For what exact purpose will this military assistance be invoked?'

"The answer was that the purpose of any British army that could be put into the field must be to supplement the great French Army with a force strong enough to hold the Germans if they tried to break through Belgium. The French thought at that time that if we could contribute 100,000 men within fifteen days from the outbreak of war that would be enough to enable them, with their great fortifications and with our reorganized army on their left, to hold the position. But when we came to look into things we found that all we could concentrate was 80,000 men; and then not under two months and a half.

"The French said, 'We should be dead before that.'

"This country, therefore, set itself out to effect a revolution. That revolution was made under Sir Douglas Haig and a number of other officers who have since distinguished themselves in the war, and some others who have passed away, all of whom worked night and day for the purpose of putting our army for the first time in its history on a war footing in peace time.

The Mobilization.

"In the end we were able to increase the French estimate by giving them not 100,000 men, but 160,000, not in fifteen days, but in twelve days.

"Within a few hours after the declaration of war, the Expeditionary Force, with the aid of the Navy, was across the Channel before anybody knew it. Indeed, the first detachment was over within nine days, instead of twelve. That was one of the results of putting a definite question as to what purpose the British Army was needed for, and working out the answer."

With Other Councils

According to Mayor C. R. Somerville of London, there is little probability that the tax rate will be decreased any this year. He does not anticipate however that it will be any higher than that of last year, which was 32½ mills. Four mills were for the war tax and one mill was paid to the Provincial Government. These taxes will be collected this year again.

FUEL CONTROLLER RESIGNS.

James Stirton of Ingersoll, who some time ago was appointed as the local fuel controller by the council, has resigned. In accepting the resignation the council granted Mr. Stirton the sum of $50, and that decided that the office be dispensed with. The whole council will in the future act as a fuel committee with R. A. Skinner as the chairman.

A BETTER SYSTEM.

Under the present method of county police government, the Middlesex constables in bringing the guilty to justice are somewhat handicapped, and those who have knowledge of the system and who are in favor of better police protection of Middlesex strongly advocate a change.

NO PERMIT FOR COAL.

It is not necessary now to secure a permit to get coal in Stratford. The city council has decided that the fuel situation was looking much better.

GIVE THEM WORK.

The Brantford city council has urged employment for the war veterans. The men who have shed their blood for democracy, should be recognized before the "hunk," says the Telephone City Council.

PETERBORO SOLDIER HAS BEEN RELEASED

Pte. Arnold Parrington was a Prisoner of War in Germany for Nearly Three Years.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parrington, 309 Aylmer street that their son Pte. Arnold Parrington, has arrived in England after being a Prisoner of War in Germany for nearly three years.

January Clearance

We are Selling Desirable Winter Goods at Prices in the Middle of January that are Usually in Force the later Part of February

If the prices now in force were advertised at the end of February, you would consider these most extraordinary values. So imagine getting the same merchandise in January, with the advantage of being able to wear these goods and use them throughout the months of January and February, at the same prices that you would pay for them at the later part of the season! Probably this is the very reason this STOCK REDUCTION SALE is creating such an enthusiastic response and why it will be impossible to secure these very goods later on at the present prices.

After Four Years of War

The Railway Situation as Viewed by President E. W. Beatty of the C.P.R.

"FOUR years of active participation in the war and intimate association with the problems which the emergency produced must, I think, have had such a pronounced effect on the thought and spirit of the Canadian people, as will enable them to grasp and overcome the after-the-war problems with confidence and ease.

"No record of Canada's share in the war—military, commercial, fiscal or economic, but adds to our pride in Canadians and Canadian institutions and stimulates confidence in our future. The problems ahead of us are indeed serious, but so was the war. Some optimism as to our future is justified.

"From a transportation standpoint the Canadian people have, I think, every reason to be satisfied. The efforts of the companies, both on land and sea during the period of the war, have been eminently successful, especially from the public point of view. In spite of weather conditions unprecedently severe, at no time was there an approach to a physical breakdown. At no time was any disposition shown by any company to refuse assistance to any other company temporarily and locally embarrassed as to equipment or facilities. At first by the companies themselves and later under the aegis of the Canadian Railway War Board a continuous effort was maintained. The efforts of the railways were co-ordinated in such a way as to accomplish the maximum result and still not destroy or even injure the legitimate business of any one company. The results were highly satisfactory and reflect great credit, not only on the directors of the companies and the War Board, but also on the officers and men of the companies, whose loyalty, self-sacrifice and efficiency made Canada's great transportation record possible.

"While periodic attempts are made to compel an immediate decision as to the permanent solution of the so-called railway problem—though so far as efficiency and rates are concerned, there is no problem that I can see—it must be admitted that next to the war itself no question so important in its effect upon the earning power and prosperity of Canadians, as this question of further Government ownership of railways, has ever faced us. It is too important to be decided merely upon the view of extremists on either side. It can only be properly determined by careful consideration on the part of the people after having obtained some knowledge of the principles underlying efficient railroad service, the facts as to the present efficiency of the roads, and the probable—not fanciful effect which any serious change of policy must have upon that service and facts.

"Many mistakes have been made in the past, due to the ambitions of men or the ill-considered action of Governments. No good purpose, so far as I can see, is served by dwelling on these mistakes now. They were sanctioned at the time by a majority of the people of Canada. They can now serve only as a warning against other popular mistakes of even greater magnitude. An error in the shaping of our railroad policy now—a policy which would be difficult to reverse—would carry with it consequences much more disastrous to the country than those of our previous railway miscalculations, for the reason that the systems involved are so much larger. It should be remembered too that mistakes in railway policies have been made in other countries besides Canada, and that the opportunity to observe the efforts, for example, of the United States, in attempting to correct their errors, is invaluable to us, the more so since this particular example of the United States comes nearer to paralleling Canadian conditions—though the parallel is far from perfect—than any other that could possibly be chosen.

"The desire of everyone is that Canada should have to-day a railway system or systems so administered that the best service to the public will be obtained at the lowest rates consistent with fair wages, both for labor and capital. I say fair wages, because without them efficiency, loyalty and enterprise cannot be obtained, and without these things the quality of work which ensures efficient operation and low rates, cannot be secured. The question therefore is: Will Government ownership bring about this result? The question sounds simple but is in reality complex. Theoretically much may be said in favor of Government ownership. Will those theories stand the test of practice? If those theories prove a failure initially, but correct themselves, as their exponents may urge, in course of time—how long a time can Canadian people afford to pay the losses of demoralized railroad service? Do they wish to launch out on the experiment now? Or wait until their near neighbors, the United States, have worked out their experiment a little more satisfactorily? The cost of our experiment could not fail to be great, a cost certain to be collected directly or indirectly from the pockets of the Canadian people. Railway men have an admirable slogan which I feel incumbent to commend to the attention of the people of Canada at this moment, namely, "Stop, look and listen."

"I have my own view on public ownership of railways, but they are not unalterable. I am undoubtedly prejudiced by an association with one company. The company has slowly developed to a point of efficiency and successful operation. Looking back over that history one is amazed at the importance of the part played by men whose enterprise, resourcefulness and tenacity of purpose could not, I think, have been stimulated and given vein in any civil service. It has taken more than thirty odd years to shape the C. P. R. to efficient as it is to-day. It was not easy. Even when accomplished this degree of efficiency will be quickly lost. The condition that it is so easily shattered is largely responsible for the constant and intense ambition on the part of officers and men to maintain and even improve on the traditions.

"This much may, it seems to me, be said with confidence now, namely, that we do not know enough that is encouraging about Government operation of large railway systems to justify any further excursions into that field at this time. To argue from the experience of old countries where civil service obtains a much better standard of the ambitious young men than in Canada, or to argue from the alleged success of comparatively local affairs, or Government organizations dominated by exceptional personalities, is unfair—not to the railways but to the country which has so much at stake in this issue. We can well afford to wait, to study dispassionately our own situation and the experiment of the United States before committing our country to serious changes in policy. The solution finally adopted in the United States will be of immeasurable value to Canada. Meantime, too, the experience which Canada will now have of the present newly organized Government system will demonstrate many things. It will indicate very largely the general nature of the results we may hope to secure from an extension of the system.

"When we know more about Government operation in Canada and in the United States we may modify or entirely alter the present arrangements. We shall be justified then in reconsidering our permanent policies. But to do so without the advantage of this information—information available in due time—in fact, without the knowledge essential to the determination of the problem would be to my mind, the height of folly.

"Even though a Government co-ordination of Canadian railways rather than the present voluntary co-ordination through the Canadian Railway War Board should show an immediate saving to the people of Canada—and the experience of Government co-ordination of United States railways holds out little hope for any such saving—the sum involved would be a drop in the bucket compared to the larger ultimate losses which in the event of the failure of such policy must inevitably result, and which could not be corrected. If I may be permitted to parody the old proverb, I should say 'Nationalize in haste, repent at leisure.'"

—From the Montreal "Gazette."

An Interpretation of the War; Service Gratuity Order-in-Council

The reason for the order-in-council was to award to officers, warrant officers and men of the Canadian forces a "War Service Gratuity" in place of Post Discharge Pay and as the gratuity amounts to a larger sum than the discharge pay, those who have already received the discharged pay (if they are entitled as hereinafter appears) may make the necessary declaration and receive a subsequent payment. "On active service" means on the strength of the unit in the C.E.F. in Canada, England, France, etc. Any officer, warrant officer or man who was on active service with a C.E.F. unit on or after the 11th day of November, 1918 is entitled to receive a war service gratuity equal in amount to the pay and allowance (and if he has a dependent, such as wife or dependent mother who received an allowance then separation allowance also) he was drawing at the time of his discharge, under the following scale:—

1.—If on the strength of a unit that was in England, France or Belgium.

| Length of Service | Pay and Allowances |
|---|---|
| 3 Years or over | 6 months |
| 2 years or over | 5 months |
| 1 year or over | 4 months |
| Under one year | 3 months |

2.—If he never left Canada:—

| Length of Service | Pay and Allowance |
|---|---|
| 3 years or over | 3 months |
| 2 years of over | 2 months |
| 1 year or over | 1month |

If any officer or man has been receiving separation allowance for his wife, dependent mother, etc., up to the time of discharge, then his rate of pay for one month period will not be less than $100.00. In the case of an officer or man who has no dependent such as above then he will not receive less than $70.00 for a one month period. For example a married man who is entitled to a six months' gratuity will receive $100.00 each month for six months or $600.00 in all.

In the case of an officer or man who has a wife or dependent mother etc., and thus would have been entitled to separation allowance but for the fact that he was receiving lodging allowance will be cancelled and the arrangement, then in this case the lodging allowance will be canceled and the gratuity will include separation allowance as well as pay, etc.

Having cashiered, dismissed by sentence of court martial, sentenced to penal servitude for two years or more, or discharged for misconduct disentitles any person to the gratuity. Any person who, at his own request or at the request of his parents has been discharged because he was under age is also not entitled however, in this case the Paymaster General or the Minister of Militia and Defence may determine otherwise. Any over payment in pay, etc., may be deducted from the gratuity. If any officer or man rejoins again (such as the Siberian force) then his gratuity is stopped till he is discharged from that force and if he is promoted then his gratuity will be increased and he can also add together the time of service in both forces.

No officer or man who is receiving or entitled to receive a gratuity from the Imperial Forces shall obtain the Canadian gratuity, but if the Imperial gratuity is less tahn the Canadian gratuity, and he is entitled to the latter gratuity also then he can claim the difference. Any officer or man receiving pay and allowances from the Department of Soldiers Re-establishment is bound to submit to the treatment that the department directs and will not receive the gratuity till such pay has ceased.

If any officer or man dies before he and his wife or dependent mother etc., have received any or the whole of the gratuity or such part thereof that remains unpaid will be paid to the person in receipt of such separation allowance. If the man has no dependents who were receiving or entitled to receive separation allowance or if they die before him, then if he dies before the whole gratuity is paid the same lapses and does not become payable.

The gratuity is payable as follows: 1 month's pay and allowance or the day of the man's discharge, and the remainder (if any) in subsequent monthly payments.

Where any officer or man omitted to make proper provision for his wife and children, or where the circumstances require it, the Paymaster General, or the Minister of Militia and Defence may direct the gratuity to be applied for the provision of such wife and children.

This Order-in-Council applies to Nursing Sisters as well as Officers and men.

The Order-in-Council appears inconsistent in two respects.

FIRST the Order recites that "a war service gratuity should be paid to the Officers, Warrant Officers and men of the Naval and Land Forces of Canada in place of post discharge pay.

However the Regulations clearly show that war service gratituy only implies to those who were on the strength of the Naval or Land Forces of Canada on active service on or after the 11th of November 1918, and to make the Regulations consistent with the recital they should apply to very officer and man who has received, or is entitled to receive, post discharge pay.

SECONDLY, the recital divides the whole Canadian Forces into two Divisions only namely; Naval Forces and Land Forces, but divides the and Land Forces, while the schedule to the Order-in-Council not only refers to th eNaval Forces but divides the Land Forces into the Canadian Expeditionary Force and Land Forces proper, and distinguishes between them. From the above it is clearly shown that the gratuity is only payable to those officers and men who were discharged on or after the 11th day of November 1918, with one and only exception viz:

Any officer or man who was discharged before this date who has served "at the front in any actual theatre of war" (which does not include service in Canada, United States, British Isles, Saint Lucia, Bermuda, or on the High Seas) then this officer or man will be paid a gratuity, less the amount he already has received for post discharge pay, on making the necessary declaration.

WILL DISCONTINUE EMPLOYING BOYS.

Points at Issue in Connection with Postal Contract in the City.

Word has been received from Ottawa stating that the points at issue in connection with the contract for the collection of mail from the city boxes, have been straightened out. The contractor has also agreed to discontinue the employment of boys under 18 years of age.

When a recipe calls for a few drops of onion juice a turn or two of a raw onion on a grater will supply those few drops.

Food as An Aid to Peace

CONVICTION GROWS IN PARIS THAT OUR RELIEF PLANS WILL ASSURE IT.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The conviction grows here that the best approach to permanent peace is through America, the power that will relieve the suffering and the distress of Europe. On this foundation can be laid the League of Nations. There is a widespread discussion of practical plans, not only to supply the present help which is urgently needed, but to bring the countries of Europe together in future co-operation. Mere charity will not bring permanent relief. Ways and means must be provided for nations to help themselves.

Precisely the same idea of co-operation is fundamental in the schemes of the League of Nations, so that if economic help is promptly, carefully, and adequately organized, it will prepare the way for political unification.

Not only by the use of her huge material resources, but also by organized measures to promote the recovery and well being of the peoples now prostrate, America can blaze the way to the new order.

It is natural that nations, even the smallest, should entertain particularist views and should reckon in terms of power. History has taught them to seek protection in strength, and too often professed co-operation has been a disguise for selfishness. Through the supreme effort of America for relief, with some great central and permanent organization to sustain that effort and to inspire the spirit of self help as the immediate emergency becomes less severe, the European peoples may be brought to a new point of view in which the call of territorial expansion and race solidarity will lose its potency.

It is argued by those who see in these economic and social plans the solid framework upon which to construct a League of Nations that whatever difference may exist in the United States on the political side, measures for helping humanity out from its after-war wretchedness will command universal approval. And it is believed, furthermore, that whether the League of Nations comes out of the Peace Conference as a completed scheme or not, the ideal will be practicalized by united and economic effort on the lines suggested, containing the germs of peace on earth.

Rousing Mass Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon

Salvation Army Red Cross Shield Drive Endorsed by Returned Soldiers —Speakers at the Big Meeting Held in the Grand Opera House—Peterboro Went Over the Top This Morning—Drive Will Last Three Days.

The million dollar Red Shield drive got off to a good start yesterday afternoon, when a big mass meeting was held in the Grand Oprea House. Before the time set for the opening the lower floor was filled and soon the balcony had its complement of humanity. The Salvation Army Temple band, which before the war was one of the finest bands of the Salvation Army in Canada, and which, despite heavy enlistments in the army, is still a first rate organization, occupied seats on the platform, and gave a short concert at the beginning of the meeting. The Salvation Army lassies with the white hospital headgear were also there and sang choruses.

Others on the platform were Mayor Duncan, chairman of the meeting, Mr. J. A. Aylmer, chairman of the Organization committee of the drive in the city, Ald. J. J. Turner, His Honour Judge Huycke, Ex-Ald. Dobbin, Ald. Murray, Ald. A. A. McIntyre, Mr. Walter Stocker, Mr. Joseph Wearing, Sergt. Stanley, Mr. C. R. Widdifield and Adjutant Buntin, in charge of the local Salvation Army Corps.

Commandant McElhiney, former officer in charge of the Salvation Army in this city, was unable to be present owing to the serious illness of his wife, Mrs. McElhiney.

A Marvellous Work.

The Mayor in his opening remarks said that he always had a warm feeling for the Salvation Army.

"They have done a marvellous work in the city and I can well remember the time when rowdies used to interfere with the services of the Army.

Mr. J. A. Aylmer, who has charge of the organization work of the drive in this city, gave a brief outline of the method of obtaining Peterborough's objective. There will be a house to house canvass and it is hoped, and confidently expected that Peterborough's objective of $15,000 will not only be reached, but exceeded.

"Wherever there is misery you will find the Salvation Army," said the speaker, "and that is good, practical Christianity. They were the first on the field and wherever they could find work to do they have done it."

Second to None.

Mr. C. R. Widdifield, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, was the next speaker.

"I can safely say that the work of the Salvation Army that I have seen in Belgium and France, stands second to none to other organizations at the front doing the same kind of work. They erected huts, which were open to everybody. No creed or nationality was barred from the use of them. Even the German prisoners received benefit from them. In the fighting zone there are three spheres of existence. The first line trenches, the support and the billets. In the first line there are no luxuries and in the second line the Salvation Army serve coffee, chocolate, etc. The Salvation Army service at the front is seen at its best in the billets. We here in Peterborough can't realize what it means to come from the trenches, tired, wet and hungry, and with a grudge against the whole world, especially Kaiser Bill, and then to be served with coffee and refreshments as the S. A. huts did. After that they come out whistling "O, Canada." The Red Shield huts also supply many little luxuries and necessities that they could not get elsewhere. The men in billets congregate at these huts and it is here that they meet soldiers of other units and battalions that it would be impossible to meet in the front line trenches or in support. The Salvation Army not only built huts in France but also in England and at every railroad station in London. There were men who showed the boys coming home from France on leave or otherwise where the Salvation Army hostels were situated. Here you could get a bath, a bed and a meal, which means something. The Salvation Army also have their own chaplains at the front and I think that they were looked more on as a personal friend than the chaplains of the other services. They felt freer to ask for favours."

Sergt. Stanley, who went overseas with a railway construction battalion, told of some of his experiences in France and how the Salvation Army had helped him.

Escaped Criticism.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, M.A., spoke of the different denominations and what line of thought they inspired. When we think of the great Anglican denominations we think of their long history, and in one sense, as in England, we think of it as the State church. When thinking of the Presbyterians we think of their stern Calvinism and that they could never be led astray. I've heard criticism of the work of other organizations overseas, but never yet have I heard of any about the Salvation Army. This money which they intend to raise in the coming campaign is for reconstruction work, and I firmly believe we are facing the greatest period of possibilities. This development will come to us just in the measure that we are prepared for it.

Adjutant Buntin.

Cheer after cheer rent the air as Adjutant Buntin rose to speak. He told how the ranks of the Salvation Army in Canada had been depleted by enlistments. In some places ladies' bands were organized to take the place of the bands that went overseas. There is no officer in the Salvation Army who has a fixed salary. If there is no money for the officers they don't get any. There is no place that the Salvation Army will not go. It will help anybody.

Judge Huycke said that he wondered how the Salvation Army in Peterborough have been able to do the work that they have with such small funds. The people of Peterborough should do their share.

Food Board's Task Coming to An End

OTTAWA, Jan. 16. — The Canada Food Board will hang up its shutters Feb. 15th. The staff is being gradually demobilized—an Ottawa term for plain "fired"—and by the middle of next month, this war organization will have finally closed its work.

Many of the staff have returned to former occupations and the remainder are being divided between the Repatriation Committee and the new Canadian Trade Commission of which Mr. H. B. Thomson, chairman of the Board, is a member. With the board disbanding, the regulations in regard to the conservation of food, which have been in force during the past few war years, will automatically cease. The campaign for stimulatin production, which was one of the chief features of the board's work, will be taken over by the Agricultural Department.

The work of marketing Canada's food products, which was also to a certain extent directed by the Food Board, will be largely handled by the Trade Commissioner, Mr. Thompson, who is familiar with this work, and will take charge of it.

Epidemic of Press Agents Settles Down on Ottawa

Not Only Commissions and Departments of Government Service, But Ministers Themselves Have Publicity Experts to Tell of Their Doings.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—Hon. Arthur Meaghen left for the West Thursday night. He carried a press agent in his train. You may have not ed that when Hon. James Calder visited Toronto he also carried a press agent. In fact, it has been borne in on this Union Government of ours and its multifarious commissions and committees that it pays to advertise — whether or not you have anything to advertise being a minor consideration.

As a consequence, no movie actress is more flagrantly exposed to the rude glare of publicity than our once modest Cabinet Ministers, their aiders and abettors. The new habit is a bit extravagant. But the war is over, or nearly over. It may be that the need of war-time thrift has departed with the demise of the Food Board. Anyway the Government has so much war loan money that it threatens to hand some of it back to the lenders. Why should it not spend an odd million telling the public what it is doing, what it ought to be doing, or, perchance, what it ought not to be doing.

New Form of Question.

Anyway, when you meet a man on the street who at some remote date may have peddled papers, or in some other way been connected with the noble, if illiterate, occupation of newspaper making, you don't stop to ask him "what," but "which" he's doing — repatriation, soldiers' civil re-establishment, public information, thrift stamps, or if he is personally attached to one of the Ministers. For each and all of those institutions has its publicity staffs. The amount of what news editors call "bull" turned out daily is something enormous. Fortunately for the public, most of it never finds its way into print. Correspondents and editors throw it into the waste paper basket, and even Hon. Wesley Rowell's organ, the "Official Record," cannot find space for it.

Nor are all these publicists in Ottawa. John W. Dafoe is in Paris with the Premier, from which vantage point he shoots his platitudes into the cable office. John W. is industrious. Moreover, he has the star of the entire company to press agent for. So he grinds out from a column to a column and a half a day. It only costs twelve and a half cents a word cable tolls. And in these days of peace and plenty what matters an extra $125 to $175 a day so long as a waiting public is told how its Premier is saving the Empire?

Some Are Small Enough.

Of course, some people are small enough to say things about our soldiers being brought home in the steerage and finding a shortage of food on transports. They should apologize to a greater statesmanship.

This brings to mind a thousand-word cable that came in the other day, telling how comfortable the boys on the Olympic had been made. It only cost $125, not counting the wages of the press agents at both ends. But why wae it sent? If the boys are comfortable they'll say so. And the best and only advertising that any system can give, or get, is satisfied customers.

System of Camouflage.

But to get back to things around home. The start of the whole system of camouflage started with the Public Information Department, of which Hon. Wesley Rowell is the founder and M. E. Nichols the director. The latter gets $5,000 a year for doing the directing, and has a corps of associates and assistants, headed by Librarian Locke, of Toronto; Roland Hill, with whose war despatches Sir Robert Bordon was wont to while away weary hours in Parliament; the staff of the Record, the paper that goes to the boys in Germany, and who are sure-enough returned officers—and others.

Food Board Demobilised.

From this little acorn the sturdy oak grew. It blossomed into early fragrance in connection with the Canada Food Board, whose literary gems helped so ably to voice the cost of living. And right here it might be remarked that though the Food Board is going, gone or about to go, Canada is not to lose the services of the principals in that cast of experts who devoted their young lives to food problems. To be sure they have been demobilized. But they have also been repatriated. Chief Thompson has gone to the War Mission, taking some of his literary geniuses with him. Others have been absorbed by repatriation, and other words, requiring specially trained minds. Unemployed among its late employees will not trouble the Food Board in its dying hours.

No one but a cost accountant could attempt to figure at what rate Canada's complete, or rather incomplete, system of publicity is eating into the war loan. Anyway, it is too early even to start to figure, for every incoming train brings additions to the horde of publicists.

"This Is the Man."

That the end is not yet, is evidenced by the advertisement for a publicity man for Hon. James Calder's Department of Immigration. A bright young man, who can earn $4,000 per is required for the job. As he is to be a fixture in name as well as in practice, the Civil Service Commission has been paid the compliment of being allowed to insert the advertisement. And when the answers are all in a man will appear before them labelled, "this is the man." He will pass all his examinations with neatness and despatch, another job will have been filled and patronage will again have been abolished.

In the other publicity the Civil Service Commission is said to be making a show of asserting itself. You'll remember it also put up a bluff when Chairman J. K. L. Ross of the Pensions Commission, insisted on appointing his own staff. But Mr. Ross went right on with his appointments and they still stand.

May Not Be Answered.

So in the case of the Repatriation Committee the Civil Service Commission sent a questionnaire to members of the staff. They may or may not be answered, for the appointments were made by Order-in-Council presumably under the War Measures Act. But the action of the commission is evidently meant as a preliminary to a report that may bring the whole matter before Parliament. That it will cause some comment there, goes without saying.

Meanwhile, repatriation goes on apace. Hon. James Calder's committee meets for its usual hour or two a week to hear reports. Director Daly gives it such time as he can spare from his dry-goods store and other amusements, advisory meetings of college presidents, Y.M.C.A. workers, mothers, missions, etc., are held at intervals—and the publicity bureau, with the help of an advertising agency that plans its big advertisements, does the rest.—Toronto Telegram.

The Council then adjourned.

Food Board Flashes

How is Belgium faring for food? As the most heroic and wronged of small nations it is a matter of concern to all to know the condition of her food supplies, now that deliverance has come to her. Some time ago the Belgian Government established a Food Administration and her food problems are being taken in hand as rapidly as possible. With sufficient money it is possible to buy almost any kind of food in Belgium but when it is remembered that over one-half of the population have an income under $4 a week per family it can readily be understood how few can afford to pay the price. Meat is $2 a pound, eggs are $1 each and butter is $2.50 a pound. There has been been a great spread of tuberculosis, throughout the country as a result of underautrition.

You Hold the Key

Will You Keep The Door Open?

WHERE will our men in uniform—Over There and Over Here—go in their spare time, if the doors of the Salvation Army Hostels are closed for lack of funds? WHERE?

This week decides. Consider carefully, for if THOSE doors slam in the faces of our soldiers, the echo will go ringing through the years to come. Canada will regret. You hold the KEY!

Let us state the case quite plainly. The next twelve months are critical ones in the careers of our citizen soldiers. They will have a great deal of time on their hands and it is for you to make it helpful and enjoyable. They have come to know the Salvation Army over there, and realize what it means. Give him a chance, and the soldier will turn to the Hostel, and all will be well!

Salvation Army Million Dollar Fund

THIS WEEK

The Salvation Army has rendered service to millions of fighters for the Allies. It started work in the war twelve days after Germany invaded Belgium. It has 197 Huts at Soldiers' Camps; thousands of Beds in Hostels close to the stations and landings used by the soldiers; it has distributed tens of thousands of parcels of food and clothing among the forces and it has carried tens of thousands of wounded in its ambulances. The need is still great for Hostels over there, and for Hostels and other forms of help OVER HERE, to take care of our soldiers during demobilization.

The Salvation Army serves hot coffee, cocoa and sandwiches to soldiers; cooks, mends, furnishes music and entertainment, safeguards the home ties, and labors for the Master.

Its services are endorsed by public and military authorities, and, best of all, by the men themselves! Ask any returned man what he thinks of the Salvation Army.

Shall the doors be kept open, and the good work continue as long as there is need? The KEY is in your pocket!

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Bulgarian Cabinet has resigned, a Sofia despatch announced to-day.

Will Control the Railroads

Sections Are Given to Each of Associated Nations For Operations—American is Chief Executive.

Canadian Press

VLADIVOSTOCK, Jan. 20.—(By W. E. Playfair, Can. Press Correspondent.)—Information here is to the effect that an Inter-Allied agreement for the control of the Siberian railway has been signed. The British are to control the line from Irkutsk westward, the French the Amur branch, and the Americans the Chinese eastern railway. Major Stevens of the American Railway Corps, is to be chief executive of the system.

Made Holland a Repository

The Reason Holland Was Not Invaded Like Belgium.

(Special to The Examiner.)

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 20.—Holland was not invaded like Belgium because it had been made a repository for private funds of both the Kaiser and the Austrian Emperor, the "Haagschepest" revealed to-day.

The newspaper said that $5,000,000 of Wilhelm's and $25,000,000 of Franz Josef's funds were transferred from London to Dutch banks in July, 1914, at the request of the Kaiser. The transfer was made by Prince Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippa, the Kaiser's late brother-in-law, who returned from London on July 17, 1914, in time for the Kaiser to prepare the attack on France and Belgium.

SESSIONS RESUMED.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Peace Congress resumed sessions early this morning and made good progress to-day towards agreement on most of the important matters.

Summary of the Judgment

Closing Chapter in the Faux Case —"High Wines."

Following is a summary of the judgment in the Faux case, as handed down by Magistrate Dumble in police court on Saturday, and referred to in Saturday's issue of the Examiner:

The evidence of Laura Bourgon shows that on the evening of Saturday, Dec. 28, 1918, Emmet Faux came to her house about 7 p. m., and that he brought a bottle with him. Her husband tested it, said it was not strong enough and that he was not going to pay $4 for it. Faux said that he had a stronger bottle at home. Faux went away and took the bottle with him and came back in about 15 minutes, bringing another bottle. Bourgon tasted it, handed his wife the tumbler, who also tasted it. She said it tasted something like high wine. Her husband bought this bottle.

Mr. John Hetherington, a neighbour, came to the house and spent the evening and drank together from the bottle. Faux took away the first bottle and produced a second or stronger bottle. After her husband tasted the second bottle he paid Faux the money and went away.

As Faux was going out of the door he turned and said to Mrs. Bourgon, "Somebody has rung the bell, hide the bottle, a policeman is coming in." It was only an insurance agent.

Bourgon told Hetherington that he had struck a little buck that afternoon; he had something to drink. Hetherington stayed until 11 o'clock and drank with Bourgon.

Did Not Sleep Well.

Hetherington, in the witness box, stated that that night he did not sleep well, had a pain in his stomach and a headache. He took a big dose of salts in the morning but slept all day and could not keep awake. On Monday he tried to saw wood but was too weak and did not go to work until Thursday. "It was drinkable," was Hetherington's own words when asked if the contents of the bottle tasted good. Bourgon told him that it was high wine.

The evidence shows that Faux purchased from a local druggist a quantity of Columbian spirits. He told the druggist that the spirits was for a sick horse.

Faux in his evidence said that before he brought the drinks to Bourgon the latter told him on Monaghan road how to make it. He also mentioned his previous experience in police court. The recipe was simple, Columbian spirits with water or wine half in half. Faux went to bring Bourgon the concoction and he was to be paid three dollars for it on Saturday.

Faux had one and a half inches left in the bottle. He took it home and drank it; it made him sick, blind and very ill. Dr. Wood ordered him to be sent to the hospital, where he was for nine days in a very low condition.

The prisoner candidly admitted that he bought several bottles of grain alcohol just before Christmas day and that he got $6 from Bourgon.

In conclusion the Magistrate stated "These men all drank from that one bottle marked ginger wine. Its contents were over 73 p.c. proof spirits or "liquor" within the meaning of the Ontario Temperance Act. I cannot come to any other conclusion than that the defendant, Faux, sold the liquor to Bourgon and is guilty under section 40 of the Act, and I adjudge that he do pay a fine of $500 and $14.10 costs forthwith, and in default of payment that he be imprisoned in the county jail for a period of six months at hard labour.

If you meet a man who has but little to say don't get him started on his hobby or you will have occasion to change your opinion of him.

ELECTIONS IN GERMANY

Government Controlled Most of the Election Machinery.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 20.— Reports from various sources to-day indicated that Sunday's voting in Germany was attended by disturbances in several parts of Germany, particularly in Leipzig and Dusseldorf.

Inasmuch as the government controlled most of the electron machinery it was believed that the majority Socialists would have a big advantage in the National Assembly, for which the elections were held.

A report was received from Amsterdam that Chancellor Ebert had decided not to permit the National Assembly to convene on February 16, owing to unsettled conditions. This report was not verified and no reason for such an attitude was advanced.

STREET FIGHTING.

COPENHAGEN, January 20. — Street fighting which broke out in Berlin when the Spartacans attempted to destroy ballot boxes throughout the city yesterday afternoon, continued throughout the night, according to despatches received from Berlin to-day.

The Spartacans attempted to storm the "Vorwaerts" building and there was particularly severe fighting in the Wilhelmstrasse, Htdimanatresse, and at the Bullesche gate, but the insurgents were repulsed everywhere.

DOMINATED BY WOMEN.

(United Press.)

(By Frank J. Taylor.)

BERLIN, Jan. 20. — The National Elections in Germany yesterday were dominated by the women, who were voting and running for office for the first time in the history of the country. In practically every district the women were in a great majority over the men. There were at least one or two women running on each ticket in every district.

SCATTERED RETURNS.

BERLIN, Jan. 20. — Only scattered returns from the elections yesterday are yet available. In the Rupleben precincts of Berlin, the Majority Socialists defeated the Independent and the Spartacans candidates two hundred to one.

BERLIN, Jan 20.—Richard Fischer secretary of the Majority Socialist Party in Berlin, shortly after midnight this morning estimated that in the election to the National Assembly the Majority Socialists would have between forty and fifty per cent. of the votes, the Independent Socialists five, the Centrists thirty and the German Democrats from 15 to 20 per cent.

President Wilson is Working on a New Programme

May Reveal the Details at a Couple of Speeches He is Billed to Deliver To-day.

By Robert J. Bender.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 20.—President Wilson will be rounding out his programme for International labour legislation to-day. The President's position is said to be that no peace is possible until the threat of economic competition which might destroy safeguards of Labour, is ended. It is expected that he would make some public declaration of his views in this regard at the two speeches he was to make to-day. The addresses were to be delivered at a luncheon tendered him by the French Senate, and upon the occasion of his attending a session of the Chamber of Deputies.

The American programme for Labour legislation, it is understood, provides for the incorporation of several vital principles in the peace treaty including an international child labour law, protection for women workers, regulation of working conditions and an agreement on the hours of labour to constitute a universal work day. In his speeches in Italy the President emphasized the importance of the influence of labour on world opinion and made plain that labour must be fully recognized in peace negotiations.

The League of Nations plan of the American delegation is based on careful study of its own and allied ideas. Allied authorities familiar with the plan, said it is the best yet promulgated. It embodies many of the features of General Smut's programme and includes many of the details of the British plan. The American plan, it is understood, provides that the present associated powers shall constitute a nucleus of the league and that every free nation shall have the right of membership. There is a provision for arbitration, with compulsory measures, which would prevent the outbreak of war pending reports from the arbitrators.

A New World.

The memorandum prepared by American delegates outlines the possibility of a new world of thought, action and spirit, designed virtually to prevent future wars. Germany and Russia would be taken into the league when they have stabilized their governments, and the league would afford every possible aid to both nations, the President feeling that peace would be useless with half of Europe aflame with the spirit of jealousy and revenge. Premier Lloyd George is said to be unreservedly in agreement with this principle.

After the formation of the league there would be a meeting of Imperial delegates to formulate a new international code. In view of the attitude of the Allies, it may be stated that the President feels the outlook is favourable for prompt consummation of the league.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner, —With your kind permission of a little space in your valuable paper, I would like to speak a little of my mind regarding the Ontario Temperance Act. Possibly it will not meet the approval of every person in the city, nevertheless I will wager it will meet the approval of the working class and the sensible man.

The time is getting close now when we wil have no less than 2500 soldiers back from overseas from Peterboro—and all of them good working men, and all would like to participate in the drinking of a glass of beer to wet their fortune of returning to their friends and relatives. Tell me where has the average man to go after his day's toil is over, or even on a Saturday afternoon. Why, stand around on the street corners, and get pushed on by one of Peterboro's vigilant police, or otherwise known as the George street patrol, whereas he could be in a hotel enjoying the fruits of his working or fighting.

I am not in favor of the old time bars where a man could go and get drunk and come out and take a zig-zag course down the street, but let us have a bar with government restrictions ,that would have power to fine a bartender for serving a man who has had too much, or let me go so far as to say, let the government issue cards which would enable a man to get only a limited quantity, whereas now a man is tempted to take wood alcohol ,and such poison as that, and thereby loses his life. The man cannot resist for the simple reason that he has always been used to it, and he will have it by fair means or foul. If he is caught by the above mentioned police he is heavily fined, with the consequence that it fills the city treasurer's box—or someone else's—and probably break a poor man who has possibly worked hard all his life for his savings.

Now take the licensed vender for instance. We have none in Peterboro. And after a man has been successful in procuring a prescription for a bottle of life saver, he has to send either to Toronto or Kingston for it, and by the time he has received it it costs just four dollars. If a vender were in Peterboro a man would save the cost of postage and he could be compensated for the bottle ,and also save on the box in which it is sent. We notice that the Ontario government proposes taking over the liquor business, but they say nothing about the prospects of the working class getting it any cheaper, etc.

A very funny thing happened the other day. A party was visiting St. Joseph's Hospital when one of the party fainted, and was immediately given a glass of whiskey, which revived her at once. Had the same thing happened in their own dwelling and had their been no stimulant for them, it would probably have cost two dollars for a doctor. It is a well known fact that since prohibition more people have died for the want of it than had died from the abuse of it in the past thirty years.

I notice the government is paying an awful lot of money out for a spiel in the papers entitled "From War to Peace." Possibly they are expecting trouble and are endeavoring to satisfy the public that they are on the job, but the only way that they can satisfy the majority is to give us beer and work, which we are justly and rightfully entitled to.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I am a 21st man.

O. W.

P. S. — Take note that the people are leaving the country at the rate of 100 a day to the land of plenty, and don't it seem strange that a man could procure his beer only two or three miles from the trenches, and yet we can't get it here.

Lance-Corporal MacNab and His Companions Go Over the Top in a Pie-Eating Contest.

Extracts from letters by Lance-Corp. Alan MacNab, to his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. MacNab.

Rosrath, Germany,
December 17, 1918

Dear Folks at Home:—

I am commencing this letter to-night, but I cannot tell when I shall finish it, as I intend to tell you all I can of our trip thru Belgique, and Germany. . . . . .

On our way back from leave in Blighty, we left Boulogne at 8 a. m. of 26th November, and passed thru Etaples, St. Pol, Arras, Douai, Somain, Denain to Reismes, where we arrived about 3 a.m. of 27th. We put up there for the night, and had breakfast. The railway lines from this point up to Mons, had been destroyed by Fritz as he retreated, and had not been relaid as yet, so we had to reach Mons as best we could. Three of we Canucks stuck together and walked into Valenciennes (about three miles) where we caught a lorry which took us to ———. From there we took the Electric line to within two miles of Mons, and then walked into that city. . . We made our way to the main square, and just arrived in time to see King Albert come into the town, for the first time since the war began. There were great crowds of people thronging the place, and the old town was literally smothered in bunting. . . . . From Mons we took train for Namur on 28th. The Fritz engine which was pulling us was not much good, and as a result we did not reach Namur until 7:00 p.m. . . . As there were no trains running the next day, we decided to see the town. It is a very large place, with fine shops, and the colors of Allies were everywhere. We picked up two of our boys, and found that our ration lorry was in town and would be going up to our battalion the next day. So we stuck with them, and looked up a good billet for the night. The people gave us the best they had, and we shared our rations with them. . . . .

In the Morning.

In the morning we boarded our lorry, and travelled all day. There are more comfortable ways of travelling . . . . personally I would prefer a Ford. . . . We covered about 100 kilometers (kinks we call them) and arrived at battalion H. Q. 8:00 p.m. One mishap we had, . . About noon, coming down a grade the lorry skidded to the left, then sharply to the right, and crashed into a tree. She also crashed into a chap on a cycle, smashing his machine, and rifle to pieces, and knocking him senseless. He was lucky to get out of it alive however, and so were the rest of us, as the tree alone saved us from rolling down the steep bank. . . . We arrived at Havilange that night, and went forward with our battalion from there next morning, to Izier, a little mountain village in the Ardennes, where we were billeted in the schoolhouse over night. I had never counted on going to school in Belgique, but strange things do happen these days. . . . Here I was ordered to report to my Platoon at Cherbal, which I did next day. . . . . It was good to get back among the old bunch, after all my wanderings, and here I also received two parcels from home, which were very welcome, and in tip top condition. We moved out of Cherbal next morning Dec. 4th for Trois Ponts, (Three Bridges). The first half of the journey we had to do on foot, as the roads were almost impassible, but on the last half the roads were good, and we had a lot of down grade. We came down one hill five kinks in length. Maybe we didn't let our old wheels whizz. In Trois Ponts we had a comfortable billet, and the next day moved on to Haulleuz, which place we found already full of troops. Therefore we proceeded to a little village called Cahay, where we had some difficulty in getting all under cover. Ten of us slept in one room that night but the people were very good to us. . . . made a huge kettle of vegetable soup, . . it surely was fine. . . This was our last halt in Belgium, and from this village we could look over the border into Germany.

It was on Dec. 6th that we crossed into Germany. We found conditions much the same ,except for the speak. ? ? ?. It was rather funny to have to drop our French at the frontier, but that is what we had to do. We stopped at the first German village we came to, but found no one who could speak French. So we had to start in and learn another language. However we have a German Jew in our platoon, and so managed to get coffee etc., for our lunch. Then we pushed on to Amel we proceeded to Hollerath, where we stayed until Dec. 9th . . . On that day we covered 19 miles in two and a half hours and stopped at Kommern for the night. This is a good sized town, and here Stan Goodsoe, and I secured a fine billet. A large room with two single beds, a table, chairs, and a stove, House electric lighted. The host is a baker, and would force his black bread on us. On entering the house, the woman brought us a pot of coffee, some jam, and a half loaf of black bread. When we were leaving the next morning the old gent tried to force a loaf of his black bread on us. Nothing doing. In this town we first tasted German grown poultry. We did not turn down that item on the menu card. . . From Kommern to Wielerswist the cycling was fine, and we found the latter a smaller town, but just as old-fashioned as Kommern. Our next stop was at Suith, a fair sized town on the west bank of the Rhine, and about four miles from Koln, (we call it Cologne). Here Stan and I landed a good billet, where we found an ex-officer of the German army, with whom we swapped yarns in French. We stayed in Suith until the 13th, and on the 12th a bunch of us went into Koln to see the sights. . . .It certainly is a very fine city, and business seems to be going on as usual. We visited the cathedral, but found it closed . . . five of us went into a cafe, and between us we killed 20 pieces of pie, and ten cups of chocolate. No, we didn't have a stomach ache, The pastry was good, though dark in color. . . . We travelled by the electric, and had some fun with the conductor who tried to make us pay fares, and also tried to keep us out of the first class carriage. He was out of luck for both. One German civic rode in the same car with us, and he was supporting a pair of British puttees. We promptly relieved him of them, and he sat there and cried like a baby. . . . We had a very fine duck dinner while in Suith. Strange how these birds taste better when you get them in the "natural way."

On the 13th the 1st Division to which we are attached, crossed the Rhine by the new bridge, in Koln. Of course it poured rain . . . it always does when the Canadians put on a show of any kind. That night we reached Urbach, a small town on the east of the Rhine, and almost opposite Suith. Here my mate and I found a splendid billet. The people could not do enough for us. They even had our boots polished for us when we came down in the morning. On the 16th we reached our destination Rosrath, and here we have secured the best billets yet. From here I am writing this letter. . . . Stan wants to play me a game of chess. Pardon me while I beat him up.

After Dinner

Well, I trimmed him twice before he said 'nuff .Then we had dinner. After dinner there was a pay parade . . . the one parade we enjoy in the army. This was our first pay in Germany. They paid us sixty marks. . . . equivalent to 43 francs, which in turn equals about eight dollars. Magnificent! Yaouss .

Worship the Kaiser.

We are in a large well furnished house. The family consist of the father, mother and three young people, two boys and a girl. The older chap was in the army, and opposite the Canadians for some time until he was wounded. The girl is about 14 years and is attending high school in Koln. She speaks good French and very fair English, so we can converse fairly well. When she comes home at night and supper is over we draw her into conversation about the war, and in this way hear their views of the great fight. It is small wonder that the Kaiser had such a hold on the people This girl absolutely adores him. She says they are always taught in school, that the Kaiser is everything. They are made to look upon him almost as a God. . . . She is very much afraid the Kaiser is to be killed by us, and even when we tell her of the crimes which rest on his head, she always says the same thing, "you can take all of Germany, and do what you like with it, and with us, but you must not kill our Kaiser' I love him.'. . . . Can you wonder at the way they stood for him when they are so drilled. Her brother who was in the army has very different views now. The girl seemed to be horrified when told the truth about the Lusitania. They had always been told the ship was loaded with munitions of war. Neither had they been told of the atrocities committed in Belgium and in France. . . . All the German people we have met are anything but hostile, —In fact they will go out of their way to do us a favor. However we have known them so long across No Man's Land, that we do not trust them too far. I do not think for a moment we shall have any trouble with them. They are all glad the war is over, but sorry of course that we were the victors.

Anaemic Paleness Quickly Changed To Rosy Cheeks

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood.

If confined too much indoors, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently ill-nourished and half-starved.

But there is a cure!

Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut; as a blood enricher their equal is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid.

Healthy colour supplants the pallid, ashen face.

Better appetite, strong digestion and dreamless sleep, are sure to follow, because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Think it over.

Will it pay you to look and feel half-dead, to lack colour and spirit, when all can be changed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

Better act at once.

Your case is more curable now than later on.

Dr. Hamilton personally guarantees his pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Their merit is unquestioned.

Thousands of enemies they have cured and kept well.

They will do just the same for you. Try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box.

Leaking Transport Expects to Make Port

THE TUCKAHOE, EAST BOUND WITH SUPPLIES, IS EXPECTED TO REACH HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, N. S. — A wireless despatch received here from the United States army transport Tuckahoe,said she was leaking, but expected to be able to make this port without assistance. Her position was given as 214 miles south of the Nova Scotia coast.

Rescue vessels arrived to-day in the vicinity of the American steamship Castalia, drifting helpless off Sable Island. The Norwegian steamship Bergensfjord reported by wireless that she was standing by but that the heavy weather had made it impossible up to late this afternoon to launch a boat to take off the crew of the Castalia.

The Tuckahoe Carried Army Supplies—Was built in Thirty-eight Days.

The United States army transport Tuckahoe, which sailed from New York on January 9th for St. Nazaire, was reported yesterday by wireless as leaking badly and putting into Halifax. Word of the vessel's distress was received in New York by the officials of the United States Shipping Board, and it is presumed by them she was enabled in a storm.

The Tuckahoe was launched last July at Camden, and was built in the record time of thirty-eight days. Until her present voyage, when she was loaded with army supplies for France, she was in the coastwise trade .

Helpless Wounded Soldiers New Prey Of Robber Bands

Holdup Men Spread Terror Into New District Near Old Greenbat Store.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. — Robbers and rowdies who have been terrorizing the Chelsea district, between Eighth and Tenth avenues and Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets, for the last several months, have found a new victim for their work of holdups, robberies and assaults. They have extended the zone of their operations eastward to Sixth avenue, because of the opportunities that offer themselves in that region in the numbers of wounded soldiers just returning from France and convalescing in the debarkation hospital at Eighteenth street and Sixth avenue.

Several assaults have been made on soldiers from the debarkation hospital in the last few days by roughs of the Chelsea district. A great many of the wounded men are sufficiently recovered to walk about in the vicinity of the hospital. The fact that many of the men had been receiving back pay, sometimes that for many months, and their physical condition was such as to assure little resistance have made them attractive prey for the gangs of hold-up men.

Several of the wounded men have been set upon and robbed while returning to the hospital at night.

The Wild West in its wildest days would seem a quiet nook to the residents and the shopkeepers of the Chelsea district since the gangs started their depredations. Despite repeated complaints to the police, robberies and hold-ups continue in frequency. None of the shopkeepers want to talk. They would rather keep their tongues in their heads than risk a sudden visit of revenge that would leave their stores a wreck.

Step Towards Breaking Up Gang.

The arrest of Edward Sullivan aged 17, of No. 369 Eight avenue, charged with homicide ,is believed to be a big step in breaking up one band of the ruffians. Accused of complicity in the slaying of Jean La Grof, a seaman on the French steamer Espagne, on New Year's Day, Sullivan, according to Inspector John J. Cray, not only admitted that crime, but confessed to an active part in ten hold-ups. The youth is undersized and weighs hardly one hundred pounds.

Sullivan, who lives in Eighth ave., near Sixteenth street, is known in the neighborhood as "Moe." His arrest followed information the police received after Patrick Mitchell had been taken into custody.

"I did the stabbing with a long knife," Sullivan is said to have told Inspector Cray. "We didn't get anything from these sailors, they put up too good a fight. We used to go after the drunks. The big fellow I worked with would come up in back of a fellow and pin his arms behind him. Then I would go through his pockets."

Enter almost any store in the Chelsea neighborhood, and nine cases out of ten the proprietor will admit he has been victimbized once, twice, or many times. In one place in Thirteenth street, the owner said: "Sure we have been held up; once two weeks ago last Saturday night, and once a month or so before that. Got about $100 each time. What are you going to do about it? You report to the police, and that is the last you hear of it."

No man will admit that he is half as jealous or suspicious as he really is.

TANKARD GAMES ARE POSTPONED TO FRIDAY

The Tankard games that were scheduled to be played here to-morrow have been postponed by R. M. Weddell, the official umpire. If the weather changes they will be played on Friday of this week. There has been no word from Lindsay regarding the District Cup games which will probably be played there to-morrow.

The friendly games that were arranged by the local curlers for this week to be played in Keene, Lakefield and other points, have been cancelled. News despatches of ducks flying north, and venturesome robins lured back by rarely moderate weather suggest the approach of April rather than of February.

The Local Life Underwriters Meet

Officers Elected for the Current Year—Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Central Ontario Branch of the Life Underwriters' Association was held on Saturday at the Empress Hotel, and was fairly well attended. After enjoying a splendid dinner, the members assembled in the parlour of the hotel to conduct the business of the Association.

Officers Elected.

New officers were elected as follows:

President—Mr. A. G. McClellan, of Imperial Life.

Vice-President—Mr. W. R. Widdess, Canada Life.

Secretary—G. C. Roy, Prudential Life.

Treasurer—A. G. Roberts, Metropolitan Life.

Executive Committee—Mr. D. W. Lewis, London Life; Mr. Hughson, Johnstone, Monarch Life; Mr. D. H. Moore, Sun Life; Mr. Thos. Mark, Manufacturers' Life.

A very appropriate speech was given by the retiring president, Mr. R. F. Sedgwick. The newly appointed president, Mr. A. G. McClellan, gave a very encouraging talk, which was well received by those present.

After the business was concluded the meeting was open for general discussion which was entered into by every member, and some very good points were brought up and discussed.

The meeting was closed at 4:45, and all present had a very enjoyable and educative time.

CELEBRATED THEIR 20TH ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their marriage with a high tea at their residence, Holmwood Hall, on Friday, the 17th. The beautiful home was gay with flowers and brilliant with lights. About 50 guests gathered about the hospitable board and all enjoyed the good things provided.

Felicitations were extended to the couple on behalf of the guests by Rev. Mr. Price, to which the host responded in a happy vein.

The numerous and beautiful gifts which were received by Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were much admired. The out of town guests included Mrs. Charles Sfeiss, Port Hope; Mrs. H. W. Christie of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Holmes, Mrs. Stephen A. Schamber and Mrs. A. G. Mortimer, all of Buffalo.

Government May Share Cost of Hunter Street Bridge

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Headed a Local Deputation to Ottawa—Results of the Conference With the Minister of Public Works and Other Departmental Officers.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., interviewed this morning had the following to say:—

"You ask me what took place when I was in Ottawa on Saturday? It was this."

"The Minister of Public Works had finally decided that he had no power to grant a contribution to the Hunter Street Bridge. He was just in the same position as the city would be in regard to a man who proposed to put an awning over his shop. The law had to be complied with and that is all the minister had to do with this bridge. I went in to see Mr. Hunter, the Deputy Minister who was appointed by the old government and knows the complete mystery of everything. He said that there was nothing on the file with regard to the Hunter street bridge up to my letter of 1917 or in other words no reference whatever has been made to the department under the old government or under this government to make a contribution up to the time of the letter referred to. He said however that the department had to enforce the Navigable Waters Protection Act but had no power to consider a contribution.

A Signed Statement

I then went to Mr. Lafleur, the Chief Engineer who very kindly gave me an hour. He confirmed what others said but volunteered the remark that if the waters underneath the bridge had been on the direct route of the canal or affected by the direct route of the canal the Department of Public Works would have no jurisdiction in the Department of Railways and Canals would. I asked him to sign a letter to that effect and having dictated a letter to that effect he gave it to me and I immediately went to the Minister of Railways and Canals. He was somewhat surprised as he considered that he had no jurisdiction over the matter whatever. Even the drawing was done by the Department of Public Works and not his Department. However, I asked him if he would consider the matter and he said that in view of what Mr. Lafleur had said he would have to. I then made an appointment for Mayor Duncan and City Clerk Armstrong on Saturday morning. The minister brought his Chief Engineer for consideration of the question and the result was that the Minister and Chief Engineer were of the opinion that a contribution would be in order to the amount of a swing in the bridge if the C. P. R. placed a siding in their bridge to permit the use of the channel. They required the C.P.R.'s immediate assurance to that effect. It will be remembered that the C.P.R. put in four-fifths of a swing three years ago and it remains for the city to get the required assurance from the C. P. R. which is understood they are now proceeding to do immediately.

Banks Arrange An Amalgamation

Nova Scotia and Ottawa Institutions to Unite Their Interests.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—An agreement, subject to ratification by the shareholders, has been entered into by the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Bank of Ottawa, whereby an amalgamation has been arranged of these two important institutions.

The basis of the amalgamation is that the Bank of Nova Scotia shall exchange four shares of its stock for every five shares held in the Bank of Ottawa.

The Bank of Nova Scotia was incorporated in 1832, and is one of the strongest and most successful banks in this country. It has about 200 branches established in Canada, Newfoundland, West Indies and the United States. The president is Charles Archibald of Halifax; the general manager is H. A. Richardson, of Toronto.

The Bank of Ottawa was established in 1874, and has made steady progress until its assets have reached the large total of about $73,000,000. It has 96 branches, which for the most part are located in Eastern Ontario, chiefly in the Ottawa Valley, where the bank has for many years been the leading institution. The president is Hon. George Bryson, the general manager D. M. Finnie.

Both of the banks have branches in Peterborough.

Both Mr. J. W. Fraser, local manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and Mr. A. F. Knight, manager of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Ottawa, have received no further word than the press announcement.

A striking feature about this union is that although the combined banks have nearly 300 branches, they meet at only eleven places, and these are all at large centres

High Cost of Living Alone.

Chicago News—Peter Finley Dunne said the other day:

"It's folly to say that two can't live as cheap as one; two can live far, far cheaper than one.

"'Did you send your wife to the shore last August?' I asked a married man.

"'No,' he answered. 'I can't afford it. It costs too much.'

"'But,' I said, 'your wife's tastes are simple. Surely she could sojourn at the shore without spending any great amount?'

"'I know that, all right,' said he, 'but August of last year while she was at the shore I spent more than $200 a week.'"

Absent Minded.

Chicago News.—The professor remembered one day that he had a daughter. He went to the nursery to see her and found his wife adoring her. He listened to the mother's raptures for a while, then asked hesitatingly:

"Can the little thing walk?"

"Walk, Herbert!" cried his wife. "Why, she's been walking now for six months—"

"Dear me, dear me!" said the professor, thinking busily of something else. "What a distance she must have travelled."

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG MAN OF MODESTY

Less Known Than Any Other Great Commander.

SOME SIDELIGHTS

Remembered as Man "With Back To Wall of Cambrai."

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Mainly owing to his objection to being in the limelight, less is known of the personality of Field-Marshal Viscount Douglas Haig than of any other great commander. No one has ever been able to paint a portrait of him successfully. He has seldom posed for the photographer, and he would not be generally known, if he walked down Whitehall.

One of his comrades in the dark days of the war has drawn the curtain aside and revealed a little of the man behind it.

"With his back to the wall at Cambrai,' is how the people will always remember Haig," said this comrade.

"With his back to the limelight, is how I shall always think of him."

Well-Balanced Mind

The reason for all this is quite plain. The most striking feature of Viscount Haig is just the even balance of his character. There are no excrescences or picturesque eccentricities about him. He is just a normal Scottish gentleman, with normal, regular features and a normal, regular and precise mind.

No stress of battle has ever been allowed to disturb him from the regular routine of work which he mapped out for himself. In the most anxious days in March last, and before then, during the first battle of Ypres, he took his riding exercise daily. He is never ruffled, never pressed, never anything but entirely equable and composed, however severe the strain may be.

It was in the great retreat from Mons when he gave the first full display of his splendid qualities as a commander. The great fighting in that retreat fell to the lot of Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien, but it is not too much to say that it was on the full experience and judgment of Viscount Haig that the comander-in-chief leaned most of all during the anxieties of that supremely critical time.

At the battle of Lops, it was Field-Marshal Haig who gathered whatever credit was to be won, and when the lessons of that battle made a change in general headquarters desirable, it was he who was appointed to the supreme command.

Success Due to Method

The secret of his success would be described by those about him as the success of method. Before he went to G.H.Q. his map-making organization was the best in all headquarters. He surrounded himself with a staff of experts, and his headquarters were run like a big business house, where men worked all around the clock.

Every morning at 8:30 the commandr-in-chief, would be in his office At midday he would drive back to the chateau, some miles away, where he lived, and lunch simply with his staff, riding very often afterward before the afternoon's work. Every evening again, after dinner was over, he would take up his tasks of the day and work at them till bedtime.

Such was Sir Douglas Haig's daily life except when big fighting was taking place. Then he moved up from Montreuil, where his headquarters normally were, to advance G. H. Q. which was at some convenient place near the centre of action.

When the armies crossed the devastated zone, the problem of finding adequate headquarters was very difficult, but it was solved by Sir Eric Geddes, who constructed the famous headquarters train, in which the Field-Marshal and his whole staff could live and work, and have their telephone lines and signal system as if they were in fixed residence. In this train Viscount Haig livd many months.

Viscount Haig's popularity extends upward from the rank and file to the Generals around him. Shortly after the armistice was concluded, he went into Cambrai for an army commanders' meeting, and all the Generals present stood up and cheered him as he entered the room.

Auction Sale of High-Class Stock

First Annual Auction Sale Under Auspices of Peterboro County Shorthorn Association.

The first Annual Auction Sale under the auspices of the Peterborough County Shorthorn Association is to be held in the Montgomery House Stables, Peterborough, on Thursday, January 30th, commencing at 1 o'clock. Thirty-nine males and eleven females are to go under the hammer wielded by the well-known auctioneer, Geo. Jackson, Port Perry.

This is one of the best lots of Scotch and Scotch-topped Shorthorns offered to the Public in Eastern Ontario. The best breeders of the district have contributed their quota and the executive have endeavored to place nothing in the Sale that will not leave its impression on the live stock of the Country. Among the offering are a number of young bulls which are good enough to use in the best herds; both as regards quality and breeding. Any person anticipating the purchase of high-class stock of this breed should not fail to attend this Sale as his requirements can be filled here better than away from home.

Remember the date, and if interested, apply for catalogue to F. C. McRae, Secretary, Norwood, Ont.

Tested for More Than 11 Years

The "Phonola" is far beyond the experimental stage. It has been on the Canadian market for more than eleven years—each year growing more popular. In fact, this company is the pioneer in the cabinet phonograph industry in Canada. Two completely equipped factories are now required to make enough "Phonolas" to supply the insistent demand.

"Phonola" REGISTERED

The beauty of the "Phonola" cabinets is remarked by everyone who sees them. The mahogany and oak is of the finest quality and the workmanship and finish are a credit to the cabinet-maker's art.

The "Phonola" motors are smooth-running and quiet-working. The turn-table is carefully made so that it is absolutely level.

The Goose Neck Tone Arm is seamless and tapered, and, with our "Phonola" sound box, gives a true, clear, full-toned reproduction of the human voice, the violin, the band and all kinds of records.

Making the "Phonola" in Canada, we save you duty and other expenses, and make it possible for you to get a "Phonola" for less money—$10 to $25 less than other high-grade phonographs.

"Phonola" models from $25 to $310. All makes of disc records can be played.

If your dealer cannot show you the "Phonola" line, write us.

DEALERS.—There are some localities in Canada where we require good, live representation. The "Phonola" agency is getting more valuable every day. Write for our proposition.

You'll Like the "Phonola" Discs

They are played with the sapphire point, with which the "Phonola" is always equipped. No needles to change. Leading singers, instrumentalists and bands make "Phonola" records. ## SAYS WE PAID WOOL SUBSIDIES

That Colonies Paid More for Cloth Than Did the People in Great Britain.

Frank L. Jenne was in Montreal last week to consult with the trade, and to study future conditions in the wool market and the men's wear trade. He found the general complaint among manufacturers was that there was too much paternalism and autocracy in the government war measures for peace time conditions. There had been little relief given since the armistice and the discussion of peace terms, and until such time as there was a return to complete freedom of trade there could be no relief from high prices. This was the concensus of opinion as gathered by Mr. Jenne.

"Wherever there had been government interference, as in the case of the complete control of the wool crop by the British government, prices had jumped beyond all reason.

"There was one serious development which will not redound to the credit of the British government. While we were in the midst of the struggle, Canada and the Colonies were too loyal to even utter a protest. The British War Board, in full control of the wool supply of the world, sold wool at a lower price for home consumption than for export trade. In other words, they collected a direct subsidy contribution from the colonies whilst those colonies were loyally straining every effort to help the Mother Country in a life and death struggle.

"That was unfair—very unfair.

"In some quarters in Canada," continued Mr. Jenne, "there is a tendency to seek relief from high prices by tariff reform. This would only accentuate the difficulty and would bring about chaos and confusion. Reconstruction can best come about by a gradual evolution. A return to former peace conditions will be an evolution and will be gradual.

"This war has opened up new channels of trade, and we are closer to the world's markets than ever before. Any effort to revise our protective tariff downward would only be from a superficial and thoughtless mind.

"I know hat spring wholesale prices are higher than ever before, and yet it is my intention to anticipate the benefits of peace in some way. Just as I said a year ago. 'Peace must come some time,' so do I now, believe that 'High Prices must decline some time,' and I am going to do what I can to make that read. 'Some time soon.'" concluded Mr. Jenne.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.

Mr. George T. Pinches spoke to a full hall last night on the question "Is God Silent," proving from many passages of scripture the fact that God is interested and has a voice in the affairs of nations and individuals. He has spoken in His Son Jesus Christ and man has turned a deaf ear to the distinct word of God, with present results. The theme will be continued to-night in a short address. Everyone welcome.

Mr. Pinches is a forceful speaker and most effective in presenting the truth. Not a dull minute from start to finish. A short song service led by Mr. Pinches will be a feature of each meeting.

On Friday night at seven o'clock Mr. Pinches will give a lantern talk to young people. Every boy and girl invited free

The HOME CIRCLE COLVMN

JUST A MATTER OF MANNER.

It was during the busiest hour for the street cars—and for street car patrons. It was after the working day was ended and hundreds of people wanted to get home, says an exchange.

One street car was fairly well filled. People were standing and holding the straps.

"Move on up there!" said the conductor. His voice was harsh and his words were given more like an order than as a suggestion or a request. The people in the aisle did not budge. Nobody moved up toward the front.

"Get on up there!" again ordered the conductor. But again nobody moved toward the front of the car to make room for people who wanted to get home on the car just as much as did the ones who happened to be on.

But there was another car, on another line. People were standing in the aisle of this car also and some were holding to the straps.

"Please move up a little in front," said the conductor. "There are some women who want to get in. Thanks." He spoke like a human being. His last meal must have agreed with him. There was no pickle expression with his words.

And the people moved up in front. They made room for a number of folks who wanted to get home. And the people in the car were beginning to act a little happy and jolly despite the inconveniences of travel which accompany a snowed-in winter.

All of which goes to show that the matter of manner has something to it. A grouch expresses himself when he talks. And a happy, good-natured man also expresses himself when he talks. Folks were made that way. They cannot help it. It is the same with telephone operators, elevator men in the office buildings, drug clerks, cigar clerks, employes of the big stores, school teachers, lawyers and all others. The man who entertains a grouch will express his grouch when he opens his mouth—and the people will usually not do more than they have to do to help him out. And the man whose insides are humming with joy and whose good disposition supply is so large that it just seems to bubble over—well, his disposition is just as catching as a yawn.

But this isn't aimed at street car conductors. They are in the minority. It is aimed at the whole common people set. The young woman can go about the kitchen work after breakfast in such a way as to make mother happy; or she can start in such a manner as to generate a grouch in the whole household, a grouch which will last during most of the remainder of the day. And if dad decided to muss things up at the house before he goes by informing ma that the pancakes would make good shoe leather, he will not only make ma unhappy for the day but he will discover that he himself is unable to work up to his usual capacity or live up to his real capacity.

No boy goes out from the Home Circle without a sense of loss. For a time, at least, the motherly presence is sadly missed, the sisterly affection warmly cherished. Then if the mother's letters reach him often, filled with all that a mother most eloquently expresses, love, hopefulness and prayer, he is still surrounded by a holy influence.

Food Board Flashes

In this country we are apt to be finicky about new foods. Instead of giving them a trial we regard them with suspicion. Families get into food ruts and insist on having only such varieties of food as they are used to, although equally valuable fare may be available at lower prices. An instance of this is the neglect of the cheaper cuts of meats. Women buy round and tenderloin steaks and consistently boycott the cheaper cuts although they are quite as palatable and lower in price. Again, they buy halibut and salmon in preference to cod and haddock although the latter cost about half as much and are just as good.

We need to get over our food prejudices. We need to learn how to cook all kinds of staple foods and to serve them in a variety of ways. Simple dishes well prepared are better than expensive foods badly cooked.

Farm Machinery is Urgently Needed If France is to Make Occupied Regions Productive

Government is Doing Everything Possible to Restore People to Land but Horses and Oxen and Agricultural Implements Are Not to be Had.

The fifth of a series of articles on French devastation explains what is being done to enable the land holder to re-establish himself after having suffered from German barbarity and describes the difficulties facing the farmers in the provinces of the Marne Meuse and Meurthe at Moselle. There has been some prmanent reconstruction by private contractors working under the direction of local engineers, some public works and a number of farm buildings in the region of Meaux and Chateau-Thierry have been built and repairs have been made to several towns and villages near the front.

In twelve or fifteen farming villages south of Chalons-sur Marne and around Witny-le-Francois the government has organized co-operative societies for reconstruction. In each case they have received the maximum advance on the eventual indemnity for their losses which allowed them to rebuild one-quarter of their necessary buildings. The technical service of reconstruction has placed orders with private contractors thruout France for about 25,000 demountable wooden houses with two rooms and a shed, costing from $700 to $1,000 each and for 10,000 demountable wooden farm buildings to cost $150 to $800.

With regard to furniture, an indemnity law is about to be voted which provides for the paying of damages for furniture loss up to $2,000 under a decree issued by the Minister of Liberated Regions, November 2, 1918, which allows an individual who suffered loss of furniture to buy his own furniture with an advance which will be made to him by the state of a sum not to exceed $200 for the head of the family and $400 for each member.

The government office of Agricultural Reconstruction has done all it could to prepare for ploughing and planting It would like to allow many thousands of land proprietors to return to their farms with their families where this is necessary, but unfortunately it is almost impossible to provide for ploughing and cultivation of this land as there are few horses or oxen available. Twelve thousand horses have been taken every month for the American or French armies, and even where the horses are available, they cost to-day about $1,000 each. But what is worse, if horses and cattle are taken into the devastated regions it is almost impossible to feed them, for the army needs all forage that can be brought into the regions.

To replace horses the government has ordered tractors and several types of agricultural machines, but deliveries are slow and not adequate to the demands. The result is that while France needs all the crops that can be raised on the liberated farms, it seems impossible to get the crops started and taken care of until the military situation permits a change in conditions. The immediate need is for large quantities of agricultural machinery and implements and especially for horses and carts.

Ready For a Back Somersault Cabinet is Ready to Please

Violation of Output of Order-in-Council Machine Matters Little—Government May Feel It is More or Less to Blame For Present Conditions in the Country.

OTTAWA.—When Arthur Roebuck et. al. departed from Toronto a few nights ago they were calmly confident that Cheesman and Watson, sentenced to terms of inuprisonment for having seditious literature in their possession, would never serve their sentences. The delegation found the Cabinet a trifle deficient in leaders, butwith plenty present to be thoroughly complaisant. Premier Borden might be in France, Acting Premier White in Toronto, Hon. C. J. Doherty somewhere in Europe or Ireland, and Acting Minister of Justice Meighen on his way to the great west, but reports here have it there were still enough statesmen in our midst to assure the distinguished visitors that their wishes would be met.

It mattered not that Watson and Cheesman had violated one of the most sacred works of the order-in-Council machine, and that they had been duly convicted before a regularly constituted court. A small coterie of our scattered Cabinet swallowed itself and its absent colleagues and encouraged the growing suspicion that a formal protest, backed by the shadow of a strike, would bring about any and all things save and except the resignation of the Union Government.

"We Aim to Please."

That Government somehow reminds one of the crew of a sinking ship, ready to jettison the entire cargo to save itself. Hons. Rowell, Richardson and Crerar were the reception committee, and the smiles on the faces of Roebuck et al. were abundant evidence that the motto "We aim to please" is now the motto on the doormat of the council chamber.

It matters not if some slight encouragement is given to the Bolsheviki movement by the warmth of the reception. Surely a body that turned out orders-in-Council by the hundreds has a right to violate an occasional one of them. If law is ridiculed and constituted authority becomes a laughing stock because of the violation, why so much the worse for both of them. Either or both should learn not to get in the way of statesmen.

May be to Blame.

Moreover the Government may feel that it is more or less to blame for any unrest that may have crept into the country, and may hesitate to let others bear the punishment that inevitably follows sin. It may be human to that etxent. Possibly, but not probably. It may realize that things done and left undone are the cause of most of the discontent in all this wicked world. It may be ready to admit: (1) That lack of a definite statement in regard to tariff changes is retarding reconstruction by tying up industry. (2) That making repatriation, the greatest problem now before the country, the adjunct of a dry goods store does not breed that confidence that makes for perfect happiness. (3) That placing the Pensions Board under the chairmanship of a man whose other great work is getting together the finest string of race horses in America, does not bring balm to the wounds of the returned soldier who is trying to keep a family on $5 or $10 a month. (4) That newspaper advertisements are simply dressed windows with the back curtains pulled down to hide the emptiness of the store behind. (5) That $300 a month jobs given to the men who won the war in Canada, do not go far towards rewarding the men who fought for freedom in France. (6) That while the bringing home of troops in discomfort may be the fault of some one overseas, Sir Robert Borden is also overseas—that perchance he might have knocked off annexing Greenland for long enough to put in a word for the men who prevented the Hun from annexing Canada. (7) That the average man is much more interested in Canada than the map of Europe, and that matters affecting his own welfare are much more important to him than the great game of international politics of which their absent Premier, may or may not prove a brilliant exponent.

Afraid of Own Shadow.

Possibly, but not probably, as said before, the homing members of the Union Cabinet, may have realized those things, but around this political corner there is a rude suspicion that the remnant of the Union Cabinet is afraid of its own shadow, and will do a neat back somersault at the first sign of danger in its pathway. So the crowd turns from them to wonder that Sir George Foster has been chosen as Sir Robert Borden's first colleague at the Peace Board. It had been thought that that honour would go to Hon. Arthur Sifton.

As Excess Baggage.

It is a common report that Sir George was taken to Europe as excess baggage. There is a belief that before the party left Ottawa Sir Robert took the aged orator into a back room and pried his resignation out of him with a jimmy. That was about the time that the Premier had his fifty-fifty programme in hand. Carvell and Ballantyne are given the credit of having blocked the admission of Morphy, of Perth, into the cabinet. Sifton, or something else, disarranged the entire layout, and Mr. Morphy is said to be carrying an axe under his coat for fighting Frank. Anyway, Sir George was told that his time had arrived or was fast arriving. To soothe his vanity, or stop his tongue, he was taken overseas. But no one ever suspected that Sir Robert would wander so far from his fifty-fifty ideas as to put two Tories forward as the first of the peace makers. But that is what happened, and the only explanation so far put forward is that Hon. Arthur may be looking for something more exciting than attending a mass meeting at which he would have to play but a very insignificant part.—Telegram.

Yes, Madam, your favorite sugar, as much as you want.

One of the most satisfactory material pleasures of Peace is that we may again have plenty of

Lantic Sugar
"The Seal of Purity"

Under war conditions we were unable to supply anywhere near the demand for Canada's favorite sugar. Few ships were available for bringing raw sugar from the tropics and a large part of the product of our refinery was needed for our soldiers overseas.

Happily, Peace has changed the whole sugar situation. Unless unforseen circumstances should arise the Lantic Red Ball will again brighten the shelves of stores throughout the country and housewives may have as much as they need of the famous Lantic "FINE" granulated, the perfect sugar for baking and the table; also there will be plenty of the Lantic delicious Old-fashioned Brown Sugars for the many dishes in which flavor is indispensable to success.

YOU may again buy Lantic Sugar in the larger original packages, the 10, 20 and 100-lb. sacks, as well as in the 2 and 5-lb. cartons. The accurate weight and perfect protection of the contents of Lantic packages make them the most economical way of buying sugar.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Plans a Surprise For Brian

CHAPTER XCII

That night Mollie and Brian talked of little else than the war. She was as enthusiastic as was he, and expressed the same desire—to be in the thick of things.

"Just think, Brian, of what is going on over there, and we sit here in the old hum-drum way, doing the things we have done all our lives and doing them in the same way we have done them. No wonder we are uninteresting. We have gone to sleep. It will take a great, big jar of some kind, like they are getting in Europe, to make us know what is in us. I'd volunteer to go and dig trenches or scrub hospitals if we were in that muss. It must be glorious to fight when you feel you are fighting for a principle."

"That's just the way I feel," Brian answered, looking with admiration at Mollie's shining eyes, and thinking how very pretty she was. "The trouble with your going, Mollie, would be that all the Tommies would fall in love with you, and that would spoil them for fighting: they'd be afraid they'd get hurt and someone else would get you."

"Nonsense don't be a silly," Mollie replied, but Brian's compliment had changed their attitude, and they laughed and chatted as usual, the war and all the glory they might have, if engaged in it, forgotten in their delight in each other's society.

But when Brian returned home and as usual read a little before going to bed, he felt remorseful. He had found a wire from Ruth awaiting him, in which she said she had received his letter, that she had feared he was ill because he had not written sooner, and sent him her love.

"If she'd send herself home and then stay here where she belongs, it would be better for us both," he grumbled, his guilty feeling—because he had spent the entire evening again with Mollie—making him want to throw the blame on someone—so on Ruth.

Brian had fully intended to caution Mollie not to telephone him again at the house. But he had forgotten all about it. They were having too good a time together. But now it once more occurred to him. He was annoyed that he had forgotten to tell her. She might cause him trouble if she should telephone when he was out.

He sat down at Ruth's desk and wrote Mollie a little note:

"Don't call me at the house again, dear. Rachel might not understand, and tell of it, and so make me trouble." Then he went out and mailed it.

He had written "me" then erased it and substituted "us." Could he have seen Mollie's pitying smile when she read it (she had noticed the erasure immediately), and heard her murmured "poor Brian, he's afraid of saying his soul is his own," he would have been astounded at her shrewdness. That note confirmed Mollie's idea that Ruth was a disagreeable nagging sort of woman, and that she made Brian's home life always unbearable.

"There, that's fixed!" Brian said as he returned after posting the letter. "I wouldn't have Mollie hurt Ruth's feelings for the world."

Ruth returned sooner than she had expected. Her work had gone splendidly, and she was in high good humor. She had notified Mr. Mandel that she was coming; but would surprise Brian. Her train got in just about dinner time. She would reach home as he was about to sit down. She smiled as she thought how pleased and surprised he would be. He had written her again, a long chatty letter which had taken all worry from her, and so had enabled her to put her mind on her work. Really it had been the comfort that letter brought her that had spurred her on to finish her work in record time, working late at night instead of resting.

She jumped lightly from the train, and hurried into a taxi. She had not looked about as she expected no one to meet her. Had she, she might have seen Arthur Mandel watching to see if Brian met her, and putting his own construction on the fact that he did not.

Of course he had no way of knowing that Ruth was planning a surprise. He never doubted that, having sent him word, she also had wired her husband. He smiled enigmatically as he turned away. But is was a happy, satisfied smile, that to one knowing him told that he was immensely pleased with something.

When Ruth reached home she could hardly wait for the elevator so anxious was she to see Brian. He would be so pleased and surprised. She opened the door very quietly with her latch key. She could look through into the dining room, and there was no light there. Just a thin streak of white under the door that lead to the kitchen, was the only sign that there was anyone at home.

"Rachel," she called, going toward the door, throwing on the lights as she passed the switch, "Where's Mr. Brian?"

"Not coming home, missy Ruth. He tole me this mawin. Ole Rachel is sholy glad to see you honey! dat place am dat lonesome when you is away."

To-morrow—Ruth Finds Brian's Message to Mollie.

A flirt is a female who expects you to believe that she is indifferent about getting married.

Children who have measles are bound to be rash.

The one absolutely certain thing in life is its uncertainty.

When it comes to debt, most men are glad they are not in it.

For the Noble Dead.

"Their name liveth for evermore." This is the phrase that will be engraved upon the great memorial stone which is to be erected in each of the cemeteries of British soldiers who have fallen in the war. It is the suggestion of Rudyard Kipling, who, in submitting the phrase to the Imperial War Graves Commission, wrote, "It was necessary to find a word of praise and honor which should be both simple and well known, comprehensible, and of the same value in all tongues, and also standing as far as might be outside the flux of men and things.

"After search and consultation with all ranks, and many races in our armies and navies, as well as with those who had given their sons, it seemed to me that no single phrase could be better than that which closes the tribute to the famous men in Ecclesiastes, 'Their name liveth for evermore'."

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

OBEYED FATAL ORDER.

Tragedy of the Camperdown Has Been Recalled.

A few lines in Canadian newspapers a while ago chronicled the death in England of a man who played a prominent, though unwilling and irresponsible, part in one of the greatest disasters that has ever occurred in the British navy. The London papers devoted considerable space to the career of Admiral Sir Albert Hastings Markham, who was in command of the battleship Camperdown when she rammed and sank the flagship Victoria with 336 men and 23 officers, including Vice-Admiral Sir George Tryon, the commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean fleet, June 22, 1893.

The fleet was at manoeuvres off Tripoli, on the coast of Syria, when Admiral Tryon gave an order that was impossible of execution without bringing the two ships together. Admiral Markham realized the danger and hesitated to obey, believing the mistake would be recognized by his superior and corrected. Instead Admiral Tryon signaled sharply to inquire what the commander of the Camperdown was waiting for. The order was carried out and the collision followed. Both ships were badly damaged, the Victoria rolling over and sinking in a few minutes. The Camperdown managed to reach port.

Admiral Tryon assumed all blame for the disaster and almost his last words as his ship went down were in exoneration of Admiral Markham. One of the findings of the court-martial that inquired into the affair was regret that Admiral Markham did not adhere to his first indignation and call his superior's attention to the apparent error; at the same time the court said it realized that in the interest of naval discipline he could not well have done otherwise than he did. It absolved him of all blame.

Admiral Markham, who was born 76 years ago, the son of a naval officer, entered the service in 1856. His career from that time to his retirement in 1906 was an active one and filled with adventure. He took part in the British and French campaign that captured Pekin and burned the Summer Palace. A few years later he aided in quelling the Fenian rebellion that brought fame to Gen. "Chinese" Gordon.

Then followed cruises in the South Seas in which hostile natives were taught to respect the white man's rule, desperate battles were fought with the Chinese pirates that infested that section of the Pacific and the foundation was laid for Britain's vast trade interests in the Orient. In 1875-76 he commanded an Arctic exploring expedition that, with one insignificant exception, pushed farther north than any other expedition till that of Nansen.

The admiral was a man of culture and of varied interests. He wrote a number of books dealing with his explorations and adventures and was a frequent contributor to magazines. He was intensely interested in everything pertaining to the Empire and followed the events of the great war closely almost to the day of his death.

Gas Warfare Among Savages.

As is well known, the Germans were anticipated by some savage tribes in the use of poisonous gas for war purposes. Nature quotes authorities to show that tribes like the Tupinambs and Guaranis of the Brazil littoral and on the Rio Parana used poisonous gases in attacking fortified villages. Men went in front of the attacking party, each holding a pan with embers in the other. When the wind was against the Spaniards they sprinkled the pepper on the embers. This was also done in attacks on the Spaniards in Venezuela. In the same way pepper was largely used in exorcising demons and evil spirits. The use of this pepper, known as Aji, would soon be discovered by these Indians, who cultivated the plant extensively. It was only necessary for some one to upset a basin of Aji into the fire and a hut would soon be cleared of its occupants. The use of the smoke in warfare would be a natural development.

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets and suffocations seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGaughey, North Battleford, Sask., writes:—"I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies, but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Getting Even.

The crack player of the police cricket team was batting. Along came a slow ball which the sturdy batsman punished severely, and ran accordingly. He got home comfortably before his wicket was knocked down, but was declared out. "Why," exclaimed the indignant limb of the law, "I was a yard past the wicket." "Maybe," said the umpire, "but it ain't what you say, it's what I say; and I say you're out." "But—," began the irate P. C. "Now, do you remember," interrupted the umpire, "saying to me about a month ago, 'Don't argue with the law'? Well, you was the law then, and I was run in. Now," he added triumphantly, "I'm the law, and you're run out."

A Compliment.

When Mrs. Langtry was at the summit of her beauty and fame, she met at a dinner an African king who was visiting London. She, did her best to please the dusky monarch and evidently succeeded, for he said to her as they parted: "Ah, madam, if heaven had only made you black and fat you would be irresistible."

Exclusive.

"I'm told that your next-door neighbor is very exclusive."

"Exclusive! Why, that woman wouldn't want to be happy if everybody else was."

To those who are really particular about the Coffee they drink, there is one brand that always pleases particularly well because it is particularly good—Chase & Sanborn's "SEAL BRAND" COFFEE.

In ½, 1 and 2 pound tins. Whole—Ground—Pulverized—also fine ground for Percolators. Never sold in bulk.

FOLKS TOO FORMAL

Drummer Rails at Prevailing Rules of Etiquette.

Sees Ideal Condition of Affairs Where Everybody Knows Everybody Else by His First Name—Asks, Why Be Strangers?

"It's a cold, formal world we live in," remarked the drummer, as he inspected the souvenir postals on the rack, "and something should be done about it.

"I must have somebody to talk to, somebody to listen to me especially. And sometimes that one is hard to find. I cannot, according to the rules of etiquette as now interpreted, walk up to the first man I meet and engage him in an engrossing conversation. I am expected to pass him up until some friend of his or mine performs the ceremony of 'Mr. Jones, meet Mr. Jinks.'

"I won't stand on it or for it. If there is no one around to introduce me I'll do the job myself. When you know how, it becomes a very easy matter. And, you will find, the other person is usually as glad to meet you as you are to meet him. So why be strangers?

"After all, this country is a very small place. Just a little over a hundred million of us. If we were a congenial race everybody should know everybody else by his first name. Is there anything sadder than the heart of a New Yorker or a Chicagoan walking down the streets of Los Angeles and knowing nobody?

"And a man who knows all the cobblestones on Market street in 'Frisco can die of loneliness on Broadway, for all his fellow man cares. The man who comes from the country, the tall grass, the big woods, is not so formal as his city brother. I was on a street car the other day and one of the other passengers was a soil tiller. When he got to his corner he turned around and said: 'Wal, good-by, everybody.'

"Did it take? My friends, everybody in that car put on a broad smile. The sunny intimacy of the old man warmed the cockles in every heart. A woman sitting next to me, who had looked as cold and distant as the top of Pike's peak from Denver, turned to me and said: 'Isn't he a dear old soul?'

"A perfectly strange man across the aisle came over and asked me for the time by my watch. I am positive that if that neighborly rube hadn't broken the ice that strange man would never have felt free enough to make his request. If he had asked for the loan of a five I would have passed it to him on the spot. I felt so in love with the world.

"When I left the car at my hotel corner I was myself impelled to bid those other people a fond adieu. They would have been put in a more cheerful frame of mind, and if perchance I ever met one of them again in some distant land they would have accepted me as an old friend. And that's one thing my system requires. I must have some one to talk to, some one to listen to me."

"If you were married your problem would be solved," said the girl at the cigar stand.

"It would not," replied the drummer sadly. "I'm on the road all the time and don't make enough to carry a wife with me."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Timely Friend

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

With bated breath and wildly throbbing heart Eloise Dunbar crouched beside the high garden wall. The rain had begun to fall and the wind was strong and chill. The flashing of lights and the echo of quick, sharp voices about the rambling disordered garden and the gloomy towering mansion terrified her. Through infinite pains she had escaped from the house. Apparently she had been missed and they were searching for her.

They! Eloise shuddered as she thought of her guardians, her gaolers, her enemies, for such she considered them. She was as a helpless lamb in the lair of human wolves. Eloise glided towards the wall and essayed to scale it. Her delicate hands were bruised and scratched as, breathless, she twined her fingers around a metal prong. The outside of the wall had a smooth surface. It was a sheer drop.

"Oh, dear!" uttered Eloise in dismay, as she let go and landed in a heap. Her arm, wrenched cruelly, throbbed with pain. She feared she was about to faint. Eloise struggled to her feet and gazed about wildly.

"Which way. How soon will they come?" she fluttered, and then blindly staggered ahead in the mist and darkness. She came in contact with a human form. That of a man was outlined. Eloise voiced a feeble cry of alarm. Straining her vision, she made out an automobile with dimmed lights. Apparently its owner, the young man before her caught her arm gently but firmly as she wavered from side to side.

"What is it, young lady?" he interrogated reassuringly.

"Oh, get me away from here!" pleaded Eloise. "I have hurt my arm—I am growing faint."

Without delay the young man gathered her up in his arms, carried her bodily to the auto and lifted her into the rear seat.

"Where would you go? You are injured. I saw you fall. Shall it be a doctor?"

"Oh, no!" dissented Eloise instantly. "Get me away from here, from the village, from my enemies!"

Her timely friend seemed to comprehend the situation. He started up the machine and circled into a public highway, and as it cleared the limits of the village he slowed down somewhat.

"If you are seriously injured and suffering," he spoke, "you should have medical attention at once."

"Oh, it is nothing—the hurt," declared Eloise. "All I wish is to put distance between myself and those who have persecuted me and those who will surely pursue me. You are a timely friend, indeed! How shall I ever thank you? But I have money, considerable jewelry with me. I can pay you handsomely, and oh, so gladly!"

"Don't think of that," said the man. "I am at your service, if as you tell me you are in dread of enemies. Shall it be Worden? That is twenty miles distant and quite a city. There, if to reach a secluded refuge is your aim, safety may be gained."

"Yes, yes," assented Eloise eagerly. "I know of a little hotel there, mostly occupied by working girls and ladies who are strangers in the city. Shall I take you there?"

"If you will. I am truly grateful," and then amid a reaction of weariness and collapse Eloise sank back among the cushions and closed her eyes.

"This is the hotel I spoke of," the voice of her accommodating chauffeur aroused her at last.

"I know what you wish to say," he observed. "It cannot be a question of pay for my services and you need advice. May I call upon you in the morning?"

It seemed unreal, like some flitting dream, all this to Eloise. She was shown to a comfortable apartment. She was summoned to the reception room of the hotel about the middle of the morning, to find her helper of the evening previous awaiting her. In an embarrassed way she explained her situation.

Her father had died, appointed Joel Traffon her guardian. He had left a will providing that if she married before she was twenty-one all her fortune should go to an educational institution. She might, however, marry Elliott Weston, the son of an old friend. So, apparently, this distant individual had been advised, but he had never put in an appearance. Then Traffon had treated her as a prisoner, endeavoring to force her to wed his nephew.

"There is only one way out of the dilemma," she told her new friend. "After what I have suffered I care nothing for the fortune. I shall marry, just so that I may defy my enemies. Once I violate the will, their power is gone. I will not be treated like a slave! I will not be parceled off to this Elliott Weston like a chattel. Help me carry out my design—you, who have been kinder than a brother."

He did not amaze her when, a week later, he came to her and told her that he loved her and asked her to accept him as her husband. She was glad, for his earnest, sincere ways had attracted her from the first. And now, at the last, as he gave his real name to the officiating clergyman at the quiet marriage ceremony, the crowning surprise of the situation came for Eloise, for it was—Elliott Weston!

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most all druggists under a guarantee of entire satisfaction or your money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the ealth. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh

One Employment Agency for All Canada

THE Dominion and Provincial Governments are co-operating to distribute employment quickly and fairly. Employment Offices are being set up throughout Canada—a single, complete chain from East to West.

In all, some 60 Employment Offices are being established. They will be located in all centres of 10,000 people and over and wherever the need for them exists. One-third are already in operation.

Through these Government Employment Offices, all persons in need of employment, both male and female, will secure such positions as are available.

Through this same source an employer's particular needs will be promptly filled.

Indeed, the service rendered by these Government Employment Offices will be such as to warrant the heartiest co-operation and support on the part of employers of labor.

They will endeavor to supply only such help as an employer can confidently take on—the right man for the right position.

Thus, to the small employer of labor, they will take the place of the Employment manager. To the large employer of labor they will be of appreciable assistance.

The service of the Employment Offices will be given both to employers and to those who seek employment entirely without charge.

How They Work.

A superintendent is in charge of each local Employment Office.

Inside the office he has interviewers, to confer with those seeking employment and to direct them to positions. In the larger cities he also has canvassers or salesmen to call on the employers and show them the value of the services rendered by the Employment Office.

In this way the work-seeker and the work-giver are quickly brought together.

Every effort is made to secure up-to-date, business-like offices, conveniently located.

For the Soldier.

The same Employment Offices are used to provide positions for returned soldiers as well as for every other person in need of employment.

In each employment office there is a representative of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment—a man who has served overseas. He introduces the returned soldier to the regular officials and gives him every assistance, both as to employment and other matters.

The Organization.

The local offices in each province are linked together by a provincial clearing house in the capital city.

They are directly supervised by a general superintendent who receives daily wired reports from each office. These reports state how many have sought work, how many have been placed in positions, how many and what classes need work, how many positions vacant. The general superintendent has each day a complete picture of the employment situation in the province under his care.

With the same idea in view, the Dominion Government has three national clearing houses—established at Halifax, Ottawa, and Winnipeg. Those who plan to move from one locality to another can thus go "with their eyes open," because these clearing-houses show from their daily reports just what the employment prospects are—everywhere.

National Advantages.

With the completion of this single chain of Employment Offices the Government will be exactly informed on employment conditions.

Expert field agents will call on the lumbering, mining, shipbuilding and other industries to secure information as to anticipated requirements for labor.

Weekly reports sent in by trade unions provide additional information.

Finally, every concern with 25 or more employees will mail each week a post-card showing (a) the pay-roll of the previous week; (b) changes in staff and the nature of the occupations.

Advisory Councils.

Each local superintendent in the larger cities will be assisted by an advisory body composed of employers and employees.

Each province will have a similar advisory body.

There will also be a Dominion body—the Employment Service Council of Canada—to co-operate with the Department of Labor. This council will be composed of representatives from all those classes interested.

In addition to the above, the Government is co-operating with those who provide employment—so that as far as possible every willing worker will have work to do.

Get Ely's Cream Balm and get rid of your cold or catarrh in a hurry. It's just splendid.

Soldiers Home Coming Campaign

The Emergency Call

Many organizations are willing to assist a deserving case. The Salvation Army is ready to assist in any emergency. That is why the Salvation Army's need for funds at this time must meet with whole-hearted response.

With the repatriation of 300,000 soldiers, notwithstanding all that the Government is planning to do to meet the needs of the men, countless problems will arise, problems of human need, problems that must be met and coped with AT ONCE. They are not things that can wait.

That is why the Salvation Army Emergency Homes are centres of such steady activity. When an emergency arises in the home of a soldier who has done his bit, there must be prompt response, however difficult the individual problem. Here are a few typical cases:

Husband, a discharged soldier, goes to another town to work. Fails to send money home. Salvation Army finds family helpless with hunger and cold. No coal in house. Family all removed to Emergency Home, where in tiny, two-room suite, sufficiently furnished and warm, they can exist in something approaching comfort until the breadwinner can help them.

In an adjoining suite may be a mother and children on the way to rejoin father in another city. A missed train connection or any one of a hundred mishaps leaves them stranded for the night.

A room in a Salvation Army Emergency Home is seldom vacant for more than a few hours at a time, and with the crisis arising from the difficulty of re-establishing so many soldiers into civilian life, there must be no cessation in the work for lack of funds.

Salvation Army Million Dollar Fund
THIS WEEK

And the Emergency Home work is just one small part of the work for which the fund is needed. The Salvation Army must provide comforts for the boys over there awaiting transportation home. The Salvation Army Hostels from France to Vancouver must be ready at all times to receive and entertain returned men. The soldier must be helped back to civil life; he needs a job; perhaps he returns to find his wife sick, and a friendly hand needed in the home now and then. The Salvation Army visitors find ample opportunities for service, and they are instrumental in holding many a home together.

The soldier's child has the right to be well born, and there will be many an ex-soldier heartily glad that his wife can benefit by the attention of doctors and trained nurses at the Salvation Army Maternity Home.

Many of the boys will return to happy homes, homes well provided for. Difficult as it may be for even these men to accustom themselves to the old ways of living, their problem is simplicity itself compared with that of the soldiers and their families that the Salvation Army will be called upon to help.

And this help MUST be forthcoming. Our returned men must not be left to drift. It is the personal problem of the nation to-day, and every thinking man and woman is thoroughly grateful that there is an organization equipped to meet the crisis—an organization trained for this very work—an organization whose work is founded on sacrificial service—whose every ministration is prompted by such a love as that of the Good Samaritan.

Let your offering on behalf of the Homecoming Soldier be a measure of your sense of obligation to those who died for you on the battlefield.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive."

WINTER DAIRY HINTS

Cleanliness and Succulent and Concentrated Feed Essential.

Grass Is the Natural Feed of Cattle—Make Winter Feed as Much Like It as Possible—A Ration for Laying Hens Which Has Brought Results at the O. A. College.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE whole question of winter care of dairy cattle may be summed up in one word—comfort. In order to obtain this, the cattle require a comfortable, clean, well-ventilated, well-lighted stable. The stalls, where animals are tied, should be of proper width and length to accommodate them without discomfort; and also be so constructed as to keep them clean without too much labor on the part of the person in charge. Plenty of bedding is needed, and an absorbent such as cut straw, shavings or sawdust, to take up the liquids which cause so much dirt and discomfort to both animals and attendants. A cement gutter behind the animals having the required amount of absorbing material placed in it daily after cleaning the stable, is the best plan of keeping stable and cattle clean. If there be some shavings sawdust or fine straw scattered along the passage behind the cows, it assists in cleanliness and lessens labor.

Feeding.

The natural feed of cows is grass. The feeder of cows never goes far astray if the winter ration is made, so far as possible, similar to that of grass. This is got by using silage and roots, mixed with the dry, bulky fodders, like straw and clover hay. The mixing may be done by the feeder, if he has time to do so; or, it may be done by the cow before and after eating. The cow carries a wonderful mixing apparatus in her stomach, and so far as this part of feeding is concerned, she can do the necessary work of mixing feeds. Mixing before feed is given to the cow, often adds to its palatability and hence usually pays.

In addition to the succulent and dry bulky feeds mentioned, a cow giving milk requires a certain amount of concentrated feed in the form of meals, such a ground oats, oats and barley, wheat bran, oil-cake, or cottonseed meal. Standard Dairy Feed fills the bill excellently in this regard.

Watering Cows.

Next in importance to feed, comes water for milking cows. When cows are producing large quantities of milk they must have large quantities of water. This may be supplied in the stable, or in a trough outside. In fine weather, animals are better for being a short time outside in the fresh air daily, and they can be conveniently watered at that time. In very cold or stormy weather, they should be watered inside.

Comfort, cleanliness, succulent feed, along with a reasonable amount of concentrates, and plenty of water and fresh, pure air, are the main things required by animals giving milk in winter.—Prof. H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

Feeding Laying Hens in Winter.

In order to lay well a hen requires a surplus of food above body maintenance. That is a hen must be in good flesh, not thin. A good laying hen is seldom very fat. The yolk of an egg contains considerable fat. The white is mostly muscle forming food and the shell largely lime. There must be a supply of these over and above what is required to daily maintain the body.

In summer a hen eats tender grass or green shoots, some whole grain, generally some ground grains, usually worms or insects, picks up some gravel or old plaster, and in doing so takes exercise. If she has to hunt all day for these, at times she does not lay very well because she is working hard getting something to eat.

We are feeding now, at the O. A. College a grain mixture of about the following: Seven parts of cracked corn, two parts of barley, two parts of good oats, one part buckwheat, and three parts of feed wheat. This is fed in deep litter night and morning, the hens going to bed with a full crop.

During cold weather it is advisable to feed a mixture of nearly half corn or buckwheat. A hen will do a little better on such feed. A mixture of two or three kinds of grain gives variety.

At noon cheery waste house scraps, such as potatoes, cabbage or other vegetable trimming, together with the table scraps, make a good foundation for a wet mash. These scraps are best fed in a crumbly state. Dry them off with whatever chop you may have. A mixture of shorts, barley meal, and oat chop in equal parts, is very good. We use a dry mash which is fed in hoppers. This is in front of the birds at all times. We are using Government Standard Hog feed. We have used in previous years, very successfully, rolled or crushed oats.

These ground grains should contain fifteen to twenty per cent. of high grade tankage or beef scrap. Where milk is given as drink no meat scrap would be necessary.

Be sure to supply green and succulent feeds, such as waste cabbage, roots, clover leaves, or sprouted oats.

There is an art to feeding. When feeding the whole grain night and morning watch the birds scratch. If they are very active feed liberally; if somewhat indifferent ease off in the amount for a feed or so. Keep the litter clean and sweet.—Prof. W. R. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent, and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, obnoxious breath, sour stomach, heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 25 years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

Price 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards.—Receipts, 281 cars, with 5,692 cattle, 233 calves, 1,880 hogs, and 2,166 sheep and lambs.

Buyers were met with an unexpectedly heavy run of cattle yesterday, and consequently took their own time in looking over the offerings. The result was an extremely slow market, and up to noon hour the transactions were comparatively few. These few sales were among the very best and choicest lots, including one bunch of four steers which sold at $15, the high market for last week. Against this, however, was the fact that the bulk of the cattle in the market were still standing with no bids on them. The sellers in some cases insisted that such bids as were going were from 50 to 75 cents lower than last week. Later transactions must decide just how much the market is off, if any.

Sheep and lambs lower.

Hogs nominally at last week's prices for contract hogs, but no bids for this week's offerings. It was impossible to get a definite bid.

GRAIN MARKET

The cash corn situation and heavy receipts combined to bring the corn market down to decidedly lower levels. Cash corn at St. Louis and Chicago is from 3c. to 5c. lower, and farmers' deliveries are coming in faster than they can be absorbed under existing conditions. In the local cash market all grains excepting the fixed wheat are quoting from 2c. to 5c. lower.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William (not including tax)—No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern, $2.21 1-2; No. 3 northern, $2.17; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

"Wadkins had once been whipped for inaccuracy during his boyhood, so was always very careful in his statements. He was a porter. An old gentleman approached him and asked:

"'Is this my train, porter?'

"'No, sir; it belongs to the railway company, sir,' answered Wadkins.

"'That's not what I mean,' said the old gentleman testily. 'I mean, do I take this train to Mud-Slush-on-Sea?'

"'No, sir,' said Wadkins patiently. 'The engine always does that.'"

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning, most it not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Royalist Revolution Has Broken Out in Portugal

Leader of Revolution Has Proclaimed Himself Premier and Foreign Minister of the Monarchist Government.

ROYAL FLAG FLYING

Special to The Examiner:

LISBON, Jan. 21.—The Royalist revolution, which is attempting to restore the monarchy with former King Manuel on the throne, appeared to be spreading throughout the northern provinces to-day. Among the towns in that region reported to be supporting the monarchist was Guemarees. Fighting has broken out.

Baiya Concerio, who is heading the revolution, has proclaimed himself Premier and Foreign Minister of the Monarchist government. The Royal flag is flying from his headquarters in Villaneva, a suburb of Oporto. Government troops were shelling Santarem and have driven the rebels from the Santarem valley and from Quinte Alphiarea, Vallade and Alcanhces.

Government Formed.

Canadian Press:

MADRID, Jan. 21. — Monrachist movement in Portugal, headed by Palva Conceiro, has been successful in Northern Portugal and a government formed at Oporto, according to reports received by the Spanish government.

The report adds that Lisbon is believed to have joined in the movement. Wireless despatches from Lisbon received in London yesterday reported the breaking out of the revolution. Ex-King Manuel, however, was declared to have sent a telegram to the Portuguese government, asserting that he did not countenance the movement in his behalf.

HOME FROM GERMANY AFTER LONG DURANCE SINCE EARLY IN 1916

After more than two years' captivity in the land of paper clothes, acorn "coffee" and a host of other substitutes that were supplied the masses of the people when the natural products and importations failed, Private Tom Casey, son of Mr. David Casey of Douro, declared that all these reports of the extremities of the Germans are true. He was captured with the Mounted Rifles at Zillebeke in June 1916, spent several months at Dulman at Westphalia and more than two years in the Rhine land. His home coming has been something of a big feed after the long lean months in Germany.

"The people in England treated us royally," said Private Casey, "and on the Olympic everything was fine. If it hadn't been for the boxes from the Red Cross and the home folks I don't know how we could have stood it. The daily ration I received was this acorn coffee and two slices of bread in the morning. That was our entire bread allowance for the day. At noon we would get a bowl of turnips or cabbage, and about the same at night. Once a week they would give us a bowl of potatoes. For the last two years I was with a working party in the Rhineland. We were in and around Oberhausen, Mulheim and other towns. There were 150 in our party, British, Russian, French, Portuguese and others."

Private Casey remarked that he could tell an interesting story of his observations among the people of West Germany, but he was in a hurry to get home yesterday with his father and sister.

HAS RECOVERED FROM ILLNESS.

Canadian Press:

AMERONGEN, Holland. Jan. 21.—Former Emperor William and former Empress have sufficiently recovered from their recent illness that they are able to resume their former mode of living. They are taking customary morning walks in the grounds around the castle. Herr Hohenzollern is reported in much better spirits. His birthday, Jan. 26, will be celebrated by a concert in the castle.

The Russian Situation

"Steering Committee" of the Peace Congress Again Took Up the Russian Problem.

(By William Philip Simms—United Press).

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The Supreme War Council, the "steering committee" of the Peace Congress, again took up the Russian problem to-day.

Representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan resumed their hearings in the Quai D'Orsay on the subject of representation and the possible recognition of the various factions now controlling Russia.

H. Schavenlus, former Danish Ambassador to Petrograd, one of the last diplomats to leave Russia, was heard.

Recognition Impossible.

His country was one of the last neutrals to break off relations with the Soviet Government. It was believed that, under the circumstances, his testimony would closely parallel that of Joseph Noulens, the French Ambassador to Russia, who appeared yesterday. Noulens' statement was not made public, but shortly after his return from Archangel he gave out an interview, in which he declared that any form of recoegnition of the Bolsheviki was impossible.

The date for the resumption of the full Peace Congress had not been set this morning, although it was believed in some circles that the Council might dispost of its business in time to permit a general session in the afternoon.

FRANK L. JENNE'S PEACE BENEFIT SALE

Will Cut Prices for Ten Days Below the Costs of 1914.

Frank L. Jenne has decided to anticipate lower prices in the face of higher wholesale costs, and on Thursday morning he will inaugurate in his Semi-Ready Store a huge Peace Benefit Sale. Every article in his store, from hats to hosiery and from suits to cravats, will be cut down—in some cases to nearly half their present value. Nothing will be reserved.

"Every Semi-Ready suit and every overcoat; every shirt and all cravats all hats, hosiery—nothing will be hidden away. It will be a no disappointment sale," said Mr. Jenne.

"There is no reason or cause for this unreserved sale beyond the fact that I am going to do my bit to try and make prices come down a notch," he said "And many of the articles which I will advertise in detail in tomorrow's paper will be far below the wholesale price at which I can replace them.

"The Semi-Ready Company, the only clothiers in Canada with permanent warehouses and weaving facilities in England, have been a factor in keeping the cost of clothes down in Canada. Prices were so much lower here than in the United States that in the border cities of Canada half the trade in the Semi-Ready stores was with Americans. Even the officers of the U.S. Army bought thousands of tunics from The Semi-Ready Stores. And so close were the costs in Canada as compared with those in England that returning soldiers say that clothes are as cheap to day in our cities as in London.

"I am going to clear out some lines entirely," continued Mr. Jenne.

"My Men's furnishings department will be fully as interesting as anything I have in Semi-Ready tailoring.

"I just want to emphasize in conclusion, that no other store in this city can show a single Semi-Ready tailored garment."

WILL HAVE MAJORITY

Complete Results of Voting in Germany Will Not Be Known Until Friday.

EICKHORN ELECTED

Special to the Examiner:

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—The Majority Socialists are far ahead of any other party in the National Assembly elections, according to latest available returns to-day.

In Bavaria the Centrists main ained their strong position. At Leipsig Independent Socialists obtained a majority. In Munich the Majority secured 151,000 votes and the Independent 80,000. In Baden the Centrists polled 390,000, the Majority Socialists 366,000, and the Independents 145,000 votes.

The Socialists elected seven of their candidates in the Wurtemburg elections, according to a despatch received here to-day. Four Democrats, four Centrists and two candidates put forward by the peasants' and citizens' party were elected. The Independents failed to elect a candidate.

Practically every eligible voted, the despatch added.

Later Returns.

Later returns showed that Nathias Ergberger, chairman of the German armistice commission, and leader of the Centrist party; Freidrich Von Payer, former vice-chancellor; Herr Havsmann and Herr Groeber, also had been elected in Berlin.

The Majority Socialists won an easy victory in Northern Schleswig, which was one of the first districts to join the revolution. East Prussia, which hitherto had been regarded as strongly against that party, polled 100,000 votes for the Majority Socialist candidates, against 117,000 for the Conservatives.

In Hanover the Majority Socialists won overwhelmingly, getting 120,000 votes to 3,000 for the Independent Socialists.

Returns from Dresden, Bremen and Hamburg showed similar victory for the Majority Socialists over the Independents.

WILL HAVE MAJORITY IN NATIONAL ASSEMBLY.

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—While the Majority Socialists will have ascendancy over any other single party, the results indicate that the Bourgeoise party together will have a majority in the National Assembly.

The full results are not expected to be known before Friday.

It is probable that former Chief of Police Eichorn and Hugo Hasse, former Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the Ebert Cabinet, have been elected to the National Assembly. Berlin newspapers announce that a warrant for the arrest of Eichhorn has been issued. It is said that various charges, proof of which would lay Eichhorn liable to punishment for nfteen years, have been issued.

The combined Bourgeoise parties in the kingdom of Wuerttemburg and the province of Hohenzollern, Prussia, elected ten delegates to the National Assembly. Majority Socialists seated seven and Independent Socialists none. The combined popular vote of the Socialists was 508,000, and the Bourgeoise parties 920,000. Partial results in Berlin continue to show an unexpectedly large Independent Socialist vote.

PREVENTED ELECTIONS.

(Special to Examiner.)

BERLIN, Jan. 1. — The Spartacans succeeded in preventing the national elections on Sunday in Hamburg and several Rhineland towns, it was learned to-day. In the latter district it was believed that the vote would have favored the Centrists (church party), and the German Democrats, (Liberals), so the apparent country-wide margin of the Majority Socialists in the National Assembly is not seriously affected.

According to the latest available returns ,the various parties won the following district:

Majority Socialists: City of Berlin (result close), Wurtemburg, Lorrach, Mecklenburg, Lubeck.

Centrists (coalition of Catholics and Protestants), Bavaria (including several districts) Freiburg, Waldshut, Sackingen, Constance.

German Democrats, Mannheim, Danzig, Barmen.

Independents (Independent Socialists and Spartacans), Frankfort-on-the-Main, Brunswick.

Nationalists, Elberfeld, Magdeburg.

People's Party (pan-German) — None.

In Berlin.

In Berlin the Majority Socialists apparently had elected Philip Scheidemann, Richard Fischer, Wilhelm Pfannezluck, Robert Schmidt, and Hugo Heidmann, the Independent Socialists, Hugo Haass, Police President Eichorn Louis Ziess and Herr Laukant, the German Democrats, Gustav Hartmann and Herr Naumann, and the Centrists, Nationalists and the Peoples' Party co-operating, Wilhelm Karl, Herr Von Kardoff and Herr Ledrowentz.

SERGEANT G. E. BRENT,

Enlisted in Sarnia, September, 1915, and was at London for several months. Transferred to Hamilton C. M.R. and there made Sergeant of instruction in Trench Warfare and Grenading. Left there for overseas, 24th February, 1916, draft stripes in England to go to front. On 10th November, 1917, was slightly wounded by shrapnel. Later in year made Serreant on the field and awarded Military Medal.

Sergeant Brent is a nephew of Mrs. John A. Turner, 340 Water street, city.

LIGHTS REPORTED OUT AT C.P.R. AND SMITH ST. BRIDGES

First Meeting of Fire, Water and Light Committee Held Last Night—Firemen Seek Conference.

MOTOR TRUCK'S TIRES WEAR OUT

The Fire, Water and Light Committee last night worked their way through the file of correspondence studiously considering every letter recommendation, some of them dating back three months. Ald. Morrison presided with Aldermen Gainey, Hamilton, Garside, Taylor, and Mayor Duncan present.

Ald. Turner wrote that he would be unable to attend the meeting but that he wished to express his approval of (1) the building by-law as framed last year, (2) the removal of the electric wires from the east side of George street, between Hunter and Brock Streets, to the lane at the rear of the stores, (3) the purchase of all supplies from local dealers (4) the two platoon system.

On motion of Mayor Duncan, seconded by Ald. Hamilton, Ald. Turner's building by-law suggestion was referred to the Property Committee and that regarding the wires on George street to the Board of Works.

The Firemen asked for a conference between their Benevolent Association and the Council for the discussion of questions pertaining to the department.

Mayor Duncan—"We had better settle the two platoon system first."

Motor Truck Tires

The six tires on the motor truck recently broke down under winter use, and the committee is considering the liability of the 'La France Company, under the guarantee that was given with the machine. Mayor Duncan stated that four tires are needed for the double rear wheels. One tire gave out and while it was being replaced, the other five became unfit for use. The La France Company assert that the Company in Dayton from whom they secured the tires are reliable, that these tires were the best that could be procured and that the question of adjusting the replacement will be readily considered. These tires are of the airless type, although they are not solid, and the La France Company state that the use of heavy chains during winter would have the same effect on them as on pneumatic tires. Mayor Duncan and Ald. Morrison were authorized to negotiate with the La France Company in the matter of the proposed adjustment.

A report from the former chairman stated that a forty gallon water tank had been purchased from Adamson and Dobbin for the Fire Hall, replacing the old one that had sprung five or six leaks. Ex-Ald. Dobbin recommended that a heavy quarter inch iron or steel tank be bought, but the Committee was satisfied with the present equipment.

Ex-Ald. Dobbin's letter instructing Thomas Rehill to unload his own sheds first, in filling city coal orders was read and tacitly affirmed. Mayor Duncan explained that part of the city's fuel is stored in the Rehill sheds and it is intended that these shall be emptied first. The lease will then automatically expire.

Ald. Taylor moved, seconded by Ald. Gainey that the Utilities Commission be requested to place a light at the east end of the Locks bridge. Two lights for Wolfe Street, west of Park street, were also approved. One is needed at Rutherford street corner and the other near the Monaghan Road.

Other applications for lights and reports of some that have burned out were dealt with. Mayor Duncan remarked that complaints of lights that fail should be personally carried to the Utilities Commission.

Bridges In the Dark

Ald. Garside said that only two of the eight lights on the Smith street bridge were burning and City Treasurer Adams informed the Committee that all the lamps on the C.P.R. bridge were dead.

Thanks to E. G. Patterson

Adopting Chief Grange's suggestion the Committee passed a resolution of thanks to Mr. E. G. Patterson for placing the C.G.E. company's truck at the disposal of the Fire Department on October 18th when the motor chemical engine floundered in a broken section of new Chamberlen street. The C.G.E. truck hauled it back on to solid ground. The resolution was moved by Ald. Hamilton and seconded by Ald. Garside.

THE IRISH PARLIAMENT

Ireland Will be Proclaimed an Independent Republic This Afternoon.

SINN FEINERS MEET

Canadian Press:

DUBLIN, Jan. 21.—Probably no country except Ireland could present an episode as remarkable as the assembly of the "Daily Eireann," which is Irish Gaelic for the "Irish Parliament," which will be called to order in Dublin's ancient Mansion House this afternoon to proclaim Ireland an independent republic.

About half the Sinn Feiners elected to membership in the British Parliament will participate, the other half being in various English prisons, charged with sedition, or merely held on suspicion under the elastic provisions of the Defence of the Realm Act. The Sinn Feiners will meet under the shadow of Dublin Castle, where Field Marshal Viscount French resides, the first Viceroy in many years to give Ireland purely a military government. They will meet with his full knowledge and tacit consent to make measures which are purely seditious and an indirect violation of explicit law.

The Programme.

To-day's programme will be carried out in the Irish language, which is virtually a dead tongue, so dead that the Sinn Feiners have been obliged to rehearse their parts, and will be compelled to lapse occasionally into boycotted English terms, because they cannot find Irish words to fit modern Parliamentary procedure. Three items are expected to constitute the body of the programme—

Declaration of independence.

Message to free nations of the world.

Appointment of delegates to the Peace Congress.

Ireland is a country of unexpected happiness, but no one predicts any trouble or disorder. The revolutionary flag floats quite freely over the home of the Sinn Feiners in Dublin. Members of the party expect protection from the authorities of the nation from whom they are breaking. They do not talk of and apparently do not contemplate violence.

Restrictions Removed.

Special to the Examiner:

DUBLIN, Jan. 21.—The last obstacle to the convening of the first "Irish Parliament" here to-day was removed, when it was officially announced that all restrictions on public meetings had been lifted.

A CORRECTION REGARDING AGENCY

Mistake Made in Saturday's Examiner Regarding the Sale of "The Phonola.

In Saturday's Examiner an advertisement of the Phonola Company, showing an illustration of the Model Duke Phonola Machine, appeared under the dealer's name and address of The J. M. Greene Music Co., Charlotte Street. This was a mistake, as the firm, The Royal Music Co., at 439 George Street, corner of Brock, has had the agency ever since it opened up for business. The advertisement was republished last evening with the dealers' correct name and address, The Royal Music Company, and, in fairness to this firm, as well as to the Greene Music Store, we give this notice to further correct the mistake.

ONE TO TEN YEAR TERMS IMPOSED ON 43 I.W.W.'S.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 20. — Sentences ranging from one to ten years' imprisonment were imposed on forty-three of the forty-six defendants convicted in the Industrial Workers of the World anti-war conspiracy case. A new trial is asked for the other three.

Americans Locate Contents of Forty Hun Warehouses

APPRECIATED BY THE TROOPS.

One paper very tersely put it that the Salvation Army is the one single organization operating in the war zone that has never been criticised. Another grouped it with the British navy as one of the two war auxiliaries which had emerged from the war without the slightest criticism.

This is the testimony as well of thousands of the soldier boys who have come back or who have written home about the help given at one time or another by the Salvation Army at the Front.

Irvin S. Cobb, the noted writer, said that he had never met a soldier from Brigadier to Private, who did not speak in fervent terms of gratitude for the aid rendered by the Salvation Army so unostentatiously, and yet so very effectively.

These are splendid words, but well deserved.

Buildings Were Crammed With Millions of Dollars Worth of War Materials Abandoned by Germans.

TAKING STOCK

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press Service.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 21.—The contents of forty warehouses and barracks in the Coblenz region, crammed with millions of dollars' worth of war materials abandoned by the Germans, will revert to the United States by default. The supplies were not inventoried by the enemy and cannot be turned over to the allied pool under the armistice terms.

One hundred men of the salvage department to-day completed a months' work in checking up these materials. They have made an inventory of only six of the warehouses so far, and their report comprises sixty typewritten pages, double spaced. In addition, investigators are continually finding new caches.

War Material.

The materials range from needles and song books to huge guns, locomotive and shells. One arsenal inventoried such items: 1,500,000 knives and forks, 35,000 buttons, 25,000 song books, 500 tons of scrap iron, 40,000,00 British cartridges, 119,800 French cartridges, 281,763 containers of high explosives, 228 boxes of hand grenades, 6,400,000 German cartridges and innumerable other things. In another storehouse the salvagers found hundreds of army wagons, motor trucks, field guns and war materials of every kind.

City Has 1701 Tons of Coal

Reserve is Regarded Sufficient for Winter's Demand.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee decided last night to retain the municipal Fuel Committee this year with Ald. Taylor, as chairman, because he is easily accessible and Ald. Morrison as the assistant. City Treasurer Adams reported 1,701 tons 242 pounds of coal and 23 7-16 cords of wood in stock in the city's fuel yard on December 31st, 1918. The coal statement was as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Buckwheat | 258,158lbs |
| Pea | 1,021,422lbs |
| Nut | 1,270,948lbs |
| Egg | 47,320lbs |
| Mine run | 804,392lbs |

Total 3,420,242lbs.

The quantities of wood are 1 7-16 of hardwood and 22 cords of mixed wood.

Mr. Adams reported that 50 tons of coal had been sold since Jan. 1st. Ald. Morrison's committee agreed that it would be inadvisable to discontinue the fuel yard at least for the present. It was believed that winter had not yet exerted its full force and that there would be a considerable demand for coal before May flowers bloom.

Trotsky Has a Narrow Escape

Defeated by the Esthonians, Trotsky Takes French Leave.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Notable success has been won against the Bolshevik by Esthonian troops in operations to the north-east of Lake Peipus, according to Esthonian officials received by wireless at Stockholm to-day and transmitted here. They have taken the town of Narva, on the Reval-Petrograd railway line, together with a large number of prisoners. Finnish troops co-operated with the Esthonians, the statement says. A quantity of booty fell into the hands of the victorious forces, including guns, provisions, and armoured trains. The prisoners included division and regimental staffs. Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik War Minister, it is said, was present in Narva during the fighting and fled after the Bolshevik defeat.

NOTICE TO RETURNED SOLDIERS

All returned soldiers will be allowed a ten per cent. cash discount off any suit of clothes or overcoat made to measure, at the store with the Tartan front, formerly Scotland Woollen Mills Co. This privilege will hold good until further notice.

See This New Truck At C. R. Bank's

Costs Less and is Standardized.

We have secured the agency for Peterborough City and County for the sale of the Fulton and Sterling Trucks. We have chosen these trucks after a careful comparison of the various trucks in the market. One of the principal reasons which influenced this preference was that the Two-ton Fulton and Sterling Trucks can be bought for $500 less than any other competing truck of same capacity; and also on account of their being standardized trucks.

Intending purchasers are invited to call and examine the capabilities of these trucks, and witness a demonstration, if desired. Watch The Examiner for fuller particulars regarding these trucks in a few days. C. R. Banks, 312 Charlotte Street. 2d-17

TUESDAY, JANUARY 21ST, 1919.

A MAGNIFICENT CAUSE

The result of the first day's canvas in the Red Shield Drive indicates that the worth of the cause is being splendidly recognized This is as it should be for the people of Peterboro have never before been asked to lend their assistance to a movement that more merited encouragement and support. The Salvation Army is undertaking a great work in helping to solve Canada's repatriation problems and as a guarantee of their ability to carry out their plans, they offer the record of what they have accomplished here in Canada and the glorious story of their efforts among Canada's sons overseas. Every returned soldier can and will gladly testify to the benefits he derived from the Salvation Army war work over there, while the people at home need no eulogy of the Army's labours in Canada to convince them that the Salvationists are capable of carrying out any movement that they undertake to complete success

Peterboro is asked to furnish $15,000 for the magnificent work that the Salvation Army is doing and will continue to do. More hostels where lonely soldiers can be housed at a moderate price must be supplied. They are appreciated by all Canada's soldiers who have experienced their hospitality and the eleven already in existence should be supplemented by others. The work among the soldiers overseas must be continued as long as there is a Canadian Tommy away from home. The Army seems to have succeeded in reaching the hearts of the Canadian soldiers in a manner that no other organization has been able to do and it would be a disaster were it necessary through lack of funds to withdraw this work as long as the need for it exists

The Salvation Army work is endorsed by the Great War Veterans; in fact it is not only endorsed but is actively supported by that association and a team of War Veterans is hard at work securing funds in the present drive.

The campaign should be unhesitatingly and generously supported and by the end of the drive Peterboro should once more be able to say that her generous citizens have sent one more patriotic effort far over the top

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

The decision of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association to endeavour to have the Dominion Government establish a system of vocational training for disabled soldiers in this city would seem to be a step that would be decidedly in the interests of Peterborough's returned men, and the effort should be supported by the citizens generally. Under the present system, if a returned soldier desires re-education in some new trade to fit him to resume the task of civilian life, it is necessary for him to go to Kingston for training. It is the belief of the Veterans that Peterborough, with its many splendid manufacturing concerns, would be an ideal headquarters for vocational training, and they intend to press the claims of this city. Before so doing, it will be necessary to secure the co-operation of the heads of Peterborough's manufacturing concerns, whose support and assistance are absolutely essential to the success of the movement. Unless the manufacturers are willing to assist by placing returned men in their plants for training, there is no possibility of a local scheme of vocational training being adopted here. In view of this fact, it is expected that the manufacturers of Peterborough will be prepared to deal sympathetically with the request of the Veterans when the matter is taken up. It means much to Peterborough's returned men and to the city generally.

THE PLATOON SYSTEM.

Is it worth an additional $4,889.20 a year expenditure on the fire department to have a brigade composed of men who are satisfied and content, and who, by reason of shorter hours, are in better health and more efficient? That is the question the City Council will have to settle in considering the introduction of the two-platoon system, strongly advocated by Fire Chief Grange, and eagerly sought by the members of the department. The Fire Chief states that the change will add the sum mentioned to the department's estimates. Four new firemen would have to be added and their salaries, the extra amount that would have to be paid to another lieutenant, whose appointment would be necessary under the system, and the cost of clothing and equipment for the new men, would bring the total to approximately $4,900.

On the credit side, however, as Fire Chief Grange points out, there will be greatly strengthened efficiency in the brigade, and the morale of the organization would be improved by a system that allowed the fire-fighters an opportunity to spend a portion of their time at home with their families, instead of being on duty day and night. Under the proposed system the brigade would be divided into two shifts of ten each, and one shift would always be on duty at the hall, while the other ten men would be immediately available in the case of an alarm. As the brigade is operated now, there must be an opportunity provided for the men to go home for their meals, so that for six hours each day the force at the Fire Hall consists of only seven men. Under the two-platoon system there would be no meal shift, and there would be ten men always ready to respond to an alarm.

The advantages of the new system are manifest, and it is expected that the aldermen will consider that the benefits to be gained will more than make up for the additional expenditure.

MR. TAFT'S VISIT.

The visit to Peterborough on Thursday of Hon. William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, is an event of unusual interest and importance, and it is to be hoped that the citizens will show their appreciation of these facts. In this regard it is suggested that in the business section of the city at least, the coming of ex-President Taft should be honoured by the liberal use of flags and bunting. Merchants are asked to display their flags on this occasion to signify their interest in the visit of the former President, who has been a firm friend of the cause of Great Britain and of the Allies since the beginning of the war. Mr. Taft was among the first citizens of the United States to declare his belief in the justice and righteousness of the principles for which the Allies fought, and Canadians have every reason to honour him for the position he has consistently maintained. Only yesterday, in a vigorous speech in Toronto, Mr. Taft declared his conviction that the British fleet must be maintained. "England's supremacy of the season—if you like that expression—in time of peace has always meant equality for all nations," said the ex-President, "and in times of war, Britain must maintain her fleet to resist unjust aggression. If she didn't she would starve in a week."

Peterborough is fortunate in being included in Mr. Taft's itinerary, and the appreciation of the citizens should be indicated by a liberal display of flags on the principal streets. As a warm-hearted friend of Canada and of the Allies, and as a man who held the highest office at the disposal of our one hundred million neighbours to the south of us, Mr. Taft is a notable visitor, and his stay in Peterborough should not be treated as an event of only normal interest.

A WARNING TO CANADA

Canadians have more than a casual interest in the trials of disloyal publicists now proceeding in the United States The vast majority of these disgruntled and mischievous citizens are of foreign birth

Berger, for example, was born in Austria Very rarely indeed is the name of a suspected traitor Smith or Brown or Jones.

This is the result of a wide-open immegration policy, operating over many years with the object of securing a large population and substantially without regard to quality.

The United States Government faces a difficult task, if it desires to weed out these disloyal growths now. Many of them have taken deep root. The war revealed the Socialist party across the border as a hotbed of sedition Socialist was another name for pro-German until loyal socialists formed a new party. And nearly all the traitor Socialist leaders were born in Germany or Austria.

Canadians, looking forward to the years to come with their promised flood of immigration, have reason for thought. Shall Canada provide a stage for the display of vicious ingratitude or jaundiced disloyalty by the next crop of Europe's derelict citizens, who prosper here only to become a greater menace?

The kind of manhood and womanhood that is bred in America has no interest in the ecrazy product of minds twisted from birth by the harsh yoke of despots abroad.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Help the Salvation Army help our soldiers.

$15,000 from Peterboro for the Red Shield Drive. The City's reputation cannot be allowed to drop.

The Salvation Army war work is endorsed by everyone. It should be supported by everyone as well.

Peterboro should not be satisfied with meeting the returning soldiers at th station. There is much more than that to be done for the boys who have done their bit.

Voice of The People

471 Sherbrooke street.
30/1/19.

Editor Examiner:

Would you allow me a few lines to give vent to my feelings on your editorial, 'Get Together.' Your statement in reference to the Railway committee in refusing to allow a joint committee of the City Council and the Board of Trade to study the street railway situation in Peterborough, and recommend a plan for present needs and future developments. And also that we were the elected representatives of the people, and therefore did not need to consult anybody else, is altogether wrong. I made the statement and it was like this: I did not see the necessity of a joint committee of the City Council and the Board of Trade, as there were now two of their number elected to the City Council, and in my opinion Ald. Turner, who is a member of the Railway committee, is well able to convey any idea that might be suggested by the Board of Trade. If any plan were brought forward by Ald. Turner, which in my opinion would be to the best interests of the citizens as a whole, I would support it. If I am not mistaken, the reason why the Hydro-Electric Commission made the suggestion of a joint committee is because the Board of Trade did not agree with that of the City Council in laying that portion of track on the Monaghan road to Patterson street. The Board of Trade had communicated with the Ayerst Commission, giving their ideas as to the city's requirements, and also writing the G.T.R. for better passenger service between Peterborough and Montreal without first sending a deputation to the City Council asking for their opinion and influence on the above, I consider it a mean action. But on the other hand, if they have asked the City Council for their assistance and have failed to get satisfaction, nobody can condemn their actions, as it be for the interests of the citizens or for favour. Now, seeing you are interested in the Board of Trade, which you cannot conscientiously deny, let me suggest to you that you may convey the idea to them to follow the practice of the Trades and Labour Council by sending a committee to the City Council meetings in order that they may be better acquainted with the Council's business and not need an explanation as Ald. Turner did when Ald. Egar moved the motion that the City solicitor be given authority to represent the city in the appeal of the Quaker Oats Company, a case which has been debated in the Council for several months back. Being a delegate from the Trades and Labour and a regular attender of the City Council meetings, having heard the subject discussed and also Mr. Denham's appeal to the aldermen, it did not require a second thought for me to second the motion.

ALEX MURRAY.

The Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—The nucleus of an Independent Labour Party has been formed in Peterborough, which shows the indicator of progress for the worker, still on the ascend, and that the workers are fast acquiring a conscious of their own existence, and power to do things. The Independent Labour Party stands entirely on its own independent principles, owing allegiance to no other party, its main object being to procure for the Dominion a more progressive, prosperous and healthy working class, with happy home conditions. All workers of Peterborough are now conversant with the principles that make such conditions possible; if not, I am sure it will be the one object of the party to bring speakers of note, that will enlighten us on these matters, and is therefore worthy of the support of every worker. For, remember this, that the working class have a potential, an economic power to-day far beyond the political power represented by their vote. It is a leverage of which we should become more and more aware. Our fire loyalty must be to ourselves. Not Liberal, not Conservative, nor stand by this party or that party, but stand by an Independent Labour Party, and know it by no other name. For so long as industry is controlled by competition, the small industrial concerns must be swamped by the large syndicates, which will place the finance and industry in the hands of a few, which must eventually bring about State control of the larger and more important concerns. The Independent Labour Party will establish a balance, for what use having State control if Labour is not on that board of control. The people of Canada are really tired of the penny in the slot politicians, that are tied and bound by the old parties. Independence of action and thought means progress, and I need quote no better authority than the Minister of Labour, whose recommendation to Labour is, get your men on the legislative boards.

Senator Robertson has proved himself in possession of the quality that makes men great, by coming to the very nerve centre of Labour, that is, the worker, and standing on his merits to discuss the various conditions. Labour expressed a wish to again meet the Senator, but men, the best place to meet him is on the floor at Ottawa as Independent Labour members. In fact he recommended that as the best solution to all Labour questions: Don't tolerate vested prejudices. The intolerant are those who have not experienced the lot of those whom they decry. A pang suffered is a pang understood. Experience is the pathway to all attainments, and the representatives of the Independent Labour Party are men who have suffered the pang and gained the experience, and needs every worker's support in order to be ready at a moment's notice to launch a suitable candidate when the occasion arrives. Labour done well in the municipal elections; it can and will do as well on all other elections.

SOCIETY ORGANIZED IN PETERBORO DISTRICT

To the Peterboro Examiner,

Dear Sirs:—In reference to your editorial which appeared in last night's Examiner, I would state that the Prudential Insurance Company of America have already organized a Society in the Peterboro District and also in other districts in Canada, to encourage the sale of War Savings Stamps issued by the Government. I might say that this district has formed a Society and have their own District Chairman, District Vice-Chairman, Secretary, Treasurer and Auditor, and the members of the Staff constitute the Saving Society.

It is also the endeavour of all the members of the Society to encourage the sale of these Stamps amongst their policyholders. As far as I know we are the first society which has been organized in Central Ontario. Our Company has organized other Socities as well in different parts of Canada. We have members on our Staff who have pledged themselves to buy War Savings Stamps every week and the amount ranges from 25c a week to $4.00 a week.

I might say also that it is becoming very interesting to see how the different Certificates are growing in value and the interest which is being taken by the different members. We have a regular system which we follow and I would be pleased to explain the system to any manufacturer or to any merchant would care to undertake the organization of a society to encourage the sale of War Savings Stamps. This Society was organized in the Peterboro District about the middle of December and the members so far have bought since that time and have cash on hand to purchase stamps amounting to about $150.00. I would like to see every manufacturer and every merchant organize a society of some kind or other to assist the Government in this respect.

Magistrate Would Lower Divorce Bar In the Dominion

Says it Would Be Godsend to Many Couples in the Country.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 20.—Owing to the increasing number of cases of non-support, alienation of affections and hundreds of other troubles that come before the local city police magistrate for adjustment, as well as in other cities, the question of a more lenient divorce law is becoming a matter of discussion among local judiciary rights. Magistrate Maxwell is an advocate of some easier form of divorce, and declared that under the present circumstances it is impossible in cases where it is absolutely necessary for a person to get a divorce. He cites some of many unhappy couples who have been before him in the last year or more. The bulk of the trouble originating through poverty, the husband being unable to provide the necessary means of life, and the wife consequently straying from the straight and narrow, because at times it was almost imperative in order to provide the necessities of life. Where there are no children in these cases, he thinks that a divorce would be a godsend to the couples.

The Local Branch of Y.M.C.A. Has Had Very Successful Year

The Association is Free of Debt—An Important Year is Ahead of the Institution—Accommodation for the Returned Soldiers—Report of the General Secretary.

A general note of confidence was struck at the annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. held in the Association building last night. In the words of Mr. G. H. Roper, the General Secretary, a most important year was ahead of them and the Y. M. C. A. was prepared. The Association is for the first time in years entirely free of debt, and now they can look forward to a big year without a handicap.

It was the 37th annual meeting and the 22nd meeting held in the present building. The Association has come through the trying period of the war in fine condition. In January, 1916, it was found necessary to arrange for financial help in the form of a note to the amount of ..6000. This amount has been steadily reduced, and at the beginning of the year it stood at $350.00, since then the balance has been entirely wiped out.

Physical Department.

The Physical Department has had a big year. A total of 304 members have been enrolled in the ten classes of this department and in addition to the regular classes the attendance for basketball was 710. Four thousand, nine hundred and sixty-nine pupils of the Collegiate Institute calisthenic classes were recorded during the year. The audit report presented by Mr. Thomas Barrie, was as follows:

Memo: Since the close of the year $150 from balance on hand has been paid on note, leaving present liability $350.00.

Audited and found correct.

Ex-Ald. Edgar Worth and Mr. J. Mendell Greene were elected to fill the vacancies in the directorate. The Board of Directors now stands as follows:

President—G. A. Gillespie.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mr. Thomas Barrie.
2nd Vice-President—Mr. H. B. Cowan.
Treasurer—J. J. Turner, Junior.
Rec.-Secretary—Ross. L. Dobbin.
W. R. Breytogle, Ald. James Hamilton, Jos. Wearing, J. E. Smith, Ex-Ald. Edgar Worth and J. Mendell Greene.

Mr. G. H. Roper's Report.

The Secretary's report follows:

This is the 37th Annual meeting of the Association since its formation in this city and the 22nd since the building was occupied. In looking over the record of years of the past one cannot but feel that the Association has had a great influence for good in the city during that time. There is one recurring word that seems to appear more often than it should, and that word is finances. When this word occurs it is usually in connection with a shortage of funds, and we ought to rejoice that through the generosity and loyalty of our friends and the devotion of directors that we have succeeded in reaching a position where we may look forward to the coming year of big opportunities without the handicap of a deficit or any shortage of necessary funds to carry on an efficient work. We should return thanks to God who has blessed the association during the year.

The religious work of the association has consisted of Bible Study Classes for the regular gymnasium groups, any boys or young men not attending gymnasium for any reason being invited to join the class into which they would naturally fall.

The Older High School Boys held their meetings on Friday evening at the supper hour and in this way the social feature was introduced. Life Problems was the course followed by this group as well as by the Senior Employed Boys.

A new feature was introduced in the Social Work of the Association when the men of the C.G.E. were invited to the building and enjoyed the various privileges. This proved to be a popular innovation and this line of work was organized in February and was a fine success. A new League was organized in the fall with six teams. Two boys' teams also played during the spring.

The Membership.

The membership is in a flourishing condition considering that over 250 of our senior members are still overseas. A membership campaign in November added over 150 to the membership, including renewals.

The domitories have been filled during the larger part of the year, and in this department the revenue exceeded the estimate by over $200. It was found necessary to ask two or three undesirables to vacate their rooms. At the present time six returned men are living in the dormitory. Two rooms are being kept open for the accommodation of returning men who have no home in the city. This morning (Monday) we were privileged to serve one of our men in this way. There is no doubt that many more rooms could be filled if we had them.

The Physical Department has maintained a high standard in attendance and interest, and the services of Angus McLeod had a great deal to do with the efficiency of this Department.

The Boys' Department, under the able direction of Harold Copp, has had a splendid year. The membership and interest in all phases of the work compares favorably with any previous year. The splendid foundation laid by Mr. Garnet Galley has made this possible in a great degree.

In conclusion the secretary wished to take this opportunity to thank the directors for their faith in placing the direction of the general work in his hands and for their hearty coöperation and support, to thank the rest of the staff for loyal and untiring support and sacrifice through a strenuous year, and for the help of the members and their interest in the work of the Association.

We should look forward to this most important year ready to render bigger service and to be ready to do our part in welcoming home our returning heroes and to assist them in every possible way during the time in which they will be fitting themselves into civil life once more.

Week, Nervous Children Quickly Gain Strength Under Following Plan

Nervousness, just like weakness, is a family predisposition. We inherit tendencies to disease just as we inherit physical resemblances. The strain of study, social duties, work at home — these all tend to make nervous troubles among children. No wonder that St. Vitus Dance, Epilepsy, and constant headaches have become alarmingly common. Pale, nervous, listless young people are met everywhere.

It is nothing short of criminal for parents to neglect signs of weakness in their children. By ignoring the slightest symptom of nervous or mental strain, you may condemn your child to life-long invalidism. If any member of your family complains of headaches, fear of going into dark places, give them that wonderful tonic, "Ferrozone." Strength of body and mind, hardy nerves, ability to study with comfort, all the attributes of health quickly follow the use of Ferrozone. It establishes strength, colour, endurance, vim—does this by filling the whole system with nourishment and tissue-forming materials.

It's because we know the enormous good that Ferrozone will do, because we are sure every child and even grown folks, will be permanently benefited, that we urged you to give it a trial. All dealers sell Ferrozone in 50c boxes, six for $2.50, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Claims Unfair Discrimination

Wife of Peterboro Soldier Returns Home on the Metagama.

Many complaints have been heard regarding the action of the government in charging wives of soldiers their return fares to Canada. Mrs. R. Hancock, wife of Pte. R. Hancock, 358 Aylmer street, returned to Canada last week on the Metagama. She paid over seventy-five dollars for her fare and during the voyage was so sick that she was compelled to seek the assistance of a strange soldier to undress her fifteen months old child. It was anything but an agreeable trip and according to Pte. Hancock service was entirely lacking on the Metagama. Other disagreeable features were recorded during the trip.

It is claimed that the wives of munition workers who went over to England during the war are returned to this country free of charge also the wives of the Australian and South African soldiers. Pte. Hancock has been in theservice since 1914 serving in both the British and Canadian army.

Men and women are always making trouble for each other; but if a stone wall separated them they would tear it down in order to get together.

STILL DISCOVERED IN TOWNSHIP OF DUMMER BY THE COUNTY POLICE

Matthew Lytle Was Apprehended and is Now Lodged in County Jail Awaiting Trial.

WORM SECURED

Matthew Lytle, 11th concession of Dummer township, was brought to the county gaol yesterday by High Constable A. Moore and charged with having a still on his property. Constable Moore has been on the lookout for several weeks, and yesterday took definite action when, in company with Mr. Joseph Stuart and County Constable Dixon, he drove out, surrounded Lytle's house and seized all the apparatus required for making the "cup that cheers," including the worm and 40 gallons of liquid. Lytle, caught red-handed, admitted he had been in the habit of making whiskey, but only for his own use, and had occasionally given a bottle away. He said he had never sold any. He will come up before County Magistrate Langley at the end of the week, and in the meantime is detained in the county gaol.

WAR VETERANS SUPPORT THE RED SHIELD FUND

Make Grant at Regular Meeting and the Members Will Also Voluntarily Subscribe to Army's Work.

At the regular meeting of the Peterboro branch of the Great War Veterans Association held in the club rooms last night with President A. S. Morrison in the chair, it was decided to make a grant of $25 from the Association funds to the Red Shield Fund of the Salvation Army. This sum will be augmented by individual subscriptions by the Veterans themselves. The work of the Salvation Army was warmly endorsed by several speakers who testified to the benefits they received from the efforts of the Army overseas.

The Association decided to hold an annual social re-union on the date of the landing of the first Canadian division in France. The entertainment committee will make the arrangements for this event.

The following were named as members of the entertainments committee: Comrades A. Ringer, chairman, W. Dalliday, J. Coppock, H. Yates, H. Coit, A. Miller, G. Findlay, O. White.

President Morrison and Secretary Whatley were appointed to select a representative committee of veterans to act as an employment committee to assist in finding work for returned men who are unable to secure employment.

The War Gratuity scheme of the Government was discussed and the opinion was expressed that the measure as it stands at present is not fair to the man who voluntarily enlisted and who was unable to get beyond England. A resolution was unanimously passed asking that men who enlisted before the Military Service Act was in operation and only reached England and who were discharged before November 11 be placed on the same footing as the men who served the army after the Military Service Act was passed and who although they may have only reached England are elegible for the gratuity if discharged after November 11th.

It was announced that the executive had been able to secure the service of Secretary Whatley for the balance of the year he having decided not to accept the position of Field Secretary for Ontario which he had been offered.

NEGLECTED COLDS

Lead to Consumption

Unless a complete cure is effected the inflammation passes rapidly to the throat bronchial tubes, and then to the lungs.

You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or a new nose—hence consumption is practically incurable.

But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage.

Catarrhozone

Guaranteed to Cure

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists — germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapour of Catarrhozone is breathed — sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.

Use Catarrhozone to prevent —use it to cure your winter ills—it's a pleasant, safe, and guaranteed in every case.

Two months' treatment, large size, guaranteed to cure, price $1; small size, 50c; sample size, 25c.; sold everywhere.

Charlie Chaplin At the Grand

Five Reel Metro Feature Drew Capacity House Last Night—Other Features.

Charlie Chaplain in "His Dare Devil Queen," and Edith Storey in "The Demon," a 5 reel Metro feature, drew an almost capacity house at "The Grand" last night. Chaplin and Vivian, vaudeville artists, gave a splendid exhibition of club swinging and dancing and were repeatedly encored. In addition to the above splendid programme, the Pathe News and an O. Henry story in two reels, in which was shown New York's big amusement park (Coney Island) were added to the bill. That the public appreciates the attractive programmes put on at "The Grand" is evidenced by the bumper houses this popular playhouse is drawing. The above bill will be presented to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night.

A CHILD HATES OIL, CALOMEL, PILLS FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" IF CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy ;they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Peterboro Horses Won at Ottawa

Make a Clean Sweep in Percheron Classes—Complimented by the Governor-General.

Mr. Albert Roberts, Beavermeadow Farm, has just returned from the Ottawa Winter Fair, where he was showing for W. Roberts & Sons, their string of thoroughbred Percheron horses. He was successful in winning in the following classes.

The Championship Sweepstake Prize for the best brood mare.

First with their two-year old registered mare.

First and second on pair of yearling colts.

They also won first prize on matched pair.

On the occasion of winning this prize the Governor-General shook hands with Mr. Roberts and complimented him on this pair of horses, making the statement that it was the finest matched pair he had seen in Canada.

The judge, an expert horseman, said it was the finest team he ever judged.

This is one of the most successful trips of the firm in showing their horses, not one of their exhibits being unplaced.

Judgment Given For Plaintiff

Echo of the Destruction by Fire of Dickson Bridge Company's Plant in Campbellford.

Judgment was delivered to-day at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, by the Honorable Mr. Justice Latchford, in an action brought by Charles Dawson, of Campbellford, against Quinlan & Robertson Limited for $26,963.61.

In 1916 Mr. Charles Dawson, of Campbellford, was the Superintendent of the Dickson Bridge Works Company, Limited, which had a large munition contract with the Imperial Munition Board, and were operating in the town of Campbellford. Mr. Dawson was entitled to some $25,000 profits at that time.

However, unfortunately in the winter of 1916 and 1917, the Dickson Bridge Company's plant was burned down and many shells and much of the plant was destroyed by fire, so Mr. Dawson required to arrange for the sale of the plant and business to Quinlan & Robertson, of Montreal, who were engaged in ship-building, government contracts, and were known as a wealthy, aggressive engineering concern.

The Production.

Quinlan & Robertson took over the Dickson Bridge Works plant in Campbellford, put in a large amount of new machinery and brought experts from various parts of the country, but were unable to obtain the production Mr. Dawson had represented the Dickson Bridge Works had obtained when they were operating the plant. Mr. Dawson gave as the reason for this that the labour was scarce, large numbers of men having enlisted, and material for shell-making was not uniform. Quinlan & Robertson refused to pay Mr. Dawson the amount that he claimed was due him, so action was brought in the Supreme Court against Quinlan & Robertson for $25,000. The action was tried at Cobourg last November and judgment was reserved by the Honorable Mr. Justice Latchford, and the result of the judgment is now that the amount claimed by Mr. Dawson has been allowed to him, with interest, and costs of action.

Pringle, Thompson, Burgess & Cote, of Ottawa, were the solicitors for Quinlan & Robertson, and Gordon, Widdifield & O'Brien were Mr. Dawson's solicitors.

Chairman's Report

The Chairman's report was as follows:—

The Nicholls Hospital has passed through a year of active work. The number of patients treated last year was the largest in the history of the hospital, 1,270 patients were admitted, being an increase over the previous year of 57, but the increase is in reality larger for during 1917 we had the benefit, in numbers, of the military force, which was mobilizing here at the time. The growth of the hospital may be seen when I say that in the year 1908, ten years ago we treated 590 patients, this year we treated 1,270, an increase of over 100 per cent.

During the past year we had to deal with the epidemic of flu, and, in addition to our regular work some 120 serious cases were cared for. This work was accomplished with very satisfactory results, thanks to the fidelity of our superintendant and her assistance under circumstances at once trying and critical.

The cost of maintenance and operation of the hospital has been a matter of much concern during the last three years, the steadily increasing cost of food and fuel, and practically every item entering into our work has made it difficult, with efficiency in view, to keep the cost of maintenance within bounds. We have ended the year with a deficit of $2,500.00 and we shall likely have to take advantage of the provision in our Act of Incorporation, giving us the right to call upon the Council to make up the deficiency. Should the cost of food, etc., come down, as we hope during this year the difference would be appreciable

During the year the Board very wisely made a start looking for the provision of more adequate accommodation for the nursing staff. The purchase of the house on the corner of Argyle and Sunnyside Streets has done much for the comfort of our nurses and a letter, read in your hearing to-day, voices their appreciation in this respect

To all appearances the war is over and we are proud of the many graduates of our training school who have done good service in their country's cause Our superintendant, Miss Beamish is still overseas but we have good cause to believe that she, has proved worthy of the trust reposed in her, we hope she will return to her work in due course, her work has been carried on with the utmost fidelity by Miss Sanderson and whose untiring zeal for the welfare of the hospital deserves our fullest commendation

I beg to thank the members of the Board and all associated in the work for their efficient services during the past year.

Election of Officers

The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

Chairman—Richard Hall, Esq.
Hon. Secretary—W. H Hill Esq
Sec. Treasurer—John Crane, Esq.

The Committees

The following are the committees for the year:

Supervision—B. F. Ackerman, chairman and Messrs. R. Fair and W. Madill.

Finance—E. B. Fowler, chairman and Messrs. Jas. Edgar and E. A. Peck.

Property—W. Aldridge chairman and Messrs. Geo. Green and D. McCulloch.

Visiting:

Jan. and July—Messrs. E. A. Peck and R. Fair.

Feb. and Aug.—Messrs. M. McIntyre and His Worship, the Mayor.

March and Sept.—Messrs. R. Neill and W. Aldridge.

April and Oct.—Messrs. Jas. Edgar and Thos. Brown.

May and Nov.—Messrs. W. Madill and E. B. Fowler.

June and Dec.—Dr. McCulloch and B. F. Ackerman.

The following resolution was passed by the Board:

Whereas during the past year death has removed Mr. Charles McGill, a trustee of this hospital, appointed in the deed of gift to the City, and later a life member of the Board, and whereas, the late Mr. McGill was, during his residence here, a friend of the Nicholls Hospital, promoting its welfare by every means in his power; therefore, be it resolved that the Board of Trustees of the Nicholls Hospital, assembled at its Annual meeting hereby places on record its appreciation of the valuable services rendered by the late Mr. McGill during the hospital's early days.

And that a copy of this resolution be sent to Mr. McGill's family.

It was also resolved that the thanks of this board be tendered to Miss Sanderson, Acting Superintendant, the Assistant Superintendants, Nurses, Orderlies and all other employees of the hospital for their faithful discharge of their respective duties during the year.

A grant of $100.00 was voted for the purposes of the Nurses' residence and in providing comforts for the same.

MR. PINCHES AT THE GOSPEL HALL

The Gospel Hall was again well filled last night to hear Mr. Pinches deal with "Heaven's Intervention in Relation to the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the Dead and Ascension to the Father's Throne." Here are a few nuggets from the most powerful address on the subject ever given in the hall:

"Jesus was seen go into Heaven."

"A Real Man is on the Throne."

"The Resurrection of Christ is Heaven's Pledge to the Triumph of Christ over the Nations."

"Heaven's Pledge and Demonstration for the Triumph of Christ over Death and Hell."

"A Pledge to every Believer that there is now an Administration in Heaven, the Father through the Son blessing in a Marvellous Way all who look to Him in this Life and Ultimate Triumph and Delivery in Heaven of every poor sinner who trusts Christ."

The song service was delightful. Mr. Pinches was a host in himself.

The subject to-night is "Heaven's Intervention in Relation to the Hebrew, Past and Present." Hebrews especially invited.

The Bone-Dry Question Was Up

Legislation Validating War-time Restrictions on Liquor Question May Be Introduced.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—A measure of national prohibition will be submitted to Parliament at the coming session, and if there were any doubts on that score they are removed by the striking unanimity of the different States in ratifying the bone-dry constitutional amendment. The argument already is being advanced that what the United States has done, Canada must do or else become the Mecca of thirsty mobs from across the border.

As matters now stand, all the Canadian provinces, except Quebec, are dry. In that one province a prohibition law becomes effective next May. As the provincial enactments were good so far as they went, but were not considered as going far enough, the Dominion Government stepped in last year, banned interprovincial traffic, which the provinces were unable to do, and, what was more effective, stopped the importation and manufacture of liquor. It was done as a war measure, particularly to promote national economy and the tenure of it was for the war and a year afterwards.

May Go Further

Doubts as to the constitutionality of the latter provision will necessitate the validation of the measure in the coming session of Parliament, but in all probability it will be presented in a new form, going further than amplifying the interprovincial enactments. There is also under consideration as part of the prohibitory legislation, a national referendum when the soldiers are back and things are stabilized to determine the permanency of the measure.

Latterly there has been talk at Ottawa of the restrictions producing a reaction in the country and of a consequent tendency towards modification. What is being done in the United States, however, undoubtedly furnishes an immense stimulus to the movement for a bone-dry law in Canada, and it is thither that things are drifting. Complete prohibition will not be enacted without a full discussion, however, and the opponents of it are preparing to put up the best fight they can though the real battle would probably come at the time of the suggested national plebiscite.

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hairs removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste, she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed, and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone.

Fire Dept. Estimates $29,076 Without Two-Platoon Cost

Total Would be $36,086.70 If Chief Grange's Recommendations Are Accepted—A Considerable Increase Over Last Year's Appropriation—Mayor Suggests the Pruning Hook.

WAR BONUS MENTIONED

Fire Chief Grange's estimate of expenditures in his department this year, as submitted to the Fire, Water and Light committee last night, were $29,076.50. This is a proposed increase of $4,076.50 over his appropriation last year of $25,000, which the Council finally passed after paring the items that made up his total estimate of $35,594.

The above estimate of the ordinary expenses for 1919 do not include two probable items, which his statement mentions, of the cost of inaugurating the two-platoon system and of installing a generating plant for a proposed change in the fire alarm system. Thus the total estimate may be set forth as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Ordinary estimate | $ 29,076.50 |
| Two platoon system | 4,859.20 |
| Fire alarm system | 2,151.00 |
| Total | $ 36,086.70 |

Paring Suggested.

The new members of Ald. Morrison's committee reticently perused Chief Grange's folio of figures and recommendations, but Mayor Duncan, with a glance at the total and a scrutiny of the bulkiest items in the list, suggested the application of the pruning knife, an instrument the new aldermen may have heard of with a vague idea of its use on the anatomy of estimates.

"There's $200 expenses for attending the convention. I think that could be cut out," said the Mayor. "The Chief doesn't need to go to Calgary this year. He has asked for 1,000 feet of hose. I don't think we need that much."

After a cursory examination of the Chief's volume, accompanied by comments, in which the Mayor struck the keynote, the committee decided to visit the Fire Hall next Monday afternoon for the purpose of inspecting the Department's stock, and thus acquainting the aldermen of the actual needs for this year.

Question of Salaries.

The estimate bulged opposite the item of salaries. On the present basis, including war bonus, the total is $19,151.25, but the Chief intimates that he should receive an increase of $200 and the engineer $160, that brings the salary figure up to $19,511.25, but it excludes the wages of the four new men who have to be engaged if the two platoon system is instituted.

A review of the salary increases granted the department during the past two years shows, in part, that in June, 1917, the salaries of first-class men were fixed at $1,000 and second class at $900. In October 1917, Chief Grange was engaged at $1,400, and in March, 1918, the Chief received an increase of $100, to $1,500, the assistant chief received $1,150, the captain $1,075 and the lieutenant $1,050. In June last year the Chief was given another $100, and all the other members of the department were granted a bonus of 15 p.c., subject to the Council's right to terminate it after 1918.

Present Salaries.

The present salary list is therefore as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Chief Grange | $ 1,600.00 |
| H. Johnston, asst.-chief | 1,323.50 |
| A. McDonald, captain | 1,238.25 |
| J. Warde, lieutenant | 1,207.50 |
| P. Pammett, engineer | 1,150.00 |
| Gordon Johnston, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Robert Wilson, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Frank Degen, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| George Crouter, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Harold Howell, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Victor Lebarr, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| James Weyer, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Bruce Menzies, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Thomas Hetley, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| George Degen, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| John Drummond, fireman | 1,150.00 |
| Wm. Copperthwaite, fireman | 1,035.00 |
| Extra for lineman | 100.00 |
| | $19,151.25 |

Maintain the Bonus.

Mayor Duncan pointed out that the bonus could be cancelled this year, but in his report Chief Grange wrote: "The salary estimate includes the bonus given last June. This should be continued and the present salary made permanent. Since taking charge of the department I have always had a complete staff, and at present the men are, with one exception, well experienced and capable. Undoubtedly it is to the interest of the department and the city generally to maintain the present staff. The fires of last winter were of more educational value to the men than ten years would be under normal conditions.

Ald. Garside casually inquired whether the men expected the salaries to remain unreduced if they were given the benefits of the two-platoon system.

It was recalled that under the proposed change the brigade would consist of twenty men, but a letter from Chief James Armstrong of Kingston, to Chief Grange stated that he has two platoons of nine men each. He was effusively enthusiastic over the success of the new system which Kingston adopted towards the end of the year. He declared it to be a huge success, that it promoted efficiency by giving the men the advantages of home and social life. Chief Armstrong in fact, wondered why the firemen, alone of all workmen, had ever submitted to the twenty-four hour service. The question of expense, he intimated, was a secondary consideration.

Communicate With Underwriters.

The committee decided to notify the Insurance Underwriters of the Council's plan to add four men to the Department, at the same time establishing the two-platoon system, also of putting a fire alarm bell in each fireman's home and of otherwise improving the Department. A favourable reply is expected as encouragement for these efforts in efficiency.

Chief Grange's Presentment.

Chief Grange's statement included the following recommendations:

The Bell Telephone Co. is seriously considering a refusal to supply us with power with which to operate the alarm system, owing to the fact that it is needed for their own business. The power supplied the fire department by the Bell Co. is at present inadequate and if more alarm boxes or bells were used, would not be near enough. We should have bells in the homes of the firemen and, although I am not asking for more alarm boxes, these should be more, but this is impossible without present supply of power. I would strongly advise that a motor generator set, consisting of an alternating current motor attached to a direct current generator with storage batteries and four circuit switchboard complete, be installed. This would give us sufficient power for time to come and would eliminate the annual expenditure of $150 for power received from the Bell Co. The cost of this machine is included in the estimate re fire alarm system.

We have in stock the summer uniforms that were purchased late in the fall of 1918. These will be issued in the spring of 1919. The department has issued only one uniform per man in the last three years. Ten were issued during 1916, 6 in 1917 and none during 1918. Thus the stock is badly depleted and winter uniforms will be needed for next fall's issue.

We have in stock 6,300 feet of first-class hose, 2,000 feet of which was purchased last winter. I would ask you to consider the purchase of an additional thousand feet in order to keep the stock up to the present standard.

Last year's estimates included two smoke helmets. These are used by all departments and very essential where dense smoke has been accumulating in a building. I had the pleasure of seeing them demonstrated in Toronto at the convention of Fire Chiefs and was firmly convinced that they are absolutely necessary for the successful combatting of smoky fires, and where acid fumes prevail.

A Baker cellar pipe and Alfco ladder nozzles are very necessary equipment. The former permits the directing of a stream on to a cellar fire from outside. In many cases it is impossible for men to enter a cellar, and by means of this contrivance the stream can be directed from the outside to better advantage than is possible with a straight nozzle. The ladder nozzle allows easier manipulation of a branch from a ladder, with more safety and fewer men than the ordinary nozzle.

Our ladder equipment is very much depleted. The forty-five ft. extension, which was badly worn, was broken, practically beyond repair, at a fire on Oct. 9th on the premises of the Renfrew Mfg. Co. In extending the ladder the fly top left the slots and caught in the structure against which it was set, and in our efforts to have it dislodged it fell, with the result stated above. Our 30 ft. straight ladder has been in an unsafe condition for years, having been repaired many times, and at present portions of it are bound with wire. It is unsafe to allow men to use this ladder. A very handy ladder, 24 ft., was lost at the Quaker Oats fire in 1916 and never replaced.

All the horses in the fire station are unfit for the fire service. I would strongly advise that one new team be purchased to replace the Mill and Brook horses. The other two could be retained and still do service for the Board of Works as at present. I am of the opinion that it would be best to still keep four horses in order to guard against any accident to the motor driven apparatus.

Although the cost of living has nearly doubled in the past two years the salary paid the Chief of the department remains the same as it was in 1917. I requested an increase of two hundred dollars and think, gentlemen, I am justified in making the request. I also request an increase of one hundred for the engineer. I might say that I consider this request deserving of your favourable consideration.

An Inquiry to Determine Who is Guilty of Starting the War

American Peace Delegates Favour a Thorough Investigation—French Have Drafted a Proposal.

By Robert J. Bender.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 21. — The American peace delegates to-day appeared to favour a thorough investigation to fix the responsibility for the war, that no culprit might escape, and that punishment might be meted out to all those sharing the guilt, from the Kaiser down.

With the conference programme calling for memorandum from all the powers regarding responsibility for starting and continuing the war, there was tremendous interest in the attitude of the American delegation, particularly President Wilson. The French already have drafted a proposal that the Kaiser be tried before an International court. Premier Lloyd George, in his recent political campaign, made punishment of the Kaiser one of his principal planks. Wilson has been silent thus far, but a survey of his associates' viewpoint to-day, indicated they favour the most careful investigation to determine who is directly responsible, the Kaiser, or others.

The President has always held guilt to be personal, and it is recollected that when he was governor of New Jersey, he advocated a law to determine personal responsibility for the acts of corporation officials. Application of the principle of personal guilt to the Kaiser is stayed by doubt whether he was the perpetrator of the crimes growing out of the war, or was merely the tool of the military clique which surrounded him. Hence, it appears that the Americans will advocate the most thorough inquiry to determine every person who is guilty, and the extent of their guilt.

Letters From Peterboro Soldiers

Sergt. P. S. Burke Is With the Siberian Forces and Gunner Frank Burke is in Germany.

Two Peterborough boys, who formerly resided at 263 Townsend street, white the following letters home to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Burke. The first letter is from Sergeant P. S. Burke, who is at present in Siberia with the Canadian Red Cross. This is the first letter from Siberia published in The Examiner:

Siberia, Dec. 2nd.

Dear Parents,—Just a line to let you know that I am well at present, and hoping these few lines will find you all well at home. You will see that I am now Sergeant P. S., Siberian Force, Canadian Red Cross. You may still address all my mail to France the same as usual. It is terrible cold here just now, and you can safely put your head under the fur blankets at night. Fur coats or anything else will not keep the cold out, here. I expect that the weather will be good and warm by the time I reach home because it will be either June or July, as far as I know.

Yours truly,
SERGT. P. S. BURKE.

The Second Letter.

The second letter from Gunner F. P. Burke is written in Germany. He is a brother of Sergeant Burke, who wrote the foregoing letter:

Saiglar, Germany, Dec. 14, 1918.

Dear Father and Mother,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am quite well and hope these few lines will find you all the same.

We have just finished our triumphant march to Germany yesterday, and expect to be here for at least two months.

We are all sleeping in beds here now, so you see we are not very bad off at present.

We are three miles from the largest university town in the world, named Bonn, and has a population of 129,000. There are some fine places there too. The bridge over the Rhine is the finest bridge I ever saw, and we were inspected by General Currie when we were crossing it.

Well, I have been figuring out as to when I would get home. At the way they are going to run things I won't get home before June or July, and very lucky if I get home before.

I am afraid I will have to quit for now, as news is very scarce, hoping to hear from you soon, I remain as ever, your son, Frank.

GUNNER F. P. BURKE.

Number of Improvements Made to the Little Lake Cemetery

Cemetery Board Held Annual Meeting Yesterday Afternoon—Officers Elected for the Year.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Little Lake cemetery Company was held in the City Council Chamber yesterday afternoon.

There were present the Directors and Messrs. F. Adams, W. H. Foord (a former Superintendent) and James (the present Superintendent).

The usual reports, namely, auditors', Directors' and Superintendent's were read and received, and a by-law adopted for the appointment of a Vice-President to take the place of the President in his absence from the city.

Messrs. T. Q. Quartermaine and F. J. A. Hall were re-appointed auditors.

The election of directors resulted in all the former members being re-elected, namely, Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, W. H. Moore, K.C., T. H. G. Denne, Henry Rush, Benjamin Shortly, Arthur Stevenson, B. F. Ackerman, W. G. Morrow and E. A. Peck.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board, Mr. T. H. G. Denne was elected President, and Mr. Benjamin Shortly Vice-President of the Company.

Directors' Report.

To the Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company:

Your Directors have to report as follows:

The permanent improvements made during the year are set out in the Superintendent's report submitted herewith and have in the opinion of the directors, been necessary and have been done in a satisfactory manner by the Superintendent and his assistants.

The receipts for sale of lots during 1918 were $4,073.00 and $140.00 was expended in the purchase of lots. Part of the greenhouse having become dilapidated, your Directors considered it advisable instead of making repairs to purchase a substantial steel structure to replace it. This was erected by the Superintendent. The total cost was $788.97. In order to make the receiving vault more secure a concrete wall with iron doors has been constructed across the vault.

The ordinary receipts and payments for the year were as follows, and for the purpose of comparison the receipts and payments of 1917 are also set out.

| Receipts— | 1918. | 1917. |
|---|---|---|
| Sales from greenhouse | $1661.30 | $1685.15 |
| Care of lots and digging graves | 5032.40 | 2927.70 |
| Building foundations, vault fees and markers | 908.59 | 740.80 |
| Rent | 92.50 | 64.00 |
| Interest | 1263.32 | 791.23 |
| | $8943.11 | $6108.75 |
| Payments— | 1918. | 1917. |
| Wages | $5814.83 | $4652.68 |
| Greenhouse supplies | 774.11 | 457.66 |
| Stable supplies | 200.74 | 131.50 |
| Salaries and office supplies | 960.63 | 1074.05 |
| Markers | 334.60 | 340.90 |
| Repairs and insurance | 55.05 | |
| | $8130.06 | $6557.59 |

This shows the total receipts for 1918 (other than from sales of lots) to have been the sum of $8943.11 and the total payments to have been $8,130.06, leaving the sum of $1,176.95 which was paid out of money received from sale of lots. The amount paid for wages during 1918 exceeded the wages paid on 1917 by $1162.25, whereas the additional amount received from care of lots, digging graves, greenhouse vault fees in 1918 exceeded the amount received in 1917 by only $343.75. The amount received for interest was $472.07 more in 1918 than in 1917, but a portion of this was interest due in 1917. The increase in the wages was occasioned by reason of the necessity of raising the rates of wages of all the employees in the cemetery in order to retain them and owing to the ordinary days work being changed to nine hours a day.

There was collected during the year from old accounts the sum of $667.43 leaving a balance of $505.45 uncollected and probably uncollectable.

In addition to the ordinary receipts there has been received during the year on Trust account the sum of $1,300.00 for the perpetual care of lots belonging to the following estates: Dr. George Burnham $500, Rev. V. Clementi $300, Mrs. Ann Graham $200, Lewis Story $100, Mrs. Annie McClelland $200.

Your directors, during the year, purchased $3,300.00 of war loan bonds at a cost of $3,183.24 and now hold debentures of the City of Peterborough for the sum of $18,417.31 and war loan bonds for the sum of $6,800.00, making together the sum of $26,217.31, which were purchased at a cost of $25,714.24. The total annual income on these securities amounts to $1,209.69.

There was in the bank on the 31st December last the sum of $2,242.37.

Your directors, in order to ascertain as nearly as possible the value of the assets of the Company have had an estimate made of the value of the remaining unsold lots and also the land in the cemetery not yet divided into lots and placing a value of these lots and the land at prices, similar lots are now being disposed of, the value of the unsold portion of the cemetery is the sum of $190,000. This value is, of course, only an estimate and is not a presently available asset, but will be such as the lots are sold, if it should become possible to carry on the cemetery out of the ordinary revenue without using any portion of the money received for the sale of lots, which at present appears to be impossible unless the charges for burials, care of lots, etc., are increased. The your directors do not deem advisable to do at the present time, but even assuming that one-half the money received for the sale of lots is used for the upkeep of the cemetery and the sum of $190,000 is in any way near the value of the unsold lots there should be an ample fund for the maintenance of the cemetery after all the lots are disposed of.

Dated at Peterborough this 20th day of January, 1919.

(Sgd.) E. H. D. Hall, President.

(Sgd.) E. A. Peck, Secretary.

Superintendent's Report.

To the President, Directors and Shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery—

Gentlemen, — Another year of work in your cemetery has passed and although not much new work has been taken up, considerable renovating of the ground and premises has been done.

Painting. — At a meeting of your directors in May last, it was decided to paint the gates and fence around the cemetery which has been done in a dark green at a cost of $65, including labor and material. This has made a great improvement in the appearance and preserving the same. The vases and stands numbering about 700 were given a coat of aluminum; also the garden seats in the cemetery were painted. The office walls and ceiling were painted, and the wood work varnished; also weather strip was put on the windows.

Concrete Drinking Fountain. — As instructed by you I have built a concrete platform around the drinking fountain and put in a concrete ice box, which has made a great improvement on the wooden platform, which had become very much delapidated.

Vault. — As per your instructions I have built a ten inch reinforced concrete wall dividing vault with iron gate at lift and iron door for entrance, which has made it secure from entrance without using extraordinary means to enter. This was done at a cost of about $75.

Greenhouse. — The old section of greenhouse running east and west has been taken down and replaced by a Lord and Burnham Semi-Iron Frame structure, with iron columns, and 10-inch concrete wall This has made a great improvement both as to light for growing and also saving of fuel. The heating system has been overhauled and a concrete walk around benches and iron post set in concrete.

Grading. — During the year I have graded and seeded on Section O ground enough for three ranges in width, making room for about ninety five-grave lots, and on single grave section room enough for about one hundred graves. Water mains have been laid on new ranges opened up. Part of the lawn at the rear of the Superintendent's house has been raised and the remainder to be done in the spring; the sod for winter graves.

Trees. — Twenty-seven maple and elm trees have been planted on the lower section of the cemetery and all appear to be growing.

Interments — There have been during the year 315 interments; 8 removals; 28 foundations for monuments

All of which is respectfully submitted,

William Jones, Superintendent. Little Lake Cemetery.

Independence for the Dominions

Canada Claims Right to Enter League of Nations on Same Basis as Smaller Nations.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—It is stated here that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will claim the right to enter the League of Nations, independent of Great Britain and on the same basis as Belgium and other smaller powers. In some quarters this is taken to mean that should occasion arise the Dominions might oppose the Mother Country in a discussion of the problems before the League. In other words these Dominions demand formal recognition by Britain and the rest of the world of their sovereignty in internal affairs.

MOTHERS PROMISED COURT TO USE 'DAD'S' RAZOR STRAP FREELY

Their Sons Admitted Having Destroyed Railway Property

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 21.—County Magistrate Hunt has adopted a new form of penalty, and imposed it for the first time, when he held juvenile court at the court house. A couple of lads appeared before him charged by Detective Thomas Hare of the Pere Marquette, with having destroyed property and committed other damage in the local yards. They were accompanied by their mother, and at first denied their guilt, but afterwards admitted it. They were given a stern lecture by the 'squire, and then allowed them to go on a solemn promise from their mothers that daddy's razor strop would be freely used on them when they reached home. The constable's costs and other charges in connection with the court were paid by the mothers.

Game With Port Hope Is Off Again

The mild weather is playing havoc with the hockey schedule. The Peterboro-Port Hope junior game scheduled for last Friday night and postponed until to-night, on account of soft ice, has had to be again postponed there being no ice available at Port Hope. A third attempt will be made to have game played next Monday night. The Lindsay Juniors are scheduled to play there on Friday night.

HOCKEY

The scare that Paris juniors, with only six men to oppose eight, gave Woodstock at Woodstock will make Toronto junior fans sit up. Woodstock looked like the makings of a sweet little team when they were here in the S.P.A. Cup games. Maybe they have an attack of the swelled head, a disease prevalent among junior hockey players if they get a little newspaper notoriety.—Toronto Star.

CURLING

Although the curlers have been all but evicted by the Weather Man's amenities, the committee chose the skips last night for the Orillia, Lindsay and Bobcaygeon games. There was only one game played last night. It was exceptional in more respects than its sole possession of the ice, for there was some suspicion that it was a seven-man to one contest. However, that was only a rumour based on some of the off-play. The scheduled games have been badly upset, and it is likely that when winter gets back on the job Wednesday nights will be filled up, and even afternoon games may be necessary.

Is a man cool if he shivers in the hour of danger?

The reason some people talk so much is because they have so little to say.

OBITUARY

MRS. W. RICHARDSON.

With deepest sorrow the many friends of Julia Pearson, beloved wife of William Richardson, will regret to learn of her early death, Monday, January 13th, at her home, Queen street, Lindsay.

The deceased was taken after a short attack of influenza, and leaves to mourn her loss a beloved husband and a young family if six, the youngest being only three years of age, and a mother, one sister, Mrs. R. Stone, and six brothers, Samuel, Daniel, John, James and Michael, also of Kinmount, and Harry overseas, survive her.

CHARLES PEARSON.

The death occurred of Charles Pearson at his home, 37 Saint Patrick street, Lindsay, New Year's eve, at 7 p.m.

The deceased was a victim of pneumonia, which followed a severe attack of influenza. His death was unexpected.

He has been a resident of Lindsay for the past eight years and was well liked amid a large circle of friends.

He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife and one daughter of seven years, a mother ,two sisters, Mrs. R. Stone of Kinmount and Mrs. W. Richardson of Lindsay, and six brothers, Samuel, Daniel, Michael, John and James of Kinmount also, and Harry overseas.

The funeral took place on January 3rd to the G.T.R. station, thence to Kinmount, where the burial took place at St. Mary's cemetery, Galway.

MRS. MARTIN LEONARD.

On Tuesday morning, January 14th, after an illness of four months there passed away at her residence in Ennismore, one of the township's most highly respected and most esteemed citizens ,in the person of Mrs. Martin Leonard, relict of the late Martin Leonard, who predeceased her some 16 years ago.

The family have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends, for even though of advanced age her years were filled with parental love and Christian endeavour to the last.

One daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and son, Patrick John, survive.

The brothers are Michael C. Sullivan and Patrick C. Sullivan of Ennismore, and John C Sullivan, of Peterboro. The sisters are Mrs. John K. Galvin of Ennismore, and Miss Kate Sullivan of Peterboro. There are also three grand children—Martin Flood, Leonard Flood and Mary Flood, all of Ennismore.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Thursday at nine o'clock to St. Martin's church, thence to St. Martin's cemetery for interment.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR.

WILL VISIT AMERICA

Interview With Sir Horace Plunkett, Irish Leader The Afternoon Meeting.

(By United Press)

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 21.—Establishment of an Irish Republic must be effected without civil war, Sir Horace Plunkett, Irish leader, told the United Press to-day, just prior to sailing for the United States on the liner, Adriatic.

"I am going to America to confer with Americans who are interested in Ireland," said Sir Horace.

"It was never more important for Irishmen to know what Americans think about us. A republic can never be established in Ireland through the medium of a civil war. On the other hand, Ireland cannot be divided politically without lasting injury."

The meeting was to be called to order in the Mansion House this afternoon. The delegates consisted mostly of Sinn Feiners elected to the British Parliament in the recent elections, in which that party won a big victory. About half the Sinn Fein M. P's are under arrest ,charged with sedition, or held on suspicion of violating the defense of the Realm Act.

Announced Intention.

The announced intention of the Parliament is to establish an Irish Republic, levy taxes to support the new government and select Irish delegates to the Peace Conference. It is believed, however, that the real purpose is to attract international attention to the Irish situation and force the Versailles Congress to include settlement of the Irish question in the Peace Treaty.

The meeting is in direct violation of British laws and the Imperial officials apparently have given it their sanction.

Monarchist Movement Succeeding

Special to Examiner.)

MADRID, Jan. 21. — The Monarchist movement in Portugal has succeeded throughout the northern portion of the country and Lisbon is reported to have gone over to the Royalists, according to information received by the Spanish government to-day.

In Vigo the proclamation of Manuel as King is said to have been greeted with enthusiasm by the civilains and soldiers alike. Monarchist troops are reported to be marching upon Valencia to force it to join the revolt.

Many republican leaders are said to have been arrested. Scores are said to be fleeing into France.

CONTRACT SYSTEM FALLS DOWN.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 19.—Brantford, after a few months' experience with the contract system of garbage collection, has decided to return to the old method of doing the work with civic employes. Owing to the falling down of the present arrangement the Buildings and Grounds committee have decided to break the contract with George Tutt. An unsuccessful endeavour was made by the latter to use motor trucks on the job.

ADDRESSED THE LIFE PROBLEM CLUB

The Life Problem Club of the Y. M. C. A. was addressed by the Rev. Amos Thomas of the George Street Methodist church, on Sunday afternoon. He took as his subject, — "Worth While Resolutions for 1919." Forty members of the Club were present. These interesting addresses will be continued every Sunday.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

NO CHILDREN GIVEN UP.

Threat of the Bulgarians Fails to Produce Results.

SOFIA, Jan. 20.—Under pressure of the allies, the Bulgarian Government has issued orders to prefects throughout the country asking that charges be preferred against any people who are detaining in their homes Greek boys and girls who were carried away from Eastern Macedonia during the war. So far, no missing children have been given up as a result of this order, but every day numbers of Greek children are brought to the Greek mission here by allied soldiers who find them on the streets.

American Liquors to be Sold Abroad

The exportation of a large quantity of the whisky and other liquors now held in storage in the States, is planned to begin shortly through the formation of the Transoceanic Commercial Corporation, an export concern, which will represent the Distillers Securities Corporation in foreign markets. The new company is incorporated in this state with a capital of $1,000,000. Norman R. Sterne is President and one of the directors; the others of whom are Henry Wehrane, Thomas F. Reynolds, Alvin W. Krech and Julius Kessler.

It is estimated that there are about 100,000,000 gallons of beverage and non-beverage distilled spirits in storage in the warehouses of this country, most of which comes under the first named classification. Of this amount the Distillers Securities Corporation holds about 40 per cent. The liquor on hand is far beyond that which would normally be sold in this country during a period of twelve months. The distilling interests are, however, contemplating a free sale of liquor only until July 1st, when the war period prohibition becomes effective. This it is understood, has made it imperative that means be taken to dispose of the surplus quantity abroad.

Will Continue.

The statment was made that the new export concern was not directly brought into being by the approach of prohibition as the plan is to do a general exporting business. The distillers Securities Corporation is not planning to liquidate but will continue in business even after prohibition becomes a fact as many of the company's plants are already being adapted to the manufacture of industrial alcohol, for which ti is expected that there will be a big demand abroad. The European countries, it is said, will not be in a position to manufacture alcohol in commercial quantities for a long time, as the raw material is not available.

It is understood, however, that the most pressing need now is the disposal of the surplus whisky stock. The company's plants are running day and night bottling the liquor, and a representative of the new export concern is already in Europe negotiating sales there. The foreign representative is D. K. Weiskopr, and his instructions, it is said, are to negotiate sales in every European country, with the exception of those of the Central Powers. The company also has a number of salesmen in South America, where it is expected that big supplies will be taken.

These representatives will be maintained abroad to continue the business of the export concern in industrial alcohol. It was announced yesterday that the Distillers Securities Corporation might branch out into other fields of activity some of which were now under consideration, but that no statement as to the plans would be forthcoming for some time.

DIRECTORS' ATTEMPT TO "MUZZLE" PRESS FOILED AT WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Jan. 20.—Attempts made here to muzzle the press at the annual meeting of the Windsor and North Essex Agricultural Society, were frustrated. Faced with a deficit of $3,200, the largest adverse balance in the history of the organization, some of the directors urged the appointment of a censorship committee to "look over the stuff the newspaper will write about the meeting."

After being reminded that the business of the society was the business of the people, inasmuch as more than $3,000 in grants from municipalities and the Government had been used by the association, the censor advocates backed down.

That the deficit was due to unbusinesslike methods and extraordinary expenditures for entertainment, meals for the directors, etc., was charged in a report presented by Alexander Peddle, chairman of a special finance committee appointed to investigate the society's financial standing. Another meeting will be held.

DEATH DREAM CAME TRUE.

New York Man Killed Just as His Father Had Seen Accident in Vision.

That a dream had proved true was asserted by William Jackson, of No. 110 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, in describing how his son, Charles, met death last Saturday afternoon, says the New York World.

"On Friday night," said Mr. Jackson, "I had a very clear dream concerning my son. I saw him at his work on the travelling crane, and I saw the crane break and his body fall several hundred feet."

In the morning at the breakfast table Mr. Jackson told his wife of the dream. Several hours later word was received from the Navy Yard, where his son was employed, that the line attached to the boom on which he was working had parted and he had fallen 200 feet and been killed.

GRAIN MARKET

An announcement from Washington yesterday intimating that there would be an immediate change in the policy of the Food Board as regards the fixed price of $17.50 minimum on hogs had the effect of strengthening the corn markets, which immediately after the announcement began an upward movement, forcing the shorts to cover. Prices steadily advanced on the options 1 5-8c. to 2 1-2c. at the close. Cash prices also strengthened. Chicago and Winnipeg advancing.

WON'T RAISE SCHOOL AGE.

Changes in the Education Act Likely to be of Minor Importance—Expecting Aid for Technical Schools.

Although there will be some changes in the Education Act at this session of the Legislature, they will mostly be of minor importance.

There will likely be some changes in the Truancy Act, and likely it will be changed so that women truant officers will be appointed. It is also stated that the act will be changed somewhat to encourage the attendance at school rather than to punish the non-attendance.

As regards the raising of the school age nothing will likely be done this session. The trouble seems to be that there are not enough Technical schools. Until this lack of schools is remedied the age will remain the same. But once this difficulty is overcome the act will be changed so that instead of children having the option of attending it will be made compulsory up to the age of 16 years at least.

The Government at the present time is just waiting to see what pecuniary aid the Federal Government at Ottawa will give the province. So far it is not known just what amount will be given, although aid has been promised them.

There will be some minor changes regarding teachers, probably following the lines suggested by deputations that have seen the new Minister of Education.

Why Can't I Get to Sleep?

Thousands of people all over the country ask this question but still continue to toss night after night on a sleepless bed and it is impossible for them to get a full night's refreshing sleep.

Some constitutional disturban , worry or disease, has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quietened except by the pernicious use of opiates or narcotics. Or again, you have heart palpitation, and sensation of sinking, a feeling you are going to die, or perhaps you wake up in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and the only way that you can get relief is to sit up in bed.

To all who suffer in this way, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer an inestimable boon. They bring back the much needed night's rest by improving the tone of the nerves, strengthen the heart, enriching the blood and making the whole organization act in harmony—then you sleep as peaceful as a child.

Mrs. James Latimer, 39 Leinster St., St. John, N. B., writes: "At night I could not sleep. I had to sit up in bed, my heart beat so fast and when I walked up stairs I would get all out of breath. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I can sleep all night, and am not out of breath after walking."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"I understand," said the reporter, "that somewhere in this neighborhood a child was born yesterday weighing twenty-seven pounds. Do you know anything about it?" "Know all about it," replied the corner grocer. "It's father is Bob Chunks, the iceman, and he weighed it on his ice scales."—Buffalo Commercial.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

Guaranteed to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symtoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that the best nerve food is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

Weak, tired people regain strength and vigour; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright, and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health. Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks.

It is sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterborough and most all good druggists.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—Thanks to the Weather Man the coal dealers of Toronto are not many weeks behind in their orders, as they were at this time last year. Though having little surplus stock, the supply going out as fast as it comes in, they are meeting the coal needs of the citizens without pressure. The dealers look to the future with confidence, but warn the public that a period of cold weather might aggravate the situation. Belief that there will be sufficient coal for all has led the dealers to be on the sharp outlook for business.

Ruth Finds Brian's Message to Mollie

CHAPTER XCIII.

Tears filled Ruth's eyes as she threw her arms around her old mammy.

"I was going to surprise him, mammy! I thought he would be so pleased."

"Don' yo go fer sprise him no time, honey. He ain't comin' home much when yo's away. He sholy ain't!"

Ruth wanted to ask mammy about the number of evenings Brian had spent out while she was away, but bit her lip to keep the questions back. Not even to old mammy, who had known and loved her all her life, would she express curiosity about her husband, or seem to pry into his actions.

"Go tak yo things off, honey. I'll git yo some dinner in a jiffy."

Ruth did as Rachel told her. But she could eat very little of the tempting dinner Rachel brought her. She was so disappointed that she could scarcely keep the tears back; yet Brian might come in at any moment and he must not find her crying.

Her dinner finished, she could set herself to nothing, although she tried to read. But her thoughts were constantly straying always Brian-ward.

"I'll write Aunt Louisa!" she said aloud, and moved over to her desk. Idly she fingered the blotter, then her attention was arrested by the heavy lines blotted upon it. She smiled as she thought: "Brian has been using my desk to write—perhaps he wrote me again last night."

Brian's lavish use of ink had always rather amused Ruth. His bold chirography with the heavy shaded lines was unmistakable. Now she looked closely at the blotter. At first she only made out a word here and there—"dear" and "Rachel" and "trouble."

"He was writing me," Ruth said aloud. "I wish I had telegraphed him. Perhaps he was so lonely he went to the theatre or a movie."

Again she bent over the blotter. This time more carefully. Without much trouble, she finally had the entire note Brian had written Mollie, before her. That is, enough of it to know it was not intended for her.

"Don't call—house again, dear. Rachel — understand—tell" — make trouble."

The missing words made Brian's meaning different altogether from what he had intended to convey to Mollie. He had said "Rachel might NOT understand" but the "not" was undecipherable. "Who could this not be intended for?" Ruth asked herself, the answer already in her mind: "Mollie King."

But what was it that Rachel would understand, and make trouble about? And he had called her "dear"—had warned her not to call the house because of this fear that old mammy might understand something he didn't want her—Ruth—to know. Of course she would be apt to repeat to Ruth anything she thought her young mistress should know, of what went on while she was away.

"What can I do?" Ruth moaned, resting her head on her hand while slow tears dropped upon the blotter which had told her so much. "What shall I do? Oh, Brian! I love you so, and you care—for her."

Ruth really considered what she had read, proof that Brian was doing something of which she would disapprove—that would make trouble between them if she knew. What could it be, save that he was fond of someone else—Mollie probably? Ruth had never objected to anything else he did; never once found fault with him. And only once had she spoken of his intimacy with Mollie.

"Oh, Brian!" laying her head down on her folded arms, she sobbed until Rachel, hearing, came in to comfort her.

"Don' cry, honey! he'll be home soon, he sholy will."

"I can't help it, Rachel. I am so disappointed. I wanted to surprise and please him. And"—she broke out afresh.

"Thar honey! Yo member what ole Rachel tells yo. Don' sprise folkses. Tain't de ting to do, honey."

"I never shall again," Ruth returned. "I am going to take a bath and go to bed. You go to bed, Rachel. I won't cry any more."

Rachel drew the bath for Ruth, made her bed ready, then went to her own room muttering things which could Brian have heard, he would have found anything but complimentary. In fact she called down all sorts of punishments on his head for making "missy Ruth" cry.

Ruth was tired with her journey and the excitement caused by giving way to her emotion. She dropped off to sleep about midnight. But when the clock struck four it wakened her. She lighted the light to be sure she had heard aright. Yes, it was four o'clock, and Brian had not yet come in.

In agony she read the sentence she had found on the blotter over and over. Then again weeping bitterly she arose and sat in a chair by the window to watch for his coming.

Allies Receive Formal Assurance No Briton is Kept Shut Up.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The Allies have received formal assurance, it is declared in an official note, that on December 1, there were no German prisoners, fortresses, prisoners' camps or any other place in which officers and soldiers of the Entente were kept shut up or from which they were forbidden to send news of themselves. Since the armistice no Allied subject remains in prison, either as a penalty or to await trial.

ALMOST BLIND FROM HEADAQHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The reason Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, is because it starts the organs of elimination acting freely, and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking it, I have not been troubled since."

TO CONSERVE TIME

Read Advertisements Carefully Before Purchasing.

Only in That Way Can Shoppers Properly Determine What They Want, and Incidentally Help to Defeat the Hun.

(By William H. Rankin, President Wm. H. Rankin Company.)

More new, partially informed or misinformed sales clerks are behind the counters than ever before in history. The war has made great inroads upon the ranks of store clerks.

It now takes longer for you to make up your mind about a purchase because so often the clerk "doesn't know." You must rely more upon a minute inspection of the article and, not being an authority on the subject, often you either buy on chance or defer the purchase. Your time is wasted—and right in these days when so many war duties need every minute you can spare. The clerk's time is occupied in "waiting on you"—mostly "waiting" for you to sell yourself. Then, if you postpone buying, the store suffers a loss and the merchant's expenses are increased. That restricts his ability to buy Liberty bonds and contribute to the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, or Salvation Army.

There is a way for you to avoid this wasting of time—a way which quickly enables you to select meritorious articles regardless of uninformed clerks. It is: Read advertisements.

Advertising offers you a labor-saving buying guide. It furnishes the merchant and the manufacturer with labor-saving salesmanship. Advertisements are written by people who are thoroughly posted about the advertised articles. One good salesman can, by printing his talk, tell many thousands of people what they wish to know, where he could only inform a few if he had to rely on his voice.

Advertisements are, then, in reality well-informed salespeople talking to you in print. Their language is carefully chosen and condensed—to tell you facts in as few words as possible. Very seldom does anyone advertise unless he has an unusually good product to offer. The cost of advertising automatically bars the unsuccessful.

On the other hand, advertising is the cheapest way a successful product can increase its sale—for thousands are told the story in print where the same expense would tell only a few in person.

So read advertisements that describe things you need or tell you of products you should have. Read advertisements everywhere—in newspapers, magazines, etc.

Make up your mind as to what you want—before you enter the store. Then "green" clerks won't interfere with your selection of dependable articles.

Advertisements post you regarding new and better goods, improvements in methods, etc. They keep you abreast of the times with the least trouble on your part.

"Advertising to Victory" is the slogan you read in the government's extensive advertising.

Advertising has loosed the purse strings of the nation, has sold billions of dollars worth of Liberty bonds and War Savings stamps, has filled the coffers of the Red Cross, Knights of Columbus, Y. M. C. A., and Salvation Army, has sent smileage books to thousands of our boys, has knocked the prop from propaganda inspired by spies and enemy aliens.

Advertising has provided ship workers, has helped to equalize the labor situation.

You have been informed what it is your duty to do by these government advertisements. You have been informed at a cost which is infinitesimal compared with what would have been the expense had the government been compelled to send representatives to tell you in person [illegible].

Victory hinges upon conservation. Conservation of human effort ranks foremost. Because advertising is the conservation way to inform and become informed, it is the victory way. That is why the slogan is "Advertising to Victory."

Read advertisements—today more than ever before.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

His "Good Time"

By EVELYN BELL

Always there was present with Hector Wyant a memory of the saddest day in his life. It had found him in the dock of a city police court. Strong drink held him in its ruthless chains. Unkempt, blear-eyed, with trembling limbs he faced the stern judge about to deliver sentence.

Beside Judge John Webster sat his daughter, Alma. She had come to the court room because her father was to see her to a train. A sense of shame, of remorse, was revealed in the face of the delinquent as he lifted his eyes and rested them on the fair face of the young girl. Perhaps there was a pleading, penitent expression in his glance.

At all events, just as her father took up his pen to write upon the court sheet the fine he had decided to impose, his daughter whispered some words in his ear. The judge bestowed a searching look upon the prisoner.

"Young man," he said, "if I give you the opportunity of freedom will you sign a pledge to mend your way—and keep it?"

A choking sensation prevented Wyant from replying. He simply nodded assent, flashed a grateful glance at the young lady to whom he rightly attributed this unexpected act of mercy, and passed before the court clerk. The latter filled out a blank. With blurred comprehension Wyant realized that he had signed a pledge for five years from that day, which he never forgot was May the fifteenth.

Wyant fought his battle with the rum demon in a wretched attic room. A month later he succeeded in gaining a position as a draftsman. The test of a first year passed scathless. In constant work he occupied his mind. "Only three years more," he soliloquized grimly, when twenty-four months had passed away, and he would allow his mind to wander among the dangerous reefs of anticipation of something to look forward to. Shut up within himself, he planned a final "good time."

"Off for a full month's vacation, eh?" hailed a fellow worker, five years to a day from the date of the pledge. "Well, you've earned it."

Wyant sought out a lowly and obscure section of the city and engaged a room at a third-rate hotel. Somehow he stayed his steps at the invitation of this and that brightly lighted drinking place with a sense of degradation. Standing in the shadow of an awning a wall caused him to peer at the nearest doorstep. There sat a ragged, barefooted child. He was rubbing his eyes as though just awakening from sleep.

"What's the matter?" inquired Wyant kindly.

"I was to go home!" sobbed the youngster; "I'm lost."

It took some time to get a correct inkling of the home of the refugee. Wyant placed the tired child on his shoulder, reached Wyndham's Corners, which the boy had incoherently alluded to, and through inquiry located a squalid building and was directed to the rooms occupied by a Mrs. Byrne.

With a cry of joy the mother, an invalid, stretched out her arms as the urchin she had been mourning over was deposited on the floor of the room.

"I told you little Jamie would be found, Mrs. Byrne," spoke a sweet, soothing voice, and Wyant noticed a neatly dressed young lady. "We are grateful to you for restoring the little wanderer," she addressed him, and a struggling memory assailed his mind as he caught a clear sight of her face.

He told how he had come across little Jamie. It led to some casual conversation, which disclosed the fact that the young lady was a settlement worker and was waiting to meet the landlord of the indigent widow to adjust the room rent.

Wyant went to his hotel, his plans somehow knocked awry. His brief experience among the lowly, perhaps the meeting with the young lady, gave him new food for thought. He contrasted her unselfish, sacrificing impulse with his own aimless ones. Her "good time" was in lifting up the weak and fallen. The next day found him at the home of Mrs. Byrne. He contributed out of his "good-time" fund in half a dozen deserving cases and went home that night with a peaceful, satisfied heart. It was a discovery that fairly stunned him, that which he made a day later—for the first time he learned the name of the settlement worker. It was Alma Webster.

In a flash the daughter of Judge Webster, that court room scene, was vividly pictured. Now he knew why he had been so strangely stirred at meeting this gentle almoner for the poor.

Wyant devoted a whole week to dispensing his "good-time" money where it could be most worthily bestowed. One day he found Miss Webster alone at the Byrne home.

"I would like to tell you a story," said Wyant, and he began with the day of the pledge, and recited all, even to his last temptation.

"You have saved me twice," he spoke earnestly. "You have shown me my duty—to help others as you have helped me. I don't know what will come of it, but I long to devote all my thoughts to such noble work."

What could come of it, but a closer friendship with this woman among women? What did come of it was a love that crowned two lives with perfection and usefulness.

Duration of Parliament.

The maximum duration of a British Parliament, formerly seven years, is now five. The so-called long Parliament of Cromwell's time lasted from Nov. 3, 1640, till April 20, 1653. During Queen Victoria's reign eight Parliaments lasted over five years and two over six years. The property qualification considerably restricts the right of suffrage, and only about one-sixth of the people are voters. All clergymen of the Church of England, ministers of the Church of Scotland and Roman Catholic clergymen are disqualified from sitting as members of the House of Commons. This provision of the law only applies to the clergy.

Chaplains Use Army Slang.

This little tale came to my ears while we were gathered about a log fire, so that its authenticity is open to question, writes a trooper in France. Anyway, it runs its brief course this way: Two chaplains who had been doing a long turn up front and were both pretty well used up were talking things over. "Doctor, I'm just about all in. Guess I'll have to go S.O.L. for a couple of days." "I'm all for it, myself, pastor," answered the second sky pilot, "but we've got to be careful about this army slang we pick up or we'll be using it in church some day."

India Supplied 963,374 Men.

The following figures referring to the Indian army have been given out: Strength of army at the outbreak of the war, 239,561. During the war 1,161,789 were recruited, of which 757,747 were combatants. The number of men sent overseas was 953,374, of which 32,051 were killed, died of wounds or are missing, 59,296 were wounded and 9,092 were taken prisoner. The majority of the casualties were suffered in Mesopotamia.

Nuxated Iron Helps Make Red Blood

The Kind That Puts Roses Into The Cheeks of Women and Force, Strength and Courage Into the Veins Of Men

Watch the People You Meet On The Street You Can Tell Those Who Have Plenty Of Iron In Their Blood—Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Folks

Cut this Out

Sworn Statement of the Composition of the FORMULA of Nuxated Iron

It is conservatively estimated that this remarkable formula is now being used by over three million people annually. Among those who have used and strongly endorse it are many physicians who have been connected with the best hospitals and medical societies, former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee, Chas. A. Towne, of Minnesota; U. S. Commissioner of Immigration, Hon. Anthony Caminetti; Judge Atkinson of the United States Court of Claims at Washington; Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of one of America's most strenuous Presidents; Wm. L. Chambers, Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation at Washington, and former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Marr, of Chicago.

Newspapers everywhere are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and keep it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. Everybody is advised to cut it out and keep it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to anyone who desires such. It is as follows: Iron Peptonate (Special specific Standard) Quantity given below. Sodium Glycerophosphates U. S. P. (Monsanto). Calcium Glycerophosphates U. S. P. (Monsanto). P. E. Nux Vomica U. S. P. Cascarine Bitter. Magnesium Carbonate Po. Ginger U. S. P. Oil Cassia Cinnamon Precip. U. S. P. Calcium Carbonate Precip. U. S. P.

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate, of a special specific standard, which in our opinion possesses superior qualities to any other known form of iron. By using other makes of Iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us, and by using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have most certainly impaired their therapeutic efficacy. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorous in that particular state so similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of men.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron (Iron Peptonate and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons, is very great and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly labeled "Nuxated Iron" by the Dse Health Laboratories, Paris, London and Detroit, U. S. A., as this is the only genuine article. If you have taken other forms of iron without success, this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you.

TO RECLAIM DISMAL SWAMP

Engineers Have Long Had Their Eyes on Picturesque Wilderness Which Can Be Made Valuable.

Dismal Swamp, which lies just south of Norfolk, Va., partly in that state and partly in North Carolina, is one of the most picturesque wildernesses in the eastern United States. Although it may be reached from the busy port of Norfolk within a few hours by a boat which plies daily up and down a small canal, the Dismal Swamp, remains an unspoiled wilderness where black bears and panthers still roam, while the smaller creatures of the wild exist in abundance.

The thick jungles and bottomless bogs at once offer perfect hiding places for the wild things and obstacles to the hunter which are often impassable. Then, too, the swamp is alive with snakes—the deadly copperhead and moccasin being especially abundant—and this fact alone detracts considerably from the popularity of the place as a pleasure resort.

It is nevertheless regularly visited by some hardy hunters, and is the delight of naturalists and scientists of all kinds, who here find what they most love—unspoiled, primitive nature.

The Dismal Swamp has great possibilities of future usefulness. In the first place, it contains some of the deepest and richest deposits of peat in the United States, and this fuel is undoubtedly to be used in this country in the near future. Furthermore, engineers say that the swamp can be drained, and that it will then become one of the richest bits of farmland in America. Indeed, one man has already demonstrated this by draining a few hundred acres of the swamp and raising phenomenal crops on it.—Chicago Daily News.

Alkali In Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

The average wife can discount an experienced lawyer when it comes to cross-questioning her husband when he returns home about 3 a.m.

Dates Back Centuries.

Long before the present drastic spirit concerning enemy aliens showed itself in Great Britain, a shop door in Bond street carried written large the announcement that "no person of German birth, whether naturalized or not, is permitted to enter these premises." It was of course in the nature of an outer and visible sign of an inward and patriotic grace, but one wondered on reading that notice how on earth the owner of the premises could tell whether his order got obeyed or not.

Curiosity, however, did not go so far as to impel inquiry in the matter, but now that the spirit of the Bond street shopman is shared by the whole nation, it might be quite worth while for officials of several of the government departments to get a little information from him on "how he does it." Hints based on experience are not to be despised.

Wouldn't Help Legal Brother.

Two Tuskegee graduates represented, respectively, plaintiff and defendant in a municipal court the other day. The question at issue being close, the judge asked for some authorities.

The attorney for the plaintiff handed up a book. His honor was so impressed with the citation that he observed, "This case seems to be in point." When the judge had finished, opposing counsel, much perturbed, demanded, "Misto Attorney, le' me see that book."

"No, sah!" was the retort. "Look up yo' own law."—Chicago News.

Source of Timber Shifted.

Shipbuilders in Maine are bringing timber for supplying their yards from Oregon. This, a few years ago, would have been regarded as another instance of carrying coals to Newcastle. Time was when Maine had timber enough for its own purposes and to spare. There is, perhaps, no occasion for alarm at the present time, but would it not be well, even now, for Maine to begin thinking of conserving self of the Aroostook? To have to go out of the state for timber is sad, but to have to look elsewhere for potatoes would be terrible.—Christian Science Monitor.

CHILDREN MUST BE PROTECTED

The children must be safeguarded, for, if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds, it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being composed of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to taste, so much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them.

WORK ALONG WRONG LINES

Writer Points Out Imperative Need for Change in Present Legal and Charity Systems.

A change in our legal system must be made which will take account of the complex life of the present, as against the old-fashioned form of living which brought with it temptation, greed and jealousy. Persons who, on account of wrong environment, have stooped to illegitimate means to attain their ends should be corrected, with discipline if you please, but not with brutal punishment. After correction they should have the chance to make an honest living; they should not be ostracized as at present, so that there is nothing else left for them to do but to return to a life of crime which sooner or later reaches the depths, when the state is forced to spend thousands and thousands for their upkeep.

The creation of beggars has never been due to the exercise of kindness. All beggars are made, more or less, by the charity system. With charity abolished and every individual understanding that we are all born to work and enjoy our work in accordance with our fitness for the work we are called upon to do, there will be no need of charity, and crime and disease will be lessened tremendously.—Editorial by Misha Appelbaum in Humanitarian.

A Woman's Mite.

The poor woman's mite was well illustrated during the last Feed the Guns campaign in London. The story is told that while the Mayor of Shoreditch was standing one day in the street holding in his hand a cheque for £21,000, sent to him by a war factory, a poor woman gave him a shilling to invest in war bonds. "It is all I have," she said, "but you are welcome to it to feed the guns and help the boys." The mayor accepted the shilling, and the papers published a notice to the effect that if the investor would call at Shoreditch town hall she would be provided with a war savings certificate. The actual shilling, however, is being mounted to be kept at Shoreditch as a token of the patriotism of its people.

Children Love Candy Cascarets

Careful mothers know that Cascarets in the home mean less sickness, less trouble, less worry, less cost. When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, feverish breath, sour stomach or a cold, a Cascaret quickly and harmlessly "works" the poisons from the liver and bowels and all is well again.

TO MOTHERS! While all children detest castor oil, calomel, pills and laxatives, they really love to take Cascarets because they taste like candy. Cascarets "work" the nasty bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison from the child's tender stomach, liver and bowels without pain or griping. Cascarets never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box contains directions for children aged one year old and upwards.

The Salvation Army Lassie.

She's a Mother to the Boys in Khaki!

YOU may never know all the Salvation Army Lassie has done at the front. Aside from your letters and parcels she bestowed the true MOTHER touch to the boys. They will never forget her!

They will never forget her mending their clothes within sound of the guns; handing out hot coffee, pies and sandwiches to the men on the march; getting up concerts and "free-for-all" songs around the piano; comforting the heavy-hearted; and restraining him with a mother's influence when nothing else on earth could give him the necessary spiritual strength.

One thing only will stop the Salvation Army Lassie continuing her wonderful work among the soldiers—Lack of Funds! Supply the money that is absolutely necessary and no Canadian soldier who has done his bit will be without a friend or a home to turn to!

Soldiers Home Coming Campaign THIS WEEK

So far the Salvation Army has been able to finance its war work without a general appeal for funds. NOW comes the crisis. They are proud of the slogan "First to Serve—Last to Appeal." They appeal NOW only because they cannot continue without your help, and the appeal is made to you, not only in the name of the men who offered their lives for you and who are deserving of every comfort we can provide, but for the welfare of Canada.

The Salvation Army is giving vital help over here to the solution of Canada's problems of Repatriation and Reconstruction.

Does a soldier need a home for a few days? The Hostels are open to him. Does he need a job? The Salvation Army finds him one. Is his family in distress? The Salvation Army Lassie is ready to nurse, comfort, scrub, attend to the children—all with loving care for the sake of the Master! Help and help liberally, so that our homecoming men will feel that you stood behind them to the finish. Be able to meet these men eye to eye, conscious that you have done your duty to the full! ## Saskatchewan Is Growing

THE man-power registration returns for Saskatchewan are strong evidence of the rapid growth of population in this province and may be considered as fairly indicative of the increase of population generally in the Prairie Provinces. The total number of persons over 16 years of age registered is given as 413,000. It is not pretended that a 100 per cent. registration of persons in the eligible class was secured, the registration officials being instructed not to bother about the people in the outlying districts, the registration of which would entail the expenditure of more money than it was deemed advisable to spend. Add to these the sick and the absentees, and it is quite possible that in the northern districts and the province generally there are 10,000 unregistered persons.

Assuming this to be true then, as the 1916 Federal census shows that 40 per cent. of the population as being under 16 years of age, it may further be assumed that 423,000 represents 60 per cent. of the population. This means that 705,000 would represent 100 per cent. But there are at least 40,000 men from this province on active service, who consequently do not appear in the man-power registration figures, which brings the total registration up to 745,000. In other words, it may be taken for granted that the population is not far short of 750,000.

Recalling that there has been considerable dispute over the accuracy of the population returns of some Western cities, there may be an inclination to think that the foregoing estimate includes inflated city figures. Such an impression is erroneous, the estimate being made purely on the basis of the registration returns, no city being credited with more than 32,000 people. Indeed, all the cities of the province are duly credited with a combined population of 100,000.

A glance back over the last thirteen years is sufficient to show how rapidly the population has increased. When in 1905 the Provincial Government was instituted, the various Federal grants were paid on a basis of 250,000 people, while in 1916 the Federal census figures were 647,835. In other words, during the last 13 years the population has trebled. Notwithstanding the adverse conditions produced by the war, in the last two years it has increased 100,000.

As is well known, the greater part of this increase is attributable to the heavy immigration, which, while it has fallen off greatly since the outbreak of hostilities, has not altogether ceased, there being even now quite an inflow from the south. But population is continuing to grow chiefly through the process of natural increase. Saskatchewan is a land of a healthy birthrate. Up to the end of July this year the registered births numbered 21,000, so it is fair to assume that the births for the year will total close to 30,000. On the other hand favorable climatic conditions result in a low death rate.

Satisfactory as is this rate of natural increase it is not as high as it undoubtedly will be in a few years. On June 22nd, there were registered in Saskatchewan 66,714 more males than females, and this after 40,000 men had gone on active service. So one can readily get some idea of what the natural increase in population will be when the proportion of males to females begins to show signs of becoming equalized. A line running from north to south would divide the province equally and it is in the districts to the east of this that the greater part of the natural increase is found.

In the constituencies of Maple Creek, Swift Current and Kindersley, into which by far the greater portion of the new settlement has swarmed in recent years and where there are thousands of homesteaders, over 22,000 more males than females above 16 years of age were registered; and these constituencies have supplied thousands of men to the overseas forces.

It may be taken for granted that the population of Saskatchewan is increasing at the rate of between 40,000 to 45,000 a year, and that during war time. So it requires no stretch of the imagination to realize the rate of increases that will be attained after the war, when the flood om immigration again sets in. Let hostilities cease within twelve months and by the summer of 1921 this province will undoubtedly have 1,000,000 people. The large number of people of foreign origin alone assures a big increase, for they have large families.

All this is attended by political potentialities of an important character. A population of 1,000,000 in 1921, the Federal census year, should give Saskatchewan 33 members in the next House of Commons. Indeed, on the basis of the 1918 Federal census she is now entitled to 25 members, the existing representation of 16 being based on the 1911 census. Thirty-three members would mean a number equal to 50 per cent. of Quebec's representation, which can never become less than 65. Obviously Saskatchewan is a province to watch; for her vast stretches of fertile soil assure her future as the home of several millions of people at no distant date. With population goes political power, and Saskatchewan is acquiring this at a rapid rate.

GIVE CREDIT TO CERVANTES

Immortal Author of "Don Quixote" Responsible for Many of Our Most Famous Sayings.

With the thought of yesterday's epigrammatists in mind, it should be set to record that no one has handed down to this age more homely and immortal sayings than Cervantes. "Don Quixote" is full of them: "Why do you lead on a wild goose chase?" "Sure as a gun;" Within a stone's throw;" "Little said is soonest mended;" "There is no love lost between us;" "Honesty is the best policy;" "All is not gold that glitters;" "A word to the wise is sufficient;" "The pot calls the kettle black;" "Counting your chickens before they are hatched;" "My thoughts ran a-wool gathering," and "As secret as the grave."

One need not look far behind to find "mad as a March hare" also attributed to this prolific Spaniard, but really it was an inspiration of the English poet, John Skelton, who lived in the time of Edward IV. "Set the cart before the horse," as well as "I have other fish to fry," comes from sixteenth century Rabelais, while "A bird in hand is worth two in the bush" goes all the way back to Plutarch.

In "Little Old New York."

If a certain actor had accompanied a party of round-the-towners the other night he would have been either thrilled or embarrassed, says New York Sun. After the theater the party went to the Waldorf roof and saw one of the actor's former wives the center of a gay, laughing party. The next stop was at the Astor roof where there was another former wife of the same actor dining with a handsome young gallant who danced divinely and at the last stop on the Majestic roof was the third former wife giving a dinner to several women and two French army officers. It was hard to tell which was the most beautiful. They all seemed happy. It is reminded of another actor who went to another theater than his own to see a play. He was seated next to a former wife and her husband. They all chatted pleasantly together and later supped together. A strange town—this New York.

HAWK DESTRUCTIVE TO TREES

Birds' Unvarying Diet of Fish Sooner or Later Causes Death Through Accumulations of Grease.

Random bits of curious knowledge often come the way of persons who live in the summer time close by the ocean's edge. One gets to know, for instance, such things as why hawk nests so often are seen in dead trees. It is not that the hawk, in seeking a home site, by choice picks a dead tree in which to build its nest of twigs and things; on the contrary, it invariably selects a live one. The dead tree is the effect, not the cause of the hawk's preference.

Hawks of the kind considered here live exclusively on fish. Fish are oily, and so it follows that after a few thousand have been dissected and eaten in a nest the tree inhabited by a hawk family becomes discouraged and abandons the struggle.

After hawks have used a lofty bough as a dining room for two or three years a tree becomes so greasy that leaves find it impossible to hold on. The oil slowly makes its way to the roots, covering them and making the absorbing of water from the earth out of the question. Deprived of oxygen, having no leaves through which to breathe it in, and of water, because its roots are greased like a Labor day pig, the tree gets discouraged and gives up the fight.

HOLD SWORD SACRED THING

German Officer Said to Lose Commission if He Should Be Parted From Weapon by Force.

Officers in Germany are supposed to have a feeling almost of sacredness about their swords, and I think, in point of fact, officers in most countries have. I have been told that if any officer loses his sword by force he loses his commission as an officer. I do not vouch for this statement.

I was told about the penalty for losing a sword many years before the war, in Dresden, to excuse an officer whom I saw behave in the most brutal manner. He was on the back platform of an old-fashioned street car which was going very fast. Some man in the street ran and tried to jump on the car, and in taking hold of the rail got hold of the handle of the officer's sword. Without the slightest feeling as to whether the man would be seriously hurt or not, the officer beat and pounded this man's hands until he was forced to let go and drop into the street. But what a German officer does is always considered right, anyway, and no one dares to complain.—Neville Taylor Gherardi (wife of former United States naval attache at Berlin) in Saturday Evening Post.

New Yorker Has Famous Relic.

Enon-Sherouan the Just, sultan of Persia in the days when Omar Khayyam was making vain attempts to sell his verses to the magazines, one day bought an indestructible vase, wonderfully fashioned by a potter of magic powers, for his royal palace at Rhagas.

Along came the Tartars, acting like Prussians, and destroyed Rhagas, making the royal palace look like the Cloth Hall at Ypres. That was in 1221.

The jar of Enon-Sherouan the Just has just been added to the collection of Macdermid Parish-Watson, New York art collector, after existing only in legend and tradition for nearly seven centuries. Two pieces of it were found on the site of the royal palace of Rhagas in 1910, and since then other fragments have been uncovered from time to time, and the last piece was picked up in 1914. The vase is said to have a value of $85,000 to $100,000.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made, and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

KING EDWARD HOTEL MAY PAY DIVIDEND

Profits For Nine Months Over $80,000

The profits of the King Edward Hotel Company, Toronto, for nine months, under the new administration have been over $80,000. At this rate the returns for the first year will run considerably more than $100,000. The company has a first mortgage bond issue of $800,000 at 5 per cent., and a second mortgage issue of $700,000 at 7 per cent., a portion of which has not yet been issued. After the payment of fixed charges the company will be able to show a substantial sum available for the common shareholders, and it is considered as more than likely that a distribution of a dividend on the junior stock will be decided on at the annual meeting.

British Producers Lay Views Before Lloyd George.

LONDON, Jan. 21. — (Canadian Press via Reuter's) — The British Empire producers organization has written to Premier Lloyd George stating that the affiliated associations of the empire representing well over $5,000,000,000 of British capital have cabled endorsing in the strongest terms the organization's demand that the Central Powers shall pay Great Britain an indemnity commensurate with the cost of the war.

Aliens Again.

Fifty aliens employed at the Sydney, C.B., steel plant struck without warning recently. They were given the option of at once returning to work or being interned.

Cigarette smoking has become so prevalent among women and girls in England that it is proposed to enact legislation to put a stop to the habit.

Save $10 worth of power per pulley per year

Get every ounce of power from every pound of coal

Replace the metal pulleys in your plant by Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys and you will save about $10 per pulley per year in power costs.

This sounds like a large claim, but it is true. The facts will bear investigation.

Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys do away with "belt-slip" and "weight friction," both of which waste power.

Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys also cost 50% less to buy than metal pulleys of equal dimensions.

Martial Law Declared In Parts of Ireland

Two Policemen Were Murdered—Irish Parliament Continues Meetings To-day—Sinn Feiners Provide Their Own Guards.

THE CONSTITUTION

(Special to The Examiner.)

DUBLIN, Jan. 22.—The attitude of the British Government toward the new Irish Republic was the principal subject of speculation here today. So far the imperial authorities have maintained a policy of "hands off," utterly ignoring the proceedings of the Irish parliament, which met late yesterday, adopted a declaration of independence and appointed a committee to represent Ireland at the Peace Conference.

The meeting yesterday, which lasted only an hour and a half, passed off without incident. The Government authorities made no effort even to police the Mansion House, the Sinn Feiners providing their own guards to maintain order.

About 2,000 persons were present, including many women and children. The proceedings were conducted largely in Gaelic, although the declaration of independence was read in English and French. Charles Burgess acted as chairman.

The peace delegates selected were Count Plunkett, Prof. Edward De Valera, and Arthur Griffiths. The latter two are in prison. The aged Count apparently will have to go to Paris alone to present Ireland's claims for the right of self-determination. He must travel on British passports.

Policemen Murdered.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

DUBLIN, Jan. 22.—Following the murder of two policemen in Tipperary, the Government has declared martial law in this and other districts of Ireland. The Irish parliament continues its meetings to-day but no action will be taken against it.

According to the Provincial Provisional Constitution of the Irish Republic now before the "Dail Eireann," legislative powers are to be vested in deputies elected from existing parliamentary constituencies. The ministry will consist of a president and four executive officers, secretaries of finance, home affairs, foreign affairs and national defense. All revenues will be raised on a vote of the "Dail Eireann." The constitution may be altered upon seven days' notice.

REMARKABLE SILENCE.

(Special to Examiner.)

DUBLIN, Jan. 22. — The British government to-day had not answered the Sinn Fein challenge of Irish Independence issued at yesterday's initial meeting of the "Irish Parliament."

A remarkable situation was presented by the Imperial authorities' continued silence regarding the act, that in the eyes of British law constituted the most flagrant form of sedition.

Ireland stood before the world today as a republic on paper. Its duly elected representatives had exercised the right of self determination to the fullest extent and had even selected delegates to represent it at the peace congress as a separate entry. This was accomplished under the very nose of General French's military government.

Peterboro Man Was Elected

Ontario Vegetable Growers Held Annual Meeting Yesterday.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—The Ontario Vegetable Growers met yesterday and elected the following officers: President, W. S. Eborall, Beamsville; 1st vice-president, Maurice May, Tecumseh; 2nd vice-president, G. H. Poad, London; secretary treasurer, J. Lockie Wilson, Toronto; executive committee, W. S. Eborall, Maurice May, G. H. Poad, J. Davis, F. F. Reeves; J. L. Wilson and Thos. Delworth; directors, A. Nelson, Welland T. K. Aymer, Humber Bay; W. Guthrie, Sarnia; C. W. Dempsey, Stratford; C. F. Kitney, Peterboro.

The association yesterday decided that the field competition this year would be in potatoes, celery, onions, cabbage and melons. The 1919 rules will require an acreage of three acres withnot less than one-quarter acre to each vegetable. Two judgings will be given one about July 10 and the other about Aug 10.

Claims Attitude is Result of Politics

Gen. Pershing Dealt With Inefficiency in a Ruthless Manner.

By Webb Miller.
(United Press.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 22.—Congressman Gallivan's recent speech alleging discrimination against National Guard officers, has aroused much discussion among the military officials of the army of occupation.

The general opinion seems to be that Gallivan's attitude is merely the result of "politics." Several officers pointed out to-day that Gen. Pershing was ruthless in dealing with inefficiency and incompetence, that he relieved a number of officers, including a big percentage of regulars, regardless of politics and friendship, whenever it was proven they were unfit. Each of these cases was reviewed, it was said, and sufficient reasons shown for every relief from command.

MANAGERS OF C.G.E. BRANCH OFFICES ARE HERE FOR CONFERENCE

The C.G.E. company's district representatives from the branch offices between Halifax and Winnipeg, who have been attending the annual conference at the Company's Toronto office, spent today at the local plant with Mr. E. G. Patterson, Mr. L. D. W. Magie of the designing department and other officials. Some of the fifteen members of the party were as follows: C. W. Deane, Ottawa, L. O. Hoover, A. B. Cooper and A. S. McMordich of Toronto, W. R. Wright, Winnipeg, C. H. Wright, Halifax, A. Brian of Cobalt, A. S. Edgar, W. F. Dean and S. M. Henderson of Toronto, J. W. Pelcher and C. S. Barithe of Montreal. On their return from a visit to the factory the visitors boarded a C.G.E. car, paid their fares, and in the next block the trolley jumped the wires and seemed to have sprung out of place beyond immediate recovery. The motorman and conductors wrestled with it, incidentally smashing a window and spilling the broken glass into the lap of one of the men. An adjacent window barely missed a similar fate, and with that the party decided that it was a fine day for walking. The C.G.E. men are all registered at the Empress.

ALEX. R. WALKER'S DEATH.

For Sixteen Years Librarian of Belleville Public Library.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 22.—Alex. R. Walker, Public Librarian of this city, died very suddenly at his home here as a result of heart failure. He was fifty-one years of age, a son of the late Hugh Walker, License Inspector for West Hastings. He had a legal training, was graduated as a barrister and solicitor from Osgoode Hall, and for a brief period practised law in Saginaw, Mich.; in Marmora, Ont., and in Belleville.

Will Control the National Assembly

Combination of Conservative Delegates Will Outvote All Other Elements in the German Government.

ERZBERGER ELECTED

(Special to The Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 22. — The Conservative element will control the German National Assembly if a coalition can be affected among the three parties constituting that faction, it was indicated by the latest available returns from the elections to-day. While the Majority Socialists apparently will dominate any single party in the National Assembly, they will be out-voted by the combination of Conservative delegates, even with the addition of extreme radical votes, and as a result of the suppression of the recent Spartacan revolt by a Majority Socialist government, it is regarded as doubtful that the two branches of the left (socialist and extreme radicals) can get together.

The only candidate who appears to have any chance to replace Chancellor Ebert is Mathias Erzberger, chairman of the German armistice commission and leader of the Centrist party.

He was elected to the National Assembly from a Berlin district.

Berlin reports to-day indicated that an agreement had been reached to hold the National Assembly in Weimar, capital of the Province of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach. (Weimar is located on the left bank of the Ilm, thirteen miles east of Erfurt. It has a population of about 35,000.)

Shot Six Huns With Revolver

Sergt.-Major Sam Thomas Led Attack on Machine Gun Nest Under Heavy Fire—Receives the D.C.M.

Mrs. Sam Thomas of Peterborough, has received a letter from Lieut.-Col. Genet, A.A.G. of Military District No. 3, giving particulars of the manner in which her husband, Sergt.-Major Sam Thomas of the 21st Battalion, won the Distinguished Conduct Medal. The letter is as follows:

Dear Madam,—I have to inform you that the marginally noted N.C.O. was awarded the Croix de Guerre by the authority of London Gazette No. 30792, dated July 12, 1918, and the Distinguished Conduct Medal by the authority of London Gazette, No. 31011, dated Nov. 15, 1918.

The action for which he was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal was as follows:

"This W. O., by his initiative and source, was largely responsible in keeping direction of his company through a heavy mist. He led a party against a machine gun nest under heavy fire, capturing three guns and shooting six of the crew with his revolver. He set a splendid example through the fighting."

There is no record of the action for which he won the Croix de Guerre, but if the same comes to hand at a future date you will be immediately notified. These medals will be received in Canada in due course and presentations will be made.

See This New Truck At C. R. Bank's

Costs Less and is Standardized.

We have secured the agency for Peterborough City and County for the sale of the Fulton and Sterling Trucks. We have chosen these trucks after a careful comparison of the various trucks in the market. One of the principal reasons which influenced this preference was that the Two-ton Fulton and Sterling Trucks can be bought for $500 less than any other competing truck of same capacity; and also on account of their being standardized trucks.

Intending purchasers are invited to call and examine the capabilities of these trucks, and witness a demonstration, if desired. Watch The Examiner for fuller particulars regarding these trucks in a few days. C. R. Banks, 312 Charlotte Street. 2d-17

NOTICE TO RETURNED SOLDIERS

All returned soldiers will be allowed a ten per cent. cash discount off any suit of clothes or overcoat made to measure, at the store with the Tartan front, formerly Scotland Woollen Mills Co. This privilege will hold good until further notice.

3d FRANK HOURIGAN.

A JUST ESTIMATE

"None of the civilian organizations at the front has more completely won the hearts of the soldiers than the Salvation Army" says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "To say this is not to disparage in any way its friendly rivals in good works. It has taken upon itself functions which bring it into close relations with men who are actually in the fighting line. Its services are offered at a time when any services is peculiarly grateful. Every soldier who comes back has the same story to tell—a story of willing help in the face of danger, of cheerful courage, of unwearying self-sacrifice. These Salvation lads and lassies are not merely 'doing good' in a perfunctory way. They do not forget their religion, but they bear witness to it by example, not by doctrine. They are, above all else, human, with a perfect comprehension of human frailties and failings, with a spirit of brotherhood that draws no distinctions. Discipline has drawn all sorts and conditions of men into a real union, but they remain in a fundamental sense all sorts and conditions, and tact and common sense are prime factors in successful dealing with them. These qualities the members of the Salvation Army have always quite remarkably displayed."

Reception to William Taft

Will Dine With the Mayor and City Council—An Informal Reception.

A fitting reception will be extended William H. Taft, fifty-second president of the United States, who under the auspices of the Local Council of Women will give an address at the Grand Opera House to-morrow evening. The distinguished guest will be met upon the arrival of the C.P.R. noon train by a committee representing the Council of Women and taken to the Empress for lunch, where members of the executive of the Council of Women will meet him. At two o'clock a committee of American citizens will take him to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Macdonald, 300 London street, where an informal reception will be held. Arrangements for ex-President Taft's entertainment at the hands of the Americans were completed by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle and Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, the latter of whom is a personal friend of the visitor. At five o'clock he will be taken to the Court House where an address will be made to him by the Law Society. He will then proceed to the Empress to have dinner with the Mayor and City Council.

Men Satisfied With Treatment

Rough Weather Was Experienced During First Half of Voyage.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

HALIFAX, Jan. 22.—The troopship Empress of Britain with 3,500 returned soldiers aboard, including 1,500 from Ontario, docked early this morning and at 9:45 the first trainload left for the West. The voyage was uneventful.

The men aboard the first train are consigned to Vancouver and Calgary districts. Their train will be followed at half-hour intervals by six trains, in the following order. Second, Regina and Quebec Province; third, Winnipeg; fourth, Toronto first section; fifth, Toronto second section; sixth, London and Kingston; seventh, Montreal.

The first five trains will proceed to Quebec for documentation of troops aboard. All other troops arriving on the Empress are being documented here. The C.P.O.S. liner arrived off the harbour early this morning, but waited for daylight before proceeding to her berth. She left Liverpool yesterday week. Rough weather was experienced during the first half of the voyage, but the latter half was not unpleasant. Men say they have no complaints to make of treatment received.

Amusement Tax Was Reduced

(Special to Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. — Theatre managers and patrons to-day won their fight against the 20 per cent. tax on amusements in the new tax bill. Congress rescinded the 20 per cent. rate and went back to the House rate of 10 per cent.

Miss Helen Diller, of Chicago, Ill., has knit 1,000 pairs of socks for the soldiers in France.

Russian Question Still Unsettled

Matter Was Up Again To-day—Constitutes Principal Business of Supreme War Council.

A COMPROMISE

(By William Philip Simms.)
(United Press.)

PARIS, January 22. — Russia's international status was to be determined by the associated powers today.

For the third successive day, the Russian situation constituted the principal business of the Supreme War Council. The delegates were confident that a definite agreement would be reached on the question of some form of representation for the Soviet Government at the Peace Congress. The proposal for the appointment of a special commission to obtain first hand information on conditions in Russia is understood to have received the endorsement of several members of the War Council, which is now recognized as the "Steering Committee" of the Congress.

The chief argument against this plan was the delay that it involved, and prompt action, no matter what course is decided upon ultimately, was recognized as imperative.

A COMPROMISE.

Whatever plan is endorsed, it seemed certain to-day that no radical undertaking will result—that there will neither be a combined allied effort to crush Russia militarily, nor full recognition of the Soviet government. Some sort of a compromise measure was looked for.

The note sent by Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of the Bolshevik government, to the American State Department, suggesting that representatives of the United States and Soviet governments get together in an effort to reach an understanding, was expected to have some bearing on the situation. This note is now known to be in possession of the American delegation here. It was regarded as possible that some such plan might be followed out by all the associated powers, without entailing any formal recognition of the Bolsheviki.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Other matters expected to be taken up by the "Steering Committee" today were the question of procedure for the conference (the matter of publicity is not yet definitely settled) and consideration of international labor problems. It is believed that the conference will appoint a special committee to meet labor leaders of the associated and neutral nations regarding proposed economic, industrial and social reforms.

All vital matters were likely to reach a stage permitting their discussion by the full conference before the end of the week.

A Tidal Wave of Restless Humanity

The Peoples' Land Hunger Must Be Satisfied.

(By Lowell Mellett, Copyright, 1919, By the United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—A tidal wave of restless humanity will sweep across the world like the invasions of the Huns and Goths in the middle ages, unless the Peace Congress exercises foresight in handling the vital problem of immigration. An economic, industrial and social calamity can be averted only by satisfying the peoples' "land hunger," and elevating their social status.

This was the view expressed today by the American Commission which has been investigating conditions in European countries.

EVANGELIST GEO. T. PINCHES

Preached last night on God's intervention in relation to the Jews taking Stephen's address as a basis of his remarks. He made it very plain that Jewish history began with Abraham, who was called out of idolatary, and stands for the seed. Joseph for the Prophet and Moses for the Deliverer. The God of Glory appeared to Abraham and the glory of God overshadowed the tabernacle, and all spoke and pointed to the Holy One who was to come as the Jew's Messiah, whom they rejected and crucified, but God raised Him up again from the dead and the glory of God was seen in heaven by Stephen, where also Jesus was associated in glory with Father, enjoying again the glory which he had before the world was, and Jewish history ceased as a nation, and the Gentiles came into the controlling position, and heaven has intervened in behalf of the Gentiles to take out a people for His name, which is called the church—this period of God's spirit in the world convincing men of sin, is soon to be ended in judgment, and then another intervention will take place. It is impossible to give the whole address, but to-night Mr. Pinches will speak on "'Heaven's Intervention, Introducing God's Present Purpose." Everyone come for the song service at ten to eight, led by Mr. Pinches.

Many are willing to give advice, but few are willing to lend assistance.

EMPRESS OF BRITAIN DOCKED THIS MORNING

Special to The Examiner:

HALIFAX, Jan. 22.—With several icicles hanging to her bows, the C.P.R. steamer, Empress of Britain, with 71 Canadian officers, sixty cadets and 2,896 other ranks, docked at 8.30 this morning. She had arrived at 2 a.m., but did not pull into the pier till daylight broke.

Industrial Turmoil

Big Strike in Prospect in England and Scotland—Shorter Hours.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Jan. 22. Industrial unrest throughout the United Kingdom is seriously on the increase. A general strike for better hours and wages in Yorkshire and Scotland is called for this week, more particularly in the coal mining districts. This means three hundred thousand people out.

In addition to a threat of railways strike, the whole of the Yorkshire coal fields probably will be idle to-morrow, throwing 150 thousand men out of employment; while preparations are being made in Scotland for a forty-hour week. The cause of the trouble in Yorkshire is somewhat similar to that which is occurring in other parts of the country. The operators there have locked out some forty thousand men, who insisted on taking twenty minutes of employees' time for meals. In reply to the lock out the Yorkshire Miners' Association has declared a strike for to-morrow. The dispute in London between the engineers and operators has improved somewhat. The operators have granted the demands of the engineering trade, but electrical workers are now threatening to strike.

German President Has Been Named

Ebert will be Premier—Liberals will be in a majority in the Cabinet.

(Special to Examiner.)

BERLIN, Jan. 22. — The Berlin newspapers generally predicted today that Herr Newmann, a Democrat, would remain as the head of the Minnew German Republic, and that Chancellor Ebert, a Majority Socialist, would remain as the chad of the Ministry.

The German Democratic party is a combination of the old Progressives and Liberals. The despatch would indicate that a coalition government is probable, with a Liberal element in control.

Ontario in Danger Of a Fuel Embargo

If Cold Snap Comes Along It Will Force People to Use Soft Coal.

TORONTO, Jan. 22. — Ontario faces the double danger of a hard coal embargo at the United States border and a cold snap at the same time. That is the view that is held at the Ontario Fuel Administration offices.

"There is great clamouring now for anthracite coal in those States which were practically shut off from it up to the present," said one official. "Now that the war is over, those States think that they should be getting their share of hard coal, and if they get their way it may mean an embargo on coal entering Ontario."

"But if the gates do drop at the border line there need be no suffering or hardship in Ontario. Toronto never in its existence had so much coal as it has now. The local dealers are also stocked up with soft coal and buckwheat. Out in the towns and villages there is a shortage of hard coal, but they have plenty of soft coal and buckwheat. But the people will not be buying anything but the anthracite now.

George St. Flags as Welcome to Mr. Taft

A number of citizens have suggested that the merchants should hang out their flags to-morrow morning as a sign of welcome to the Hon. Mr. H. Taft, who will visit Peterborough for the first time to-morrow. This is one of the few cities included in the Chautauqua itinerary he is covering in a week's tour, and the least the city can do is to indicate its appreciation of the presence of the distinguished visitor, a former President of the United States, by a liberal display of flags. They should be left flying for the visit of the Hon. F. B. Carvell, who comes to Peterborough on Friday, and will address a public meeting on Canada's problems of the restoration of peace.

They Demand Repeal of Order-in-Council and War-time Elections Act—Peterboro Delegates Present.

PROBE C.N.R. DEAL

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—With associations formed in Western, Eastern and Central Ontario, the Liberals of this Province are now fully organized. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's followers in the central district of the Province formed an association at a convention in St. George's Hall, Elm street, yesterday afternoon, when the following officers were elected: Honorary President, Sir Wilfrid Laurier; President, W. E. Sinclair, Oshawa; Vice-President, W. D. Gregory, Oakville; R. R. Hall, Peterborough; N. C. Hooken, Otter Lake; Manley Chew, Midland; W. H. Wright, Owen Sound; W. J. Bragg, Bowmanville; Mrs. Samuel Bues, Milton; Hon. Secretary, W. H. Adams, Toronto; Treasurer, Frederick Hogg, Uxbridge.

Ten delegates from each Provincial riding, as follows, constituted the gathering: Dufferin, Durham East, Durham West; Grey North, Grey Centre, Grey South, Halton, Muskoka, Northumberland East, Northumberland West, Ontario North, Ontario South, Parry Sound, Peel, Peterborough East, Peterborough West, Simcoe East, Simcoe West, Simcoe Centre, Simcoe South, Victoria North and Victoria South. The following had seats on the platform: Hon. George P. Graham, G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., W. J. Lowe, M.P.P., J. A. Robb, M.P. (Chief Liberal Whip), A. J. Young and Alex. Smith.

Policy in Resolutions.

The afternoon session was solely a business gathering engaged with the election of officers and the reading and discussion of several resolutions. Among these were: An expression of confidence in the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, moved by N. C. Hooken of Otter Lake, seconded by John Mulcahy, and carried by a standing vote, with three cheers and a tiger; the definition of policy respecting the treatment of soldiers and sailors; advocacy of enlarged facilities for increased export of Canada's products and a demand for the immediate removal of the war tariff 7½ per cent. and 5 per cent. respectively on imports; a request for an investigation into the Government purchase of the Canada Northern Railway; a proposal to make an appeal to the Privy Council, and a demand for the immediate repeal of the orders in Council, and of the War-time Elections Act; commendation of the League of Nations plan; and a resolution, moved by J. B. Lindsay and seconded by R. C. McCullough, protesting against any embargo against the export of hops.

End. Hon. Military Titles.

Loud applause greeted the declaration in the resolution on soldiers and sailors which called for equality in pensions and the abolition of honorary military titles. W. H. Wright of Owen Sound, who moved its adoption, said: "It is incomprehensible to me why an officer who has been in every way, during the war, given better treatment should be given a larger pension than a private who has suffered all the hardships of life in the trenches." W. T. R. Preston thought the resolution should go farther and declare for the cancellation of the commission of officers "who swanked about London and never went to the front." W. F. Ormiston of Uxbridge seconded the resolution.

Tariff and Taxation.

Following is the resolution dealing with tariff and taxation, the adoption of which was moved by W. F. W. Fisher of Burlington, and was seconded by A. E. Annis of Orangeville:

"In 1910 the public debt of the Dominion was $336,080,000 and the annual interest payment thereon was $12,535,850. The annual ordinary expenditure was $76,411,767.

"It is now announced by the Government that at the end of the year the public debt will be two thousand million dollars. The interest charge alone on this will be over $[illegible] 000 annually. The annual expenditure for pensions is likely to be $40,000,000, and the total expenditure for the next fiscal year, exclusive of the cost of maintaining the army in the field may approach $[illegible] 000,000. Canada's external indebtedness, public and private, is probably greater per capita than that of any other country. We have to pay on it alone a sum estimated at $260,000,000 annually, or more than $800,000 for every working day.

"To meet this enormous indebtedness and outlay and pay for our necessary imports, we must increase our exports to the fullest possible extent. Our greatest industry is farming, fishing, and our greatest exports are the products of the farm.

STILL A CHANCE TO HELP.

The Salvation Army is being extended in order to give the many citizens whom it has been impossible for the canvassers to see a chance to make further donations to the splendid cause. There is every reason to expect that when the final returns are tabulated, the result will be a sum of which the people of Peterborough may feel proud. There has never been a campaign in Peterborough in which there was so little criticism heard. The Salvation Army's work in peace and war has created a feeling of trust and confidence, that is reflected in the universal appreciation of their efforts. Every returned soldier is an advertising agency for the Army's work among Canada's fighting men. And the work at home speaks for itself. It is hoped that the citizens who have not yet been interviewed will respond liberally when called upon. The cause merits the whole-hearted support of the community.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

In a letter to The Examiner, Alderman Murray remarks that this paper is interested in the Board of Trade. His statement is correct. The Examiner is interested in the Board of Trade as it is interested in all local bodies which it believes are founded upon a desire to be of service to the community. We believe that there is room in our civic life for the Board of Trade—that it can make of itself a power for good in this city. We believe that any association which brings together citizens who are animated by the desire to make Peterborough a more progressive and a more advanced city cannot fail to accomplish much. We believe also that as in other cities—Toronto furnishes a notable example—there should be the closest co-operation and harmony between the City Council and the Board. In Toronto we find the Mayor publicly thanking the members of the Board of Trade for their splendid service during the past year while on the other hand in Peterborough there seems to be a tendency on the part of the Council to ignore the Board. It is not a new situation locally. There has been for some time past a lack of cohesive effort; there has been also a mutual misunderstanding that could not fail to adversely affect the general welfare of the city.

As far as The Examiner has been able to discover the Board of Trade has no axe to grind; its ambition has been to be helpful and progressive. It represents no particular class of the city's life, but has aimed to represent all classes. And because of these facts and because the history of other progressive cities has shown that Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce as they are variously called have been able to accomplish many things that are in the general interest, The Examiner firmly believes that the Council and Board of Trade should get together and work together. Their aims should be identical, there is nothing to be accomplished by bickering or distrust.

A CRITICAL SITUATION.

A number of Peterborough industries, the Matthews-Blackwell Co., the Quaker Oats, the Campbell Milling Co., and the Peterborough Cereal Co., are vitally interested in the opening of the food markets. With the present embargo against exports from Canada and with Great Britain so heavily stocked with flour and bacon that deliveries of Canadian products are not wanted, the result will be that Canadian flour mills and packing houses, those in Peterborough included of course, will have to shut down unless the situation is remedied at once. Already the effects of the embargo have been felt in Peterborough, and a large number of men has been thrown out of employment. This is a serious matter, aggravating the already critical industrial disturbance. The closing of war industries created a situation that was serious in itself, but the present dislocation of business in other local factories has intensified the difficulty and increased the surplus of unemployed labour.

The Toronto Globe advocates the opening of the food markets.

"If the millers and the pork packers who have been expecting to sell their products to the British Government, or to the Allied Food Commission, find themselves unable to do so, they should assuredly be given a square deal in the open markets of the world," says the Globe. "There are millions of people in continental Europe able and willing to buy Canadian bacon and flour if given a chance to do so. The Canadian Government should see to it that our food purveyors have shipping placed at their disposal to carry these products overseas. The blockade of European ports, now that the war is over, should be raised to permit of the shipment of Canadian foodstuffs into countries that need them. If Britain does not wish to buy our bacon and flour it is not too much to ask that the Allied powers shall remove all obstacles that prevent our packers and millers from selling their goods to people who do.

"But if this is an attempt to make the Canadian people responsible to the millers and packers for the price of bacon and flour to be sent to Roumania and Italy and Armenia and the Baltic provinces without any guarantee that the people of these countries will pay for the food they need, that attempt should be resisted stoutly by the Government and people of the Dominion. The millers and packers will have to take their risks hereafter like all other traders who in time of peace seek markets abroad for their products. If they sell to customers who prove unable to pay there is no reason in the world why the loss should fall upon the shoulders of the people of Canada who will not participate in the profits."

A REPATRIATION FORUM.

The demobilization and repatriation of Canada's army and the restoration of this country to a peace footing is a work to which the whole nation must rally. Every individual has a chance to help in some form of community service. Mr. H. J. Daly, Director of Repatriation, recognized this fact in his recent message, in which he said: "It requires the efforts of every medium and organization that has to do with the social and economic betterment of all the people. Therefore in our efforts to readjust conditions to a better basis we want the assistance of religious, social, fraternal, business, educational and all other classes of organizations. We want them to help as freely now as they did during the war—even going to the extent of submitting to direction when the same is necessary. Such organizations are the agencies to create a community atmosphere of contentment, and they were never so much needed as they are to-day."

To arouse the people of Peterborough to a sense of their responsibility in connection with the problems of the day, the suggestion from the Repatriation Committee of the Dominion Government that a Repatriation Forum be established seems one that should be followed. Peterborough has done nothing to meet the demands of the situation — the city is drifting along like a ship without a rudder, and daily there is more unemployment, and each week brings back more of our men from overseas. It was to be expected that one of the first matters discussed by the new Council would have been the appointing of a special committee on Repatriation, but the subject was not even discussed. There is need of immediate action now; it is much better to discuss ways and means of assisting our returning soldiers to find employment than it will be later on to have consider the establishment of soup kitchens.

Therefore the Repatriation Forum plan is a method of mobilizing public opinion and guiding it into the most effective channels of service that should be considered in Peterborough. The first step towards establishing such a Forum is to hold a small gathering to hear a presentation of the objects and aims of the organization, either by a local citizen who has interested himself in the work or by a speaker, who will be furnished free of charge by the Repatriation Speakers' Bureau. After this first meeting it will be desirable to secure the co-operation of representatives of civic, social, veteran, labour, agriculture, commercial, church, fraternal and other organizations in the locality. An executive committee or director, is then chosen to have general supervision, to secure community co-operation, and to keep in touch with the Committee of Repatriation.

A committee on meetings is formed to decide on place, hour, order of programme, and presiding chairman, and to attend to publicity, reception of out-of-town speakers and to arrange special addresses for occasions such as a public welcome to men from overseas. Funds are raised (for local expenses only) by a finance committee.

Wherever possible the active co-operation of the organized returned men should be given special consideration, and the meetings should be opened by music, and a place on the programme should be found for community-singing, with preference given to the songs familiar to returned men, like "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag" and "O Canada."

During summer months, repatriation rallies might be held out-of-doors.

Forums are already established in a number of Canadian cities. There are English and French-speaking forums in Montreal. Toronto has two forums; there are four in Winnipeg. The "Great War Veterans' and People's Forum" in Ottawa is held in a picture theatre every Sunday night, with an average attendance of 1,200 to 1,500. These meetings are of great benefit to the community; they interest the returned men in questions relating to community life, and they promote goodwill and the get-together spirit among all classes.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Somebody is always taking the joy out of life. In the midst of the rejoicing over the saving in the coal bill as a result of the mild weather, comes a complaint from the pessimistic situation who wants to know where we are going to get our supply of ice for next summer.

Thirsty citizens of the United States are already planning ways and means of beating the prohibition measure. Floating bars, outside the three-mile limit, is one proposal which if carried out would impose a heavy strain on the world's shiping.

The order-in-council having been suspended it is no longer a crime to loaf. In the opinion of many men, it is now a necessity.

The increasing number of bank mergers which means of course a decreasing number of banks and a limitation of banking facilities, does not find general favour. Sir Thomas White seems to be taking a heavy responsibility upon himself.

CENTRAL ONTARIO LIBERALS

We must endeavour by all means at our disposal to secure for them the widest possible markets. We also export largely the products of our forests, mines and fisheries. We must encourage the development of all these industries and the production of all articles for which profitable markets exist abroad. We should especially encourage the production of live stock and of those mineral and other products which are peculiar to Canada. With this object in view we should admit farm implements and other articles used for farming purposes free of duty. We should also admit duty free the machinery required for other productive industries. The tariff should be so framed as to impose the least possible burden upon the farmer and labouring man. We advocate the immediate removal of the war tax of 7 1-2 and 5 per cent. respectively on imports."

Probe C.N.R. Deal.

The resolution regarding the purchase of the Canadian Northern, moved by R. R. Hall, Peterborough, and seconded by W. H. Johnston, Havelock, ran thus:

"Resolved, by the Liberals of Central Ontario, that a full investigation be held to probe the affairs of the Canadian Northern Railway, to find out and make public all the facts relating to the negotiations for the sale and purchase of this road; the names of those who benefited directly or indirectly by the sale and purchase of this road; the names of those who dealt in its London securities before the unexpected purchase of the road was announced, and all surrounding facts and circumstances in any way relating thereto."

In supporting his resolution Mr. Hall said that C.P.R. stocks, which sold at 220 before the war, dropped to 157 on the declaration of war, although it paid 10 per cent. all through the war. Still Canadian taxpayers are being called on to pay face value for $147,000,000 in unsecured C.N.R. bonds, a property that was falling behind at a rate of about $10,000,000 a year. "These bonds, I am told, were being sold at 37 cents in London before the line was taken over," said Mr. Hall. "Who profited by the difference between 37 cents and $1.00?"

Hon. George P. Graham said that he had been asked whether he had been "repatriated." His answer was that he had no apologies to make for his views. He had been asked why he did not go into the Union Government, and in reply to that he would say that had he been looking for personal aggrandizement or had he any selfish motive, he could have been in the Union Government, and he could have been there with a higher position, so far as backing was concerned, than any Liberal in the Union Government at the present time. "I declined the offer, and I am glad of it," he added amid applause.

Rich Escape Taxation.

Mr. Graham dealt with the exemption of Victory Bond income from taxation, and severely criticized the action of the Finance Minister in allowing rich men to evade taxation by putting their money into Government bonds. As it stands the man with a fortune of $500,000 invested in these bonds pays not a dollar of taxes upon the income from them, while the man who earns a similar income as salary must pay on every dollar over $2,500. Mr. Graham declared that with bonds so attractive it was not necessary to offer such inducements to investors, and even if subscriptions were not forthcoming the Government could have compelled rich men to invest a portion of their capital in bonds. The Government of Australia had taken this course with insurance companies, and if it could be done with insurance companies it could be done "with Tom Jones or Bill Smith." Mr. Graham met the objection that many rich men had money in American securities by suggesting that the Government take these in exchange for Canadian Government bonds and use the securities to balance exchange.

Mr. Graham spoke briefly of social conditions in the future, declaring that the old "master and servant" relation would not continue. There was bound to be more of an equality between employer and employee.

Then he turned to party government, asserting that it was the only system of government that would fully serve the interests of the people.

"The party system of government is the best system ever devised by man for the government of man," was the way he put it. Non-partizan government had been tried in British Columbia and New Brunswick, and it had not been a success.

In declaring that the future of Canada would be safer in the hands of the Liberal party than any other, Mr. Graham gave reasons for "the faith that was in him." He went back to 1896 when Laurier went to power, and told of the period of prosperity that had followed. Only the war had saved Canada from financial trouble and industrial depression in recent years, for not long after the change of government in 1911 there were signs of a coming depression. Reciprocity, Mr. Graham contended, had been justified by the present Government, which had given it to the country piece-meal, and the Laurier "tin-pot" naval policy had been justified by events during the war. Canada had had to see Japanese ships defend the Pacific coast and American ships the Atlantic seaboard.

End of Privy Council Appeals.

The resolution on constitutional development was moved by W. D. Gregory and seconded by James R. Lindsay, Georgetown.

Mr. Gregory, in dealing with the proposed abolition of appeals to the Privy Council, said that the late Premier Whitney once proposed in the Legislature to abolish such appeals, but the proposal was not pushed. Later on the Premier was Knighted and nothing more was heard of the proposal.

Industrial Problems.

A resolution on industrial problems was moved by Dr. F. L. Denard, Owen Sound, seconded by E. H. Cleaver, Burlington. It said in part:

"We recommend the holding of conferences between employers and employed at which there may be an exchange of views and a statement of difficulties, and each side may thus be enabled to see things from the other's standpoint. Let us have democracy in industry as well as in government."

The constitution, which is similar to that of the other Liberal associations recently organized, was adopted on motion of R. R. Hall, Peterborough, and F. Hogg.

Mr. W. E. N. Sinclair, of Oshawa, presided at the afternoon meeting.

IN GREAT BRITAIN DURING THE WAR

One of the most striking developments in industrial Britain during the war has been the enormous development in electricity supply and with it a corresponding development in electrical manufactures as relating to the industrial applications of electricity, whether for lighting, heating or power. Between 50 and 100 electricity stations might be cited in which the plant capacity has been more than doubled during the past four years. The output of electrical energy has been increased to nearly the same extent. Unparallelled demands have been made upon manufacturers of lamps and lightning fittings, of motors and power auxiliaries, of electric furnaces and welding equipment for munition purposes.

In The Hills Above Ice River

THIS man is not carving his name on a stump. By looking closely one will identify the claws on the downbent right forepaw as those of a good sized black bear. So the human operator is removing a handsome black coat from a sleek, fat fall bruin that had ventured in innocent ignorance out on the open in search of mice and such interesting changes from a diet of berries. He did not know that men with guns were creeping up the slope toward him because the wind was sweeping down from the peaks above and the only scent it took to his keen nostrils was that of the fresh, sweet snows that were already whitening the peaks above Ice River, north of the C. P. R. transcontinental line.

So the bear waddled along with an investigating nose close to the sticks and stones he turned over with his great paws. He paused at a rotting log that had fallen before some great fire which had swept the hillside in the decades past, and he turned it over with an ease that spoke highly of strong claws and big muscles; he found some grubs and he licked them up; he started to investigate a bundle of weeds and dried grasses that looked as if it might contain some tender young mice. A hundred yards away, down the slope, a man's weak ankle that had been strained in days gone by a grating twist, turned on a stone and sent it clattering down through sticks and stones. Bruin over the rise and out of sight, reared to his haunches in curiosity. He spied the crown of a hat rising slowly over the ridge and he turned and sped away with an awkward, shuffling swiftness that could be second only to that of a moose in fallen timber and there is nothing more awkward-appearing yet nothing living so destructive to distance as a moose that is really up and going with full energies through his favorite racing ground in the swamps.

A steel-jacketed bullet whistled when it kicked dust out of the running bear's coat when it burned across the shoulder. Bruin snarled and went faster. Another bullet struck his ribs and he stopped to snap in anger at the hurt and to glare back at the source of his worry. Then, as he growled low in his throat he prepared to resume his flight a third bullet broke his neck, and his body huddled forward and settled down like a huge chunk of jelly that had scarce 'set'. And there we skinned him, far above the gleaming river where so recently he had gorged on the luscious berries and watched the deer and moose as they too gorged themselves on the rich foods that suited their cravings as satisfactorily as berries satisfied his. —L. ## Voice of The People

INCREASE IN JUVENILE CRIME.

Dear Editor,—Some time ago I received a report from Chief Thompson, showing a very large number of cases during the past year of juvenile offenders, and I began to look into the hours our young boys and girls were keeping, as the law says that boys and girls under the age of sixteen must go home at 9 p.m., unless accompanied by a parent or some one appointed by the parent to look after them. If this is violated the parent is liable to a fine of one to five dollars. I was surprised to find boys of twelve and thirteen working the bowling alleys until eleven o'clock at night, and selling papers very late. I then took the matter up with the bowling alleys, T. A.S. and Y.M.C.A. and all have agreed to make a change, and I must say treated me very kindly, but to make the venture a success I must have the parents and the general public at my back. If a boy must go to a hockey match and stay out late, it will be easier for the parent to be a sport once more and go with him, than to pay a fine of five dollars. League games could start at seven-thirty and be through by nine. I hope the public will help me in this matter, as there are enough of our boys and girls going wrong without late hours.

Yours,
GEO. W. POWELL,
Agent C.A.S.

THRIFT RECIPES

Issued By the Canada Food Board.

CABBAGE AND TOMATO.

5 cups shredded cabbage.
3 cups of water,
½ cup strained tomatoes,
Salt, pepper and onion to taste.

Cook the shredded cabbage in boiling water for 15 minutes and drain. Add the tomato. Then cook the tomato, seasonings and onions for about one-half hour. Add more water if necessary and cook so that the cabbage will be nearly dry when it is tender. Serve very hot.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES HER KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvelously beautiful hair, which when loosened from its coils falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture, and in color a glorious glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me that such marvelous results could have been accomplished so quickly I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair which then reached barely to the shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate, and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in color, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My hair was covered with dandruff, and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they were all the same and never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Composee and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying it to the scalp each night with the finger tips that my hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and I had my druggist mix 2 ounces of the Lavona de Composee with 6 oz. of Bay Rum and ½ dr. of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My, how quickly my hair did grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as if nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet, and while of course I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it, at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months I think that any woman can have long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it.

Those who use it should be careful not to get it on the face or where the hair is not desired.

FRENCH AVIATOR FIRST TO LAND UPON A ROO

Jules Vedrines Alights in Area 75 by 52 Feet with Little Damage to Plan

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Jules Vedrines won a prize of 25,000 francs recently for being the first airman to land upon the roof of a house on a flight.

Vedrines left Issy les Moulineaux at 1:20 o'clock in the afternoon, and withstanding a thick fog, with the purpose of attempting a landing on the roof of the Galleries Lafayette, a large department store near the St. Lazare Station. The roof, which is wide and long, and without obstructions on it, has previously been proposed for use as an aerial station in Paris.

Vedrines flew over the boulevards and slowed down as he passed over a bank building, opposite his destination. Here the aviator shut off the power of his engines and skimmed the parapet surrounding the roof by only a few inches. The landing was a spectacular one, and, although the machine was slightly damaged, Vedrines was uninjured. When the machine came to a standstill Vedrines waved his arms to a spectator on the bank roof, yelling, "There you are."

The roof is fifty-two feet wide and about seventy-five feet long. The width of the airplane used by Vedrines is thirty-six feet.

After the flight and the successful landing Vedrines said he never had the slightest doubt about its success. He added that he intended to fly around the world.

Canada Packers Will Try and Postpone a Shut-Down

Crisis Delayed—Ottawa Tries to Get Market Back—Make Appeal to London—Packers and Government Appoint Representatives to Go Overseas.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22. — The government sent the pork packers deputationists away with instructions to keep on buying hogs and operating their plants until the team play of the Ottawa and overseas sections of the Canadian Government has time to produce a restoration of the export market for Canadian pork products.

Hope to Avert Shutdown.

Sir Thomas White, Acting Premier, and his associates fully appreciate the gravity of the situation. The export market for Canadian pork products was absolutely left outside the scope of H. C. Hoover's plans for feeding the people of Britain and the war zone. The suspension of the British demand for Canadian pork products meant the shutdown of Canada's packing plants, and the dislocation, if not ruin, of Canada's hog-raising industry.

Asleep at the Switch.

Canada's overseas statesmen and their retinue have allowed "Hoover" to put one over, both in regard to the Old Country demand for pork products and the Old Country demand for wheat products. The millers want to know why Canada's trade representatives and the Cabinet ministers overseas did not keep the market open for Canadian wheat products. The packers asked the same question in relation to the closing of the Old Country market for pork products.

U.S.A. Packers on Top.

Canada's export market for bacon has temporarily disappeared. The United States' export market for bacon is still wide open. United States' exports of bacon for October last reached a total of £56,131,739, valued at £17,130,212. Canada's overseas bacon market of $2,000,000 per month is closed. The United States' overseas market of nearly $18,000,000 is open. The Ottawa end of Canada's Government gave a most sympathetic hearing to the packers. The cables are red hot with protests against the isolation of Canadian pork packers from the purchasing power of the authorities that have undertaken to feed British and allied countries.

Packers to Carry On.

The packers agreed to rush a representative to the Old Country. Sir Thomas White agreed to associate a Government representative with the packers' representative. The importance of the issue is already emphasized by cable. The personal activity of the packers' representative and the Government's representative will emphasize the arguments of the representatives of statesmanship and trade and commerce now in touch with the purchasing authorities in the British Isles. The packers went back to their plants, persuaded that the Government would do its very best to secure a restoration of the export market for Canadian bacon. Packers will buy hogs and operate their plants in the hope that the restoration will be secured. The packers did not climb the house-tops to explain why the packing industry and the Government went to sleep at the switch, and allowed H. C. Hoover or anybody else to grab Canada's share of the Old Country market for bacon.

BRITISH AT BAGDAD FEEDING REFUGEES, RECLAIM BAD LAND

LONDON.— Thousands of refugees from Armenia and Eastern Syria were sheltered and fed by the British army in Mesopotamia during the war, the work being of such a character that it has been made the subject of a special report issued here to-day. The statement follows:

"The future destiny of Armenian and Eastern Syrian peoples who have taken refuge with the British in Mesopotamia is one of the problems which the Peace Congress must consider. At present in the British refugee camp at Baquba, thirty-three miles from Bagdad, the British are providing for 45,000 people of both races.

"The work of feeding, clothing and housing these refugees, when the British were still at grips with the Turks not many miles away, was a triumph of organization. The sudden influx of some 50,000 people into regions already devastated by the ravages of war created a situation of utmost difficulty. The camp at Baquba was hastily laid out and in three weeks the refugees were taken in at a rate of 1,000 per day. Sickness was rife and all the refugees were in an emaciated condition.

"Providing clothing and food for these additional numbers when so much transport was needed for operations along the Tigris River, was a marvellous achievement. To-day the camp is organized as efficiently as many Western towns, the water supply and sanitation is perfect and three hospitals, all modernly equipped to meet medical requirements, are in operation. Nearly one thousand orphans have been provided for and the whole population of the camp is beginning to recover from the horrors of their exodus from their native lands.

"To return them to the same state of insecurity in which they lived so long would be an international crime against these people.

"An important new irrigation project was opened on January 10 at Mansureyah, on the Diala River, some seventy miles north-east of Bagdad. Six months ago the British irrigation department commenced widening the channel of the river there.

"The new canal is six miles long and, without further work on it, water can be supplied for the irrigation of 300,000 acres and render cultivation possible as far as the neighbourhood of Bagdad.

"The opening ceremony was carried out in the presence of many Arab land owners, who hailed the completion of the work as striking evidence of the good intentions of the British. The increase in wealth to the land thus irrigated will certainly be considerable and the increased production of food will be of great importance."

A MISSION TO POLAND

Might Intervene in Poland—Discuss Situation in Russia.

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Jan. 22.—The Supreme War Council has decided to send a mission to Poland, representing the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy, it was officially announced to-day. President Wilson's proposal for the settlement of the Russian problem will be discussed at this afternoon's session.

Russian Question.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Jan. 22.—With the hope of definitely deciding on some policy for the settlement of Russian question, the Supreme Council of the Allies met early this morning and got right down to business. Some announcement is expected this afternoon.

President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George are in complete agreement as regards the Russian situation, according to the Paris edition of the London Daily Mail. They regard the settlement of the Russian question as absolutely necessary as a preliminary to the formation of a League of Nations, the newspaper declares, and they are anxious to secure evidence of accredited Bolshevik representatives as to the status of Russian affairs. French opinion is not at present in favour of even this recognition of the Bolshevik regime.

Women Out-Voted the Men

Socialists are Outvoted in Territory Occupied by Americans.

Special to The Examiner:

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 22.—Women outvoted the men in the districts occupied by the Third Army, according to incomplete returns from Sunday's national elections. It was indicated that the Centrists coalition of the Catholic party and the Protestants, polled twice as many votes as all other parties combined.

Paper Enquiry Closed To-day

Three Demands Are Made to Paper Controller—No Decision Yet.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—After an argument lasting eleven days the newsprint inquiry appeal came to an end this morning and it now remains for the paper control tribunal to decide whether the price of news print in rolls shall remain at sixty-nine dollars per ton as fixed by Commissioner Pringle, or increase to eighty dollars, as the manufacturers demand, or brought down to fifty dollars as the publishers request.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Noted Writer Coming Here

Will Address Two Meetings in St. Paul's Church.

Mr. C. G. Trumbull, editor of the Sunday School Times, a paper with a weekly circulation of 115,000, and the writer of a number of books, will pay a flying visit to our city on Friday of this week. He will speak in the afternoon at three o'clock and in the evening at eight o'clock, in St. Paul's Church, taking as his subject at both meetings, "The Victorious life." Mr. Trumbull is a Presbyterian, but as people of all denominations take his paper, he may be said to belong to all the churches. The public generally are not only invited to these meetings, but are reminded that a rare privilege is theirs in the opportunity which is given them of hearing this great Christian leader.

Horticultural Society's Annual Meeting Jan. 30

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Society will be held in the Council Chamber on Thursday, January 30th, at 8 p.m., for the reception of reports, election of officers and other business. With the return of peace there should be a revival of interest in this society which has managed to maintain a fairly large membership and to carry on its regular activities in the face of difficulties that grew out of the war. Peterborough's society has a long way to go to equal the strength and accomplishments of Horticultural societies such as that of St. Thomas. There are many ardent lovers of flowers and of the "city beautiful" idea in this city, but there is a need of greater concerted action. Hence it is hoped that the annual meeting will be well attended. Every person who is interested in this work should consider themselves included in the general invitation that is extended by the directors.

FEW CENTS DESTROYS YOUR DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face When it fades turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautiful ly dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Reports at Baptist Convention Shows Falling Off in 1918 Membership.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—The annual report of the Baptist Sunday School Board of Ontario and Quebec was read by Rev. P. K. Dayfoot at yesterday's session of the Baptist Convention in Jarvis street church. During 1917 there were 476 Sunday School associations throughout Ontario and during 1918 this number was increased by 25. There were 359 new enrolments during 1918, but the Cradle Roll, however, decreased by 118. There were 536 fewer Sunday School pupils joined the church during 1918 than during the previous year. Three hundred and seventy-six were baptized in the Baptist church during last year.

After the installation, Bro. Proctor, of Toronto, our Worthy Supreme President, addressed the members, pointing out the unrivalled record that the S.O.E. had in the Dominion of Canada. Out of a membership of 30,000, 6,000 had enlisted and gone overseas. Of this number 756 had laid down their lives in defence of the ideals upon which the Order is based, more than $93,000 has been paid in war claims in the beneficiary and funeral departments of the society, and $7,000 is still held waiting for proof of death. During the 43 years the society has been in existence more than $1,500,000 has been paid to the members in sick or funeral benefits, and more than $1,000,000 in beneficiary claims.

Peterborough Lodge.

Lansdowne Lodge, Peterborough, have had their share in this splendid record of 51 of the members having enlisted, 4 of whom have been killed, 16 have returned, and 31 are still overseas.

During the evening the officers of the Juvenile Lodge were received and given a hearty welcome. Two new members were initiated, and together with the large attendance of members the outlook is bright for a successful year in 1919.

The financial statement for the lodge shows that during the year more than $1,000 was paid out to the members in sick and funeral benefits, but notwithstanding the heavy disbursements during the recent epidemic of influenza, the finances of the lodge were in a better position than at the beginning, and the auditor's report stated that the books of the lodge were never in better condition.

After the closing of the lodge, the members enjoyed a social hour together around the festive board, Bro. A. E. Peck presiding. Toasts to the King by Bro. Peck and to the Supreme Lodge, as represented by Bro. Proctor, the Supreme President, by Bro. H. Beale, were honoured in the usual manner, and the very pleasant and successful evening was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN

The third day of the big drive is here. The last two days have been full of activity and while results cannot as yet be announced the prospects are hopeful that the goal will be reached. Gradually a list of names is being made up of men who are from the city, and these will be seen as soon as possible on return.

Yesterday the Quaker Oats Co., gave permission that the employees might be approached while at work. So a corps of twenty men and four ladies was organized to go to the factory at 9.30 this morning and make a thorough canvas of the men and women in the building. It is expected that the results will justify the work. The thanks of the committee in charge of the drive are with the company for the valued permission.

At the Bonner-Worth factory the employees were grouped in the top flat room of the building at 12.45 p.m. yesterday. A short appeal was made for the objects of the canvas. Something like 285 cards were taken to be filled in and returned to the office. It is expected that the factory will keep up its noted liberal record in this as in other appeals of the past. A generous cheque was handed in by the company.

Yesterday afternoon at 4.45 the workers had access to meet the employees at the Matthews-Blackwell factory and cheerful time we had. The appeal to the men for assistance was met in a very satisfactory way.

While what was considered a sufficient number number of cards to be used in taking subscriptions, were printed, it has been necessary to print additional numbers, so freely have they been asked for and supplied. This looks hopeful and indicates that a willingness to support the drive is fairly general.

A committee visits the C. G. E. Co. works both yesterday and to-day and are armed with cards and ballot boxes, the latter to hold the money sums donated. It was not practicablej to go through the Works, so the plan was adopted to meet the men as they left work, and gathered to go to work at the usual hours.

Announcement will be made of the general results though it is certain that a number of loose ends will be closed up during the next few days.

The Germans Are Orderly

Only 123 Have Been Tried For Infraction of Regulations Since the Occupation.

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press Service.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 22.—In six weeks' occupation of a territory with three-quarters of a million population, the third army military courts have tried only 123 Germans for infraction of regulations. This indicates the remarkable orderliness resulting from the American occupation. Most of the arrests have been for violation of the liquor rules and the purchase of American foodstuffs from soldiers. In only two cases has the maximum fine of five thousand marks ($1,000) been imposed. One was for armed resistance to an American officer by a German soldier. Another German soldier was sentenced to ninety days' imprison- for a brawl with a doughboy. At Tetzrab twenty-eight persons were fined for stealing rations. Ten persons at Sochem were fined 250 marks ($50.00) for holding an unauthorized meeting. In half a dozen cases sentences have included from two days to a months' imprisonment at hard labour under American guard. Most of the prisoners are confined in the city jail at Coblenz, which has been taken over by the Americans.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

Save Your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—try this.

Thin, brittle, colourless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time— will surely save your hair.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

"Charles Crees Came to His Death by Suicidal Hanging"

Verdict of Coroner's Jury in Otonabee Township Case—Conflicting Evidence.

A GRUESOME FIND

"Charles Crees came to his death by suicidal hanging and death was due to strangulation," was the verdict brought in at a late hour last night at the inquest held to inquire into the death of Charles Crees, who was found hanging by a rope in the barn of Mr. Herbert McKay, a farmer in Otonabee Township, on the night of Tuesday, January 14th.

William Comstock, of the Aaron-Comstock Undertaking Company of this city, was the first witness called. He was called to the farm of Herbert McKay, on the evening of Jan. 14 by a telephone call. He went to the barn with Mr. McKay and found a man hanging by means of a rope to one of the braces of the second stringer. The rope was not around his neck but was under his chin and fastened with two knots at the top of his head. His body was taken down and later buried with the permission of the Coroner. The man he would judge was between 35 and 40 years of age and was a well-built man. Dr. C. H. Amys with Dr. Morgan held a post-mortem and found that death was due to strangulation. There was a rope burn under the jaw. One ligament of the neck was broken and this could not be caused by the weight of the man's body. It would require a drop to do it.

Answering a question of the coroner. Dr. Amys said that if the man had been killed first and then hung up the blood and organs of the body would not have been found in the condition they were. His tongue was also swollen and hanging out of his mouth.

Herbert McKay on whose farm Crees worked and in whose barn the body of Crees was found hanging was the third witness called. Crees had worked on his farm for two years and for many years before that with his father. He was a willing worker and he had never had any trouble with him. Crees had no friends in this country but was a native of the British Isles.

"Have you heard the reports that you abused him?" asked Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton.

"There is nothing in it," said the witness, quietly.

"Did you ever knock him down or kick him?"

"No, I never did."

Missed Crees

Asked if there was anything queer about the deceased, Mr. McKay replied, "that the day that he was found in the barn he (Crees) asked him four times how to do one thing. McKay went to the station and when he came back he missed Crees. He called him several times but there was no answer. He went to the house and was informed that they saw Crees go to the barn just ten minutes before McKay returned from the station. McKay went to the barn and called, but no answer. He went inside and through the gloom saw Crees just below the first stringer and at first thought he was resting against the hay. He went up to him and said,

"Are you sick Charlie?" but got no answer.

He took him by the hand and it was still warm but looking into his face he knew he at once that Crees was dead.

Rope Produced

The rope which was produced was not much larger than the ordinary clothes line and was doubled. Crees had climbed on to the first beam and put the rope through the brace which reaches from the post to the second beam and according to the condition of the neck must have jumped off the beam into space. The body was found hanging about a foot below the first beam. Crees had a sunstroke about a year ago and had been off work for a considerable time. He had also been frostbitten in the winter.

John H. Fife, a 73 year old farmer, who resides on the next farm to McKay, admitted that he had not been on good terms with McKay for over three years. Among other things they had had a quarrel over a fence. Asked if he had seen any quarrels between McKay and his hired man, Crees. He replied that he had.

On June the first last he was walking on the road with his son when he heard a disturbance. On reaching the top of a small hill he saw Crees and McKay and his wife in the field. McKay was cursing Crees and he afterwards saw Crees lying on the ground and McKay kicking him. He kicked him again. Fife halloed to Mc- when Crees tried to rise McKay kicked him again. Fife halloed to McKay to stop kicking the man but McKay came up to him and said that he had to kick him to get any work out of him.

With the permission of the Coroner, Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared on behalf of Mr. McKay asked Fife a few questions.

"Was there any trouble between you and McKay last Hallowe'en."

"Yes there was."

"Is there a lawsuit pending between you and McKay for $500?"

Witness reluctantly admitted that there was.

Wilfred Fife, son of the previous witness, remembered some of the scene which his father had described. He however, said that McKay came up to his father and climbed the fence and shook his fist in Fife's face and said that he would hit him. With this statement the father tried to make a statement, but was refused a hearing.

Another Witness

James Rennie, a farm hand from Keene provided some amusement He answered like one who was experienced in the witness box and replied yes or no to every query of the Crown Attorney or of Mr. Gordon. He worked for McKay some time and said that he had always been treated well by McKay. He never saw any trouble between McKay and Crees. When County Constable Archie Moore volunteered the information that Rennie had told him that he had been kicked and buffeted, he admitted that he had told the constable that.

When asked if he knew anything about the case he replied as usual, "No."

"Do you know why you are here to-night," asked Mr. Hatton.

"No."

Members of the McKay family were called and stated emphatically that there was no truth in the statements of Fife or his son.

TRAFFIC MANAGER IS OUT WITH FACTS

Bedford Had Been Going Down Hill For Several Years—In Fine Shape After Taking Tanlac.

"For five years now I have been looking for something that would relieve my troubles and have found it at last in Tanlac," said George L. Bedford, of 3721 Central Ave., Kansas City, Mo., the other day. Mr. Bedford is well-known in business circles and holds the responsible position of traffic manager with the Gustin Bacon Manufacturing Company.

"For the past few years," he continued, "I have suffered constantly from stomach and liver trouble, and although I tried different kinds of treatments and diets I kept getting worse all the time. My liver was so sluggish that it wouldn't act at all without my taking some kind of strong purgative. I had a sallow, unhealthy look and would get up in the morning feeling so dull and languid that I didn't have a bit of life about me. My food almost always gave me indigestion, and I would have a miserable feeling in the pit of my stomach as though what I had eaten had formed a heavy lump there. I was badly constipated, and if I ate my lunch at noon, I would always have a mean headache right afterwards, and felt so droway and out of sorts that I could hardly do my work. I had always taken good care of myself and couldn't understand what was the cause of my trouble.

"Some three weeks ago I read a notice in the papers about Tanlac and decided I would investigate it. Well, I have only taken three bottles so far and I am actually feeling better to-day than I have for the past five years. My appetite is so much better that I enjoy all I eat and I can eat anything I want without having the least touch of indigestion afterwards. All that mean sluggish feeling is gone. I get up in the morning feeling fine and can work now without suffering from those awful headaches. My skin has cleared up, my liver is working right, and that constipation has been removed. I have never taken a medicine that did me so much good as Tanlac, and am glad to recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Benike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL

Flags of the Republic Were Publicly Burned in Some of the Towns

Special to the Examiner:

MADRID, Jan. 22.—Manuel II., former King of Portugal, has arrived off Lisbon aboard a ship of unknown nationality, according to an unconfirmed report received here to-day. This despatch is not confirmed from any source. Other reports said that Lisbon is quiet, and that the military police are guarding the Governor's Palace. Premier Darbosa, who became head of the Government, following the recent assasination of President Pass, was reported to have been arrested in Oporto by the Monarchists. He was released after signing an agreement to adhere to the monarchy.

Contrary advices said that Manuel had been proclaimed King in Lisbon, that a new Cabinet had been formed, and that the Royalist Ministers had occupied the official palaces. Monarchist forces were reported to have been completely victorious throughout the northern provinces. Valencia was occupied by fifteen hundred Royalist troops after a brief resristance. Flags of the Republic are said to have been publicly burned in towns throughout the country. A state of siege has been proclaimed throughout Portugal, according to some reports.

British Delegation Make the Suggestion That Limited Number of Delegates From Russia be Allowed.

Special to The Examiner:

(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, Jan. 22. — That a limited number of representatives of the Russian Soviet government will attend the Peace Conference seemed certain to-day. It was learned that an agreement had practically been reached by the Supreme War Council in this regard. Official announcement was expected before night. The British delegation is understood to have taken the lead in proposing this solution of the difficult and important Russian question.

Annual Meeting Of All Saints Sunday School

The annual meetin gof All Saints' Sunday School was held last evening when encouraging reports were resented. The report of the Secretary, Mrs. James Price, showed the average attendance for the year to be 243. The high water mark was reached last Sunday with an attendance of 368. The treasurer's report which was read by Miss Cairns, showed a balance on hand of $194, while the contributions of the school to Missions and other outside objects totalled $116.33. The following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:

Secretary—Mr. James Price
Treasurer—Mr. C. Cairns.
Supt. of the Font Roll—Miss G. Hooper.

WINE FROM RAISINS.

An Italian was caught at Parry Sound making what was called wine from raisins and which contained a high percentage of alcohol. Another Italian who is said to have been a partner in the still, has disappeared. A large quantity of raisins had been used and the man in charge admitted that about eight gallons of the stuff could be made at one brewing. He was fined $250 and costs.

The still which is the second which has been seized by Chief of Police Kidd and his assistants within a very short time, was a primitive affair. Fermented raisins were used.

Fine Farm Changes Hands

The Peterboro Realty Company Turn Over the Property This Week.

One of the biggest deals in farm property in this locality since the declaration of war four years ago took place this week when the fine farm of Mr. Gus White, on the Chemong road, was purchased by Mr. Dalton Stewart, of Otonabee, through the agency of the Peterborough Realty Co., Messrs. Ruth and Gibbs.

This farm is one of the finest in Peterborough county, and both the buildings and land have been much improved since Mr. White purchased it a few years ago.

Flour Export Is Uncertain

Conference at Ottawa Deals With Whole Position of Canadian Milling.

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—A conference called by the millers' committee at which were present James Stewart, of the Wheat Export Company, and H. B. Thomson, of the Canada Food Board, has just been concluded. At the conference the whole position of Canadian milling industry was considered with special reference to the situation which has arisen through the temporary cessation of allied purchasing.

Several reasons are given for the suspension of orders. It is stated in the first place that Great Britain's storehouse was pretty well filled when the armistice came and that there is a supply on hand sufficient to meet the demands for two or three months to come. A certain congestion in terminals also exists in England and coupled with that there is a shortage of tonnage for anything but absolutely necessary articles of reconstruction. Since the armistice was signed moreover, there has been a partial resumption of sailings from Great Britain to Australia and South America. In fact the ink was scarcely dry on the armistice when ships commenced to ply with varied merchandise to South American ports, bringing back wheat and other commodities from the Argentine.

Canadian mills have a sufficient supply of flour manufactured to take up all available shipping space until February at least, and there is no certainty as to when the allied purchasing commissioners will again start purchasing, though no doubt is expressed that purchasing will be resumed soon. In the meantime, however, the mills will not be manufacturing for export until a decision is reached.

It is stated here that the allies are well satisfied with the Canadian Standard flour. They want a straight-run flour and not the intermediate or lower grades. There is, therefore, no question at present of changing that standard either for domestic consumption or for export.

So far as the fixed price on bran and shorts is concerned it will not be changed for the present at least.

Objection Raised To Poppies Import; Alarming Farmers

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 21.—There is a considerable amount of discussion in this city and district concerning the import of "Flanders Poppies" by the local Horticultural Society, and several residents of the community, especially those who have been interested at one time in farming, are somewhat alarmed over the difficulty that may follow the wholesale cultivation of these flowers, that are known throughout England and France as one of the worst pests among weeds.

Members of the local society, however, are much in favor of the import of the new variety of flowers. A large order has already been filled, and another is on its way, and these will constitute the greater portion of the flowers to be distributed among local horticulturists this summer.

Experiences of the Collectors

Some of the men attached to the present drive of the Salvation Army in the city for funds recount some interesting experiences in some some of the homes were they solicited funds.

One of the members of a team tells how one woman looked around the corner of the door and asked if he were one of those Salvation Army men.

"No; not exactly—but I'm collecting for them."

She said that she had enough to do to support her own church without supporting another one. Before the collector could get time to explain that the money was not for a church but to help Canada's soldiers on their arrival in this country, she had poked her head inside the door and left the collector with a S.A. card in his hand. A few houses farther on, an Irishman, a returned soldier, stated that the Salvation Army had not done much for him when he was "over there," and he would not subscribe. Another Irishman on the same street, when asked if he would like to subscribe to the Salvation Army, replied in his brogue that he would be glad to. Why hadn't his brother just written that day and said that the Salvation Army was the best thing ever was. He would subscribe $5—and he did.

Others asked how much would be needed to place "your" team ahead, and seemed greatly surprised that each man "is not up to date," as one old lady so graphically put it, and be able to tell them what each man on each team has collected so far in the race towards $20,000. However most of them hand over substantial greenbacks and away the collector goes to the next house.

Most of the collectors report that money is not so tight as is generally thought and when they explain that the money is for the returned soldiers they are generally successful.

Ten Soldiers Return To-day

Were Met at the Station by a Member of the Peterboro Police Force.

Ten more veterans slipped quietly into the city this morning at six o'clock and were given a hearty reception by the policeman on duty at the C.P.R. The men came over on the Olympic, but were later in returning than those who came in early this week as they had asked permission to receive their discharge in Toronto, which request though granted in England was revoked in Ottawa causing some little delay. Among those who came in to-day were: Gunner Ormand Girven, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Girven, 523 Rogers street, who went over with the 33rd Battery in 1915, and was wounded last year, and "Bill" Tobin, of Auburn, an old 93rd boy.

A Medallist.

One boy, Sergt. Bryer Carpenter, brought home a medal he won for "picking up from the bottom of the trench and throwing over the parapet a five Mills grenade that had accidentally been knocked from the thrower's hand thereby saving the lives of his comrades" Sergt. Carpenter, who enlisted in 1915, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Carpenter, 533 Concession street.

The Americans Burglarize Paris

Demobilization Shows Its Evil Results. Paris is Victim of Discharged Prisoners.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Jan. 22.— Acts of violence and armed attacks are increasing daily in Paris, according to the Matin which declares that demobilization of Allied troops is bound to have the effect of further increasing lawlessness. Many former prisoners now freed from the army are hurrying to make up for lost time. This band of law-breakers is now increased by contingents from armies of the Allies. During the last week 130 night assaults in Paris district were reported as having been committed by burglars from the American army. Deputy Police Commissioner Evans, one of the best New York police experts, will act in connection with Paris police to round up these criminals.

WELLAND MERCHANT GETS "BLACK HAND" THREATS IN LETTER

WELLAND, Ont., Jan. 21.—Black-hand letters have been received by H. J. Smith, manager of the cordage company and M. Valovitz, a Serbian merchant, of this town, both letters bearing the Bridgeburg postmark. Mr. Smith is referred to as an "aristocrat" and therefore an unworthy citizen, and Mr. Valovitz is threatened with "removal" because of his activities in connection with the Serbian national league.

An Aviation Conference

Clause Will Be Inserted in the Peace Treaty.

By Henry Wood.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—An Allied aviation conference will be held here within a few days for the purpose of drafting an aeronautic clause to be incorporated in the peace settlement.

The United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium will be represented by aviation experts, chosen largely from their aviation departments.

One of the questions that is certain to be considered is that of providing regulations preventing airplanes engaged in International mercantile traffic from flying over frontiers and delivering their cargoes without the formality of stopping at the custom house and paying duty.

Another provision that will be studied, is that of making it impossible for the large fleet of commercial airplanes the Germans have under construction to be suddenly converted into bombing squadrons.

The aeronautic clause of the peace treaty probably will serve as the basis for future in aviation laws.

BASEBALL

New York, Jan. 18.—Salary limitation was the outstanding feature of all-day sessions of the National league and the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs. The minor organizations finally agreed upon the form of their request for the lifting of the draft regulations and the senior-major leaguers went on record regarding a number of proposed changes which they desire the American league jointly to adopt at the special meeting of the two leagues tomorrow, as well as several additional alterations of their own by-laws.

A drastic change in the rule governing the draft of class AA players by major league clubs was decided on. The minors disliked the word "draft" and suggested it be changed to "arbitrary purchase."

May Buy One for $7500

Their proposition is that major league clubs may arbitrarily purchase one player from each club in class AA for $7500, between November 1 and 10. This will preclude any major league club increasing its playing strength during the season other than by purchasing players from the minors at prices mutually agreed upon. The present draft rate is $2500 for persent class AA players.

In case the player is not retained for the entire season he is to be resold (outright title) to the club from which he was purchased, for $2500 and in the event that club waives priority he is to be offered to all the clubs in the same classification for $1000 except the club that sold him. If he is not wanted by any club in that classification he is to be offered to Class A for $500, Class B for $300, Class C for $150 and Class D for $75. If not disposed the major league may retain the services of the player if it sees fit.

All major league players waived out of their respective leagues must go to the AA leagues for the sum of $1000. In the event that more than one club claims a player he is to be awarded by lot, and in case no AA club claims him he is to be offered to class A for $500, lass B for $300, Class C for $150 or Class D for $75.

All players must be purchased for cash, and all clubs in all leagues under this agreement must have a player limit and conform to the same on the opening day of the playing season.

NATIONAL CUTS SALARIES

National league baseball players will receive an unpleasant surprise with their 1919 contracts as a result of the magnates' action today in adopting a club salary limit of not more than $11,000 per month. This is the most radical financial retrenchment attempted by a major league in many years and will prove a startling upset to those diamond stars who may have expected a continuation of the high salaries and long-time contracts of pre-war days.

Under the new regulation, which was adopted by a vote of six to two, the maximum monthly salary limit during the playing season must not exceed $11,000 plus the manager's salary. This will make the seasonal payroll foot up approximately $66,000 for a playing period of about five and a half months. With a club roster of twenty-two players the average will be $500 per player per month. The new rule also carries a penalty in the form of a fine of $500 for every infraction of the rule.

In its original form the regulation carried a very much smaller maximum limit and there was a long argument over the proposed rule. Several amendments, each increasing the amount were offered in turn until the limit was raised to $11,000. When this came to vote all the clubs except New York and Chicago voted for this maximum and it was declared carried.

No similar rule has appeared upon the National leagues books since about 1800 when there was a salary limit clause in the players' contracts of $2400. The league president is given authority to enforce the new rule and has the power to have books of any club audited in case he thinks that the regulation is being violated.

The league also declared in favor of the lowest possible player limit the members present being about evenly divided between twenty and twenty-one as the proper number for each club.

THIRTY-DAY TRAINING PERIOD

The thirty-day training limit is also to be strictly adhered to for the coming season. A fine of $500 will be levied on any club that violates this rule. According to President Heydler the sending of players to health resorts at the club's expense prior to March 23 will be construed as a violation.

The American league rule that the championship club must turn into its treasury fifty per cent of its share of the receipts of the world's series was opposed.

Peterboro's Fair Will Be Held On First Three Days of Week

Change Should Bring More Exhibitors Without Having Any Depreciating Effect on Attendance—Show Will be Open Three Nights.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

In deciding yesterday afternoon to hold this year's Fair on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 15th, 16th and 17th respectively, this year, the directors of the Exhibition departed from the old order with feelings of confidence that the change would enable many exhibitors to come to Peterborough who have been prevented in the past by conflicting dates. Mr. Smith Milburn, H. G. Webber, R. H. Turner and others stated that the Fair in the past was virtually competing with the London show, to which exhibitors went directly from Toronto Peterborough's exhibition coincided with the last three days of the London Fair, but by the innovation to be worked out this year the local dates are set back to the first three days of the following week. Eastern exhibitors will therefore have the opportunity of coming from London to Peterborough and close that week at the Lindsay Fair.

Mr. T. H. Hooper, who has the task of securing grandstand and other attractions assured the directors that Peterborough had nothing to worry about in regard to the attractions that make a local circuit. There were plenty of excellent features that could be signed up directly without depending upon any circuit. In view of the e promptings the directors made their decision unanimously, and with the hope that the changed dates will result in a bigger and better Fair.

There will be three night performances this year, and it is believed that the Saturday afternoon attendance will not be missed by the arrangements that are being planned.

Mr. W. J. Cox presided yesterday in the absence of Mr. Denne, and the attendance of directors was most encouraging. It was decided to hold a working "bee" early in the spring, and every member is expected to respond.

The committees were drawn up as follows:

Light Horses.— C. E. Graham, T. Cruikshanks, J. T. O'Connel, W. J. Cox.

Heavy Horses.—J. A. Storey, J. O Hall, S. F. Milburn, E. W. Wood, Albert Roberts.

Beef Cattle.— C. E. Moore, T. O Gibbs, R. G. Grandy, H. Webber, H. Baptie.

Dairy Cattle.— J. Gillespie, Wm Rosebrough, W. Steinkrauss, C. Telford.

Sheep and Swine.—Wm. Steinkrauss, J. O. Ball, R. Shaw, A. B. Mann, J. Gillespie.

Poultry.—H. Baptie, J. J. Hartley, Dairy.—G. A. Gillespie, W. R. Breyfogle, J. W. Fraser.

Horticulture.— D. Jordan, Frank Wise, H. Theobald.

Agriculture.— C. F. Kitney, S. A. Oke, J. A. Williams, Bruce Johnston.

Fine Arts and Ladies' Work.—R. M. Glover, S. D. Hall, Mrs. Stevenson, Miss Davidson, Miss Elliot, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, Miss Simons.

Amusements.—W. F. Turner, T. H. Hooper, R. M. Glover.

Advertising and Printing— W. R. Breyfogle, W. S. Merrell, R. H. Turner, R. M. Glover, S. D. Hall.

Subscriptions.—Messrs. R. H. Turner, Hooper, Cox, Brown, Merrell, Breyfogle, Hall, Webber, Gillespie and Fraser.

Grounds.—The whole Board, with the President as chairman.

Concessions. — R. H. Turner, T. Brown, W. F. Turner.

Reception.— Messrs. Denne, Breyfogle, Hall, Webber, Gillespie and Cox.

Executive.—Messrs. Denne, Cox and Roberts.

Building.— R. H. Turner, Merrell and Cox.

Skating Party Was a Success

The ladies of the Murray street choir entertained the gentlemen of the organization at a most enjoyable skating party at Brock street Rink last evening. About fifty were in attendance and after the skating adjourned to Hooper's Palm Parlours, where a delightful banquet was served at which Miss Florence Scott presided. Speeches were made by Mr. Gordon Matthews, Mr. J. G. Graham, president of the choir, Mr. Asa Huycke, choir leader, Mr. John Jarry Miss Smith, Mr. C. S. Brown, and Miss Lillian Eastwood while enjoyable readings were contributed by Mrs. (Dr.) Morgan and Miss Mabel Cunningham. A successful evening was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

HOCKEY

Providing there is good ice there will be three games in the Junior church Hockey League, Thursday night commencing at 6:30 o'clock. The games are:

St. Paul's vs. Murray and Park Sts.
All Saints vs. Knox.
Trinity vs. George street.

A large number of fans are expected to come to cheer for their respective clubs.

SEMI-READY PEACE BENEFIT SALE

Sale Starts at 8 o'clock Sharp on Thursday Morning

WHEN WILL WOOL DROP IN PRICE? NOT YET. OUR ENGLISH BUYERS CANNOT GET A YARD OF CLOTH FOR NEXT FALL DELIVERY AS YET.
WE WILL SPEED THE HAPPY DAY WHEN A GOODLY TAILORED GARMENT CAN AGAIN BE BOUGHT AT A REASONABLE PRICE, BY A HUGE PEACE BENEFIT SALE, WHEN EVERY SINGLE SUIT AND OVERCOAT IN OUR STORE WILL BE SOLD AT SUBSTANTIAL PRICE SAVINGS.

Semi-ready Editorials

From the Semi-ready Special.

The Cost of Wool

The Government fixed the price of war wheat at about three times its average price in peace times.

The price of wool had been left to the "open market" in the matter of price—and it has fluctuated between two and three times the peace-time price. When the British Government cornered the wool market, the price jumped to four times the normal price.

The cost of a good suit of clothes is just about twice what it was before the Kaiser went war mad.

The old $10 ready-made suit value has been replaced by suites at from $17 to $21.

Even the $15 Semi-ready Suits, with their fixed label-in-the-pocket standard of value, have advanced in cost to $22.50, and promise to be $25, if costs mount higher.

We have two buyers in England to-day watching the market, watchfully waiting. Not in four years have we failed to keep in close personal touch with the market.

The genuine British weaver has kept up his quality standard—

For Semi-ready Tailoring — we have improved the standard of making—and were it not for the huge stock of wools held by the various governments for future needs the price of a good suit or overcoat would not be so high as it is to-day.

All is not Wool that Curls

A pure wool yarn, free from old wool and from cotton, is hard to get. They cannot make such a yarn into cloth for home consumption in England.

But for their export trade to Canada, to customers like the Semi-ready Company, who had established a standard and who must maintain it, the War Board issued a special permit to the English weavers.

This is why we are to-day getting fine wool cloth, worth from 10 to 15 guineas when tailored — cloth which was formerly used almost entirely in London, Paris and New York, where the millionaires would feel slighted if they did not pay $100 to $150 for a suit model.

'All is not wool that curls — but we have maintained our pure wool standard in the making of all suits of quality — but not in the cheap lines at $15 and $18. This we have avoided as a war plague.

What About the Future

The men's suit trade suffered in war times. With over 20,000,000 extra men wearing uniforms, the civilian trade suffered.

What trade suffers most in war should prosper more in peace.

That these twenty millions will again require civilian clothes, both suits and overcoats, will tend to keep up the price of cloth whilst other wares return to a formal price-level.

Men in the woollen trade say they do not see any prospect of a fall in the price of good cloth until a year after the signing of peace and the demobilization of the vast armies in Europe and America.

To help you to await that day this Peace Benefit Sale is designed, and it will not be for long.

Men's Winter Overcoats

EVERY OVERCOAT I have is of genuine Semi-ready Tailoring and is therefore measured by a higher standard of value, with the fixed label-in-the-pocket indication of worth.

SPORTING COMMENT

Miss Elaine Rosenthal, who plays golf well enough to know, says the mental side of the game is the hardest part for women players. The only others who find the mental side the hardest are men players.

Jack McGuigan the boxing amateur who died in Philadelphia put on the Terry McGovern-Battling Nelson contest, March 14, 1906, which bout is credited with having drawn the biggest crowd that ever saw a six round mill indoors. Under McGuigan's management of the National Club in Philadelphia, Stanley Ketchell Sam and Blackburn-Joe Gans were boosts put on by McGuigan. Ketchell, McGovern and Gans have all gone over the range.

It appears that Earl Hamilton who was twirling such effective southside ball for the Pirates when he quit to join the navy, hurt his arm while pitching for the Mare Island team. But he took a trip East, consulted a bone setter, and the arm is said to be all right again. He hopes to be released from the navy in time to make the spring trip with the Pirates.

Everett Scot the Red Sox' scintillating shortstop has written to Harry Frazee to hustle out and round up Hooper, Witt, Strunk, Felsh, Pratt and another pitcher and catcher if he would win another pennant. Frazee will have a good start if he rounds up Scott.

Willie Hoppe is willing to play Welker Cochran on a winner take all bases though there is no particular reason why that should be mentioned in a column devoted to sport. Still, if Hoppe won, he might be willing to give Cochran a cue tip and a barrel to go home in.

Fred Murphy who has coached North-western University football teams for the last five years, has resigned to go into the mining business in Colorado. The former Yale gridiron and baseball player took charge of football at Northwestern when it was at a low ebb. He started the fighting spirit in working at the outset and brought his Evanston elevens up to the front rank. Hightower, Koehler, Ellingwood, Bielski and Driscoll are stars who follow the game under him.

THREE MONTHS' LEAVE TO MAYOR.

CITY COMPLETES ITS CASE FOR GOVERNMENT AID IN NEW BRIDGE

Mayor Duncan and City Clerk Armstrong met the Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Mr. Bowden, the Chief Engineer of the Department, in Ottawa yesterday, and delivered to them certain correspondence and other information pertaining to the Hunter street bridge, which the Minister had asked for in last Saturday's interview.

It may be stated that the city's claim for Government assistance in the building of the Hunter street bridge has been completely laid before the Department. Mayor Duncan has done all in his power to present the city's case as thoroughly as possible, and the facts are now in the hands of the Minister.

It may be observed that more than one member of the Cabinet has been acquainted of the details of the local bridge situation. Hon Dr. Reid went over the ground during his visit here last summer. The opportunity of interesting Senator Robertson, Minister of Labour, was not overlooked on the occasion of his visit last week, and Hon. Frank Carvell, Minister of Public Works, who is coming to Peterboro on Friday, will doubtless be reminded of the city's bridge problem although it does not concern his Department.

HUNTER ST. LOTS REPORTED SOLD TO HYDRO COMMISSION

The Hydro-Electric Commission is reported to have purchased the Temperance House property on Hunter street and the Allen lot adjoining it on the west side. These properties are contiguous to the land on which the gas plant, at present owned by the Hydro Commission, is situated. Both these lots front on Hunter street, and will be affected by the new Hunter street bridge. Confirmation of the purchase could not be obtained at the local office of the Hydro-Electric Commission this afternoon, but from another source the report is pronounced a fact. The acquisition of the property will permit of any extensions that may be necessary, and it also settles any disputes that may have existed between the Commission and the owners of the company by reason of the proximity of the gas plant.

LONDON CROWDED BY WAR OVERFLOW

NEW YORK, Jan. 21st. — Americans leaving for England should cable ahead for their hotel accommodation or they may have to walk about the British metropolis all night according to Herbert J. Willis, a civil engineer who arrived yesterday on his way to Australia by way of San Francisco.

"When I left London," Mr. Willis said, "every hotel and apartment house was jammed with guests from the basement to the attic. Officers and civilians were arriving in such numbers daily from France that there was no place in which to lodge them. I wired from Paris three days ahead for accommodation and on my arrival was told by the manager of the hotel that he was very sorry but he could not do anything for me.

"Canadian and Australian officers swarm everywhere in London, where they are waiting for transports to take them home. Soldiers are sleeping in the Law Courts on blankets in the great hall, also in Westminster Hall, Somerset House and other public buildings.

"On account of the number of railroad carriages sent over to France during the war for moving troops in the rear of the lines, there is a serious shortage of rolling stock now on the English lines and the management cannot handle the tremendous increase in traffic since the signing of the armistice. I have seen from 18 to 22 persons in a first class compartment intended for six, and they have had to stand during the whole journey from Manchester to London. This used to take four hours, but now occupies six, as the trains stop at nearly all the stations.

"There are no boat trains to Liverpool or from the landing stage to London, and no dining cars on the trains. Passengers can buy a luncheon box for one shilling and sixpence, about 35 cents, which will keep them from starving on the journey. There are refreshment buffets at the main stations but there is rarely anything to eat there, not even a sandwich or a bath bun.

"I had to wheel my own trunk from the cab in front of the station and put it on the train after I had been to the scales to have it weighed and labelled. In one place I had to send my trunk down a slide and as these was no porter at the bottom to catch it I had to go on the baggage escalator and slide down with it myself. The trunk was so unwieldly with my baggage piled upon it I nearly ran it off the platform in London in front of an incoming train.

The few men around the stations now are very rude and appear to have acquired a hatred for work in any form. I was informed by a missionary that it was the cutting down of the quality and the quantity of their beer which had made the men so savage.

"Eggs cost 11c each in American money, and apples, pears and oranges range from 18c to 65c each. Prime cuts of meat cost about $1 a lb.

"There is plenty of bacon in London but it is fat and only fit to grease the machinery with. The hams have had all the fat removed from them for the munition plants, and the meat is coarse, salt and fibrous. I used my four meat coupons before leaving London to get a pound of steak one day so that I could have a real meal.

"The ration of butter is one ounce per week and there is not very much jam and no marmalade."

"Mr. Willis added that the rooms in the hotels and the houses were cold, dark and dismal, because of the shortage of coal in England, through the miners having been sent to the war. People are only allowed to have one fire in the house and none at all in the bedrooms except in case of sickness.

"When I was in Southampton two weeks ago," he said, "transports were arriving one after another and landing thousands of Welsh miners, who were rushed off by special trains to the coal mines in Wales. An officer who was in charge of the debarkation the day I was there told me that these miners had been used for tunneling work in France and that miles of the country in northern France had been excavated by them."

Mr. Willis said that there was plenty of food in Paris but it was dear.

Govt. Refuses Claim of Sir Charles Ross

Also Deny Right of Litigation for Sum Exceeding $3,000,000 Limit for Rifle Factory.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—The Government has declined to grant Sir Charles Ross' claim of $18,897,724 compensation for expropriation of the Ross Rifle factory at Quebec. The claim had been presented in the form of a petition of right. The order-in-Council of March 23, 1917, which gave authority for exportation of the Ross Rifle factory, it is pointed out limited the amount of compensation to $3,000,000. In view of this fact, the Government considers it to be in the public interest and not unjust to Sir Charles Ross that he should not be permitted to engage in litigation against the Crown to recover compensation in excess of three million dollars.

Acting with the approval of the Governor-in-Council the acting Minister of Justice (Mr. Meighen) will therefore decline to refer to the courts for consideration any claim for more than the amount cited.

Sir Charles Ross' claim was made up of three items: $10,000,000 damages for breach of contract before the factory was taken over by the Government, on March 23, 1917; $10,921,135 cited as the estimated value of the property as a going concern, and $11,697 said to be still owing for rifles and bayonets supplied to the Government. From these items, totalling $20,932,830, Sir Charles deducted $1,692,074, representing advances made to him on deliveries and $343,031 paid to him on account when the plant was expropriated.

WEDDING BELLS

JONES—RAPER

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 3 p.m. at Knox church, the Rev. Mr. McKenzie officiating when Elva Lillian, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Raper was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Albert Jones of this city.

The bride was prettily attired in her travelling suit of navy blue, taupe satin hat and wor mink furs the gift of the groom.

Miss Marie Easson was bridesmaid while Mr. Robert Grandy of Gilmour ably supported the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold brooch set with pearls and to the groomsman a set of gold cuff links.

The gifts were numerous and costly including a handsome reading lamp from the Examiner Office, testifying the esteem in which the young couple were held.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jones left on the 3:47 p. m. amid showers of best wishes and confetti for Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo. On their return they will reside at 546 Stewart street, and will be at home after March the first.

BELL—BAILEY.

Yesterday at high noon a very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Canon Davidson, at St. John's church, Peterboro, when Agnes May Bailey was united in marriage to William Bell, of this city. The bride was very prettily dressed in a pale blue crepe de chene dress, with a Brussels net veil, with a wreath of orange blossoms. They were attended by close friends—Miss Emily Griffiths acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Clement Leggett supported the groom.

Miss Bailey was attached to the Royal Air Corps in England, and lately came out to Mr. Bell, who had seen considerable service in France with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. Both parties received many congratulations from their friends, and were much pleased with the many gifts both from England and in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Bell will probably make their home in Peterboro.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNA M. FLOOD.

Mrs. Anna Mary Flood, of 120 Pembroke street, died at her late residence from paralysis. The late Mrs. Flood was born in Ireland 67 years ago, and came to Canada when quite young and resided in Lindsay. She was the wife of Edward Flood, who was formerly manager of the Bank of Hamilton at Lindsay, and was a daughter of the Hon. John Dobson, of Lindsay. She was a member of All Saints' Anglican Church, and is survived by a daughter and a son, Mrs. L. E. Sylvester and Mr. J. D. Flood, both of Toronto. The funeral takes place to-day from her late residence, at 2 o'clock, to Mount Pleasant cemetery. Rev. Murphy will officiate.

A Report on Farm Conditions

Live Stock is Wintering Well—Fall Wheat Looks Well.

The following is a summary of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Live stock are in good general condition as there is plenty of roughage and a fair amount of grain on hand, although the butchers report good killing animals as scarce. Beef cattle generally are selling at lower prices than last year but dairy cows are still at a premium, sales in the County of Brant being made at from $140 to $170. The milk supply is well up to normal for this time of year, and all kinds of dairy products are in strong demand.

Hog Market.

Swine raisers are reported as feeling somewhat uneasy at the recent drop in hog values. Prices are now quoted as ranging from $15 to $15.65 per cwt. Some of the farmers are inclined to rush off their animals, while others are holding shipments. About the usual number of hogs are estimated to be on hand.

General marketing, is proceeding slowly. The season has been so open recently that waggons have been used as much as sleighs. Essex reports that the clay roads are rough but that the gravel roads are better than in summer. A fair amount of grain is being disposed of but very little hay is being hauled as it is very scarce, although prices still range from $16 to $30 a ton. Other fodders, especially straw, are sufficiently abundant for all needs.

Fall wheat, where it has been uncovered, looks well, the good top promising fair protection until the snow comes again.

The Germans Undervalued Ability of British Infantry

German Staff Officer Says Its Resistance Amazed and Grieved High Command—Wrecked All Their Plans—Moreover, the Fighting Qualities of Their Own Troops Had Been Generally Overestimated.

Cologne, Jan. 23.—Wellington used to say he had spent his military life in trying to guess what was going on on the other side of the hill. History has to estimate these strategic guesses, and already the time has come when the pioneers of history are beginning to reduce the chaos of the war to order.

I have before me evidence which shows more clearly than anything yet published what was happening on the German side of the hill during those anxious months in the Spring of 1918. The witness is Captain Von Schwink, who was a German staff officer for intelligence signalling and flying duties with the 17th German Army during 1918. When General Von Below was on the Italian front in 1917, Schwink served with him. When the scene of German activity and German hopes shifted to France von Below was put in command of the 17th Army, and Schwink went with him.

Captain von Schwink began the war as a gunner; then he went into the air service and worked with artillering fighting and bombing squadrons. He received a staff appointment in 1917.

The main idea of the great German offensive of 1918, he says, was to break through to the sea, cutting the British army into two parts, one of which was to be driven on the Channel ports, while the other was to be thrown southward in disorder upon the French. All that happened afterward was in the nature of attempts to repair the plan which had gone awry, or to substitute some other which had not been originally contemplated.

Plan Went Wrong the First Day

For the plan, according to von Schwink, did go awry from the first day. Even while the Kaiser was sending around ecstatic telegrams, while the British public was reading anxiously of that hurried retreat upon Amiens, the German staff knew that they had failed. So different are facts from imperial desires; so differently things look on the other side of the hill.

For in the great offensive of March 21 the main weight of the attack was to have fallen north of the Somme. The Germans had no intention of massing divisions south of a line drawn from St. Quentin to Amiens, and so the actual results of the severe check to the northern section of the offensive and their great advance in the south were considered by the German staff—I borrow the very guarded phase—"as somewhat in the nature of a failure."

The attack, in fine, did not succeed as had been expected, except south of St. Quentin. The swift advance there was judged to be of merely minor importance. The Germans had hoped to gain an equal success all along the line.

What shattered their hopes was the stubborn resistance of the British Third Army. They were much impressed—or shall we say defeated?—by the fighting qualities of the divisions of that Third Army and von Schwink singles out the 25th Division for honorable mention. The men of the 25th held up the strength of five German divisions. The great scheme was broken in the fighting of those two days.

It remained to try again. The next attempt may be called another version of the original idea. On March 28 an attack between Oppy and Neuvill-St-Vaast was launched in order to extend the southern success. The German Staff were confident that they would recover Vimy Ridge and Capture Arras by the weight of the first blow. As is known, they failed completely.

The reasons for the failure which appeared on the German side of the hill were first, the artillery preparation was sufficient because they could not bring up ammunition fast enough; and second, the resistance of the British infantry went beyond all German calculation. The fighting qualities of the British divisions again drew their tribute of aggrieved and wondering praise. The 56th were "magnificent," says von Schwink, the 15th and 32nd were "good.."

Forced to Adopt New Plan

Again it became necessary to reconsider the situation and this time more profoundly. The resistance had been so strong, the check so discouraging and the losses so heavy that the German Staff decided to give up altogether the original plan to break through to the sea north of Amiens. They looked for a new scene of action in which they could work with smaller forces and with some chance of success, but still the sea was the lure.

Reading the German history of the campaign of 1918 one finds one's self thinking of some caged beast tearing and biting at the bars that shut him in, unable to understand how hopeless the fight is and wounded by his own desperation he sinks exhausted, still in his cage.

Still trying for the sea, the Germans organized the attack of April 9, south of Ypres. This, says Schwink had Dunkirk and Calais as its objective, and from the opening attack it was intended to push right through. Again, it seems, the problems of feeding the guns had not been sufficiently studied and again this branch of the service compromised the retreat. The difficulty of the ground, I am told, prevented the heavy artillery and ammunition being brought up; also certain German divisions in their advance found quantities of wine, put it to its natural use, and got drunk.

Finally, and as usual "the resistance of the English troops, especially about Givenchy, led to delay."

It is curious how closely the story of this northern offensive resembles that of the first great attempt to the south. Both begin with a spectacular success which the General Staff consider a failure. In both there follows an attempt to repair the damage and to set the plan on its legs again. The attack of April, 1918 ,on the Givenchy Merville front was made to open out the northern salient and give a chance of further advance as originally intended. This also failed and then the German staff threw up the gate in the north and put aside their hopes of the sea.

Von Schwink, who may, perhaps speak for one school of German military opinion, thinks that this was a serious mistake. His view is that if every man had been thrown into the offensive on the Bethume-Ypres front the Germans would "almost certainly" have reached the Channel ports.

So much for the Germans on the offensive. Of the British offensive Schwink has naturally less of interest to say. The attack of August 8 was a complete surprise, which the British might, perhaps, have guessed.

The attack of the Third Army at the end of August had been anticipated, owing to the signs of traffic by road and rail and the growing size of the ammunition dumps. The attack on the Canal du Nord in late September was expected by the Germans to come somewhere else and even now Schwink cannot guess why it did not.

In the fighting of the whole campaign of 1918, what most impressed him was the discrepancy between the German Staff's estimate of the fighting value of the British divisions and the actual value. The German General Staff consistently and considerably underestimated the value of the British divisions which had been three and four times through the mill still fighting steadily. To make their disappointment more uncomfortable they had somehow persuaded themselves the British depots were in general empty and such drafts as could be sent would be of no account.

Last and most irritating of all these chapters of disillusion must have been the discovery that, as Schwink put it, "the fighting value of the German divisions was generally overestimated."

It was that queer German arrogance which made the war and turned it into a war against the world. In many a war before this the British infantry have saved their country and other countries than their own by their "backs to the wall."

Quick, Safe Way to Remove Hairs

(Toilet Talks)

Keep a little delatone powder on your dressing table and when ugly, hairy growths appear, make a paste with a little of the powder and some water, apply and let remain on the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. This treatment is quite harmless and rarely more than one application is required, but to avoid disappointments care should be used to buy the real delatone.

Inaugural Meeting of the Ennismore Township Council

The Inaugural meeting of the municipal council of Ennismore was held Jan 18, 1919. All the members were present, Reeve Daniel Holland and Councillors Clayton Telford, Edward Sullivan, William Harrington.

After handing in their qualifications of office and declaration the officials took their seats and after a forceful address of the Reeve business began.

Moved by Mr. Cavanagh, seconded by Mr. Telford, that bylaw No. 384, for the purpose of appointing township officers, a Board of Health a Medical Officer of Health and a Sanitary Inspector for the Township of Ennismore for the year 1919 be read a first time.

Moved by Messrs. Harrington and Sullivan that by-law No. 384 be read a second time.

Moved by Messrs Telford and Harrington that by-law 384 be read a third time.

By resolution under said by-law all the old township officers were re-installed, viz William F. Cavanagh, assessor; John Moloney, Clerk; William B. Crough, Treasurer; Patrick G. Sullivan and Michael Geary, auditors.

The matter of fixing a price for drawing gravel was left over for future consideration.

On motion of William Harrington and Clayton Telford, Daniel Holland reeve and William B. Crough, treasurer were empowered to borrow money if needed to meet certain current expenses of the township for the year 1919.

Moved by Messrs Harington and Cavanagh that Patrick G Sullivan and Michael Geary be paid the sum of $6.00 each for auditing for 1918.

That the following accounts be drawn on Treasurer Sullivan:

| | |
|---|---|
| P. Good, aid to Mrs. D. Stansfield | $6.00 |
| C. O'Reilly, rebate on taxes on account of statute labor charged in the same | 5.00 |
| Frank Scollard, payment for gravel pit | 125.00 |
| John Buick, drawing gravel on road | 10.00 |

All parties holding accounts against this council will please come to the meetings where the treasurer will meet them. During the year 1918 there were some cheques sent out but the receiver failed to come and sign the council order. The auditors will not recognize any voucher not endorsed.

The matter of taking a special interest in the roads for 1919 got due consideration.

Moved by Messrs Harrington and Sullivan: That this Council adjourn until the call of the Reeve.

J. Moloney, Clerk.

DUCKS FLY NORTH EARLY.

The Winter is a New One On Tablets of C. W. Nash's Memory.

Even the old timers who have recorded the various kinds of winter weather from away back do not remember any such weather as this in midwinter. It is reported that large flocks of wild ducks have been seen flying northward, which denotes continued open weather.

Mr. C. W. Nash, of the Provincial Museum, states that he never remembered a winter like this. When told of the migration of great flocks of ducks northward he said: "Certain ducks migrate north if the weather is mild and, south if it is cold, regardless of the time of year. It is not unusual that these ducks should be going northward now as there is probably plenty of food for them, but should the weather turn cold they would likely go south. They go wherever they can find open weather. Some ducks remain farther north than others."

"There is a remarkable scarcity of the northern winter birds this year," he continued. "Their movements are gufded by the weather. Among the birds which come here in the winter are the red polls, snow bunting, pine grosbeaks, snowy owls, grass hawks, great horned owls, and the barred owl."

A CHILD GETS CROSS, SICK AND FEVERISH WHEN CONSTIPATED

"Look, Mother! If tongue is coated clean little liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Brian Remains Out All Night. Ruth is Anxious.

CHAPTER XCIV

Breakfast time came and yet Brian had not returned. Ruth drank some strong coffee and made ready for the office. Had something happened to Brian, or—Once the thought came to her that she would call Mrs. Curtis, get Mollie King's address and call and ask her if she knew where Brian was. But her pride intervened. If he should be—if he had remained out with her so late that he thought it best to go to some downtown hotel instead of coming home, Ruth would only have humbled herself unnecessarily. Or if Mollie had not seen him and Brian was with someone else, she would have let Mollie see her anxiety and that would be almost as bad.

Ruth looked so pale and worried when she reached the store that Mandel, the moment he had welcomed her back, asked if she were ill. He had not mentioned the business upon which she had been engaged. Her appearance alarmed him.

"No, I am not ill. I didn't sleep well," she could not help contrasting his very evident regard for her with Brian's seeming carelessness. He looked anxious too. His voice had real concern. It made Brian's defection the more glaring.

That noon she went home during the lunch hour, something she never did. She thought—hoped—there might be some word of Brian. But although she pocketed her pride and questioned Rachel, there was nothing.

Should she call at his office? Her pride said "no" her anxiety "yes." There were many accidents in New York streets, due to reckless driving of motor cars and other causes. Brian might have been hurt. She called his office, unable to endure the thought. He might even then be lying in some hospital.

"No, Mr. Hackett went out about half an hour ago. Who shall I tell him called?"

"Never mind, I'll call again." Ruth had no need to try to disguise her voice. No one would have recognized it. She started back to the shop, quivering in every nerve, angry, anxious, undetermined what to do—what attitude to take toward him when he came home.

"Perhaps I've been too lenient. Too easy," she said to herself as she hurried back to her work. She again had been unable to eat, and had only taken a cup of strong tea. Every nerve in her body was aquiver with her emotion. Yet she could not decide what to do. Finally she made up her mind that for once she would question Brian. He must tell her where he had been and with whom. Then she thought: "He may come up to the apartment again to-night. He doesn't know I'm home." And acting upon impulse she stopped in a public telephone booth and again called his office. Brian had not yet returned, but she left word to tell him his wife was at home. The girl promised to tell him as soon as he came in.

In a measure relieved, Ruth continued on her way to the store. All the afternoon, Mandel watched her closely, and was unusually thoughtful, even for him. Ruth appreciated his care for her as never before. The difference between his anxious care and Brian's indifference, hurt her; yet she was soothed that someone thought of her, even if Brian didn't.

"You'd better stop for the day," Mandel said to her about half-past four. "My car is at the door. I shall not need it for another hour. My chauffeur will take you home. Let him drive you through the park. It will do you good."

Ruth often had refused to use her employer's car. But she was almost distraught over Brian's absence the night before. It would do her good to take a drive in the park. She perhaps could think things out better there, where everything was so peaceful and quiet.

She thanked Mandel, and he looked so pleased when she accepted his offer, that she almost changed her mind. But the prospect was too tempting, and she allowed him to assist her into the car and nodded assent when he said to the chauffeur:

"Take Mrs. Hackett home. Go through the park. I shall not need you for an hour or more." Then he turned to Ruth: "Unless you feel perfectly all right, don't try to work to-morrow. You look really ill."

Tears stood in Ruth's eyes. His kindness had touched her. She was weak from her long fast, in addition to her worry. She brushed them quickly away, but not before he had seen them and speculated upon their cause.

But before she had been riding long she recovered her poise. She must not let Brian see her with red eyes. So she leaned back in the luxurious car, and really felt almost like herself again when the chauffeur turned into her street.

As he drew up to the curb in front of the apartment, Brian rounded the corner. When she stepped out, he was almost at the door. He stopped in amazement. Then a sarcastic smile curled his lips as he turned and assisted her from the car, saying:

"The telephone operator told me you were at home, so I came early."

Tomorrow—Ruth and Brian Quarrel.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

Fast Friends

By GLORIA BARSALOUX

He had been a lonely man. For three years Dexter Blinn had been one of a group of young men working for a house where service was reduced to slavery. It had stunted all of ambition and happiness within him. It had dwarfed the intellect and made of normal industry seekers discontented, suspicious, unfriendly beings.

Lo, and behold! a sudden change. The plant of the money grasping corporation burned down one day and Dexter had sought another position. He found it with a small mercantile house with five other employees. It was a translation as from a dingy pit to a sublime mountain height. For the first time in years Dexter found strongly human companionship.

From the start the jolly five had cultivated him. Each of the open-hearted young married men vied in moving this reticent stranger into a more harmonious atmosphere. Within six months Dexter was a new man. He entered into all the impulses of his fellow employees in a heartsome, appreciative way. They invited him to their club parties, to their homes. He never referred to his own. Once, when Ned Wilson, the liveliest one of the group, spoke to him about his family, Dexter had briefly explained.

"Yes, there's three of them."

One day Ned said to his fellows: "Dexter seems to make a mystery of that family of three of his. I met a friend of mine, though, who knows where he lives. Says his wife is a modest, pretty young woman. Her mother and a younger sister live with them. Noticed a photograph in his desk a few days ago—a sweet-faced girl, of course his wife."

Once, when the talkative five were boasting of the peace, glory and comfort of their respective homes, Dexter allowed his imagination to rove blindly.

"I say," he observed, "I can duplicate your brags. The meals they cook for me are the things to gloat over. There's Alice—sweet as a violet, and her mother, the grandest housekeeper that ever lived. The little sister can play the piano like an expert."

It was at the end of his two years service that Ned Wilson discovered that a certain date a week ahead was Dexter's birthday.

"Boys," he planned, "let's celebrate the event. Dexter is a prime good pal. We'll get up a surprise party—flowers, little friendly tokens, carry the refreshments and meet his wife. Then our families can get acquainted and we'll have our little circle complete."

The project was enthusiastically adopted. The jolly five, loaded down with various boxes and bundles, arrived at a neat little cottage at dusk. Ned assumed the direction of affairs. He halted his companions while he announced that he would spy out the land. There were lights in the front room of the house and he made out an old lady reading, and a young girl at a piano. Seated on the porch was another, evidently her married sister, the original of the photograph. He approached the lady.

"May I ask if Dexter is at home?" he questioned.

"Dexter? You mean Mr. Blinn," came the inquiry. "No, it is unusual with him, but he has gone out—for a short time, however, I think."

"Grand! capital!" chuckled Ned gleefully. "You are Mrs. Blinn. I'd know your face from your photograph in Dexter's desk. —Myself and four chums from the office wish to give Dexter a surprise party. It's his birthday, too. Won't you smuggle us with our traps into the house, and when Dexter arrives bolt him in upon her?"

The lady, stared harder than ever. Her expressive face assumed a deep blush. She acted irresolute and dismayed. Then she said: "Surely, you and your friends will be welcome," and Ned darted away to marshal his chums into action, while the lady hurried into the home, beckoned to her mother, and held an excited whispered conversation with her.

"He called me Mrs. Blinn. We must not disappoint his friends," and various fragments of like import came hurriedly from the lips of daughter and mother.

Nine o'clock, ten o'clock, eleven o'clock, and no Dexter.

"Well," uttered Mrs. Burton forcibly, as she and her daughter were alone.

"I am glad we helped out the fiction, mother. Mr. Blinn has been so kind to us, and just think all the nice things he has told his friends about us. Oh, mother—there he is now. You tell him."

"I declare," ejaculated Dexter, as he viewed flowers, presents and the general signs of recent jubilation. "What's all this?"

Smiling indulgently, Mrs. Burton told. Blushing shyly, Alice Burton watched the changing face of their two years' boarder.

"They drove me to desperation and I had to romance to keep up with them," stammered Dexter. "I hope I am forgiven. The scamps! Mrs. Blinn! Mother-in-law! Lois! Alice, you have found out what I think of you, second handed. Let me confirm it, Mrs. Blinn! Won't you make it true?"

And there was another party at the Burton home two months later, a wedding party, this time.

Howlers.

In a mathematical examination I once asked the boys to define the word "prism," says a writer in the London Spectator. One boy answered, "A prism is a kind of sphinx," and illustrated his answer by a picture of a pyramid. Among a number of "howlers," chiefly from the University Correspondent, the following are worthy of reproduction: "A cuckoo is a bird that does not lay its own eggs." Q. "Name six animals peculiar to the Polar regions." A. "Three bears and three seals." "The pope lives in a vacuum." "The Sublime Porte is a very fine old wine." "Rubens is a town in Belgium famous for paint."

King Edward's Opinion.

The late King Edward VII. of England, according to the London Globe, thus sized up Kaiser Wilhelm: "That feHow is foolish enough and insane enough to fight for the mastery of Europe, and to involve Britain among his enemies in the conflict, because he suffers from the delusion that he understands the British people better than anyone else in Europe. He is obsessed with the notion that, should he lose, he will always find apologists and supporters among the leaders of British opinion."

Horrors!

"You must have seen some perfectly dreadful sights at the front," remarked Miss Fairfleigh. "I heard a lieutenant tell of a shell bursting among a group of twenty Germans." "Well, I seen a worse sight than that," sighed the sergeant. "I was once in an O Pip looking down on the enemy trenches, and by and by up comes a boche working party of about a hundred and starts to work behind their fire trench, right out in the open. Well, I knows the position to the length of my lanyard, so I signals the heavies to let 'em have it and they promptly drops a couple of nine-inch shells plump in the middle of the bunch—" "Oh," gasped Miss Fairfleigh, "how horrible! But I know it was your duty. Go on." "The rest is almost too awful to tell," continued the sergeant, "and I hope I'll never see the like again." "Were they all killed?" "Not even scratched. Both them shells was duds."

Bandaged Beyond Recognition.

An ambulance had just discharged its load at a dressing station, and the quartette of wounded were lying on stretchers on the ground. One of the patients was a youth. Even the bandages which concealed four-fifths of his face did not conceal that. While he waited his turn on the operating table his one available eye twinkled as he related to a line of walking wounded how it had happened. Suddenly he paused in his conversation, having spotted a Tommy trudging down the road, a chum from his own home town and his own regiment. "Hey, Joe!" he shouted, and when Joe reached his side he said, "say, I'll bet you don't know who I am, Joe."

"Thank God for Tea" —Sydney Smith

In Sydney Smith's delightful volume, "Lady Holland's Memoirs," there appears this passage:

"Thank God for Tea! What would the world do without Tea? How did it exist? I am glad I was not born before Tea."

A more concise testimonial to the joys of Tea drinking could hardly be written.

Most people feel this way about Lipton's, but cannot express the sentiment so well.

We positively guarantee the quality of Lipton's Tea because we grow it, blend it, pack it, and sell it ourselves.

Lipton's Tea aids digestion, soothes the body, and enlivens the spirits.

BEBEL A TRUE PROPHET.

Twenty-one Years Ago he Warned Germans of Coming Defeat.

Under the heading "The Fulfillment of a Prophecy of Bebel," the Berner Tagwatch of December 13th points out that twenty-one years ago August Bebel, then leader of the German Social Democracy, warned the German nation that in case another war came it had no prospect of winning a decisive victory. In speaking in the Reichstag on the budget in December, 1897, Bebel said:

"No, Herr von Kardorf, we shall have to be glad to keep what we have. Even in the government circles no one thinks that, even as victors in such a war, would we gather in billions in the shape of war indemnities from our opponents, as was the case in 1870. Such a thing is simply impossible. At all events in the next war we shall have to pay the war costs ourselves and be happy if nothing worse happens to us. And we shall again have to take care of the wounded and the surviving relatives of the dead ourselves without being aided by the French or Russian billions."

The Swiss newspaper remarks that Bebel's prophecy has come true "in a much more fearful measure than Bebel imagined, or could have imagined."

MILLBURNS' LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clean the furred tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lazy, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N.B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Doll Wife

By REGINALD BARTLEY

"Did you like Allen's wife, Rufus?" The seared, plain face of old Mrs. Blair showed eagerness and anxiety as she addressed her oldest son, on his way to his home in the West from attendance at the wedding of his brother, Allen, in the city.

"Well, mother," replied Rufus, "Florence is pretty as a picture, pleasant and smiling all the time to everybody, but she ain't like Hester, my wife, though—husky enough to split a cord of wood between noon and sundown if need be. Truth is, Allen has got a doll wife."

The widowed mother sighed, for the phrase sank deep. "Allen is worthy of the finest lady in the land," she declared. Still, the hint of Rufus brought a persistent picture to her mind of a dainty, useless household ornament.

For Allen had written his mother that Florence and he wished to make their home with her.

She had an excellent helper, a buxom, tireless girl named Lucy Davis. It was when the whole place had been made almost new and the heavy work over with, that Lucy came to her. "My folks up in Wisconsin want me to come home for a spell," she said.

Mrs. Blair was dismayed. She had so exaggerated the needs and whims of her daughter-in-law that she was made unhappy with worry and suspense.

"You will surely manage alone," consoled Lucy. "If you had half a dozen helpers you'd do the bulk of the work, just the same."

"But I wanted someone to sort of help me with the dainties and all that," mourned Mrs. Blair.

"Perhaps I can find someone to suit you," suggested Lucy, and the day that she left for her journey home she apprised the widow of the fact that a Mary Brooks would call later in the day, in the hopes of suiting in her place.

"I happened to speak to the hotel man about your needing somebody," explained Lucy, "and he said he had found just the person."

Mrs. Blair, seated on the porch the following morning, had time to study closely a neatly dressed girl of about twenty, carrying a satchel. She was pretty and modest-looking.

"If you please," spoke Mary Brooks, "you must make allowances if I don't quite come up to your ideas at the start. I am anxious to please and willing to learn."

"I shall certainly be glad to teach you all I know," smiled Mrs. Blair encouragingly. Mary insisted on helping in the Tuesday washing and in sweeping and dusting the house. There were blisters on her hands when evening came. Mary, brave and smiling, seemed supremely happy at the encomiums bestowed upon her by her satisfied mistress.

More and more Mary won praise and tenderness from the lonely widow. She did make the mistake of using cornstarch in one washing and blued the clothes to a point of cerulean exaggeration. She made up for it, however, in some special cake and salad cookery.

"There is where you shine, my dear," Mrs. Blair declared delightedly, "and it is in just such fancy cookery that I wanted a younger hand."

One evening Mrs. Blair was dozing on a lawn settee when she sat bolt upright with a shock. There was a leafy screen between her resting place and an open space where the moon shone down, and there were two figures, man and woman—Mary Brooks and her own son, Allen.

His arm was around her and he was kissing her. To the prim, particular Mrs. Blair this was simply scandalous! She could only conjecture that Allen had come home unexpectedly, that the city had spoiled him, and that he had succumbed to the lure of her pretty-faced helper. Mrs. Blair came out into the moonlight.

"Allen!" her voice as stern and censuring as when in earlier years she had arraigned him for some boyish misdemeanor. Instantly the caressing two flew apart, Mary Brooks with a cry of dismay, but Allen approached his mother with glad, shining eyes and arms extended.

"My own mother," he greeted. "Oh, I see you don't guess yet."

"Guess what?" challenged Mrs. Blair, still condemning of face and voice.

"Why, the deception. Don't blame me, mother—it's the work of this scheming little wife of mine. Come, Florence, make a confession."

Which Florence did, timorously, apprehensively, but this gave way to a cry of delight as Mrs. Blair smiled upon her and opened her arms, the welcoming mother complete.

"You see," explained the daughter-in-law, with humility and penitence, "Allen was away on one of those horrid engineering trips of his and I just could not wait to see the old home he had told me so much about. And I wanted to know you. And I am such an ignorant, untrained little simpleton. I hoped to become a real housekeeper before we took up our home with you."

"Bless you, my darling!" interrupted Mrs. Blair, pressing her close, her face radiant with joy and pleasure. "You may be what Rufus calls you—a doll wife—but, if you are, you are just the kind I would have had Allen select."

Had Hacking Cough

Couldn't Sleep Nights.

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed condition.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant and perfect cough remedy known.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c. and 50c. a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NOW KNOWS WHAT A LEA IS

Newark Philosopher Learned Something During the Course of an Afternoon's Leisurely Stroll.

The lowing herd wound slowly o'es the lea. The day had been a delightful one for walking and as we swung along in our tweeds and hobnail shoes, a heavy stick in our hand, we drank deep from nature's fount, learning many things. As the mild-eyed cows made their leisurely way down the road and we stood aside to watch them pass, the old lines ran through our mind, vaguely yet with new appropriateness. It never before had occurred to us that we had only the loosest conception of what a lea was, and now we resolved to find out.

Retracing our steps, we followed the lowing herd to a pleasant farmstead with a windmill, a silo, and a large barn inscribed, "Grade A Pasteurized Dairy," where we found the Grade A pasteurized dairyman, by name Ole Yensen. "Are these," we asked, "your Grade A pasteurized cows?" "Sure," said Mr. Yensen; "all bane Holstein stock and not a plugged one in the bunch."

"And where is the lea o'er which they wander?"

Mr. Yensen regarded us with suspicion. Finally he said: "Ay bane have a grade cow killed on a grade crossing once. A man by name Lee he claimed him and das railroad paid him saventy-fi' dollar and Ay get nothing. He bane move away now. Ay don't know where he bane gone and Ay don't care."

We know now what a lea is, but we didn't get it from Yensen.—Newark News.

Philippines Grew Best Hemp.

Hemp may grow all over the world, but the famous Philippine fields are the ones we know best as yet. They have a real monopoly on the crop, as their soil seems to be especially adapted for it. The abaca, as they call it, looks very much like the banana tree. They belong to the same family, but the fruit of the hemp tree is not edible, and the fiber of the banana is not strong enough to use.

The very best quality of hemp grown in the Philippines comes from the fields about Mount Mayon in Luzon. The dust and ashes of this majestic volcano have formed the most perfect soil for its culture, a soil that is found nowhere else in the world.

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

"Shinplasters."

One of the curious forms of money to which the United States government has resorted was the "shinplaster currency." These bits of paper money were called "shinplasters" by reason of their size and not because of the use to which they were put. It was a strange condition of affairs which led to their issue. The Civil war had put a great strain on the finances of the United States. Metallic money grew scarce. In the first place it was exported and in the second place it was hoarded in vast sums. The government had issued "greenbacks" to take the place of silver dollars and five and ten dollar gold pieces, and as dimes, quarters and halves had also grown scarce it was decided to issue fractional paper currency. It was seriously needed, because there was great inconvenience throughout the country from a lack of small change. Merchants used postage stamps, tokens of various forms, their own "promises to pay" or script, and even buttons were employed as small change, to be later redeemed by the merchant in goods. It was to meet such conditions as these that the government issued small paper notes in denominations of 10, 25 and 50 cents.

Pronoun Little Used.

The form "thon" has held its place in the language, with occasional use, for sixty years. It is defined as meaning "That one; he, she, or it; a pronoun of the third person, common gender; a contracted and solidified form of 'that one,' proposed in 1858 by Charles Crozat Converse of Erie, Pa., as a substitute in cases where the use of a restrictive pronoun involves either inaccuracy, or obscurity, or its non-employment necessitates awkward repetition." As an example is given the substitution of "Each pupil must learn thon's lesson" for "Each pupil must learn his or her lesson."—Literary Digest.

Tellitt—Why not?

Snitcher—She asks too much of me. Wanted me to take a room upstairs the other day, when I couldn't even get my arms around her, let alone the room.—Cartoons Magazine.

The Bat.

The bat, instead of being useless and worthless, as is generally thought, is really most valuable. It is the inveterate enemy of all insects that fly at night. In recent investigations bats shot in the evening after flying for twenty minutes were found with stomachs gorged with mosquitoes, gnats and small flies.

HOG PRICES FIXED.

Washington Decides to Continue the Present Scale.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The hog price-fixing policy of the Food Administration will be continued, despite attacks upon the present scale of $17.50 in the face of the present large surplus, F. S. Snyder, head of the meat division, announced here.

"The Food Administration will fulfil its pledge given to the hog producers of the country on November 3, 1917," said Mr. Snyder. "The attack (by the Chicago Board of Trade) is not justified, for the simple reason that the surplus of hogs now in this country will turn into a big deficit before next summer if Europe can get sufficient money and ships to move the stuff."

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

Ship's Coins.

A superstition among seafaring men is that a coin should be placed beneath the mainmast of a newly built ship. The coin should be of gold, though in a pinch silver will do. The coin should bear the date of the year the ship is built and before being placed beneath the mast it is carefully wrapper in cotton. Its resting place is the stepping of the mainmast.

Dealers in coins are aware of this long-continued practice, and the result is that when an old ship is broken up, especially abroad, there is always on hand a company of coin dealers desirous of obtaining the coin. It is said that in this way one collector obtained a specimen of the rare American dollar of the mintage of 1804, which has commanded a high premium for many years.

Immense Indian Feast Dishes.

The largest food dishes in the world were recently bought of the Indians of Vancouver Island, British Columbia, for the museum of the American Indian, New York city. These dishes were purchased from a tribe named Kwakiutls, which in English means "Smoke of the World." They are used for special festivals when gatherings of Indians gather to celebrate some religious or ritual festival. The dishes are carved out of wood and soups are brought to a boiling point by dropping hot stones into the dish. The carvings represent the clan to which the dish belongs, which in one instance is the "Wolf" and in another the "Eagle" clan.

Bringing Our Soldiers' Dependents to Canada

IN England, there is a colony of Canadian women who went overseas in order to be near their husbands. There are also in England and France many women who married Canadian soldiers and have never seen Canada.

It is one of the duties that Canada has incurred through the war to bring back these dependents of our soldiers with all speed, and to help establish their home life.

Up till the time the Armistice was signed, some 22,000 women and children were returned. There still remain about 50,000 to be brought back.

These 50,000 soldiers' dependents will be returned to Canada at the public expense. Those who have already arrived in Canada since November 11th, 1918, will have their ocean and railway fare refunded by the Government.

The facilities for transporting soldiers and their dependents are limited to about 30,000 monthly. Therefore, women and children will be returned to Canada at the rate of about 5,000 to 7,000 each month. Many of the women will be accompanied by their husbands. On every boat carrying 200 or more unaccompanied women there is a Y.W.C.A. secretary.

At the Ports.

To these 50,000 returning women and children every care is being given. Until they reach the shores of Canada they are in charge of the Overseas Militia Department.

At HALIFAX they are welcomed by the Women's Reception Committee, composed of women who have been engaged in war activities. This committee has been organized for nearly two years and has been doing splendid work.

At ST. JOHN there is also a committee representing all the organizations interested. This committee, although more recently formed, is giving excellent service. The National Y.W.C.A. has assigned two secretaries for work at this port.

On each of these Committees there is a trained nurse to give necessary attendance.

At the ports the organizations meet every boat. Locate the women's luggage. Take charge of the babies. Bring the women to a cosy rest room. Here cots and baths are provided for the children. Hot lunch can be secured. Overnight accommodation is arranged.

Women who are too sick to proceed on their journey are taken to the local hospitals. Women who are without money receive assistance from the Patriotic Fund; are provided with lunch baskets and money to buy meals on the train.

These organizations also secure the railroad tickets for the women, get their money changed, give them such information as they need. The workers accompany the women to the train.

The Repatriation Committee have a nurse, trained in social work, lent by the Victorian Order of Nurses to act as the committee's representative at each port.

On the Train.

On each train carrying unaccompanied women and children there is a Red Cross nurse, experienced in social service who has been enrolled by the Canadian Association of Graduate Nurses. This nurse carries with her first aid supplies and an emergency fund of money furnished by the Red Cross Society.

Telegrams are sent ahead to the local branch of the Patriotic Fund and to the local Reception Committees giving the number who will arrive.

On Arrival.

The Rotary Clubs of Canada have undertaken to provide motor cars to take the women and children from the station to their homes.

The Patriotic Fund have undertaken to provide temporary accommodation and other necessary assistance at cities and towns en route and at points of destination.

The main function of this nation-wide organization is to care for soldiers' dependents. It is therefore fitting that they should be responsible for arrangements for all the returning women and children.

Many other well-known organizations have been doing admirable work—meeting trains, providing rest-rooms, canteens and hostels and generally caring for the women and children. It is important that these organizations continue this work and co-operate as closely as possible with the Patriotic Fund.

American Relief Worker Tells of Horrors He Saw in Belgium

Cities Razed, Babes Crucified and People Subjected to Indescribable Cruelties to Destroy Nation's Morale.

A PURPOSE IN ATROCITIES

Washington, Jan. 22.—A story of German atrocity in Belgium was told to the Senate Committee on Propaganda by Grant Squires, a New York lawyer, one of the pioneers in Belgian relief and now an officer of the Military Intelligence Service. He told the story apparently with reluctance. Senator Nelson brought out this testimony, apparently to offset that of Edmund von Mach on the same subject.

"I entered Belgium in November 1914, and helped in the organization of the Relief Committee in Liege, Namur, Charleroi, Mons, Louvain and one or two smaller towns," said Mr. Squires.

"I saw cities leveled to the ground, civilian populations driven out of their homes with the butts of rifles, old men and women brained because thty did not work fast enough to suit their new rulers in the baking of bread. I saw places where babies were crucified on the doors of houses. I saw bread lines.

"I have seen mothers bring to me their babies to give them food, which I could not give them, because it was not possible to carry it around in quantities to feed a thousand or two thousand in a town. I have seen the insults of the German soldiery, mostly drunkards, visited on women whom they met in the streets."

Seizure of Food Supplies

Senator Wolcott—Did you see whether the German armies took food that belonged to the civil population and used it for themselves?

Mr. Squires—I did not see that. I understand at one stage in the occupation of the country they were rather careful to give tickets to those from whom they took food, so that within a few days those same people could go to the German commissariat and get there an equivalent of what had been taken from them.

Senator Wolcott—Do you know whether they ever got any food on those tickets?

Mr. Squires—I do not. I do not think the Belgian population ever sought to redeem any German promise made in that way. They were cowed, terrorized people. Their only hope was to be permitted to live. You can picture any town in which you have ever been as being leveled to within about four feet of the ground, which was the condition of many of the cities that I visited. People who had homes there ran up the alleyways, after their homes had been destroyed, whenever anyone in uniform came along. They would hardly under those circumstances enter into negotiations with them to redeem the tickets.

Senator Wolcott—Were these villages destroyed by bombardment or ruthlessly and deliberately to terrorize the population?

Mr. Squires—Ruthlessly and deliberately, largely with fire grenades charged with explosives and fire-igniting substances.

Senator Overman—Where did these people live? In the cellars of their houses after they were destroyed?

Mr. Squires—Yes, or out in the open. It was the rainy season when I was there. I frequently was accosted by little children of four, five or six, borne in the arms of little people ten or twelve years of age, asking for two sous with which to buy a loaf of bread.

Two Aged Men From Vizet

"In one town I was able to take a small deal table, where we gathered thirty or forty victims, and gave them soup or bread. On one occasion I went into a place where refugees were being fed on bread and soup. There were two gentlemen there, advanced in years and who sat at the table with nothing on but trousers. I said to one of them: 'Where are you from?' and he said 'I am from Vizet,' the first town in Belgium after you leave the Dutch frontier that had not been completely demolished. Until the war broke out there were 6,000 people there; now there was none at all.

"To the old gentleman who had said, 'I came from Vizet,' I said 'how old are you?' and he replied: 'I am 73.' I said; 'That old gentleman next to you—who is he? He replied: 'He is my father; he is 91.'

Their feet were bare and they were given socks, which, without waiting to finish their food, they drew on; the penetrating cold was very searching, even to those better clothed. They were feeding in the open; there was no shelter for them."

Senator Nelson—Go ahead. Have you anything more to tell?

Mr. Squire—It is not a case of anything more, Senator. It is a case of trying to forget it.

"As to the organization of relief, as soon as I entered a town I went say, to the proprietor of a hotel that might be still remaining, took him into the car that I had commandeered on the frontier, and induced him to take me to the homes of a half dozen leading citizens. These I got into some one place and asked them to organize a committee to receive any shipments of American food that might be sent to them, so that the food should not be wasted."

German Officers Not Guiltless

Senator Overman—In regard to treatment of women, was that done in the presence of German officers, or by drunken soldiers who were skylarking?

Mr. Squires—It was mostly work of private soldiers, I do not think the German officers were quite guiltless. At the doors of houses I have heard the shrieks of women upstairs recovering from their treatment of the night before. They knew no difference between a German and a man from some other country, and for that reason were afraid to open the door to give me something to eat. It was mostly a case of trying to pacify these people in view of the treatment they had received and to let them feel that better days were coming in the way of food at least. It was not a pretty picture to be called on to redraw, and I had hoped that I would not be asked to do it. The mistake that I made was to come back here.

Senator Nelson—I asked you these questions to meet the imputation of von Mach, who appeared here as a witness the other day, and who insinuated in one form or another that the treatment of the Belgian people by the German soldiers in 1914 was not worse than our soldiers had treated the people of the South in Sherman's march to the sea; and he also referred, I think, to the Philippine Islands.

Mr. Squires—They did not go thru the country according to any practice of similar warfares in the past that I know anything about.

Senator Nelson—They destroyed these villages absolutely—ruined them?

Mr. Squires—Yes, Senator, for the purpose of the terrorization of the people, to reduce their morale and their ability to withstand the advance of the German armies.

Senator Nelson—And they crucified children.

Crucifixion of Children

Mr. Squires—I have had places pointed out to me by fathers who had been crazed by the sight of their children hanging on door bells the night before. One man took me up to a door and showed me the nail points in the door where his little baby had been nailed the night before because the baby got in the way of the German guard of four or five men and in some way hindered their passage; one of the men snatched up the baby and held it up against the door, probably in their drunkenness, nailed it up against the door and it was dead in five minutes, I suppose.

Senator King—You did not see the child?

Mr. Squires—No. The child was not permitted to remain there more than a minute or two after the soldiers went on. I know it is very difficult to believe these stories, gentlemen, and that is one reason why I hesitate to tell them—because I am met by the perfectly respectful questioning attitude of Senator King—if that is your name, Sir; but I have seen all that I have told myself.

Senator Nelson—Are there many of those towns and villages in Belgium that have been razed to the ground?

Mr. Squires—Not so many completely razed. Many of them have been partially razed, notably Louvain. Louvain was destroyed to a degree for an offence committed, I am told, by the daughter of the Mayor of the City, who was entertaining the first incoming general officers of the German Army that was occupying Louvain. I verified this as far as possible when the events were only a few days old by speaking with some who were present.

"It seems the incoming Generals were being entertained by the Burgomaster in his home. He called upon his daughter to bring in some cigars and light wine for the guests. While she was bringing in the cigars and wine one of the officers offered her an insult, which she did not notice at the time or make any reference to, but during the evening word of it came to the brother of the young woman, whereupon, with less consideration than he should have had for his father's guest he went in and shot the man dead in the presence of the other German officers. Whereupon they left the office of the Mayor, and the next day the section of the own where the Mayor's office was and where the family resided was burned—about one-third of the city, including the university and the Town Hall. The handsome section of Louvain was destroyed that day. There has been no other expanation given for the destruction; it was the penalty for the offense committed against those visiting German officers.

Senator Nelson—My recollection is that they afterward killed the woman in the case.

Mr. Squires—I do not know.

A Blood-Food Discovered That Entirely Overcomes Anaemic Weakness

CAREFULLY INVESTIGATED REPORTS ESTABLISH TRULY WONDERFUL RESULTS.

Heretofore it has often been a hopeless task for a thin-blooded person to gain either strength or weight. Neither food or medicine in many instances had beneficial effect.

What is practically a perfect blood-food, containing such elements as Iron, has at last been produced, and when taken after meals will put new life and vigor into people that have despaired of ever being strong again.

This truly wonder-working treatment consists of taking two small chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets at the close of every meal.

This wonderful blood-food supplies nourishment, vim, energy — sends a stream of vigorous, strength-making blood to every nook and corner of the body, makes every muscle and fibre sing with new-found life and health.

That gnawing tiredness leaves you — Ferrozone drives it away. Sleepless nights are turned into periods of rest, and you pick up fast. Day by day your appetite improves,—this means more food is transformed in nutriment that will build and energize weak organs. The inclination to worry passes away because Ferrozone imparts nerve — tone and bodily strength that prevents depression.

Think it over—Ferrozone is a wonderful tonic, in fact, it is more than a tonic, because it establishes health that lasts. Thousands use it and thereby cleanse and restore the entire system to a perfect condition. You'll feel the uplifting power of Ferrozone in a week,—it's bound to help you if you only give it the chance. Sold by all dealers, 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50; be sure of the name Ferrozone. Forwarded by mail to any address if price is remitted to The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Young People's Society.

Report of Young People's Society of the Presbyterian Church.

At the close of 1918 we are pleased to report a very pleasant and successful year for the Young People's Society.

Our meetings were held every Tuesday evening and the time was spent on talks and readings on Religious, Missionary and Literary subjects.

The piano committee worked very faithful and secured a Nordheimer Piano, worth $350 and paid for it in full during the year. With canvassing the congregation and making concerts about $145.00 was raised. The Sunday School granted $99.60 and the remainder was taken out of the Bank account.

At an informal meeting of the Society held on Oct. 8th it was decided that on account of the very small attendance of boys the Society take the nature of a Girl's Club.

It was decided that the members form a branch of the Soldier's Comfort Club and knit for the soldiers.

An hour is spent at each meeting for this purpose.

At present we have a balance in the bank of $2.33.

M. Sanderson, treasurer. Edna Braden secretary.

MR. O'CONNOR'S NEW POST.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—W. F. O'Connor, K.C., has been appointed special counsel of the Soldiers' Settlement Board to take all the necessary steps to secure land to make effective the plans to settle all soldiers who desire to go on the land, and to co-ordinate the efforts of Federal and Provincial bodies. He has been working for a month with Hon. Arthur Meighen in connection with this work.

As the Federal Government lands sujtable for the soldiers are not sufficient, Provincial Crown lands in provinces east of Manitoba will have to be made use of, and in some cases privately owned lands where these are not already put to use. The matter was discussed at the recent conference of Provincial Premiers. And Mr. O'Connor will carry out the work.

HEAR Hon. F. B. CARVELL at GRAND OPERA HOUSE FRIDAY EVENING

Minister of Public Works — TO-MORROW — At 8 o'clock Sharp

Plans for Reception to Hon. W. H. Taft and Hon. F. B. Carvell

Former President of the United States is Peterboro's Distinguished Visitor To-day—Minister of Public Works to be Here To-morrow.

ADDRESSES AT THE GRAND

To-night the City Council dines at the Empress with the Honourable W. H. Taft, former president of the United States, and to-morrow night with the Honourable Frank B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works. The Reception Committee with Alderman Turner completed the arrangements last night for the city's share in the reception to these two distinguished visitors, deciding that both events should be staged in a manner becoming to Peterborough and befitting the distinguished guests.

The reception to Mr. Taft has been arranged by the guarantors of the local Chautauqua committee and includes his welcome at the noon C. P.R. train to-day, an informal welcome and trip round the city by United States citizens resident in Peterborough, the presentation of an address by the Bar Association at the Court House at 5 o'clock, and luncheon at the Empress at six.

Mr. Carvell's Visit.

Hon. F. B. Carvell will arrive tomorrow on the afternoon C.P.R. train from Montreal and will be met by Mayor Duncan, Alderman Turner and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. He will be taken for a drive around the city, including particularly some of the larger factories and the public works and the sites of proposed buildings and the new bridge that are for the present only on paper.

In the evening Mr. Carvell will address a public meeting in the Grand Opera House. The programme includes a short concert by the Veterans' Band at the hotel followed by a parade to the Opera House where a selection or two will be played. Miss Worth and Miss Bentley will sing, and Mayor Duncan will be chairman.

The question of holding this meeting in the Opera House, Victoria Hall, the Armouries or the Collegiate Hall was raised because of the cancellation of the Opera House for the visit of the Minister on January 9th, which was postponed because of his sudden illness. The city had received a bill for $100 from the management of the Grand, and Mayor Duncan felt that tacking on another hundred was a rather large item in the reception accounts.

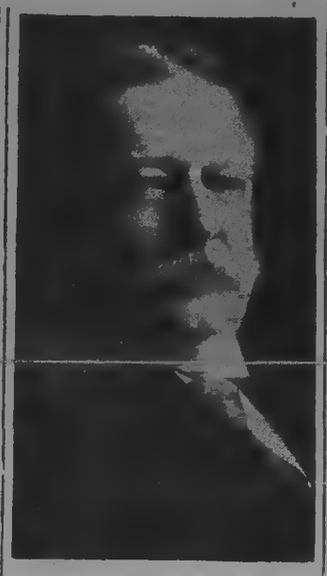
Alderman Turner explained that the management of the Opera House was entirely in the hands of Mr. Webber F. Turner. The bill was forwarded to the city in good faith because the regular vaudeville and picture attractions had been cancelled because of the engagement of the theatre for Mr. Carvell's visit.

The Committee recognized that the situation was unavoidable, but it was suggested that Mr. W. F. Turner should allow some reduction for Friday night's event.

Alderman Turner explained that the accounts would have to go through at $100 each, but that his brother might make a rebate to the city of $50.00.

"On that basis I am satisfied," said Mayor Duncan. "If we can get the two nights for $150 I would take the Opera House. It is the proper place for the meeting Mr. Carvell will address."

This was the consensus of the Committee, and a tentative agreement was reached depending upon Mr. W. F. Turner's reply.



EX—PRESIDENT WILLIAM TAFT

William Taft was the 27th President of the United States. He arrived in the city on the noon C.P.R. train from Toronto and will speak in the Grand Opera House to-night.

NEXT SUNDAY AT ALL SAINTS'.

Anniversary services will be held next Sunday at All Saints' Church, when the Rev. Dr. O'Meara, the principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, will be the special preacher, both morning and evening. Dr. O'Meara is known throughout the Dominion, and his coming to Peterborough will be of interest to many who have heard him on former occasions.

Sentenced to Death

Detective Williams' Slayer Sentenced to Be Hanged on May 2.

PRISONER TELLS STORY

TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Frank McCullough was convicted in the Assizes last night of the murder of Acting Detective Frank Williams on Nov. 19 last, and sentenced by Mr. Justice Rose to be hanged on May 2. Jury retired at 5:15 and apparently there was a disagreement among them as to where Liveryman Cross was at the time the first three shots were fired, for at 5:45 they returned and asked that the whole of the evidence of Cross be read to them by the court stenographer. At 8:40, after four and a half hours' deliberation, they gave their verdict. McCullough throughout the weary wait, laughed and chatted with his warders and Detective Bart Cronin, who handled the case.

When McCullough heard the foreman of the jury pronounce him guilty of murder he compressed his lips and sighed as his cheeks paled slightly. Mr. Robinette, K.C., asked his Lordship when passing sentence to allow time to have the case brought before the Minister of Justice or other steps taken in connection with an appeal.

McCullough had nothing to say why sentence of death should not be passed upon him. Mr. Justice Rose named Friday, May 2, as the date of the execution.

Berlin Without Street Railway

(By John Graudenz—United Press).

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Berlin was without street railway transportation and was practically lightless on Tuesday night as a result of a strike of the railway and power employees.

THE GERMAN PEACE ARMY

Minister of War Will be Responsible to the Government—Election Returns Still in Doubt.

RECENT DESPATCHES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—It is impossible as yet to clearly forecast the results of the German election, according to an official wireless despatch sent out from Berlin and picked up here. The impression prevails, however, the despatch says, that Majority Socialists with 160 seats, have by far the strongest party, while the Democrats with 80 seats will doubtless stand at the head of the non-Socialist parties. It is said tha the Majority Socialists and Democrats, supported by an overwhelming majority of the people, will be in a position to dominate the National Assembly.

Among those whose seats are assured are Count Posadowsky, Dr. Jernhard Dernburg, former Chief of Police Eichhorn and Hugo Haase. Kurt Eisner, Bavarian Premier, failed to win a seat in the German National Assembly.

Since the German troops were summoned to put down the Spartacan uprising in Berlin, the army has been assuming a position of greater importance, according to advices received here.

The supreme command of the German peace army has been transferred from the Peoples' Commissioners ti the Minister of War, who will be responsible to the government.

Soldiers' and Workmen's Council will be responsible for all social and economic regulations concerning the army.

Extension Will Be Postponed

Bonner-Worth Company Unable to Secure the Necessary Machinery.

The management of the Bonner-Worth Company is dubious about the prospect of the building of the large addition to the factory, contemplated by them before the war, for the manufacture of wool suitable for making underwear and hosiery on account of the fact that the Plath Company of England, from which the necessary machinery was ordered, is desirous of cancelling the contract, pleading the prior call for such machinery for the devastated regions of France and Belgium. Up to the present the factory has manufactured wool suitable for sweaters and hand knitting or the oil spun yarns under the Bedford or English system. The system contemplated is the French or dry spun.

May Go Ahead.

Mr. Worth said that in case the machinery is sent, the company will certainly go ahead with the building of the new department, which will be about half the size of the present plant, and in which fifty hands will be employed.

Charged With Theft of Cloth

Murphy Found a Way to Beat the High Cost of Living.

Francis Joseph Murphy, alias Joe Gagnon, appeared before the Magistrate this morning, charged with breaking into the premises of the Regent Tailors Co. on Charlotte St. some time between Sunday night and Monday morning, and stealing four suits of clothes and a number of webs of cloth to the value of $150. The case was adjourned till the 31st of this month. Mr. J. O'Brien appeared for the prisoner and asked for bail, two sureties of $250 each, but the Magistrate said that Murphy was in better hands when up at the jail. Murphy early in December was found guilty of breaking into the Hickey shoe store by way of the rear of the Oriental Hotel, and was sentenced to jail for one month with hard labour. He was released last January 4th.

New Factory for Ashburnham Opens on Modest Scale Feb. 1st

Mr. Alex Stewart Decided to Move From Toronto to His Home Town, Where He Has Been Living While Operating Plant in Queen City.

LAVOIE KNITTING CO. EXPANDS

A new factory for the manufacture of wool stock has recently been moved from Toronto to Peterborough by the proprietor, Mr. Alex. Stewart, who lives on Dalhousie street. The details of this addition to the city's industrial life were given the Manufacturers' Committee last night by Ald. A. A. McIntyre and City Clerk Armstrong, who is also the city's industrial commissioner.

Mr. Stewart told the Committee that he expected to begin operations by February 1st in the building formerly occupied by the Peterborough Machine Lubricator Company on Hunter street in Ashburnham. It is a comparatively small plan employing at the outset four or six men, and will be kept running day and night.

In Toronto the number of employees had reached as high as ten, and it was intimated that in time the payroll would doubtless be increased here. Practically all the machinery has arrived here, and is being installed as rapidly as possible.

Another Company Growing.

Mr. Armstrong also reported that the Lavoie Knitting Company at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets had developed its business beyond the accommodation of its present quarters, and was considering moving in the near future. The company had advertised in a Toronto newspaper for a factory site, and Mr. Armstrong had replied unaware of the identity of the company until Mr. Lavoie, receiving his letter, called at the City Hall. This business has grown up in Peterborough without any assistance, employs an average of fourteen persons, has considerable assets and business booked ahead that could be increased with better manufacturing facilities.

The Committee expressed a willingness to help this company which among other buildings has in view the old Ashburnham town hall. There have been no definite negotiations with the Council yet, however, and action was defetred until some concrete proposal is received.

Mayor Duncan's Suggestion.

In reply to Alderman McIntyre's query for suggestions as to the scope of Commissioner Armstrong's efforts in negotiating for new industries, Mayor Duncan advised that a broad programme should be laid out. Mr. Armstrong should be given a free hand and more compensation.

For the present it was decided that a recent resolution empowered the Mayor to sanction any movements he deemed necessary, and uhder that provision Mr. Armstrong had only to secure his approval.

Semi-Ready Store Peace Benefit

Sale This Winter Marks Protest Against High Wool Prices.

Frank L. Jenne, of the Semi-ready store on George Street, says that they have inaugurated a Peace Benefit Sale as a protest against the high price of cloth. Even since the armistice there has been a substantial increase in the cost of cloth, and the Semi-ready Company have agreed with their stores all over Canada that the vigorous price reductions should be made despite this advance.

"If we can do a small share towards starting a downward trend in values we will be eminently satisfied," said the president of the company to Mr. Jenne.

"We are selling to-day at less than what we can reproduce the cloth for—less than the manufacturer's cost of to-day—and you know that the Semi-ready label represents the lowest margin between cost and customer's price. No clothing is sold in the world at a closer margin of profit. We had to establish this policy in the first fight for recognition among tailors, and we have found that the larger volume of trade which Semi-ready tailoring brings has helped to maintain that policy," concluded Mr. Jenne.

IT COST MONEY

It cost the Salvation Army $2,000,000 to carry on its war work.

That is a lot of money for an organization that depends on its street corner collection and individual voluntary donations, not only to carry on an extensive war work among the soldiers and among the dependents of soldiers, but to continue its pre-war programme for the social uplift of humanity in general.

And during the past four years it never slackened up on its social welfare work in the slums of our great cities.

If the Salvation Army had no other claim for financial support than that of its work among the Down-and-Outs, and the discouraged and the helpless, that would be sufficient for a call on the Canadian people for $1,000,000.

Do not think the Salvation Army can carry on as it has without your help. It will go on without money, but will it pay to allow the army to stint its efforts?

Commission Unlawful

Chief Justice Finds Liquor Investigators Commissioned Without Authority.

BACK TO CHARLES I.

VAN[illegible]rt, Jan. 23.—Holding as a "fatal [illegible]ection" that the commission was in violation of an Imperial statute passed in the reign of Charles I., abolishing the Star Chamber, and affirming that it was in violation of fundamental principles of criminal procedure, Chief Justice Hunter, in a judgment given here, declared that the Royal Commission, appointed by the Provincial Government to investigate the illegal trafficking in intoxicants in British Columbia was "issued without lawful authority."

The status of the commission, over which Mr. Justice Clements presided, was raised on behalf of A. L. Garthshore, who refused to answer a subpoena to appear and give evidence. One of its results will be the release from jail of W. C. Findlay, former prohibition commissioner for the province, who was committed to custody for contempt of court when he refused to testify before the commission.

German Ships Will Be Used

Huns Will be Paid the Usual Scale of Remuneration.

(By Robert J. Bender.)
(United Press Service.)

PARIS, Jan. 23. — The United States will get the use of all the great North German Lloyd liners for repatriation of American troops, it was learned to-day.

The Germans will be paid the usual scale of remuneration for the use of their ships, their property rights will be unaffected and the ships will be returned to them when peace is signed.

(Announcement was made recently that Great Britain was paid at the rate of $50 for each American soldier transported to France.)

Great Britain is to receive some German passenger ships for transporting the Australian troops homeward, while France and Italy will be given most of the German merchant ships for transportation of food and materials.

Details of the transfer of German shipping will be completed at a meeting of civilian representatives of Germany and the Associated Powers at Spa next week.

FIRE LOSS IN ONTARIO

Matches Were Responsible for Eighty-two Outbreaks of Fire —The Provincial Police.

ONTARIO STATISTICS

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 23. — During the first eleven months of 1918 there were 8,999 fires in Ontario, compared with 9,681 during the whole of 1917. The damage done up to Dec. 1, 1918, was $14,237,613 as against $10,365,539 the previous year. Insurance covered $9,129,523 of the loss during 1918. Matches were the largest individual factor in causing fires, being responsible for 82 outbreaks. Fire Marshal Heaton in his report recommends action by the Legislature to prevent children and others from using the "strike anywhere" match.

Health Department.

Figures compiled by the Department of Provincial Health show that there were 1,600 deaths from influenza and complications in Toronto up to December last. This is an average of 337 per hundred thousand of population, and is very low when compared with Winnipeg, which has an average of 744 per hundred thousand. There were 3,128 deaths in Montreal, averaging 439.

Employment.

A summary of reports from the eleven government employment bureaus in Ontario show that during December there was a total decrease of 897 in the number of persons applying for work and of 2,228 in the number wanted, as compared with the figures for October.

The Temiskaming and Northern Railway during November earned $47,498.94, a decrease of $8,126.55 from the same month of 1917.

Provincial Police.

A total of 1,991 cases were handled by the Provincial police during 1918, according to the annual report of Supt. J. Rogers, contained in the Public Service Bulletin. In eighty per cent. of this number, convictions were either secured or are pending.

THE WEATHER

Since the 12th inst., up to the present time, there has been an unusual and prolonged spell of mild weather. These conditions have not been local, but have prevailed generally over the whole Dominion, perhaps with the exception of a few days of severe weather in the Maritime provinces. By contrast we give the figures prevailing last winter about this date: Jan. 19, 15 below; 20th, 16 below; 22nd, 5 below; 24th, 12 below; 26th, 10 below zero, (this was the morning of the disastrous fire at Neill's shoe store, Royal Theatre, etc.); 27th, 18 below; 29th, 5 below; 30th, 14 below; 31st, 8 below.—W. P.

Reception at the Station

Former President Made a Few Observations Concerning the Weather

Amidst a steady down pour of rain Honorable W. H. Taft arrived at the C. P. R. station at noon today. He was introduced to the reception committee of Messrs. R. Harston, R. E. Hall, J. H. Burnham and George Macdonald by Joseph Wagstaff who met him at Cobourg station and accompanied him to the city. On arrival after a few good humored remarks to the committee who met him, about the weather he was handed over to Mr. Macdonald who drove him to the Empress. In honor of the Ex-President the Peoples Chimes at St. John's church were rung, as he drove up the street.

THE RUSSIAN SITUATION

Supreme War Council Voted Partial Recognition of the Soviet Government—Will Meet Next Month.

THE CONDITIONS

By Lowell Mellett.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The Russian problem, which had been recognised as the greatest obstacle to a quick and permanent peace settlement, appeared to be well on the way to solution to-day.

The action of the Supreme War Council late yesterday in voting partial recognition of the Soviet government, together with other political and military factions in Russia, which was exclusively forecast by the United Press on January 11, was accepted as paving the way for an amicable adjustment of Russian affairs.

The programme of the Associated Powers, which was based on the unqualified acceptance of a proposal by President Wilson, provides that their representatives shall meet with representatives of each of the Russian elements on the Prince's Islands in the Sea of Marmora, near Constantinople, February 15. There an effort will be made to work out the future of the Russian nation along the lines of self-determination. The Associated Powers are expected to co-operate in every way with the establishment of a stabilized Russian government and the restoration of Russia economically, industrially and socially.

The Concessions.

The Russians will be expected to make certain concessions in return for the aid of the Associated Powers. They will include the immediate cessation of all hostilities within the Russian borders, general elections on a Republic basis and arrangement for the payment of Russia's national debts. Russians will also be asked to remove all economic barriers that food and raw materials can be rushed into the country to provide sustenance and employment for the people.

One of the most significant acts of the "Steering committee" at its yesterday was the evidence of power and influence that can be exerted by the United States and Great Britain when working in unison. The original proposal for some form of recognition of the Soviet government was presented by the British government in a joint note to the other members of the "Big Five"—America, Britain, France and Japan. The only country openly to declare its position at this time was France, Foreign Minister Pichon issuing a statement in which he announced positively that any dealing with the Bolsheviki was unthinkable. The other big powers reserved discussion of their attitude for the session of the War Council.

Invited to Confer.

"These representatives are invited to confer with the representatives of

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23RD, 1919.

WHERE ARE THE FLAGS?

It was the desire of the civic authorities that the residents of Peterboro's business section should decorate their premises with flags in honour of the visit of Hon. William H. Taft, former President of the United States, to-day, and of Hon. E. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, in the Dominion Government, to-morrow, but the majority of the business places evidently failed to see, or chose to ignore, the request.

Their failure to comply with the wishes to honour the two distinguished visitors, may have been inspired by a perhaps commendable disinclination to getting the Union Jacks wet, but it may have been due to simple carelessness, but however caused the absence of flags from the business streets creates an impression of a lack of interest on the part of Peterboro's population that is not justified.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Horticultural Society, which will be held on Tuesday night next, should attract a very large attendance of those who are interested in the "city beautiful." Like other organizations, the activities of the Horticultural Society were more or less affected during the period of the war, but the society has "carried on" successfully, nevertheless, and with the coming of peace a most successful year's work is anticipated. The Horticultural Society has done much for Peterboro since its inception, and it is now hoped to be able, with the support of citizens, to extend the scope of its work. The membership of the Society is expected to show a big increase this year and a large attendance at the annual meeting will be interpreted as a sign of increased interest in this useful organization.

EDUCATIONAL PROBLEMS

The decision arrived at by the conference of University Presidents at Ottawa last week at which there were also present representatives of the Dominion Repatriation Committee and the Great War Veterans Association, that the Government of Canada should become responsible for the expense incurred by the nUIversities in providing adequate preparatory instruction for the returned soldiers, who have been accepted by the Universities and the civil re-establishment department seems to be a reasonable one. There is no question as to the importance of education in regard to Canada's war problems. Trained minds will be in greater demand than ever to meet the industrial and scientific problems that peace will bring and the Universities of Canada are therefore called upon to play a great part in the reconstruction of Canada.

The justice of the claim that the Government should meet the expense of such course as are arranged by the Universities for the benefit of returned soldiers is readily apparent and the recommendation should be promptly acted upon by the Government.

The conference at Ottawa should not fail to produce profitable results inasmuch as it will be followed by the forming of a committee representative of different organizations who are vitally interested in education. A committee was selected by the conference consisting of Sir Robert Falconer, president of Toronto University, Dr. Bruce Taylor, President of Manitoba University, Dr. C. C. Jones, President of the University of New Brunswick, W. D. Tait, Chairman of the G. W. V. A. Advisory Committee and Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, was appointed to bring together representatives of every organization and profession concerned in the problems of education. The result will be watched with interest.

BOLSHEVISTS INSULT BRITISH SEAMEN'S UNION

(Toronto Saturday Night)

Canadians who have not listened to the eloquent Peter Wright, trustee of the British Seamen's Union, who is at present in this country, have missed much that would have been good for them. As an example of outstanding and upstanding Unionism, with no Bolshevik frills, Peter Wright has no peer. A seaman from boyhood, with no early opportunities of acquiring an education, Peter Wright in his late forties or early fifties is a natural-born orator, the like of which this country has not seen in a generation. When Peter Wright tells his simple tales of the adventures and misadventures of British seamen throughout this war; tells in his own rough though by no means uncouth, style of how the British merchant marine will refuse to work with German seamen, and will refuse to carry German passengers or German goods, "until such time as we are convinced that they, the dirty beasts, are once more clean," he sends a message that will find its way around the world.

Peter Wright is both the right and the left hand of the British Seamen's Union. Nay, more, he is its brain as well. And this Union is one of the strongest, staunchest, that man has yet devised, in Britain or in any other country. It has the respect of the entire people, as has Peter Wright, its active head.

Now let us see what has happened Peter Wright in Canada. He spoke as Canadian and Empire Clubs, and to a large audience at Massey Hall, Toronto. At all these gatherings he received a well-deserved ovation, and was listened to with deep attention. The night of evening in Toronto he addressed a meeting at the Labor Temple, under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council. Fully one-ofourth of those present gave Wright anything but a friendly reception. In fact at one time it looked like a free fight in spite of all that the better element could do to control he meeting. As Peter Wright love to call them, these men were frankly "Bolshies." They quarrelled with the British Seamen's Union because the men who composed it did not insist on taking food supplies into Germany during the war. And here, perhaps, is a good place to point out that seventeen thousand of these seamen, every man a non combatant, have been murdered by the Huns during the last four years. That this Bolshevik element, now largely centred in our trades unions, is frankly opposed to any form or orderly, democratic government has to be admitted, and admitting it, the situation must be faced. The amount of it seems to be that he "Bolshies" are very largely men of foreign birth who have attached themselves to the various labor unions. In other words, we are suffering from the evils of discriminate admission to Canada of foreign immigrants without making adequate provision for the instruction and education of these polygot peoples.

When labor unionizes, it is unquestionably on the right track. Unions in all lines have bettered the conditions of the workmen manyfold. Unions have largely restrained the greedy employer of labor from grinding the faces of his employees. On the other hand, if labor unions are to continue to receive the respect that is their due, and work out their destinies on proper lines, they must purge themselves of this reactionary element, these followers of Trotsky, Lenine and Liebknecht. This world cannot be governed by force. The Germans have found that out. Neither can it be governed by a minority of Bolshevists who would dispossess everybody but themselves. Bolshevism must be stamped out, wherever it raises its ugly head, and that the British people are well aware of the situation and are ready to act in accord was well indicated at the recent British elections, when the reactionary element was placed where it belonged, in the back seat.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

Peterborough is glad to welcome today her distinguished visitor, Hon. William H. Taft, erstwhile President of the United States. As one of the best known citizens of the neighbourly republic, as an orator whose fame is international, as an American statesman, whose voice has been often raised, and whose pen has been constantly used on behalf of the great cause for which the Allies fought during the terrible conflict that has just closed, Mr. Taft is a visitor whom all citizens will take delight in welcoming. It is safe to say that when he speaks in the Opera House this evening the former President of the United States will be greeted by an audience that will test the accommodation of the theatre. His subject, "Clinching the Results of Victory," is one that promises to be of most vital interest and importance, developed as it will be by the skill and eloquence for which Mr. Taft's speeches are famous.

To-day's famous visitor has always been a friend and admirer of the Dominion and its people, and since the beginning of the war, no citizen of the United States has been more earnest in his support of the Allied cause. For this reason, no less than because of the fact that he had the honour of being the chief executive of the great American public, the citizens of Peterborough generally will share with our residents who hail from the United States in extending to Mr. Taft the heartiest of welcomes to Peterborough.

"THE EXAMINER" MID-WINTER

DOLLAR DAY

The day when the Dollar Bill talks louder in Peterborough Stores than any other day in the year. This season it will be held on Wednesday, January 29th. About 60 of the principal stores in the City are participating and are busy preparing the best list of bargains they can possibly find in their splendid Stocks and shoppers will certainly appreciate the extremely varied offerings such an array of stores will assure. As usual the big list of Cash Bonuses is a liberal one, as the Merchants ARE GIVING AWAY $1.85.

THE PEOPLES FAVORITE SALE

DOLLAR DAY

Wednesday, Jan. 29

$185 CASH PRIZES

This Money will be Given Away in this way:—With every Dollar Purchase on that day, an Estimating Blank will be given to the purchaser. You will fill in your name and address, and a number representing your estimate on the following question:

Estimate the Number of these Blanks that will be filled in and dropped into the Wooden Box in front of "Examiner" Office by 10.15 p.m. on DOLLAR DAY

The nearest correct estimate will be awarded 1st Prize of $35, 2nd $20, 3rd $15, and so on

STORE EMPLOYEES EXCLUDED. PRIZES ARE INTENDED FOR THE PUBLIC EXCLUSIVELY. AND EMPLOYEES OF THE STORES ARE NOT ALLOWED TO COMPETE.

56 Cash Prizes

| | |

| Next nearest correct estimate, 10th prize | $5.00 |
| Next nearest correct estimate, 11th prize | $5.00 |
| Next 5 nearest correct estimates, 5 prizes, each | $3.00 |
| Next 10 nearest correct estimates, 10 prizes, each | $2.00 |
| Next 30 nearest correct estimates, 30 prizes, each | $1.00 |

For your guidance in estimating, we might say that The Examiner is printing and distributing to the Merchants, for use on Dollar Day, 25,000 blanks, and it is only necessary to estimate what number each purchaser thinks will be used on the great day. Should any store run short of blanks, The Examiner will print more, so that the number printed might reach as high as 40,000. The number of estimates put in the last Dollar Day Campaign was in the neighbourhood of 10,000. With this information, an estimate can be made before doing your shopping. Of course as many estimates can be made as the purchaser has blanks, and they will get one with every Dollar purchase they make.

Make up your mind what and where you want to buy and come to Peterborough on Wednesday, January 29th, expecting the greatest economy shopping event of your lives.

YOU CAN RECOGNIZE ALL THE STORES WHERE DOLLAR SPECIALS ARE BEING GIVEN BY THE BLUE LETTERED PENNANTS IN THEIR WINDOWS.

CORRESPONDENCE FROM PETERBORO SOLDIERS

Pte. W. H. Sickler of the First Canadian Division writes the following letter to his sister, Mrs. L. A. Stuart, 176 Adeline Avenue, city. He refers to the plan of bringing home the soldiers whereby one battalion in each Brigade will be allowed to proceed home as soon as transports can be provided. This battalion will be the one that has the most decorations for valor in the brigade. Pte. Sickler, himself, was the recipient of a gold medal.

The appended "Order of the Day," issued by the commander of the First Canadian Division is printed on a small piece of brown cardboard and is of such a shape that it will fill a pocket.

Germany, Dec. 22nd, 1918.

Dear Sister and Brother:—Just a few lines in answer to your letter which I received last night and was very glad to hear from you, as it takes the mail so long to come over here.

Well, Mabel, I received one of you boxes which you sent to me on Nov. 15. I got the one with all the mits and candy in it, but have not received the one with the cakes in it yet, but it may be here before Christmas. We are having a Christmas dinner here in an old opera house in the town. We will have lots of chicken, turkey and duck. We have to pay five francs, that is one dollar, but we would give five dollars for a good feed of poultry. We will have lots of cake, etc., so we won't have it so bad at that. Well, Mabel, I just got a card which I am putting in this letter and I am in the first Division. We expect to be in England about the middle of next month, so it won't be so bad and maybe in Canada by the middle of February. They say there is one batch going home as a battalion in each brigade and that is the best one, the one that has the most decorations and so that will be us. In fact they say that it is the best in the division, so it is something to say this battalion never lost a trench in four years fighting, so that is pretty good. We start back from here on the 27th of December and keep on going as fast as they can handle us in the transport with ships. This is only rumours, we don't know for sure yet, but another week will tell. Well, I must ring off now, hoping to hear from you again soon. Any mail which is sent to the second battalion addressed will get me O.K., it follows the battalion. Your loving brother

Herman

Following is the order of the day referred to:

SPECIAL ORDER OF THE DAY
By Major-General, A. C. MacDonell, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O.

The final act of the war drama in which this 1st Division has been privileged to play no inconsiderable part, now commences

The old 1st Canadian Division, and all that it means, in truth the old Guard Division of the Canadian Corps. Carry your minds back to Valcartier and the determined, eager men there; trace their movement and their record throughout and you will carry your heads high, and march more proudly because of it; 1915 and the Second Battle of Ypres placed Canadians at one bound by universal opinion, in the front rank of the best troops in France; the Battle of Festubert and holding of the line, trench raiding inaugurated by the 2nd C.I.B., the Winter of 1916, holding the line in the Bloody Salient and all that that meant, the hard fighting in June of that year, Canadians still more than holding their own; the battles of the Somme, the fierce attacks and heavy losses, but still successes; the Winter of 1916-1917, holding the line on the Vimy Ridge, the continuous raiding, the glorious victory of Vimy Ridge and after, Arleux and Fresnoy, the battle of Hill 70 and after the Battle of Passchendaele; the Winter of 1917-1918, the Spring and early Summer, again, many splendid, dashing raids, holding the line. Our glorious record since August of this year is too well known to require itemized comment. Let it suffice to say that we have had the honor of being in the van every time there was heavy work to do, and every time we broke the enemy's lines and fulfilled the trust our Chief (the corps Commander) placed in us. Witness the following telegraph received from him on the night of the 2nd September, which should be known by heart by every member of the Division.

"Maj.-Gen. A.C. Macdonnell: Please convey to all ranks of the old Division and attached units, my sincere admiration for and pride in the magnificent success you have achieved to-day. Your record since taking over the line on August 29th has been simply splendid. Currie."

In starting on this final march for German territory let us do so with a firm resolve to quit ourselves throughout like men, real soldier men, entrusted with the honor of Canada and the good name of this old 1st Division.

I request that every man who has the honor of wearing the "old red patch" shall so govern himself as to be a model of soldiery in whatever rank he has the honor to serve, treasuring the fame and good name of the Division in his heart, and enhancing it by his own deportment, zeal and conduct. If this march is conducted in this way it will be a pride and joy for ever to every Canadian who has the good fortune and honor to take part in it in any capacity.

Before closing, I ask that every member of this splendid old Division that I have the honor to command gives sincere thanks to Almighty God for his protection and the splendid victory vouchsafed to us.

Viewing the past with pride and the future with confidence, let us do the work at hand thoroughly and well with a prompt and soldierly efficiency that will win the praise of our military superiors and bring joy to the heart of our revered Chief, the Corps Commander.

A. MacDonnel, Maj.-Gen.
Nov. 17th, 1918 Com. 1st Can. Div.

The Canadian Kitchener League of this city has received the following letters of appreciaton from soldiers overseas:

Mons, Dec. 7, 1918.

From Gr. V. Spilsbury, No. 320937, 33rd Battery, C. F. A.

Dear Mrs. Gere, — The parcel of sox just received and I am sure that you do not know how thankful I am for them and the boys also. I gave one pair to the lady in whose house we are stopping and she said that they could hardly be bought or if you did buy them they were worth anywhere from 10 francs ($2.00) to 20 francs ($4.00) per pair.

Of course we have not got the filthy old dug outs to sleep in any more so therefore you do not need such heavy winter stuff, but sox is a thing that never goes astray.

We are at a standstill just now but I hope to be on the move in a short time and hope it will be for the closest port to embark for dear old Canada.

All the Peterboro boys with the Battery are here and send their best regards to you.

Hoping to see you all in the near future, I remain, yours truly,
V. Spilsbury.

Mons, Dec. 4, 1918.

Mrs. Petty, Dear Friend, — I received the parcel of socks which you and the members of the Canadian Kitchener League so kindly forwarded to us for our comfort. I received them this afternoon and when the boys were at supper, I picked the Peterboroites out and supplied their needs and the remainder I gave to the rest of the boys, and it was good to hear the words of thanks, such as "Good old Peterboro!" The boys and myself wish to thank you and the members of the League for your kindness and expect shortly to be on our way to take over our positions on the Rhine border, and you may be sure that a couple of extra pair of socks is going to do a whole lot in helping us to get there.

We are at present stationed at Mons, and have been quite a while here now, and must say that we have certainly been enjoying ourselves, for it is quite a change for us after the past few years, for it is a new life altogether.

Well, I'll close once again, thanking the members of the League on behalf of the boys, trusting it won't be long now before we are all home, so then we will have a real opportunity of extending our thanks to the folks that have helped to double up the Hun. I remain, yours very truly,

Pte. Chas. Veenman,
113608,
Transport Lines,
4th C.M.R., C.E.F.

Pte. Christopher McGrath of this city writes the following letter to his mother. He tells how they even used the maps on the wall as coverings at night. They are now in Germany and are only supposed to pay the German 10c a meal but a good meal is rewarded with suitable pay. The battalion of which he is a member is quartered in the barracks of an old German army unit.

December 24, 1918

Mother,—At last I am able to finish a letter to you I started to write to you about November 26, but we have been on the move since November 3. We certainly had some march; about 225 miles. On December 5, we crossed into Germany with fixed bayonets. General Currie received the salute. Talk about rain but we had it that day, something terrible and mud to our knees but we didn't mind for we knew the worst was over. The German people treated us O.K. At first they were afraid of us because they were of the opinion that we were brutes. Just now we are in old Fritzies Barracks in a city called Mahn. We go into Cologne from here on street cars. There are some very beautiful cities here also in Belgium. The city of Mons reminds me of Boston a good bit. On Dec. 13 we crossed the Rhine and it was certainly a beautiful sight with its lights going full swing. I have seen a lot of prisoners returning to France. My only prayer now is that my brother may be one of them. He is missing since June 2, 1916. Their uniforms are black or blue with a yellow stripe down the leg. Some were wearing the German cap and boots.

From October 15 to December 28 I saw the last act of this big show. It has certainly been a terrible war. I received a nice parcel of Examiners and we are always pleased to see a paper from home. I noticed Peterboro has had her own time fighting the "flu" as churches, schools and and picture shows were all closed. I also received a nice parcel from Mrs. Lundy and I am very thankful to her. She has always remembered me out here. While we were on the march I saw a movie man taking our pictures so some day we will be on the screen. We slept one night in a school house as our blankets didn't arrive. We helped ourselves to the maps on the wall and they made fine blankets. We are only supposed to pay 10 cents for a meal but if the people are friends we pay more. I have sent you a parcel and I hope you receive it. There is a German helmet in it which will be quite a curiosity. I hope it won't be long before we sail for the land of the maple and forget all about this terrible war. I often think of my comrades who have fallen out here and I thank God for bringing me safely through so far. Kindly remember me to all my friends. I will write again soon and I hope to hear from you also, from

Your loving son,
Pte. Chris. McGrath.

Sapper George Barrel of the 4th Battalion, but formerly of the 59th Battalion writes the following etter to his wife, Mrs. George Barrell, 171 River Road.

Dear Wife and Children—Just a few lines trusting you are well. I have got a very heavy cold and we have had lots of wet weather this last week or two. I am wet still, I guess I will soon shake it off. Well I must say we had a very jolly Christmas and we had plenty of turkey, vegetables, pudding, fruit, nuts, rum and beer for supper. We also had raisin pie and cake and a concert at night. I got a nice parcel from the Quaker Oats at Peterboro just two days before Christmas there was tobacco, cigarettes and coffee and sugar, a pork and veal loaf, one big cake of chocolate and several small bars, one cake chewing gum, a tin of sardines, milk cheese, in fact it was one of the best parcels I ever received, except from you. I have written to Mr. W. H. Denham to thank him for it. I have also written to Canon Davidson to thank St. John's Church for their parcel. I never received a letter from England before Christmas. We have not heard yet when when we are moving, though there are strong rumors we are leaving for England within two weeks. I have a German revolver for C... but it is too late now to get ... # The Influenza Epidemic Passing Over Omemee

Fewer Cases Are Being Reported—Omemee News of Interest.

OMEMEE, Jan. 23.—The influenza epidemic is rapidly passing over and fewer cases are reported by the local doctors.

A Presentation.

The members of the E.V.W.I. presented Mrs. Cottingham with a pie casserole and address on Monday evening before her departure to Oshawa to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Shaw. Mrs. Cottingham has always been a valued member of the society, having been the means of organizing a society here, and having had the honour of being President for over nine years. Although taken by surprise, Mrs. Cottingham made a very suitable reply.

Personals.

Mr. Charles Richards of Millbrook, was a business visitor in town during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Werry, of Fleetwood, were the guests of the latter's brother, Mr. Stanley Sluggett, last week.

Mr. Bert Fee has returned home after visiting his sister, Mrs. Lorne Powell, of Toronto.

Mr. Claxton of Lindsay, was in town on business during the past week.

Miss Cora Sanderson was the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. Jones of Peterborough last week.

Mr. W. Fee was a visitor to Lindsay on Monday.

Mr. Elmer Shaw of Oshawa, spent the week end with his wife in town.

Mr. Albert Stinson was a visitor to Peterborough last week.

Mrs. Mark, of Lindsay, visited her aunt, Miss M. Davidson, recently.

Mr. Herb Shields of Peterborough, was in town on business last week, and also called on his many friends here.

Mr. Hubert Cottingham has returned home after a business visit to Kinmount.

Mrs. John Sanderson has purchased the house belonging to Mr. Robert Wilson of Toronto, and now tenanted by Mr. J. Magee, on Sturgeon street.

Mr. Kirvin, of Peterborough, was in town during the past week on a fur-buying expedition.

Mr. Albert Graham of Waubashene, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Graham last week.

Lieut. Ivan Moore, of Mt. Horeb, who has just arrived home from overseas, was in town on Tuesday renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. H. R. Murray is visiting her mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Lamb, of Peterborough.

Mrs. S. Sluggett and Mrs. L. A. Mahood were visitors to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mrs. Kimpton of Toronto, has returned home after a pleasant visit with her mother, Mrs. Curtis, in town.

Mrs. Borland of Peterborough, and brother, Mr. Raby, of Buffalo, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. Cunningham, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Pogue were the guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mahood, of Peterborough, for a couple of days last week.

Mrs. George Wilson has returned home, after recuperating with her parents near Kingston.

Mrs. Harry Bradley was a visitor to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Miss Wakelin, of the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, is the nurse in attendance to Mr. Byers.

Miss Nora Nichols of town, has accepted the position as school teacher at Bethel. School re-opened there on Tuesday, the "flu" epidemic having been wiped out.

The many friends of Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Clare will be sorry to hear of their bereavement, having lost one of their twin baby boys, Harold, aged six and a half months, caused from influenza.

Veterans Will Meet Carvell

The War Veterans are asked to assemble to-morrow evening at seven o'clock for the purpose of parading to the Opera House headed by their band on the occasion of the visit to this city of the Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works.

Henderson Peeved At Samuel Gompers

Points out that the A. F. of L. First Proposed the Berne Labor Conference.

BERNE, Jan. 23. — Arthur Henderson, who is representing British Labor at the International Socialist and Labor Conference here, has issued a statement relative to the refusal of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to attend the meetings here. He said that it was the American Federation that first proposed a world labor and Socialist conference to be held at the same time as the Peace Conference.

The Social Democrats of Russia have indicated their sympathy with the movement in a message to the Organization Committee of the meeting. They are represented by M. Axelrod; Finland has sent M. Koto and M. Utolijok as delegates, and Esthonia is represented by M. Martna and M. Koestner. The Swedish Socialists are expected to send Hjalmar Banting, and two other prominent Socialists, probably Moller and Engberg.

The Salvation Army Million Dollar Fund

THIS WEEK

KING GEORGE:

"Have for many years watched with deep interest your work for the people, especially the less fortunate citizens of the Empire. Think the work is carried on with great ability and unselfish zeal. Trust it will go forward in all parts of the world, and that the blessing of God will continue to rest upon you."

DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE:

"Best wishes for the success of your Red Shield Drive for $1,000,000 for Canadian Home and Overseas Work of the Salvation Army. I hope this "drive" will be generously supported by the people of Canada."

SIR ROBERT BORDEN:

"Very glad to send my best wishes for every success in the endeavor of the Salvation Army to raise a million dollars for its Canadian home and overseas work.

"The efforts of the Salvation Army in aid of the National purpose is worthy of the highest appreciation, and I confidently hope that such support will be given as is necessary to sustain your effort to the end."

FIELD MARSHAL SIR DOUGLAS HAIG:

"Glad of opportunity of congratulating the Salvation Army on service its representatives have rendered during past year to British Armies in France."

HON. N. W. ROWELL:

"I wish you every success in your Demobilization and Reconstruction Million Dollar Campaign. The War Work of the Salvation Army is deserving of support of all good citizens. I heard nothing but appreciation of it when overseas."

PRESIDENT WILSON:

"Very much interested to hear of the campaign the Salvation Army has undertaken to support its war activities, and want to take the opportunity to express my admiration for the work that it had done and my sincere hope that it may be fully sustained."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT:

"There are few thinkers nowadays who do not recognize in the Salvation Army an invaluable social asset, a force for good, who work effectively in those dark regions where, save for these forces, only evil is powerful."

And, Best of All, Endorsed by the Soldiers Themselves

Read what Sergt. Turley, of the G.W.V.A., says: "Our comrades over there have earned all the happiness we can give them, in peace and war, and we who have been fortunate enough to return from the battlefield will help the Salvation Army attain its objective."

Diplomas Presented to Four Graduates of St. Joseph's Hospital

Dr. F. P. McNulty Presided—Address by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien.

Miss Agnes Heffernan, Miss Violet Sullivan, Miss May Tierney and Miss May Condon, four 1919 graduates of St. Joseph's Training School, were presented with their diplomas and medals last night by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, in St. Alphonsus Lyceum.

The platform, which was practically smothered with flowers, sent by grateful patients and friends of the young ladies, who were graduating, was occupied by Bishop O'Brien, Rev. C. J. Phelan, Dean McColl, Rev. P. McGuire, Rev. J. O'Brien, the chairman, Dr. F. McNulty, and the four graduates. Eight under-graduates of St. Joseph's Hospital, occupied the front row.

Chairman's Address.

In opening the meeting, Dr. F. McNulty said he fully appreciated the importance of the occasion. Graduation of nurses is always an auspicious occasion for the girls, who after three years of faithful study and efficient work, have proved themselves worthy of having their life's wish gratified, and were entering the nursing profession. From personal experience he felt confident the young graduates would become eminently successful. He concluded by paying a warm tribute to the hospital from which the girls had obtained their training and to the efficiency of the sisters who had instructed them.

Bishop O'Brien.

His Lordship, who was called upon to speak, after congratulating the graduates who had been found worthy of entering the noble profession said that he appreciated the fact that graduation told the story of hard wark and faithful study. He appreciated the fact that entering the training school had meant sacrifice, not only to the girls themselves, but to their friends. "You have entered," he said, "a vocation beyond the pale of monetary compensation. Go into the world and do as well as you have been doing and do your best for rich and poor alike, without the thought of a fee. Keep up to date with the advances of the medical profession. This too will require sacrifice."

Spiritual Needs.

His Lordship concluded by cautioning the young ladies to bear in mind always a human soul lies within the body, and to keep an eye on the spiritual needs. "Be first to suggest calling in a priest or clergyman as the case may be. Remember, too, to be a successful nurse the spirit of charity is necessary.

Dean McColl.

Dean McColl in a short congratulatory address, outlined the nursing profesion, which he said, dated as far back as Christianity. He testified to the conscientiousness of the graduates.

Thanked the Sisters.

On behalf of the graduates, Rev. Peter Maguire thanked the Sisters in charge of the Training School and the doctors, to whom the girls are deeply indebted. "The trials experienced in the hospital," he said, "equipped the girls for the work they have undertaken." He concluded by a timely suggestion that the doctors should explain to the people calling in a nurse that the latter is but human and must have rest and recreation; also that she is a professional, and not supposed to do the kitchen work.

Father John O'Brien said that he concurred in all the statements made by the clergy. He knew from personal experience the kindness and efficiency of the Sisters and nurses of St. Joseph.

Rev. C. J. Phelan congratulated the girls, who had reached the goal of their ambition by qualifying for one of the three great professions—clergy, physician and nurse, each of which he said is dear to the human heart. He wished them every success.

Doctors Present.

Dr. McClelland, Dr. Moir and Dr. Gallivan testified to the efficiency of the graduates, with whom they had been associated on numerous cases. They also spoke in glowing terms of the high standard of St. Joseph's Hospital, the staff, and the noble Sisters.

At the conclusion of the speeches, boquets were presented to the graduates by Miss Anna Gallivan.

Short Progarmme.

A short programe was given, including a piano trio hy the Misses Giroux, McPherson and Hayes; solo by Miss Ernestine McManus; quartette, the Misses Donahue, Hyland, Tobin and Lynch; and a song by the Misses McManus, Galvin, Giroux, Hill and Tangney.

The Revolution in Portugal

Monarchists Are Still Fighting to Restore Manuel

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Ominous silence to-day hung over the situation in Portugal, where the monarchists are fighting to restore Manuel to the throne.

Portuguese officials here declared that all direct communication with their country has been severed. The only advices reaching here were rumours, emanating principally from Madrid. The whereabouts of Manuel was unknown. A Madrid despatch yesterday said he was aboard a steamship off Lisbon, awaiting a favourable opportunity to land.

REALITY AND ABILITY.

This characterized the meeting in Gospel Hall last night, conducted by Mr. Geo. T. Pinches. His subject was "Heaven's Intervention in Relation to God's Present Purpose." The scripture text was from Acts, 10, where Peter had the remarkable revelation concerning the commission to the Gentiles.

He said that God is not using or working through the nations now, but only to individuals of each, whether white or black, brown or yellow, all are invited, only one provision for high and low alike. Heaven is opened and all may become united to the risen Christ by simple faith in a completed work on Calvary's Cross. There are only two more meetings. To-night's address will be on "Heaven's Intervention in the Next Event of God's Programme." This epoch will be the supreme event of the universe, and Mr. Pinches will deal with the present signs and how they resemble that which has been written in the Bible. Every Bible student should come to this meeting and bring their Bibles.

Children's lantern talk on Friday night at seven o'clock.

After which Mr. Pinches will give his last address of the series. He goes to Toronto next.

Remarkable Beneficial Effects From Use of Dr. Banta's Kidney Pills

A Responsible Peterboro Citizen Gives Testimony of the Value of This Highly Efficient Remedy.

One of the most common and dangerous ailments to which mankind is subject is kidney trouble and its kindred diseases. For kidney trouble, sore back and rheumatism, Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills were introduced in this locality about two years ago, and they have given relief to hundreds of Peterboro citizens since then. A number of people have testified to their efficiency, and we reproduce herewith a very recent testimonial freely given from a Peterboro citizen who knows from actual experience haw this remedy has helped him.

Peterboro, Jan. 20, 1919.

For a considerable period I have been laid up two or three weeks at a time, suffering from sore back, and was unable to straighten my back. The first box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills gave me relief within a few days, and I have no hesitation in recommending them to the citizens of Peterboro, and public generally, who may have suffered as I have, as they will do all that is claimed for them.

(Signed) Arthur Pinch,
14 Mill Street,
Peterboro.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills enjoy a remarkable sale in this city. They are sold on their merits. So much confidence has the company in their curative properties that they are sold under a guarantee that if they fail to give relief your money will be refunded.

For sale in this county at Lynch's Drug Store, 138 Hunter Street. Mail orders promptly attended to.

Grand Army of Canada

Organization Held a Meeting in Toronto Last Evening

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 23.—Members of the Royal Air Force are now officially recognized as part and parcel of the Grand Army of Canada. At a meeting of the infant G. A. C. in St. George's Hall last night, 50 or more of the flying men were received into full membership. One hundred or more had previously joined, provisionally. It is hoped that, as the organization grows, every man of the 15,000 R. A.F. men in Canada will do likewise. The mechanics of the air unit have a rather lengthy bill of grievances against the government and they want those grievances presented with all the force and persuasion available. They ask among other things, for a revision of post discharge pay rates, and clothing allowances, distinctive badge to be given shortly after discharge and a war gratuity based on that allowed to men in the C.E.F.

The Constitution.

The Grand Army of Canada declared President Togen, stood for equality of recognition regardless of rank, equality of pensions, power of political recall, destruction of political camouflage, but above all things "a white Canada, with employment for every white man in it." In the secret ballot, he said, they possessed a power for reform greater than was ever exercised by lawlessness and disorder. When they needed money they would go out and get it by any legitimate means, but "we will receive no grants from individuals, corporations, or from civil, provincial or federal governments, and no corporation can ever buy the Grand Army of Canada." (Cheers.)

VACANCIES AT CITY HALL IN HANDS OF DEPARTMENT HEADS

The Finance committee last night accepted the resignation of Miss Jessie Swinton, assistant city treasurer, to take effect on February 7th. The appointment of her successor rests with City Treasurer Adams, under the provisions of a by-law passed in March, 1915.

Mayor Duncan expressed the wish that Miss Helen Burgess of the Treasurer's department be promoted to the position Miss Swinton is vacating, and that Miss Marjorie Gladman, who has had charge of the coal sales records in the City Clerk's office be transferred to Mr. Adams' department, succeeding Miss Burgess.

Mr. Adams replied that he had contemplated the promotion Mayor Duncan suggested.

Ald. Murray interjected that the transfer of Miss Gladman would be subject to the assent of the Fuel Commission.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that the salary of the new deputy-treasurer be $700, with an annual increase of $50 to the maximum of $800.

As a mark of the city's appreciation of Miss Swinton's efficient services a motion by Ald. Turner, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that she be given a testimonial and honorarium of $50 was carried unanimously.

Miss Swinton has been an ideal employee of the city, as capable as she was assuming, painstaking and proficient in all the details of the treasury. Her ability in accounting and grasp of the work was recognized by the Council of 1915 by appointing her acting treasurer during Mr. Adams' illness.

Assistant For the Assessor.

Mr. W. J. Henry, the city's assessor, applied to the committee for an assistant to succeed the young lady who resigned at the end of the year. He expressed a preference for a young man and explained why the appointment should be left to himself. Mr. Henry said it was desirable that a young man should be initiated into the work of the office and trained to assume the duties, especially in emergencies such as illness of the assessor. He added that it was unnecessary to assure the committee that he would give returned soldiers every sympathy and preference.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that Mr. Henry be authorized to engage an assistant at the initial salary of $750, with yearly increase of $50, to the maximum of $1,000.—Carried.

Saturday at the "Grand"

Only One Night Left for Pictures Owing to Visit of Taft and Carvell

Owing to the two meetings booked for "The Grand" Ex-President Taft to-night and the Hon. F. B. Carvell tomorrow (Friday) night there will only be one more day of pictures at the Grand Opera House this week and that is on Saturday next January 25th. For this day a very attractive program has been arranged by the management. Taylor Holmes in "Ruggles of Red Gap" in six reels will be the feature picture. Charlie Chaplin will be on the bill in "A Hotel Mix-up" and in addition to this comedy there will be two other good comedy reels shown. The popular Pathe News giving all the current events of the day and a Judge Brown story in two reels will complete a splendid twelve reel program. In order to permit a full dress rehearsal for "In Sunny France" the matinee on Saturday will commence at 2 p.m. and the evening performance at 8 p.m. Patrons will please bear these hours in mind. Make it a point to attend "The Grand" on Saturday and you will see a great show. Same prices Matinee 10c; evening 15c.

War Tax Tickets Must Be Sold

Tax Stamps for Dances—The Penalty.

Chief of Police Thompson calls the attention of owners of amusement places to the necessity of selling war tax tickets with every ticket of entry sold. The following is taken from the statutes of Ontario, 1916:

"A place of amusement" shall mean and include theatre, moving picture hall, amusement hall, concert hall, music hall, circus, race track, baseball park, athletic park, amusement park or skating rink, or other place where an exhibition or entertainment is given or game played and an entrance fee is charged or collected through the sale of tickets or otherwise."

If a person entering a place of amusement neglects to pay the war tax or the proprietor of an amusement place does not provide for the sale of war tax tickets, a fine of not less than $10 and not more than $200 is provided.

It is understood that several dances will be held in the city in the near future, and the persons or committees in charge may purchase the necessary tax stamps from the Provincial Secretary, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

OFFERS $35 TO W. G. PERRY TO COVER HIS CLAIM

In settlement of his claim against the city of $50 damages for an injury to his ear, caused by a low-hanging branch of a tree near his home on Chamberlen street, the Legal committee decided last night to offer Mr. W. J. Perry $35 without prejudice.

The claim, Ald. Garside reported, was $50, comprising $5 for medical attendance, $10 fee by Mr. Bagley, and $35 covering one week's wages.

Ald. Garside was commissioned to make the committee's offer.

Food Board Flashes

In the course of his survey of food conditions in Europe, Mr. Hoover makes the statement that thanks to the efforts of the allied countries which had a surplus of food there has been no actual loss of life by starvation among the ten million people of Belgium and Northern France. Poland and Serbia, on the other hand have lost one fourth of their people through starvation.

"My survey of the rest of Europe —the Baltic States and Poland—is is not complete," says Mr. Hoover, "but sufficient evidence is at hand to show that before the next harvest relief of an unprecedented character must be extended if the remaining population is to be maintained in any semblance of health, and it is almost inevitable that our people will be called upon to contribute liberally."

Woollen dresses nowadays are all ankle length.

City Wants Notice Of Homing Soldiers

From the municipal reception department of the Government's Repatriation Committee, a circular letter was received by Mayor Duncan yesterday shortly after he had sent a complaint that the soldiers were coming home unannounced, and consequently without the reception the city wished to extend to them. It is hoped that the desired information will be forwarded to the city in future to enable the Reception Committee to meet all the returning men.

Ald. Turner asked the committee whether they wished to hold monthly general receptions or to continue the present plan. It was decided not to make any change for the present.

Progress Of Sinn Feiners

Temporary Premier Has Been Elected —Twenty-Four Deputies.

Special to the Examiner:

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—With an Irish Ministry appointed and plans under way for a nation-wide Parliamentary election, the attitude of the British Government toward the new republic of Ireland continues to be a matter of interest.

The Sinn Feiners have been taking action that amounted to open sedition, and still the Imperial authorities refraining from repressive measures. Following Tuesday's initial meeting of the Irish Parliament, in which a declaration of independence was adopted, and delegates selected to the Peace Conference, the Sinn Feiners met in secret session yesterday. An official communique of the proceedings, issued in Gaelic, said: "A temporary Premier was elected. He selected four Ministers. A temporary chairman was elected and twenty-four deputies appointed.

THRIFT RECIPES

(Issued by the Canada Food Board.)

Egg and Potato Scallop.

2 hard boiled eggs.
1½ cups cooked diced potatoes.
1½ cups cream sauce.
½ cup of bread crumbs.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Method: Boil the eggs and slice them. Arrange in a baking dish layers of cooked diced potatoes and sliced egg. Add cream sauce. Sprinkle the top with the crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. This may be varied by the addition of minced ham or left over bacon or the addition of ½ cup of grated cheese in the cream sauce and a little cayenne pepper.

Annual Meeting Lakefield Church

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 23.—The annual meeting of Lakefield Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday evening, January 21. The meeting was well attended, and a very successful year's work reported. Compared with the previous year, the membership increased by 16. Contributions for ordinary revenue increased from $1,386 to $1,507, and for missions, from $168 to $339. In addition to this, $313 was raised towards the debt, and the congregation assisted the Y. P. S. in paying for the new piano in the S. S. room. The congregation decided to make an annual every-member canvass for ordinary revenue and missions, and to increase the stipend of the pastor, Rev. P. L. Jull, by $100.

At the close of the business meeting the congregation partook of liberal refreshments in the school-room.

AMERICAN FLAGS ON IRON CROSSES.

Stocks Have Been Confiscated by the American Army.

(By Webb Miller—United Press).

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 23.—The American flag has been submitted to another insult. Goblenz dealers have been discovered selling watch fobs made of Iron Crosses, in which were replicas of American flags. The army confiscated all these stocks and are seeking the manufacturer. One retailer has been arrested.

the Associated Powers in the freest and frankest way, with a view to ascertaining the wisest of all meetings of the Russian people and bringing about, if possible, some understanding and agreement by which Russia may work out her own purpose, and happy co-operative relations be established between her people and the other peoples of the world.

"A prompt reply to this invitation is requested Every facility for the journey of the representatives, including transportation across the Black Sea, will be given by the Allies, and all the parties concerned are expected to give the same facilities. The representatives will be expected at the place appointed by the 15th of February, 1919."

In the preamble to his proposal, President Wilson said the Associated Powers had been governed by the one idea of helping the Russian people and that they recognized the right of self-determination as applied to Russia. He declared that they "recognized the revolution without reservation and, will in no way and in no circumstances aid or give countenance to any attempt at a counter-revolution."

Military Control.

"In this spirit and with this purpose," he said, "they have taken the following action: They invite every organized group that is now exercising or attempting to exercise political authority or military control anywhere in Siberia, or within the boundaries of European Russia, as they stood before the war just concluded, except in Finland, to send representatives, not exceeding three representatives for each group, to Prince's Island, Sea of Marmora, where they will be met by representatives of the Associated Powers, provided in the meantime there is a truce of arms among the parties invited, and that all armed forces anywhere sent or directed against people or territory inside the boundaries of European Russia as they stood before the war, or against Finland, or any people or territory whose autonomous action is in contemplation in the fourteen articles upon which the present negotiations are based, shall be meanwhile withdrawn and aggressive military actions ceased.

Peterboro Law Association Welcomes William H. Taft

Address Was Presented to the Former President of the United States.

At five o'clock this afternoon in the County Court house the following address will be presented to William Howard Taft on behalf of the Peterboro Law Association.

To The Honourable William H. Taft,

Sir,—We, the members of the County of Peterborough Law Association, on your first visit to the city of Peterborough, desire to heartily welcome you to this community and to tender to you our warmest fraternal greetings.

As lawyers we recall with pride that when at the bar, on the bench, when serving as administrator of a great foreign dependency, or when you occupied that place of power and confidence, the presidency of the United States of America, you never forgot what the study of the law had indelibly impressed on your mind, namely, that justice and law must ever walk hand in hand and that real liberty must be upheld by ordered law and constitutional safeguards.

Able Administrator.

We are not unaware of your work as a Judge in your own country, and your services subsequently as administrator of the Phillipine Islands where your prudence, judgment and wise exercise of the powers entrusted to you created among an Eastern people a lasting respect for law and order and for all those things which are the inseparable concomitant of civilized government. More recently as President of the United States, in addition to displaying the highest gifts of statesmanship as head of that great republic, with a deep comprehension of the real meaning of liberty and freedom you silenced the voice of clamor and upheld the independence of the judiciary as fundamental to all true liberty of the citizen.

You, Sir, were early among those of our cousins to the South of us who saw that the War in Europe was more than a strife between rival nations, and was, in fact, a world cataclysm involving all those precious things for which men, throughout the ages, had gladly suffered and surrendered their lives.

The lawyers of Canada will never forget the assistance given by you, and by so many members of the legal profession in your country, to the support of those efforts which so successfully placed your nation with its wealth of brave men, talent and resources side by side with heroic France and alongside the no less heroic British Empire of which our Dominion of Canada so proudly forms a part.

Cultured France

The future, we believe, will demonstrate what it will have meant for civilization that cultured France and the great English speaking peoples of the world spared not the sacrifice of their bravest and best in the maintenance of the common right of all nations to the enjoyment of law, justice, freedom and liberty.

It has been said that the late Emperor of Germany frequently sneered at the lawyer statesmen of the allies as men who placed weight on "a scrap of paper;" but we feel proud that it was the lawyer statesmen who asserted, in the face of armed autocracy, the sacredness of contract, the inviolability of the given word and, at the cost of priceless lives, successfully demonstrated for all time that the sword of justice is the mightiest weapon ever yet forged, and that henceforth, "right" not "might" must prevail, not only among men, but among nations?

We are glad to recognize that your own association with the picturesque Village of Murray Bay, situated so beautifully on the majestic St. Lawrence, down whose broad waters the trade of half a continent sweeps to the sea, has not only brought you in to intimate touch with Canada and its people but it has afforded you at the same time a unique opportunity of understanding the national viewpoint of Canadians, and has permitted you to forsee the great destiny which awaits this country as one of the allied nations within the British Empire.

We venture to express the hope that you may, while in Canada, feel that you are among admirers, neighbors and friends. We trust you may be spared for many years to assist the councils of your own country, and that your experienced judgment may long be available for the guidance of all statesmen who, throughout the world, are leading their peoples along the paths of freedom.

Signed on behalf of the County of Peterborough Law Association, this twenty-third day of January, 1919.

Mrs. Lebaudy Prays in Jail

As Her Husband's Body is Buried in Consecrated Plot

Westbury, L. I. Jan 23.—The body of Jacques Lebaudy was buried here in the little graveyard back of St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church here, while in the county jail at Mineola, where she has been incarcerated for killing her husband, Mrs. Lebaudy recited rosary after rosary for the repose of the dead man's soul and for a happy life for her daughter.

Interment took place after the Rev. Dr. William F. McGinnis, rector of the church and probably the Lebaudy family's closest friend, had conducted the Catholic Burial services. Father McGinnis explained that the rites had been permitted only because he declared Lebaudy was insane and not responsible for his actions.

Later in the day Walter R. Jones, Justice of the Peace of Hempstead, held a coroner's inquest into the death of Lebaudy. Jacquelina, the daughter, fourteen years old, called to testify for the first time, identified the revolver her mother is supposed to have used and declared that she had carried it in her pocket for three weeks before the shooting.

Other Millions Reported Found

The Lebaudy estate will be even richer than the millions that common report already has assigned to it, according to reports here. It was learned from a person intimate with the history of the Lebaudy family that Mrs. Jules Lebaudy, mother of Jacques left $5,000,000 to him when she died less than a year ago. Verity was given to the report also by the recollection that Mrs. Lebaudy had inherited some $20,000,000 at the time her husband, the French "Sugar king" died. Harry W. Moore, Mrs. Lebaudy's attorney said that steps would be taken immediately to trace the millions.

A clew that might develop into a point favorable to the defence, if a defence in court is needed, developed when a New York drug store clerk telephoned to Mr. Moore about the queer behavior of a man he thinks was Jacques Lebaudy.

The man who the clerk said appeared to be either drugged or crazy, entered the drug store last Saturday morning and asked for a certain poisonous chemical. Asked for what purpose he wanted it, the man replied:—"I'm going to give it to my wife and the chickens," the clerk related.

"Don't let your wife handle it, as it is very poisonous," the clerk said when the woman was mentioned.

Smoke the Rats Out

"Well, then, let me have a pound or two of it," he says the supposed Lebaudy demanded. The man then asked:—"Wouldn't it be effective if I burned it on the top of a stove? Wouldn't it smoke the rats out?" from Mrs. Phinias A. Seasman, wife of the Sheriff. Mrs. Emily Ladenberg accompanied Jacqueline to the inquest and to the jail, Dr. Joseph A. Kerrigan, physician to Mrs. Lebaudy, and Father McGinnis were other callers during the day.

Jacques Lebaudy's funeral deeply stirred the few who took part in the services. Half an hour before it began Jacqueline went into the church. Her black figure kneeling alone in the front pew, roused sympathy in all who saw her. Nearby was Mrs. Thos. J. McGinnis, sister-in-law of the clergyman, in whose cosy home across the street, Jacqueline is staying. Outside the children of St. Brigid's Parochial School, with whom Jacqueline will soon be a pupil, played.

Behind Jacqueline were a few women of the congregation. Father McGinnis preceded by a cross bearer two acolytes and a censor bearer, came from the sacristy and began the brief and solemn invocations. The body, in a black coffin, without silver handles, had been brought in and placed before the alter.

In view of Lebaudy's sporadic attempts to oust his family from their home, the Lodge.

Mrs. Lebaudy spent a restless night in the Mineola jail. Today she sat up in bed, praying almost continuously. She had two photographs of Jacqueline, and the girl herself stopped for a few minutes on her way home from the inquest. Mrs. Lebaudy is having the best of care in her illness

Mr. Moore considered the phrase "smoke the rats out" as significant. The clerk thereupon refused to sell the chemical without a physician's order.

MRS. LEBAUDY FREE

No Bill Against Woman Who Shot Her Husband.

MINEOLA, N.Y., Jan. 23.—"Merci mon Dieu! Merci mon Dieu!" (Thank God, thank God!) these were the words with which Mrs. Marie A. Lebaudy received the news late yesterday in the residence part of the Nassau county jail that the grand jury had refused to indict her for slaying her husband, Jacques Lebaudy, the "emperor of Sahara." Mrs. Lebaudy was reported to have swooned immediately after sending heavenward her thanks for escape from the strain of being the defendant in a murder trial.

Jacqueline, her thirteen-year-old daughter, for whose protection Mrs. Lebaudy declared she shot to death the girl's father, displayed no emotion over the news from the jury room, which was imparted to her by Mrs. Phineas Seaman, the sheriff's wife, when Jacqueline appeared at the jail.

Her mother's emotion, however, produced an immediate effect. She showed the deepest solicitude and assisted in calming her.

Letter from Capt. J. Rollins

Peterboro Pastor Expects to Return Home Soon

A private letter from Captain (Rev.) James Rollins, which was written in Germany, "beyond the Rhine," arrived in the city yesterday. Captain Rollins was then with the 27th, Winnipeg, Battalion, and had served with them as chaplain through practically the whole of the great offensive, having gone with the battalion, into the front lines two days before the battle of Amiens.

The letter relates that on November 11th, when the armistice was concluded, the 27th were on the march going up to the front with the expectation of going into action that night. Captain Rollins relates that the soldiers received the news very quietly, without cheering or other demonstration, never even breaking step as the word passed quietly along the ranks. That night they camped in the outskirts of Mons. On Dec. 13th, they entered Bonn, being the first there, marched through the town and crossed the Rhine. It was "a kind of state entry--battle order, fixed bayonets, etc.,—every man at his best, but trying to hide his pride and satisfaction."

Captain Rollins makes reference to the probable time of his return home but says that we here in Peterin all probability know more about it than he does. However, he says that they have been told that all will be home by June, and he hopes that in his case it may be much sooner.

Serious Strikes in Old Country

Women Said to be Responsible for Discontentment

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Serious strikes and threats of more serious ones in England over disputes which ordinarily would be considered unimportant have led some students of British labour conditions to believe that demands are made, not in an effort to better labour conditions, but in an attempt to revolutionize the whole condition of labour employment. Today 147,000 Yorkshire coal miners are idle because their employers decline to allow twenty minutes' dead time for meals for surface workers. Stoppage of work in the great shipbuilding industry on the Clyde is threatened over the meal hour dispute.

"Trivial Demands."

The discontentment is said to be caused by women, who do not like to rise in time to prepare an early breakfast. In shipbuilding the union is an active minority, which demands a thirty-hour week. A number of responsible labour leaders have declared they are not in sympathy with the continued trivial demands, and they are represented as being supported by more conservative members.

Food Board Removes Many Restrictions

Orders on Beef, Veal, Butter, Sugar, Flour, Lard and Fats Rescinded.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—An order of the Canada Food Board permits hence-forward the serving of beef and veal in public eating places at any time, and withdraws the restrictions on the quantity of butter which may be served in public eating places. Restrictions on the use and holdings in sugar, flour, lard and other fats are also removed. The supplies of these classes of food now available permit withdrawal of previous regulations. Consequently the following Food Board orders and relevant sections are repealed: Sections 1B to 23, inclusive, of Order 46; Orders 23, 30, 24, 50, 56, 62 and 60. Order 30 related to sugar holding. Order 34 covered the use of sugar, fats and flour by confectioners, ice cream makers and candy manufacturers. Order 62 covered the use of sugar, fats and milk to be used by bakers. Order 69 regulated flour and sugar supplies for persons living in isolated districts.

Voice of The People

To The Editor:—

After the announcement of the Engagement of Her Royal Highness, Princess Patricia of Connaught, the wives of the Lieutenant Governors of the various provinces of the Dominion were asked to hold a silver shower of five cents and upwards in order that the people of Canada might have the opportunity, should they desire to contribute of sending a national gift to show their appreciation of one who became endeared to so many during Her Royal Highness's stay in Canada, and the remembrance of the war work accomplished by the late Duke of Connaught and the great interest which he evinced in our soldiers from coast to coast, as well as the famous Princess Patricia Light Infantry, so dear to the hearts of the Canadians.

The collection will be purely voluntary and the nature of the gift will be decided upon as soon as it is known what amount has been collected. I am therefore asking the people throughout the Province of Ontario, through the press, to coperate with me in this voluntary collection towards the wedding gift for the Princess either individually or through any organized society or association, to which they may belong, and this letter will be the only intimation either to individuals or societies.

Sir Edmund Walker has kindly consented to be the Hon. Treasurer of the fund, and all monies should be sent to him on or before February 20th, 1919, to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, 23 King Street, West, Toronto.

ORDERS-IN-COUNCIL DEPRIVING CANADIAN LABOUR OF WORK

That Orders-in-Council, passed by the Government during the war to expedite the manufacture of war materials were now seriously affecting Canadian industry was intimated this morning by Mr. Harry Harper, of the International Machinists' Association, who stated that the organization of a deputation to urge the Government to remove all these Orders was under consideration. Various industries up and down Canada, including the Canadian General Electric Company, were losing business that had been placed in the United States, under Orders-in-Council, and as a result Canadian labour, skilled and unskilled, was deprived of this work, which Mr. Harper declared was needed in these serious days of readjustment.

Mr. Harper and Mr. John Noble, of the Electrical Workers' Union, had an interview this morning with Mr. E. G. Patterson at the C.G.E. office, at which a numbers of questions were discussed with complete accord.

Mrs. Lebaudy Prays in Jail As Her Husband's Body is Buried in Consecrated Plot

Westbury, L. I. Jan 23.—The body of Jacques Lebaudy was buried here in the little graveyard back of St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church here, while in the county jail at Mineola, where she has been incarcerated fo killing her husband, Mrs. Lebaudy recited rosary after rosary for the repose of the dead man's soul and for a happy life for her daughter.

Interment took place after the Rev. Dr. William F. McGinnis, rector of the church and probably the Lebaudy family's closest friend, had conducted the Catholic Burial services. Father McGinnis explained that the rites had been permitted only because he declared Lebaudy was insane and not responsible for his actions.

Later in the day Walter R. Jones, Justice of the Peace of Hempstead, held a coroner's inquest into the death of Lebaudy. Jacquelina, the daughter, fourteen years old, called to testify for the first time, identified the revolver her mother is supposed to have used and declared that she had carried it in her pocket for three weeks before the shooting.

Other Millions Reported Found

The Lebaudy estate will be even richer than the millions that common report already has assigned to it, according to reports here. It was learned from a person intimate with the history of the Lebaudy family that Mrs. Jules Lebaudy, mother of Jacques left $5,000,000 to him when she died less than a year ago. Verity was given to the report also by the recollection that Mrs. Lebaudy had inherited some $20,000,000 at the time her husband, the French "Sugar king" died. Harry W. Moore, Mrs. Lebaudy's attorney said that steps would be taken immediately to trace the millions.

A clew that might develop into a point favorable to the defence, if a defence in court is needed, developed when a New York drug store clerk telephoned to Mr. Moore about the queer behavior of a man he thinks was Jacques Lebaudy.

The man who the clerk said appeared to be either drugged or crazy, entered the drug store last Saturday morning and asked for a certain poisonous chemical. Asked for what purpose he wanted it, the man replied:—"I'm going to give it to my wife and the chickens," the clerk related.

"Don't let your wife handle it, as it is very poisonous," the clerk said when the woman was mentioned.

Smoke the Rats Out

"Well, then, let me have a pound or two of it," he says the supposed Lebaudy demanded. The man then asked:—"Wouldn't it be effective if I burned it on the top of a stove? Wouldn't it smoke the rats out?" from Mrs. Phinias A. Seasman, wife of the Sheriff. Mrs. Emily Ladenberg accompanied Jacqueline to the inquest and to the jail, Dr. Joseph A. Kerrigan, physician to Mrs. Lebaudy, and Father McGinnis were other callers during the day.

Jacques Lebaudy's funeral deeply stirred the few who took part in the services. Half an hour before it began Jacqueline went into the church. Her black figure kneeling alone in the front pew, roused sympathy in all who saw her. Nearby was Mrs. Thos. J. McGinnis, sister-in-law of the clergyman, in whose cosy home across the street, Jacqueline is staying. Outside the children of St. Brigid's Parochial School, with whom Jacqueline will soon be a pupil, played.

Behind Jacqueline were a few women of the congregation. Father McGinnis preceded by a cross bearer two acolytes and a censor bearer, came from the sacristy and began the brief and solemn invocations. The body, in a black coffin, without silver handles, had been brought in and placed before the alter.

In view of Lebaudy's sporadic attempts to oust his family from their home, the Lodge.

Mrs. Lebaudy spent a restless night in the Mineola jail. Today she sat up in bed, praying almost continuously. She had two photographs of Jacqueline, and the girl herself stopped for a few minutes on her way home from the inquest. Mrs. Lebaudy is having the best of care in her illness.

Mr. Moore considered the phrase "smoke the rats out" as significant. The clerk thereupon refused to sell the chemical without a physician's order.

MRS. LEBAUDY FREE.

No Bill Against Woman Who Shot Her Husband.

MINEOLA, N.Y., Jan. 23.—"Merci mon Dieu! Merci mon Dieu!" (Thank God, thank God!) these were the words with which Mrs. Marie A. Lebaudy received the news late yesterday in the residence part of the Nassau county jail that the grand jury had refused to indict her for slaying her husband, Jacques Lebaudy, the "emperor of Sahara." Mrs. Lebaudy was reported to have swooned immediately after sending heavenward her thanks for escape from the strain of being the defendant in a murder trial.

Jacqueline, her thirteen-year-old daughter, for whose protection Mrs. Lebaudy declared she shot to death the girl's father, displayed no emotion over the news from the jury room, which was imparted to her by Mrs. Phineas Seaman, the sheriff's wife, when Jacqueline appeared at the jail.

Her mother's emotion, however, produced an immediate effect. She showed the deepest solicitude and assisted in calming her.

Letter from Capt. J. Rollins

Peterboro Pastor Expects to Return Home Soon

A private letter from Captain (Rev.) James Rollins, which was written in Germany, "beyond the Rhine," arrived in the city yesterday. Captain Rollins was then with the 27th, Winnipeg, Battalion, and had served with them as chaplain through practically the whole of the great offensive, having gone with the battalion, into the front lines two days before the battle of Amiens.

The letter relates that on November 11th, when the armistice was concluded, the 27th were on the march going up to the front with the expectation of going into action that night. Captain Rollins relates that the soldiers received the news very quietly, without cheering or other demonstration, never even breaking step as the word passed quietly along the ranks. That night they camped in the outskirts of Mons. On Dec. 13th, they entered Bonn, being the first there, marched through the town and crossed the Rhine. It was "a kind of state entry—battle order, fixed bayonets, etc.,—every man at his best, but trying to hide his pride and satisfaction."

Captain Rollins makes reference to the probable time of his return home but says that we here in Peterin all probability know more about it than he does. However, he says that they have been told that all will be home by June, and he hopes that in his case it may be much sooner

Serious Strikes in Old Country

Women Said to be Responsible for Discontentment

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Serious strikes and threats of more serious ones in England over disputes which ordinarily would be considered unimportant have led some students of British labour conditions to believe that demands are made, not in an effort to better labour conditions, but in an attempt to revolutionize the whole condition of labour employment. Today 147,000 Yorkshire coal miners are idle because their employers decline to allow twenty minutes' dead time for meals for surface workers. Stoppage of work in the great shipbuilding industry on the Clyde is threatened over the meal hour dispute.

"Trivial Demands."

The discontentment is said to be caused by women, who do not like to rise in time to prepare an early breakfast. In shipbuilding the union is an active minority, which demands a thirty-hour week. A number of responsible labour leaders have declared they are not in sympathy with the continued trivial demands, and they are represented as being supported by more conservative members.

Food Board Removes Many Restrictions

Orders on Beef, Veal, Butter, Sugar, Flour, Lard and Fats Rescinded.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—An order of the Canada Food Board permits hence-forward the serving of beef and veal in public eating places at any time, and withdraws the restrictions on the quantity of butter which may be served in public eating places. Restrictions on the use and holdings in sugar, flour, lard and other fats are also removed. The supplies of these classes of food now available permit withdrawal of previous regulations. Consequently the following Food Board orders and relevant sections are repealed: Sections 1B to 23, inclusive, of Order 46; Orders 23, 30, 24, 50, 55, 62 and 69. Order 30 related to sugar holding. Order 34 covered the use of sugar, fats and flour by confectioners, ice cream makers and candy manufacturers. Order 62 covered the use of sugar, fats and grille to be used by bakers. Order 69 regulated flour and sugar supplies for persons living in isolated districts.

Word has been received in the city of the awarding of decorations to several Peterborough boys for gallantry in action with the Canadian forces.

Lieut. Douglas Loomis, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, his friends will be glad to learn, has been awarded the Military Cross; while Sergt. Albert Stanley, also formerly of the 93rd Battalion, has received the Military Medal. Sergt. Stanley was also recommended for the D.C.M. and for promotion to the rank of lieutenant, but the ending of hostilities prevented his receiving the commission for which he had been recommended.

Voice of The People

To The Editor:—

After the announcement of the Engagement of Her Royal Highness, Princess Patricia of Connaught, the wives of the Lieutenant Governors of the various provinces of the Dominion were asked to hold a silver shower of five cents and upwards in order that the people of Canada might have the opportunity, should they desire to contribute of sending a national gift to show their appreciation of one who became endeared to so many during Her Royal Highness's stay in Canada, and the remembrance of the war work accomplished by the late Duke of Connaught and the great interest which he evinced in our soldiers from coast to coast, as well as the famous Princess Patricia Light Infanty, so dear to the hearts of the Canadians.

The collection will be purely voluntary and the nature of the gift will be decided upon as soon as it is known what amount has been collected. I am therefore asking the people throughout the Province of Ontario, through the press, to coperate with me in this voluntary collection towards the wedding gift for the Princess either individually or through any organized society or association, to which they may belong, and this letter will be the only intimation either to individuals or societies.

Sir Edmund Walker has kindly consented to be the Hon. Treasurer of the fund, and all monies should be sent to him on or before February 20th, 1919, to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, 23 King Street, West, Toronto.

ORDERS-IN-COUNCIL DEPRIVING CANADIAN LABOUR OF WORK

That Orders-in-Council, passed by the Government during the war to expedite the manufacture of war materials were now seriously affecting Canadian industry was intimated this morning by Mr. Harry Harper, of the International Machinists' Association, who stated that the organization of a deputation to urge the Government to remove all these Orders was under consideration. Various industries up and down Canada, including the Canadian General Electric Company, were losing business that had been placed in the United States, under Orders-in-Council, and as a result Canadian labour, skilled and unskilled, was deprived of this work, which Mr. Harper declared was needed in these serious days of readjustment.

Mr. Harper and Mr. John Noble, of the Electrical Workers' Union, had an interview this morning with Mr. E. G. Patterson at the C.G.E. office, at which a numbers of questions were discussed with complete accord.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

Peterboro Teams Are Rounding Into Shape For Important Games

Although the mild weather has upset the hockey schedule badly throughout Ontario, there has been enough ice available here to allow the two Peterborough teams to practice as usual, and both outfits are rapidly rounding into shape for the big games that are ahead of them next week and the week following. The two teams worked out together last night and had a lively hour's practice, and will be out again to-morrow night if there is ice.

Both Juniors and Intermediates have three hard games in front of them, and in each case two of the battles are away from home. The Juniors start their campaign on Monday, when they will make a third attempt to play the twice postponed game in Port Hope. On Friday night of next week the Ontarios will play the return game here, and this by the way will be the only contest local fans will have an opportunity of seeing until the week after next. The Juniors wind up the district race by playing in Lindsay during the first week in February. Provided Peterborough and Lindsay both win from Port Hope, the game in Lindsay will either settle the district honours or leave the two teams tied for the title.

The Intermediates' next game is in Whitby, and this contest will be followed by the big series with Oshawa. The district championship race lies between Oshawa and the Petes, as Whitby are practically out of the running. The Petes visit Whitby on Tuesday next, and in order not to give Oshawa the edge, will have to win this battle. If the Lake-shore soldiers are beaten, the group title will depend directly upon the result of the Oshawa - Peterborough series, which promises to be a corker. The Oshawa team will play here on Monday, February 3, and the game will be one of the big events of the season.

The local Intermediates are showing fine speed in practice, and should be right in their stride when they are called on next week. There is keen competition for places on the line-up. Two likely youngsters, Laundreault and Murphy, who learned their hockey in Pembroke, a town that has turned out many well-known stars, have been showing good form in practice, and they will be hard to keep off the team while Halpin, Evans and the rest of the squad are all rounding into shape. Hodgins, who played for the Dentals two years ago, when they won the Allan Cup, was out with the team last night, and will be available for a place in the line-up. He was with Gover Halpin at Petewawa Camp during the past summer, and was a member of the champion military baseball team, the 69th Battery. He will be a handy man, not only for the hockey team this winter, but for some of the City League ball clubs next summer.

De Laval Team Won Two Games From East Lawn Bowlers

Shamrocks Won Two Games From the Clerks.

The De Laval team won two of the three games from the East Lawn Bowlers in a "B" league fixture at the Water street alleys. Some good individual scores were rolled by both teams. The De Laval heavy hitters were French and Garrow, with totals of 571 and 534. Barrette also reached the 500 mark. For the Lawn Bowlers, Walton and Laidlaw had 501 and 516 for totals. Walton had high single of 255. The scores were:

SURRENDER PETROGRAD

Bolshevik Power is Weakening in Russian Capital.

Canadian Press.

LONDON, Jan. 23.— It is officially admitted that Leon Trotsky, Russian Minister of War, has ordered Zinoviev, Bolshevik chief charged with defending that city without fight if it is attacked by Northern Russian forces.

The foregoing corrects despatches received from London last night, which apparently were garbled in transmission between London and Copenhagen. The despatches last night made it appear that the Bolshevik had been ordered to surrender a town named Sinoveff, which does not appear on available maps, the name having been confused with Zinovieff, the commander of Petrograd.

In Northern Russia, the despatch adds, Bolshevik forces have been defeated, and the peasants are revolting against the Bolshevik in all quarters.

Regular Line-Up Will Be Decided On During Spring Training Trip

For the first time in many years John McGraw will be undecided as to the makeup of his infield when he takes his team south in the spring. As a rule, when the Giants hit the trail to sunshineland their leader has to devote but little time to his infield aside from the mere drilling of the men, but this season will find a new order of things in the camp of the New York National league club and much will depend on the showing made by the individuals at the training camp.

Taking first base into consideration at the outset, it is again pertinent to remark that Walter Holke is not sure of his berth at that sack for the 1919 Giants. Like many other managers who were deeply incensed at players who left their clubs in the thick of last year's pennant fight and who condemned those players unreservedly at the time, McGraw seems to have relented somewhat in his attitude toward Holke and it is quite certain that a contract will be sent to Walter when the task of lining up the regulars is begun, yet this does not necessarily mean that Holke will be the guardian of the initial sack.

It has become sort of an accepted fact in most quarters that Jake Daubert will not be seen again in a Brooklyn uniform and the name of the Robins' brilliant first sacker frequently has been linked with that of McGraw in the usual winter baseball gossip, yet, according to the Giant leader, there is as yet no foundation for reports to the effect that Daubert will be sold or traded to the team that plays in the shadow of Coogan's Bluff. There has been nothing in McGraw's declarations concerning the possibility of Daubert coming to the Giants which would lead one to believe that he is totally averse to such an event coming to pass, however, and Daubert's assertion that he will not play in the west has been seized upon by those who have forecast his transfer to the Giants as corroborative evidence bearing on their belief.

Hal Chase too has been mentioned as successor to Holke, and while it is known that under ordinary circumstances McGraw would be quite willing to offer Hal a fresh start in this city, in spite of the troubles he has had with other managers, the present status of that player precludes any effort on the part of the Giant leader to secure him at this time. Chase has been suspended by the Cincinnati club and is still the property of that club. Until such time as he is restored to good standing he is, of course, not to be seriously considered as a prospective Giant.

At second base, Larry Doyle, already the hero of two comebacks—one with the Cubs in 1917 and the other with the Giants last spring—will take another whirl at his old position, and Giant fandom to a man will be rooting hard for the lovable Larry to again clinch the job. Doyle's showing last spring was a genuine surprise, even to those who were most optimistic concerning his chances of playing in anything like the form he showed when he was rising to power and popularity on the Giant team of a decade ago. He was cutting a wide swath through the mass of National league batters and was playing an excellent brand of ball at the middle bag when illness cut him down, but the operation which he was forced to undergo, coupled with his long lay off, served to slow him up badly, so that when he returned to duty, he was in poor shape.

The idol of Polo Grounds fans has been working in a shipbuilding plant since the termination of the 1918 season, and reports from some of his colleagues indicate that he is in excellent condition and quite confident that he will again make good in the spring. This, however, is by no means certain, and it remains to be seen just how well laid is Larry's faith in himself.

Fletcher Sure of a Berth.

Arthur Fletcher is the only member of the infield who is certain to hold down his accustomed berth next season. Various scribes around the circuit would have one believe that the Collinsville boy is slipping at an alarming rate and that he is nearing the end of his major league career, but that they have grossly miscalculated in their estimation of this sterling player's present worth is evident at a glance at the fielding records for 1918. To say that Fletcher is as active as he was when he came to the Giants from the Texas league ten years ago would be to give voice to fallacy, for ten years of play in the big show do not add to the sprightliness of a man. The Giant captain is good for a few more years of service in fast company, however, and talk of his displacement in favour of boys like Eddie Sicking or Al Baird this year is nothing short of ridiculous.

And now for Heinie Zimmerman strong armed defender of the far corner. Last summer, the Great Zim, nearing the end of a season marked by a deterioration in his work as a third sacker, told the writer that he contemplated switching to the outfield when the national pastime should be resumed in all its old-time splendour, but of late Heinie has been quoted in a different vein, the result of a period of reconsideration. It appears, therefore, that he will again try his hand at third basing, and, like Larry Doyle, he will have the best wishes of those who know him well in his effort to effect a comeback.

From time to time in recent months it has been reported that McGraw is desirious of bringing Arthur Shafer out of retirement, and as a result of the cordiality exhibited by the Giant leader to Charlie Herzog when they met at the Waldorf last week, rumours have sprung up concerning a possible return to the Giant fold of the irrepressible Marylander. There is little to warrant a belief that either Shafer or Herzog will again be seen in Giant uniforms, yet it has been frequently demonstrated that, as the late Harry Pulliam pointed out, nothing is to be taken for granted in baseball.

7,000 OF ALLIES BLINDED; 25% MORE MAY LOSE SIGHT

PARIS, Jan. 23.— The number of totally blinded victims of the war among all the allied forces has now been calculated as 7,000. Twenty-five or 30 per cent. will probably have to be added to this figure from among the patients now undergoing treatment.

The total of those who lost one eye amounts to between 30,000 and 40,000.

VEGETABLES GO TO U. S.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 23. — The Graham, Limited, of this city, yesterday made an extensive shipment from their evaporating plant in this city. A trainload of 36 cars of dehyrated vegetables were shipped to New York for the United States Government. The cargo was valued at $23,000.

Peace Benefit Sale

Semi-ready Clothes Mens' Furnishings

This is to be the biggest, quickest and most attractive sale of my lifetime. I am anticipating trade conditions that are yet a year away. I am making it possible for those who practice thrift and forethought to get what they want to wear at less than wholesale and to get a whole year's supply to-day.

Glance over the list of prices. They give a fair indication of my earnest purpose. But feel free to come in and look around—not necessarily to buy.

WINTER OVERCOATS and CANADIAN ULSTERS

Even the staple Meltons and the scarcest lines of Ulsterings are to be included in this Peace Benefit Sale; plain blacks, navy blues, and Oxford greys; all the meat-and-drink or bread-and-butter styles which are usually laid away in a big Bargain Sale—are to be sold here at real Bargain Prices.

Chesterfields, King Edwards, Canada Ulsters, and the English Ulsters sold at specialty shops under fancy names at fancy prices—there's not a hidden garment held in reserve in either Suit or Overcoat Shop—and there's not one coat but is of perfect workmanship and clear-through materials; we guarantee against all defects.

MEN'S WINTER OVERCOATS

EVERY OVERCOAT I have is of genuine Semi-ready Tailoring and is therefore measured by a higher standard of value, with the fixed label-in-the-pocket indication of worth.

All sizes, with form-fitting and loose-fitting models; all of substantial English weaves, and many worth at wholesale more than these sale prices—

| | |
|---|---|
| $22.50 Labels for | $17.75 |
| $25.00 Labels for | $19.50 |
| $28.00 Labels for | $21.75 |

BOYS' ULSTERS

5 ONLY YOUTHS' ULSTERS, sizes 30, 31, 32 and 33-inch breast only; here is a real snap for the boy who is growing into manhood, but is still not too cheaty; not a coat in the lot worth less than $20.00, but have been marked down to $15.00 and $16.50; out they go at nearly half their worth. Your choice ..... $12.75

300 SEMI-READY SUITS

THERE ARE SUITS here that I cannot replace at prices 25 per cent. above their cost to me, but this will not deter us from a whole-hearted and unreserved sale, a complete and definite price reduction. All sizes and types, 34 to 46 breast.

Everything: Serges, Worsteds, Tweeds, Homespuns, Cheviots—nothing held on.

CONFERENCES RESUMED.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Jan. 23.—President Wilson and the Allied Premiers resumed their conferences at the Quai D'Orsay this morning.

Hon. W. H. Taft, Former U. S. President, Visits Peterboro

Will Address Chautauquas at the Grand Opera House To-night—Says German Colonies Should be Held by League of Nations.

SAYS LEAGUE IS A FACT

Peterborough is singularly honoured to-day in the visit of the Honorable William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, who will give an address under the auspices of the Canadian Chautauqua to-night at the Grand Opera House on the subject of present universal interest, "The League of Nations." Mr. Taft is an eloquent exponent of the proposed League, and, next to President Wilson, is probably the most ardent advocate in the United States of the proposed International Council which has for its object the prevention of wars. It may be observed also that Mr. Taft is mentioned in the American press as the outstanding figure in the Republican party and a possible candidate in the next Presidential elections.

To the Examiner this afternoon he stated that he would endeavour to explain the proposed League of Nations which, he said, was no longer an academic question, but a concrete fact, represented by the peace conference of the nations in Paris.

"We are not all one in the United States on this question," Mr. Taft said. "Three years ago those of us who were strongly interested in the fulfillment of this idea organized the association to Enforce a League of the Nations to Enforce Peace. We issued a declaration and have sent abroad propaganda for the creation of public opinion in favour of the league."

Mr. Taft sketched the plans recently arranged of holding two day conventions in nine widely separated cities in the United States. They include New York, Boston, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, Ore., San Francisco, Salt Lake City, St. Louis and Atlanta. These congresses will be addressed by members of the league, including the presidents of Harvard and Princeton universities, James W. Gerard, Mrs. Moore, president of the National Council of Women and others, for the purpose of disseminating as widely as possible the purposes of the League to Enforce Peace.

No Serious Obstacles.

Mr. Taft said that in his opinion there were no serious obstacles to the foundation of this Council of the Nations; indicating that its possibilities for the safety and happiness of the world, should outweigh the questions that might embarass the Conference.

Speaking of Germany's demand for the return of her colonies, Mr. Taft declared his opposition to this claim but he expressed his opinion that they, with Constantinople, key of the east, should be held and administered by the League of Nations.

Hon. Mr. Taft lunched at the Empress with a number of the members of the Women's Council and guarantors of Chautauqua course. They were Mesdames R. Harstone, Arthur Stevenson, A. Mowat, W. R. Morris, E. Gardiner, F. C. Neal, Miss Davidson and Mr. R. R. Hall and Mr. Robert Harstone.

The dining room was decorated with the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack. When Mr. Taft entered the dining room he was immediately recognized by all the guests who broke into a welcoming applause. The luncheon was held in the grill annex.

Mr. Taft's kindly, expansive smile was a challenge to the gloomy half light of a dull afternoon, and it was also a characteristic expression that flashed his identity to the crowded rotunda at the Empress, and to citizens who saw him for the first time at other points in the city. His pictures are true to the life, but they do not reflect the deep inner light that beams through his eyes from the fonts that lie behind, of sympathy, faith in, and hope for, humanity, broad and highly intelligent understanding.

Barney Oldfield Quits Racing Game

Holder of Mile Standing Start Record Going Into Business.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23.—Barney Oldfield, for many years famous as an automobile racer and holder of the time record for one mile from a standing start, announced his permanent retirement from the track. He will devote his time to a tire manufacturing concern, of which he is the head.

On May 16, 1910, Oldfield set a record of 40.53 seconds for a mile from a standing point at Daytona, Fla., which still stands.

Oldfield was disqualified as a racer last year by the American Automobile Association because he drove in exhibition races at country fairs, as the official exhibitions were cancelled because of the war.

Montenegro Will Have Opportunity To Decide Issue

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Declaring he had been assured the Associated Powers will make certain that "Montenegro will soon have the opportunity to exercise the right of self-determination," King Nicholas has instructed his subjects to cease their opposition to the Serbs.

"I have received the high assurance from the Allied Nations that Montenegro shortly will have the opportunity to freely decide their form of its future government and that they will abide by the decision," he telegraphed.

It was understood the message was approved by the peace delegates and that Nicholas was authorized to send it.

Recent despatches reported bloody fighting in Montenegro between a portion of the inhabitants and Serbian troops. The Montenegrins appear to be divided as to whether they shall preserve their national entity or join with Serbia in the formation of a new Jugo-Slav state under a Serbian dynasty.

Irish Press Comment

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—Comments of the Irish papers on the Sinn Fein Parliament are to the effect that it was an empty beating of the air and that its special purpose was to attract the attention of the world, particularly of the Peace Conference to the Sinn Feiners' case. In the opinion of the papers most of the Dublin people believe that the Sinn Feiners expected and desired the Congress to be suppressed by the police or military. The gist of the newspaper comment is that if Count Plunkett presents the Sinn Fein's declaration of Irish independence, the Peace Conference will merely put it in the archives with out discussion, under the rules adopted permitting anyone to present petitions. The Irish censorship prevented the appearance of the Sinn Fein's declaration of independence in the Dublin papers. Without interference, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Laurence O'Neill, having obtained passports from the government, will proceed to Paris to tender to President Wilson the freedom of the City of Dublin, recently voted by the corporation.

Special Commission to Be Appointed

Former Kaiser Will be Subject of Investigation.

(By William Philip Simms—United Press).

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Punishment for the Kaiser and his associates was formally discussed before the Supreme War Council to-day.

The belief prevailed in certain quarters that the Council will adopt some form of the programme suggested by the American delegation in this regard—appointment of a special commission to investigate thoroughly the culpability of all those responsible for the war, from the Kaiser down, so that none might escape. It was expected that the various forms of punishment to be meted out will be taken up simultaneously, that nothing may be overlooked in the way of affording a warning for future potential warmakers.

In connection with the discussion of responsibility and punishment for individuals, the penalty for the German nation was also considered. It is now accepted that indemnities will be limited to reparation for damages; but the huge sums that are expected to amount to will constitute a national penalty nevertheless.

LIKELY CHOICE OF THE AMERICANS

By Fred S. Ferguson.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 23.— Vance McCormick, former chairman of the Democratic National committee, appeared to-day to be the most likely choice for the American civilian representative on the commission to be sent by the Associated Powers to confer with the Russian delegates at the Princes Islands.

HON. FRANK COCHRANE BEREAVED.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—Following a protracted illness, the death occurred this morning of Lieut. Ogden Dunlop Cochrane, youngest son of Hon. Frank and Mrs. Cochrane. Illness was the result of an accident sustained while on active service in England. He was 28 years of age and was born in Matawa. He went overseas with the 123rd Battalion.

WELL ATTENDED MEETING HELD IN BRIDGENORTH YESTERDAY

First of a Series of Meetings to be Held Under Auspices of County Board of Agriculture.

Well attended meetings marked the opening of the County Board of Agriculture mid-winter sessions, held yesterday afternoon and evening in the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth. There was a local representation at both meetings. Both Mr. Allen Smith, a farmer of Waterloo county, and Miss L. V. Powell, of Whitby, were present. The two speakers spoke with a knowledge gained by experience. Miss Powell is one of the staff of lecturers for the Provincial Department of Agriculture and is a guest at the Empress Hotel this week, while visiting this district in the interests of the Department of Agriculture.

Miss Powell is closely connected with various branches of work under the Ontario Department of Agriculture and will address the Ontario Fairs and Exhibitions Association in Toronto in February. She is studying the educational problems through the province, having been in close touch with school interests as a member of the Whitby Board of Education for the past five years.

Home Life.

The Board of Agriculture meeting held in the afternoon was featured by discussions on dairy and fat cattle. In the evening a speech on proper home life was heard. Mr. Clayton Telford, of Bridgenorth, who is President of the Peterborough County Board of Agriculture, presided at the meetings yesterday, and will be chairman of the rest of the series of meetings which will be continued to-morrow, both afternoon and evening.

The County Boards of Agriculture is a powerful organization, organized throughout the province for the last 25 years and not only has as its object the improvements in the different strains of live stock and better methods of planting and harvesting grains, but also takes pains in showing the rural communities better conditions of home life which are possible on the farm.

Meeting Will Be Held in City

Cheese Factory Patrons and Owners Interested.

Mr. E. N. McDonald of Warsaw, who is County Director of the United Farmers of Ontario, and Mr. F. C. McRae, B.S.A., of Norwood, the agricultural representative for this county, invite all cheese factory owners and two patrons of each cheese factory to a meeting to be held in the Y.M.C.A. in Peterborough, on Wednesday, January 29th, at 2 p.m. The meeting is called to consider matters relating to the Co-operative Dairy Company which it has been proposed should be organized in Ontario to take over and operate co-operatively a considerable number of the cheese factories of the province. At this meeting full information regarding the proposed company will be laid before those that attend. Should the proposal be approved, a local committee may be appointed to go into the matter more fully with the object of finding what ways and to what an extent such a company would be of benefit to the patrons of cheese factories in Peterborough county, should it be decided later to form a company.

Mr. Publow, Dairy Commissioner, will likely address the meeting. Mr. G. G. Publow of Toronto, Mr. H. B. Cowan, of this city, and Mr. J. J. Morrison, of Toronto, will also address the meeting.

GRAIN MARKET

Following a generally weak session, there was a stronger feeling developing towards the close of the markets, in part as a result of an announcement from Washington removing restrictions on general commodities, which will afford a freer movement in trade, both import and export. An announcement from Ottawa, giving some measure of the relief the millers have been asking for, also had favourable effect on the local market.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 26 cars, with 247 cattle, 35 calves, 995 hogs, and 71 sheep and lambs.

Trade was generally dull, reflecting weather conditions and a very quiet market for dressed beef. Cattle prices practically steady, but tendency lower except for anything very choice.

Sheep and lamb trade very dull.

Hog prices continue irregular, covering a range from $15 to $17, and buyers not very keen.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognise and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind, and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the bisurated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc. but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

In Germany female laborers are paid but 22 cents a day for twelve hours' work.

Sat Up In Bed To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, over strained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Canada Travelling in Same Direction.—The late Col. Robertson told the writer of his experience in attending a so-called Bible class in Mount Clemens a few years ago. Not a Bible was to be seen, and there was no pretence at anything in the way of worship. In lieu of the Bible, teacher and students had a volume of Josephus, which they were discussing. That is where "Higher Criticism" and the descent to "attractions" to draw the crowd has landed or is landing the Christian church across the line. In Canada we are fast travelling in the same direction. Here is a paragraph which illustrates the sort of thing which goes on in not a few churches. It is from the Orono News. "Mr. Melville Staples took charge of the song service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, in the absence of Dr. Lee, who was in Lindsay. The choir's selections were excellently rendered, whether in anthem or hymn, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and Miss Hanenan contributed a beautiful trio, and Mr. Staples gave an interesting Christian talk on Browning's Christmas poem."—Orillia Packet.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WALK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her to Health.

Perth Amboy, N.J. — "For three years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, and tried it. Now I am better, feel strong, have no pains, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me how well I look, and I tell them to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — that is what makes me feel well and look well. I recommended it to my sister and she is using it now. You can use this letter if you wish, for it is certainly a grand remedy for a woman's ills." — Mrs. MARTHA STANISLAWSKI, 524 Penn St., Perth Amboy, N.J.

For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

Brian and Ruth Quarrel

CHAPTER XCV

Ruth had seen Brian's smile and interpreted it rightly. Oh, why had she accepted her employer's offer? It gave Brian reason to object to any questions she might ask. She knew his jealous nature well enough by this time to be aware that he would take full advantage of her action.

Neither said anything until they were inside the apartment. Then Ruth spoke:

"I came home last night, Brian. I wanted to surprise you but"—

"You haven't surprised me a bit!" he interrupted in a tone that cut her like a knife; "I have known for a long time that Mandel was in love with you; in fact I have been warned that he would take you from me, for all I know he has."

"Oh, Brian!" It was monstrous that he should talk so to her, "I felt sick because I was up all night worrying about you, and he offered to send me home. I let him because I felt so weak and faint."

"Yes."

That was all! Just "yes." Ruth bit her lip until it bled, to keep back the angry retort. Then, unable to control herself longer, she asked abruptly:

"Where were you last night, Brian?"

Deliberately Brian took off his coat, and hung it up. Then he looked steadily at her as he replied:

"You have no right to question me. You go away and leave me alone. You ride around in another man's car. You do as you please, so do I. If dinner is ready, suppose we eat. I have an engagement."

Ruth was amazed. Was this man speaking to her like this, her Brian—the man who loved her, and whom she loved? He had put her in the wrong, so making it impossible for her to say anything as long as he took that attitude toward her. So she followed him to the table trembling and aching to have a good cry.

After Rachel left the room she tried again:

"I found the blotter with which you blotted your note—your note to Mollie King," she had mentioned the name in impulse; but his quick flush, his look of guilt, his muttered oath, showed plainly that she was right in her surmise.

"Well." He was determined to talk in monosyllables.

"Don't you think that after finding that, you owe me some explanation of where you were last night?"

"No I don't! You are in love with that Mandel and he with you! I owe you nothing! But I do owe Mollie something, and I cannot let her rest under your imputation. She is fair, and above-board, even if you—my wife—are not. I was with a bunch of Canadian officers who are going over seas. It was almost morning when we stopped talking and I bunked in with one of them. If you would deign to telegraph me when you are intending to favor me with your presence perhaps I would be here to welcome you," the last sneeringly. Then "You probably telegraphed Mandel."

This time it was Ruth who flushed guiltily. She had wired Mandel.

"I thought so," Brian said in a fierce tone. He was trying hard to keep his temper.

"And you weren't with Mollie King last night, in spite of that note?" Ruth asked her lip quivering.

"Yes, I was with her. We had dinner together, and a jolly little dinner it was, too. There are women who appreciate my society, you see, even if you do not. But I left Miss King at nine o'clock and went with the Canucks. I tell you this because of Mollie; not to please you." He arose from the table, put on his hat and left the house. Ruth had tried to speak, tried to call him back, but she could not. Her tears flowed fast as she threw herself on the bed and sobbed out her misery.

He never had been exactly as he had that night. That sarcasm was new to him, also the bravado with which he confessed to having been with Mollie King. Surely she hadn't deserved to be treated as she had been. She knew he had been awfully angry when he saw her in Mandel's car, that he had been jealous too. But even that was no excuse for the way he had talked. [illegible] explained that she was ill, [illegible] was the reason Mandel had [illegible] home.

Then she had flushed [illegible] en he accused her of wiring Mandel. Although she had not answered him, she was sure Brian was satisfied he had guessed right. Oh, it was all such a muddle! And now he had gone out again and left her. She wondered if he were with Mollie again. Perhaps he had gone to her for sympathy. He always acted abused, childishly so, when anything went wrong between them.

Ruth wished she had not come home. That she had remained away the entire time she had planned. Had she done so, Brian would have expected her, and they would both have been saved all this. Then came another thought. If Brian were so careful of Mollie that he would not allow her to be placed in a false light, he must be terribly fond of her. He had humbled his pride to explain where he had been, rather than have Mollie suspected of an indiscretion. To-morrow—Brian Refuses to Make up, Although Ruth Begs Him to.

"Dad" Turnbull a Great Athlete

FORTY years ago a ruddy-cheeked lad sat on the rails surrounding Toronto athletic fields and watched the lacrosse giants of that day perform, wondering whether some day he would get his chance to fill their shoes. To-day the youngster of '78 is completing a lacrosse career that extends over thirty-four years, a record in point of service in not only our national game but in all branches of athletics in the Dominion. It has oft been said that a man is just as old as he feels. Assuming this to be correct, Alex. Turnbull, of New Westminster, the lad of '78, must still be classed as a young man. "Dad," a sobriquet wished on him by the writer many years ago at a time when the veteran was said to be preparing to retire from the athletic field, and by which he is more familiarly known to lacrosse followers, ranks to-day as Canada's most remarkable athlete.

Beyond the sunny side of the half-century mark, by just how many summers he refuses to say, and we do not propose to hazard any guesses, Turnbull is to-day, thirty-four years after he first broke into senior company, still playing the national game, one of the most strenuous of all outdoor pastimes. Records of twenty-two years in the majors established by Lajoie and others fade when compared with the wonderful record of the New Westminster stick-wielder. That he has played lacrosse for thirty-four years is perhaps not so remarkable as the fact that he is still playing the game.

Many stars with whom he played years ago have passed into the Great Beyond, others have long since retired from the game, but as the years roll by, the daddy of them all, the greatest centre fielder in Minto Cup time and probably one of the greatest home fielders the game has known, plods along, taking his place regularly in the line-up of famous New Westminster teams. This may be his last season. He has not said so himself, but he believes that with the game re-established this year and the youngsters interested in the sport that the time is opportune for him to hang up his stick. And it may be said that when he does retire he will take with him much of the credit for bringing the national game back at a time when the outlook was far from promising. Not only has the veteran an peers in the national game, but his record for length of service in senior company will probably never be equalled in lacrosse, baseball or any other sport. The name of Turnbull will have been written large and indelibly in the history of the national game.

Turnbull, in his youth, played in almost every small hamlet in Ontario. In those days it was customary for the different towns to strengthen their teams for matches from players in other places, and Turnbull was one of the players who was frequently called upon to make barnstorming tours. His first senior lacrosse was played in Toronto in 1894. From there he went to Paris, Ont., which boasted one of the greatest teams that ever played the game. "Dad" started as a defence player, playing point in front of old Charlie Robinson, of the Paris team. In those days Indian teams were numerous throughout Ontario and Quebec, and among the tribes which the Paris team played were the Onondagas and Tuscorras. Turnbull got his fill of defence playing against the latter team, which trotted out a chieftain weighing 280 pounds. Turnbull, never very heavy and not standing much over five feet clocked the big chief, but took no chances until Charley Robinson planted his foot in the seat of Alex's trousers when the latter was meeting 'em and advised the veteran to exhibit pluck or there was no lacrosse future for him.

From that time on Turnbull was ready to tackle them. In 1890 Turnbull was back in Toronto, and played with the old Athletics in the C.L.A. From then until 1894 he played in Brockville and Perth and at that time played alongside the great Joe O'Meara. "He was some home player; they never made them any better," remarked the old time star.

Turnbull has not only played lacrosse, but has taken a whirl at almost every other game, but lacrosse comes first, last and always in his affections. As a basketballer he was a star; he can break the blue racks along with the best of them, and has taken a hand in other sport. "But give me lacrosse always. It's the greatest game," declared the old-timer. "We are not doing much this season, but we are serving a useful purpose in re-establishing a national game in the West. And in a year or two we'll have the game back, played again with B.C. talent, I hope, and seeing a number teams in other parts of the country."

Turnbull made his debut in Western lacrosse along towards the fall of 1897, locating first in Rossland, and later going to New Westminster.

Many times leading writers have referred to Hans Wagner, Lajoie and other diamond performers as wonderful athletes because of the 22 years they spent in major league company. But what of a lacrosse record of 34 years, all of it in senior company and with and against the greatest teams playing the game, and still at it? It is a wonderful record, one that will never be surpassed in any sport.

For your guidance in estimating, we might say that The Examiner is printing and distributing to the Merchants, for use on Dollar Day, 25,000 blanks, and it is only necessary to estimate what number each purchaser thinks will be used on the great day. Should any store run short of blanks, The Examiner will print more, so that the number printed might reach as high as 40,000. The number of estimates put in the last Dollar Day Campaign was in the neighbourhood of 10,000. With this information, an estimate can be made before doing your shopping. Of course as many estimates can be made as the purchaser has blanks, and they will get one with every Dollar purchase they make.

Make up your mind what and where you want to buy and come to Peterborough on Wednesday, January 29th, expecting the greatest economy shopping event of your lives.

A Nice Juicy Steak and a Horse Figures in Inquiry of the "Big Five" Packers

Mr. Heney Tells of Gift to Representative Mann, Who Explains it Was Roast—Food Administrator Alleged to Have Helped Suppress Testimony at Hearing.

MESSRS. HOOVER AND HURLEY MENTIONED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Activities of the "Big Five" packers in frustrating legislation and government action directed against them were related in detail here by Francis J. Heney, formerly counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, testifying before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Some of the disclosures made by Mr. Heney were:

That Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois, Republican leader of the House, received a horse and a $3.50 steak as gifts from the packers, and that he helped sidetrack the Borland resolution for an investigation of the packers in 1916.

That Herbert C. Hoover, Food Administrator, undertook to shield the packers and halt the publication of damaging evidence against them in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation last year.

That three banking institutions, known as "Packers' Banks,"—the First National, the Fort Dearborn National, and The Continental and Commercial — come "pretty near dominating the financial situation in Chicago."

That the market value of the stock of Swift & Co., and subsidiaries is $140,000,000 more now than it was a year ago.

That Thomas F. Logan, Packers' lobbyist at the Capital, accompanied Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board on his trip to Europe to study and adjust the shipping problem.

Mr. Heney was testifying from his memory of the Packers' secret files fund in the vault of Henry Veeder, chief counsel for the "Big Five." These were the files which Mr. Heney was on the verge of making public last spring when he was enjoined by the Federal Court in Chicago.

His Assistants to Testify.

Mr. Heney was not able to remember as much as the committee wished to know, and when the political activipes are continued several of his assistants who saw the correspondence will be placed on the stand.

Mr. Veeder wrote in one letter from Washington that he had a number of talks with Mr. Mann, who on one occasion remarked that he had not had a good steak in a long time, according to Mr. Heney's testimony. Thereupon Mr. Veeder sent to Mr. Mann a steak which cost $3.50, it was stated. The correspondence showed that Mr. Veeder asked Louis F. Swift whether the cost of the steak should be charged up against the Washington or the Chicago office, Mr. Heney said. Mr. Swift replied that it should be charged against the Chicago office, but expressed the opinion that Mr. Mann ought not to have more than six or seven such steaks in a year, according to Mr. Heney.

This statement created much merriment, and Senator Norris, of Nebraska, remarked:

"Mr. Swift must have entirely misunderstood Congressional appetites!"

Mr. Heney also remembered that his assistant, Dr. A. P Adams, saw a letter showing that Mr. Veeder had presented a horse to Mr. Mann. There was another letter, he said, showing that Mr. Mann characterized the steak as "magnificent" and thanked Mr. Veeder profusely for his gift.

Other correspondence, Mr. Heney said, showed that packers' attorneys in Washington wrote to clients in Chicago, in 1916, that if Congress ordered an investigation of the packers, as proposed in the Borland resolution, criminal prosecutions were inevitable.

Fight on Borland Resolution.

A fund was created, Mr. Heney said, to fight the Borland resolution, and members of the "Big Five" were assessed according to the amount of the beef they handled. The lawyers in this correspondence, Mr. Heney stated, outlined plans for killing the resolution. One of them was to kill it in committee, another was to let pass and then have the investigation conducted by a hand-picked committee, which could be counted upon for a "whitewash," and the third was to switch the inquiry to the Bureau of Markets of the Agricultural Department.

This latter scheme was decided upon, he said, because the Bureau of Markets had no power and could get only what the packers wanted it to have.

"This arrangement was carried out by the aid of Mr. Mann by putting a rider appropriating $50,000 on the agricultural appropriation bill to enable the Bureau of Markets to gather data," explained Mr. Heney. "Its object was to defeat the Borland resolution, and it was defeated. Members of Congress, including Representative Sidney Anderson, opposed it, and declared it was to head off the Borland resolution. When the rider was adopted, I am told, Mr. Mann and Representative Carlin, of Virginia, hugged each other and patter each other on the back in front of the Speaker's desk in the House."

Mr. Heney's testimony started much speculation about what effect it would have upon Mr Mann's boom for the Speakership of the House. Mr. Mann himself apparently was not worried about it.

It Was a Roast, Says Mr. Mann.

He ridiculed the idea that he had ever tried to influence legislation as an agent of the meat packers. He admitted that he had received a horse from Swift's and said he had had not a steak but a fine piece of roast beef.

"Sure I got the horse," said Mr. Mann, when his attention was called to the testimony before the Senate committee. "I got some meat, but it wasn't a steak. It was a nice large cut of roast beef. The horse came to me years ago from Swift's, when I was conducting a large garden in Chicago. I used to grow things in the garden and give them away. I suppose I gave away a million plants alone from that garden. Not a single thing was ever sold. The horse was an old broken down one Swift's had no further use for. It was suitable for working in my garden.

"As for the roast, it was sent to me at the suggestion of one of the counsel for Swift's—a friend of mine, Mr. Veeder. I helped eat the roast, and it was very good. I am sorry Mr. Heney wasn't there to share it with me.

"Of course, it is nonsense for Mr. Heney to talk about a piece of roast beef influencing legislation. I have often accepted a cigar or flowers since I have been in Congress, and I don't believe either tobacco or flowers ever influenced my vote or my actions in Congress."

Mr. Mann added that if he gave a jar of preserves at his office, which he was willing to do, he would not expect the recipient to go out and do anything wrong.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE AND SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

Life Sentence For Perjury In False Confession

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—A life sentence for perjury was imposed here by Justice Weeks in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court upon Leo Sittenberg, alias "James Regan" and "James Burns," the Sing Sing convict, who confessed to a murder he had not committed, and whose strange mental attitude in court had furnished a psychological study that baffled medical men and lawyers. When Elizabeth Baksa was on trial in General Sessions on the charge of murdering Mrs. Henel Hamel in her home at 507 West Twenty-third Street, of which she was acquitted by a jury, Sittenberg wrote from Sing Sing prison to Judge Rosalsky, asserting that the girl was innocent and that if permission was given he would appear and give the name of the murderer.

Sittenberg had been sentenced to from five to ten years by Justice McDermott in Brooklyn. He was brought here and accused himself of the murder of Mrs. Hamel, telling a circumstantial story of the crime and implicating a man whose name he refused to divulge, who, he said, had assisted him in attacking the woman. The police and District Attorney investigated his statements and found that he had no part in the murder. For some peculiar reason the convict had an aversion to being known as Sittenberg, and insisted that the court record [illegible], even after his aged mother had appeared as a witness and had testified to his correct name.

To the physicians and others who sought to examine Sittenberg as to his mental condition the convict always answered: "If you think I'm crazy, then I ought to be in a hospital and not serving time, but I'm sane." Although Sittenberg had sought to obtain a promise of immunity before making his false statements he had twice tried to kill himself in the Tombs.

The convict, who is 29 years old, told of a series of crimes he had committed within eleven years. It was found that he had been convicted of at least four felonies, which defines him as a habitual criminal, and therefore the life sentence by the court was mandatory. Court Clerk William Penney said this sentence was a record for New York County, where a life sentence had never before been passed except for a capital crime.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most all druggists under a guarantee of entire satisfaction or your money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

WOULD DEPORT "BOLSHES."

Vancouver War Veterans Call For Drastic Action Against Disturbers.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23.—That the Government should take immediate steps to imprison or deport persons giving vent to Bolshevistic views was the demand made by the Army and Navy Veterans' Association at its regular meeting on Monday night, which was attended by about 400 members of the association.

NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH IT

Mr. Fred Adams, New Ross N.S., writes—"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest never fails to relieve a cough and looses satisfaction with this medicine for it is us."

Soldiers Home THE SALVATION ARMY Coming Campaign

As the Boys Come Home

YOU will meet your soldier boy and what a glorious time you and he will have. You will kill the proverbial "fatted calf" and make merry. You will see that he is comfortable until he settles down again into civilian life.

But what of the men who arrive at the same time with NO friend to greet them, no home to welcome them, no job to turn to? There's a problem you must face—or let the Salvation Army face it for you.

SALVATION ARMY
MILLION DOLLAR FUND
THIS WEEK

The Salvation Army fills the breach here at home, just as it did, and still does, over there! It holds out open arms to the soldiers, welcomes them, feeds them, furnishes clean beds and hot baths, comforts for body and soul, and stands by a man and his family until he is on his feet.

Canada must solve the problem of repatriating her soldier sons who have done their part so valiantly. Apart from all obvious considerations of gratitude, it will pay us in dollars and cents to let the soldiers see we are standing firmly by them. To desert our men now the excitement of war has passed, would be to earn their just reproaches. Look at this appeal from all sides; ask any returned man about the work of the Salvation Army. Then help to make this campaign the success it deserves to be.

"They loved not their lives to the death"

Who provides beds and meals for soldiers close to Railway Stations?
Who mended the soldiers' clothes over there?
Who entertained hundreds of thousands of soldiers and sailors daily at the Huts?
Who helped to keep the soldiers' homes here intact?
Who keeps in touch with the Homecoming soldier?
Who provides the Emergency Homes and the Maternity Homes?
Who has cared for thousands of war widows?
THE SALVATION ARMY
Shall their work stop for lack of funds?

21 SALVATION ARMY MILLION DOLLAR FUND COMMITTEE

Soldier's Letter From Overseas

The following letter has been received by Mrs. R. Nicholson, 361 Water street, from her son, Gunner Frank Nicholson, who enlisted in Cobourg in 1915. He is now in Bonn, Germany, the birthplace of Beethoven, the great musician:

Bonn, Germany, Dec. 29, '18.

Dear Mother,—Just a few lines, hoping to find all at home in the best of health, as that leaves myself at present. I am now in Germany, as you will see, and I must say it is a beautiful country, and especially along the Rhine river, where we are stationed. It is nearly all big cities along here. A few of them are Mulheim, Coblenz, Cologne and Bonn. By the way, I was in Cologne yesterday, and it is without a doubt a pretty place, and has a population of between four and five hundred thousand, so that will give you an idea of its size. The people so far have been very good to us, that is, they mind their own business, and they do not seem to be hostile or be looking for more fight. Their food, though, is awful. The bread, for instance, is black and, in fact, all their pastry. The meat is very high-priced, and the poorer classes cannot afford to buy it, so already I have seen some hard cases. The small children come up to the soldiers and ask them for bread or anything to eat. You cannot refuse them, for they are innocent of any crime the German committed. I don't know just what date the Canadians in France are going to start for home. Every one of the fellows seem to think we are leaving this country the 15th of January. That would mean home by March, or around that month. They asked a few days ago if any of the men would like to learn trades, so I have put my name in for mechanical engineering. It would be a good trade if I got the chance to learn it, don't you think so?

I suppose you are having cold weather at home. Canada is a different country to over here—the winter or cold weather is not worth talking about, though it is very damp. Well, I have had no letter for a long time, but I know there must be mail on the road from you, mother. No more news for this time, so will close, hoping to hear from you soon. Give my best love to all. FRANK.

But for the little men in the world great men would never be noticed.

Any man who hasn't a good opinion of himself is inwardly deformed.

His satanic majesty will trust any man who is good at making excuses.

Many a man would act otherwise but for fear of legal consequences.

Missing Daughter Heir To Fortune

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 23.— If the daughter of Augustus Pettis, of Manlius, N.Y., who worked here as a moulder about twenty years ago, and who concealed the fact of his marriage and of her existence, can be located, she will inherit an estate valued at $60,000. The girl, if she is alive, or ever existed, is now twenty years old. The father left her at birth, hating the thought of the child for whom his young wife had given her life. She was adopted and brought up by her mother's family, supposed to have belonged to Brockville, but where she is now located is a mystery. Pettis died at Syracuse, N.Y., on January 2, of influenza, and just before his illness he told his attorney, G. H. Cole, of his life's romance. The man made his will, bequeathing his estate to the girl Cole is trying to find.

For two weeks the Brockville police have been actively engaged in the task of locating the missing heiress, but without success. Fellow moulders recall Pettis as being an individual inclined to reticence, and who never gave them reason to suppose that he was married.

Attorney Cole came to Brockville in the hope of picking up some thread which might enable him to solve the mystery of the missing young woman. He made a search of the records of twenty-two years past at the city clerk's office, but these neither revealed the marriage of Pettis nor the birth of his missing child.

When Pettis returned from Canada to Manlius, N.Y., he set up bachelor's hall with his aged father. He placed on the walls of the dwelling an enlargement of a beautiful young woman. Everyone believed Augustus Pettis was an unmarried man, and the ornately framed picture of the sweet young face aroused considerable interest in the neighbourhood. Few, however, ventured to ask him any questions about his private affairs. One woman did enquire on one occasion in regard to the identity of the original of the portrait. Pettis looked at her grimly for a few minutes, and then answered curtly: "That's my wife." But she did not believe him, and thought the reply was merely a means of telling her to mind her own business.

To Attorney Cole he told the story of the romance. "There's probably someone in the world that I ought to take care of," he said. "I've probably got a daughter living—a grown up young lady."

When he had been in Canada, Pettis said, he had fallen in love and had been married there. He and his wife had been very happy for a year, but when their little daughter was born the wife died. "I felt as if there was nothing in the world left," he said. "I didn't care anything about the baby, and when my wife's father and mother begged me to leave the baby with them, I was only too glad. She cost her mother's life, and I felt as though I never wanted to lay eyes on her again. So I came back home with nothing left but my wife's photo to remember her by. But I have been thinking over matters lately, and believe I would like to see that baby, anyway. I would like to leave her what I have to leave."

A search of Pettis' papers brought no further information. Neither was there a document which referred to his life in Canada.

YEAST CAKE MAKES GRAPEJUICE REAL FIERY COCKTAIL

NEW YORK,— The plebian yeast-cake has become the hope of the nation's boozeskevik.

The "cocktail à la mode" has come to town from somewhere out in the already arid provinces and the old-timers are already trying it out on their palates in preparation for the great Sahara next summer:

According to an expert student of mixology, the new "dry" cocktail is constructed as follows:

One cocktail glass, one swig of unfermented grapejuice and a dab of yeast. Plae the grapejuice in the glass and the yeast in the grapejuice.

Right away, according to a boozeshevik, that grapejuice becomes thoroughly disbryanized.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshing effect upon the system.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

What Pride Brought

By EVELYN LEE

It was not for their final good that Mrs. Eben Hartley and Mrs. Victoria Dawes sisters found themselves help-mates. The inheritance was small but magnified in their imaginations as positive wealth.

"Five thousand dollars!" exulted Mrs. Hartley. "Why, we can afford a piano and an automobile. And we can send Lucia to the musical college."

Her sister, Victoria Dawes, had these attributes of luxury already, her husband being at the apex of a city brokerage career. He promised to double her fortune if she would place it in his hands to invest.

"I wouldn't go rash, Martha," gibingspoken, practical Eben Hartley had said. "Of course, it's your money, but the Wander farm is going to be put up for sale, and, added to ours, it would make us pretty nearly independent."

"We've got all the farm I want," observed his wife, quite snappily.

Mrs. Dawes came for a visit. She appeared all furs and feathers and smug; her head carried high among the more humble friends of earlier years.

So, from light suggestion the situation evolved palpitpous and complicated. Mrs. Dawes had the faculty of stirring up trouble. Martha flaunted the fact in Eben's face constantly that she had money and that she was entitled to something better than "farm drudgery."

It was cherry time, and Mrs. Hartley was famous for her pies made out of that luscious fruit. It was about the middle of the afternoon when she and her sister came out to the orchard where Eben was at work.

"Put on your coat and go down to the village store and get some sugar," ordered Martha, and her tone was so mandatory and uncivil that a slight flush crossed Eben's sunburned face.

He started down the road, followed by the half audible remark of his sister-in-law that "he might be obliging once in a while," and consoling Martha because of the hardship of "living in the wilderness away from the store conveniences of the city."

Eben did not allow his temper to get the best of him, but he saw whither they were drifting. The influence of his sister-in-law over his wife was likely to lead to a disruption of hitherto undisturbed domestic harmony. He felt that it was either a compromise or a combat.

"I'll not leave the old homestead for any city experiments, nor will I ever sell it," he decided firmly. "I won't help waste Martha's money and cater to the whims that have spoiled her sister. Five pounds of sugar. I'll go through the switchyards to make a short cut of it."

As he walked between two lines of stationary freight cars, he never knew what struck him senseless. He could only surmise in future years the circumstances which landed him thousands of miles away from home. Two tramps had espied him. One had seized a piece of railroad iron, had crept up behind him stealthily and had delivered a crushing blow on the head.

"Get him out of sight—quick! Into that empty," spoke one of the men, and Eben was despoiled of all he possessed, and closing the car door upon him, the tramps departed.

When, three years later, Eben came back to normal, he found himself in charge of a great ranch near to the Mexican line in Texas. That blow awarded him had blotted out memory. Those on the ranch had told him later how they found him wandering aimlessly across a prairie, starved looking and dazed. Apparently Eben had been shut up in the freight car long enough to traverse half the continent. The man who came across him was one Ford, owner of immense herds of cattle. He had taken Eben to the home ranch. There, among farm surroundings, the refugee had brightened up. His practical inborn instinct of farming had aroused instantly. Mechanically, but effectively, he resumed the old farm functions. Dazed most of the time, he still carried out the duties assigned to him. He was given an interest in a herd by Ford. At the end of three years he was, comparatively speaking, a rich man, and one day the past all came back to him.

Meanwhile there had been a vast sensation at the farm over the disappearance of Eben. His wife had mourned and had set in action various agencies to disclose his fate, but unsuccessfully. She had left the farm to take up her home with her sister and was induced, like Victoria, to invest her little fortune with Mr. Dawes. Within a year the latter committed suicide, leaving his wife and sister-in-law without a dollar of inheritance.

They were compelled to go back to the farm, upon which nothing could be borrowed except for its direct operation and taxes. Hard was the work of the two women, but at the least they had a shelter over their heads. One afternoon someone hustled in through the kitchen doorway.

"Martha," announced Eben Hartley, placing a package on the table, "there's the five pounds of sugar you sent me for."

And the contrite wife and the chastened sister-in-law greeted the returned wanderer with welcome and love.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

AWAIT VERDICT ON OSTRICH

If Arizona, Reports Favorably, Big Bird May Take Its Place as a National Food.

"Please pass the ostrich."

This request may be heard soon in the public eating places and the dining rooms of the private homes of Washington. Stranger things than the serving of nice roast ostrich, with plenty of gravy and dressing, have happened during these war times.

The future popularity of this bird as an American dish depends to a large extent upon the success to be met in Arizona, where they are being introduced as a food now.

The federal food administrator for Arizona has granted permission to the owner of one of the largest ostrich farms in America, situated near Phenix, to slaughter 800 of his birds. This ostrich raiser reports that the birds are in excellent condition, and when killed will be dressed and placed on the market at an extremely low price—probably 15 cents a pound. The 800 birds will make about 25,000 pounds of dressed meat.

This war is responsible in two ways for this action on the part of the ostrich raiser. In the first place, the latter would never think of slaughtering these valuable, if not overtender, birds, but for the fact that the war has put the ostrich plume business more or less out of business. In the second place, the war shortage of meat is responsible for the issuance of the order permitting the slaughter and sale.

And thus it comes to pass that Arizona, or a part of her population, at least, is preparing to observe and celebrate "Ostrich day." Meanwhile the rest of the nation is waiting to hear the verdict to be passed upon this bird as a nice, tasty, and tender food aside from its neck.

Officials of the food administration are rather optimistic about the future of the ostrich as a food. They point to the tremendous hit whale meat has made in various sections; even shark steaks have been passed upon and approved, and reindeer meat is making the hit of the year in the West.—Washington Star.

TORTURING, ITCHING ECZEMA

Mrs. J. B. Horth, Pasebiac, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes:—"Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment I have been completely cured of that horrible disease eczema. I was held as if in prison from going among other people, for I was ashamed of the raw, flaming sores. Doctors could do nothing for me and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that this was little short of a miracle."

TROTSKY DISMISSES SOVIET GENERAL.

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 23.—Trotsky has dismissed General Brujevitch, the Commander of northern Red Army, because of his defeat at Narva. Lenin has issued a proclamation in which he says to the workers: — "Mass in your battalions, and when Anglo-French capitalists see our strength and courage they will not dare attack."

There was never a time when the sacrifices and the help of women were more appreciated than at the present time. Women should learn war-nursing and nursing at home. There is no better way than to study the new edition of the "Common Sense Medical Adviser"—with chapters on First Aid, Bandaging, Anatomy, Hygiene, care of the Sick, Diseases of Women, Mother and Babe, Marriage—to be had at some druggists or send 50c. to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ontario.

If a woman suffers from weak back, nervousness or dizziness—if pains afflict her, the best tonic and corrective is one made up of native herbs, and made without alcohol, which makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is the prescription of Doctor Pierce, used by him in active practice many years and now sold by almost every druggist in the land, in liquid or in tablets. Send Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c. for trial pkg. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are also best for liver and bowel trouble.

Stratford, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been a help to me. Before an expectant period I became all run-down, weak and nervous and could not eat—was constipated. I also suffered with backache. I was a complete wreck and was down sick in bed when I began taking 'Favorite Prescription.' I soon experienced its tonic strengthening and invigorating qualities and in three months was as well as ever. I could do all my work and felt fine. I gained in strength. I would do all my friends who are sick and troubled as I was, to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, 242 Erie St.

Mother's Pet Needs a Cascare

Baby is mad! Doesn't want the favorite dolly, or the soup, or the picture books—but don't scold!

Look at the tongue! Then hurry! Give candy Cascarets to work the nasty bile, souring food and constipation poison from the little liver and bowels.

MOTHERS! Clean the clogged-up places. Do away with the bad sour fermentations and constipation poison which is keeping your little one cross, feverish and sick. Children love Cascarets, because to them it is like eating candy. Cascarets act better than castor oil, calomel or pills on the tender stomach, liver and bowels. Cascarets never gripe, nor injure, and do not disappoint the worried mother. Give harmless Cascarets to children one year old and upwards. Each ten cent box contains full directions.

MADE THE CHAIN COMPLETE

Physician in His Excitement Rather Gave Away Secret He Should Have Kept.

Attorney General Gregory tells this piquant story of a prominent financier and a well-known physician:

The money juggler called at the office of his family physician one morning and told him with much concern that his only son was suffering from diphtheria. The doctor was solicitous but assured the financier that with the care given in the hospital to which the boy had been taken he would pull through nicely. "Of course," said the medico, "no one is safe since that terrible disease is around."

"But," said the father, "the boy contracted it the first time he caught the disease from the parlor maid whom he had kissed."

"Well, young people are certainly very thoughtless," mused the doctor, "I'm sorry to hear that your son has been so indiscreet."

"Yes, of course, doctor," said the financier, nervously, "but don't you see, to be frank with you—I have kissed the girl. Do you think I, too, will have the disease?"

"Why, yes," said the doctor. "You are probably already infected. In fact, that would be the very next thing to expect."

"Oh, that's awful," gasped the financier, "and I kiss my own dear wife every morning and evening, so she, too—"

"Good heavens!" cried the physician, jumping up excitedly, "then I, too, will have it!"

A New Dish.

The recruits were in line for their first meal, which consisted of slum (beef stew) with ice cream for dessert. The slum was served in the hollow part of their mess kits and the ice cream on the inverted covers. In order to hurry along the line a little, the impatient mess sergeant cried, "Come on, you fellows, shake it up!" Immediately one of the embryo soldiers, put his ice cream into the slum, closed his mess kit, and vigorously shook the mixture.

Many War Inventions.

Since the establishment, in July, 1915, of the British Board of Invention and Research, it had examined and reported on 52,000 inventions and proposals up to July, 1918. Of those about 36,000 related, it is said, to submarines and mines and to engineering matters, 13,000 to naval ordnance, ammunition, and the like, the rest to aircraft.

Cultivating Chinchona.

Experiments are under way in the Philippines with the cultivation of cinchona plants from India in the belief that quinine can be produced in the islands.

Women Are Huskies.

A rolling pin in an excited woman's hands knows no home. That is why when the police commissioner appointed six women cops he gave them everything that a man cop possesses—a club. The new women cops will have the same shield the regular policemen wear, and each will be dressed in a "suitable" blue service uniform, carry a gun and handcuffs and be supplied with summons books just as male cops are, but they will not be allowed to swing a club. "These women cops are much needed in New York at the present time," explained the commissioner, "and, in fact, I consider their services so necessary that I have asked the board of estimate to give me an appropriation for 20 more policewomen." The women cops will specialize among their own sex, especially to guard against the temptations to which young women come in contact with in the city. But at the same time, if a masculine guy gets fresh with them, they will be there plenty, for all the women are husky lassies and know their business.—New York Sun.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Double beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but in a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes, really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair, no difference how dull, lifeless, scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cause every bit of dust, dirt or dandruff to disappear, and in a few moments you will have an abundance of hair, but what will please you most will be the new hair that appears—fine and downy at first—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is indeed coming in fine and soft—that it has been entirely relieved of dandruff and scalp irritation.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair, Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PUNCH CLOCK.

If a recommendation made to the Windsor Board of Education by Principal Garvin of the Collegiate Institute is adopted, time clocks will be installed in the institution and pupils will "punch the clock" when they arrive morning and afternoon for classes. The suggestion is also made that the janitors at the Collegiate be instructed to use the clock to register their appearances.

PREVENTING THE GROWTH OF CAST IRON

Amongst the fascinating problems which make engineering science at once a most exacting and a most fruitful study the characteristic behaviour of metals under varying conditions provides many curious cases. For example, grey cast iron grows appreciably in volume when exposed to high temperature. This characteristic, which causes much trouble in cast dies, valve seatings and other parts, is believed to be due to internal oxidation caused by the penetration of hot gases into the metal. A remedy recently suggested in England is to eliminate free graphite from the surface of the metal, this being the cause of its porosity. Successful results have been obtained by annealing the parts for several days in iron rust at a temperature of from 1650 to 1830 degrees fahrenheit.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS.

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridger, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WORTH MORE THAN ALL MONEY ON EARTH

Mrs. Raspberry Able to Do House-work First Time in Four Years —Gains Thirty five Pounds.

"I had rather see my wife well and happy like she is since taking Tanlac than to have all the money in the world, declared Henry Raspberry of 1812 Campbell street, Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Raspberry who has recently been employed as a foreman by the Armour Packing Company, was formerly in the service of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad.

"Before my wife took Tanlac, continued Mr. Raspberry, "she had rheumatism in her limbs so bad she could not even dress herself, I would have to help her out of bed in the mornings and put her clothes on for her. Her stomach was in such a bad condition that she could hardly digest anything. The gas on her stomach would cause intense pains in her side and such awful spells of palpitation of the heart that she could hardly stand it. She was extremely nervous her breath was short and very offensive, and she had fallen off in weight until she was hardly more than a frame.

"At the time she began taking Tanlac she only weighed eighty-seven pounds and had not been able to do any of her housework in four years. But she now weighs one hundred and twenty-two pounds—has actually gained thirty-five pounds—and is as healthy and active as she was thirty years ago. The rheumatic pains have all left her and she can do all her work and look after the family without the least trouble. She can eat meats, pickle, all kinds of vegetables and anything else she wants and never have a sign of indigestion. She is not the least nervous anymore, sleeps like a child every night and is as well as she ever was. I can't find words to express my thankfulness for what Tanlac has done for her. It is nothing short of wonderful."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Sunday School Lesson Questions

(Jan. 26, 1919.)

Israel Crossing the Red Sea. Exodus 14:1; 15:21.

Golden Text: Jehovah saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians. Exodus 14:30.

1. Verses 1-3. The phrase, "And the Lord spake unto Moses" is of frequent occurrence; what does it literally mean?

2. Would you say or not and why, that God directly guides his people in matters that can be attended to by common sense or ordinary precaution?

3. Verses 4-9 In what way did God harden Pharaoh's heart; by direct influence or through the general laws govering human nature? Give your reasons.

4. Verses 4-9 When a man resists the light, goes contrary to his conscience, until he finally believes that wrong is right, and his heart is hardened towards those whom he oppresses, why would it be right or wrong to say that God hardened his heart?

5. By what process of reasoning did Pharaoh persuade himself that he was justified in pursuing the Israelites?

6. Verses 10-12. To what extent would you censure the Israelites for their fear, their reproaches of Moses, and for their wish that they had never left Egypt?

7. What sort of thanks, as a rule do the average Sunday school teacher, temperance and social reformer, and others who are trying to help their fellows, get from them for whom they labor?

8. Verses 13, 14. When the good men and women who spend their time in helping their fellows, "get more kicks than coppers' for their pains, what ought they to do? What did Moses do?

9. Why is there no need for fear if we take God's side of every subject?

10. Verse 15. When we are up against a difficulty what is the thing to do?

11. When may praying be folly?

12. Verses 16-20. What hope is there for success for those who are against God; or expectation for faiure for those who are on God's side?

13. Verses 21-31. What was the fate of Pharaoh and his army, and what is always the fate of those who oppose God?

14. Chap. 15. 1. What is the benefit of singing after a great deliverance?

15. Verses 2-10. In what sense is it true that notwithstanding all our efforts we are indebted to the Lord for all spiritual victory and all material success?

16. Verses 11-19. What other "gods" have people had in the past or have they to-day, and what is their power and influence?

17. God being absolutely Almighty, and the embodiment of infinite love; why may we not trust him for all things without a symptom of fear? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the Club.)

18. Verses 11-19. What are the chief characteristics of Jehovah as here described?

19. Verses 20, 21. Who was Miriam, and what was a prophetess in those days?

20. What would be the result if devout women of ability were to a greater extent become preachers?

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 2, 1919: The Giving of the Manna. Exodus 16, 1-36.

The Revolution in Portugal

(Special to The Examiner.)

LISBON, Jan. 23.—The Government has almost completely suppressed the monarchist government it was announced to-day. A degree has been issued, penalizing districts in which the conspiracy has fomented from 100 to 50,000 esendes ($50 to $25,000) a day as long as the rebellion lasts.

Doctor Reports Mysterious Theft Of A New Serum

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 — Dr. Thos. W. Edgar, at No. 7 6 West End ave., reported the mysterious theft of ten vials of serum from his home and the disappearance at the same time of the history of the serum as he has used it in combatting diabetes. Dr. Edgar believes that the thief is a pathologist. The serum which Dr. Edgar told the detectives he perfected recently after four years of work, was taken from his desk by a man who posed as a patient.

The physician was not home on Monday afternoon when a man who Mrs. Edgar ever had seen, rang the bell and upon being admitted explained that he had an appointment with the physician. Mrs. Edgar told the stranger to wait. The vials of serum were on the desk in an adjoining room.

Mrs. Edgar went to the third floor of the house for a moment. While she was in her own room the telephone bell rang and she hurried down to answer the call. As she passed through the parlor she noticed that the stranger had disappeared. She answered the call and was leaving the office when she saw some torn bits of paper scattered on the rug around the desk.

"It was then that Mrs. Edgar noticed the disappearance of the serum, and the manuscript which I had placed beside the vials on the desk," Dr. Edgar told the detectives.

"The serum itself is extremely valuable," the physician continued. "It will be many weeks before I will be able to duplicate it. I perfected it after four years of work in the University of Bahia, Brazil, and here in the city. As far as I know it is the only serum ever perfected and used successfully in cases of diabetes."

Dr. Edgar told the police that he believed the theft was the climax of two months' effort by the thief. In November, he said, his automobile was stolen from in front of his house. The theft of the automobile was the result of the robber's belief that the history of the cases in which the serum has been used was hidden in a leather portfolio in the tonneau of the vehicle.

"I am satisfied that the stranger whom Mrs. Edgar admitted has been trying for many weeks to obtain possession of the secret of the preparation of the serum." Dr. Edgar declared. "He came here for no other purpose than to steal the vials and the data that I have collected in my experiments."

Dr. Edgar said that he was preparing a lecture on the serum for the Academy of Medicine.

GREAT KRUPP PLANT AT ESSEN WORKING FOR U. S. GOVERNMENT.

COBLENZ, Jan. 23.—The Krupp plant at Essen began working for the United States Government Tuesday. The task undertaken by the Krupps consists of making parts of 72 incomplete cannon, rejected by the American authorities as part of the war material offered by the Germans under the terms of the armistice. With the delivery of the parts for the 72 cannon the delivery of 152 pieces of heavy artillery to the Americans will have been completed.

LATEST TALE ABOUT CZAR.

Bodies of Whole Family Cremated in Oven, Austrian Diplomat Says

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 18.—In a special dispatch to the National-tid-diplomatist now in Berge, having ende it is reported that an Austrian come from Ekaterinburg, told of being sure that the Czar and his family were murdered.

The murder, he said, took place in the house where the family were confined. Bolsheviki entered and called the Czar from his room. When he came out he was shot with a revolver. The Czarina and her daughters were next shot in their rooms. The Czarevitch was sitting in his room reading when he was killed with blows on the head with the butts of revolvers.

The bodies were burned in a baker's oven to leave no traces.

Vinol will Stop a Cough and Break Up a Cold

A constitutional remedy that removes the cause by building up the system. These elements contained in Vinol—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron, Manganese and Glycerophosphates—soon create an energy that throws off the cold and prevents its reoccurrence. It has given ninety per cent satisfaction for sixteen years. HERE IS PROOF:

Dunn, N.C.
"I suffered with a chronic cold for four months, coughed day and night. Had to keep on working when I was not able to. I saw Vinol advertised and tried it, and I want to tell you it just cured that cold in a short time. It made me eat and sleep well, better everyway."—J. C. Bagley, Dunn, N.C.

Lagrange, N.C.
"For years I suffered with a chronic cough, so I could not sleep nights and continued to lose flesh. My druggist asked me to try Vinol. It cured my cough, I can sleep nights and have gained twelve pounds. Vinol is the best tonic and tissue builder I have ever taken."—W. D. Ren, Lagrange, N.C.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Subject Will Be Dealt With at Tomorrow's Session of the Peace Conference.

OPEN MEETING

(By William Phillip Simms of) ..
(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 24.—The league of nations will be formally taken up at tomorrow's session of the general Peace Congress, it was learned from authoritative sources today.

Much of the work in preparing drafts of the various nations' programs for the league is being done by the respective delegations outside the joint meetings and it was expected the preliminaries would be in such shape as to permit of a full discussion of the broad outlines of the plans tomorrow.

Reviewed Plans

The American delegation it is understood, spent two hours in going over their league plans yesterday with the result that the formal draft was practically completed. Yet it was reported that neither the American nor the British plans would be presented in their entirety tomorrow though they are farther advanced as regards details than any of the others. Apparently President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George will wait until the other programs are submitted and thoroughly discussed then they will bring forward the programs of their delegations.

The correspondents, it was announced to-day, will be admitted to the full meeting to-morrow as at the initial session of the plenary congress last Saturday. Meanwhile the meetings of the "Steering Committee" continue secret.

Other Subjects

Among other subjects to be discussed tomorroy are responsibility, punishment for the war, reparation for war damages, intenational labor legislation and the international status of ports, waterways and railways.

In connection with latter proposition, it is believed the Dardanelles, the Bosphorus and Constantinople will be considered. A move is expected to be made to internationalize that area, that there may be an open exit from the Black Sea, assuring continuous access of Russia's wheat to the world. The "Berlin-To-Bagdad" rail way would be the first object of internationalization of railways.

To-day's session of the supreme war council, in addition to completing the program for tomorrow's discussions, was expected to take up certain matters in connection with the armies of occupation. This was forecast by the presence of Marshal Foch, Field Marshal Haig, General Diaz and other members of the associated power military council.

Colonial Faction

Alleged efforts to delay crystallization of theleague of nations, or at least to obstruct the laying down of its fundamental principles as applicable to questions of territorial rights all were seen to-day in attempts by certain powerful political cliques to have premier Clemenceau demand the Saar Valley and Syria for France.

As announced by the United Press two weeks ago Clemenceau gave the associated powers reason to believe that he would not press France's claim to those two territories. It is known he is adhering to this decision but he is undergoing the strongest pressure from the financially powerful colonial faction. That the American delegates, supported by the British, have no intention of allowing such a plan to succeed, is obvious. With Clemenceau sticking to his decision it is certain the colonists will fail.

AMERICAN DELEGATES

Associated Powers Are Completing Plans for Conference With the Russian Soviet Government.

THE "BIG FIVE"

By Lowell Mellett.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 24.—President Wilson has selected the American representatives on the special commission which is to confer with delegates of the various Russian factions at Princes Islands. They were expected to be announced to-day.

The other Associated Powers were understood to be showing similar celerity in preparing to undertake solution of a problem in which speed is recognized as a vital element. No word has yet been received from the Soviet government, in response to wireless messages sent out Wednesday night announcing the Allied proposal.

Will Be Reconciled.

France, first of the "Big Five" to cry out against the Russian plan, which was eventually adopted, soon will be completely reconciled, in the opinion of a French official in close touch with political and military affairs.

"There must be careful study of any proposition so pregnant with international possibilities as the Russian proposal, in view of France's geographical position, because we know that in the event of another war she would be the first to suffer as she has always been," he said.

"She is not likely to accept the assurance of other disinterestedness as readily as would be countries farther distant from the centre of possible menace. However, time will wear down her apprehension and the real generous nature of the country will begin to assert itself. She will be found to be one of the most enthusiastic members of the League of Nations, lending her naturally democratic impulses to its development."

SOLDIERS' HOME-COMING CAMPAIGN.

One of the purposes of the campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the Salvation Army is to assist the Government and the various social welfare organizations to make the home coming of the lads in khaki a joyous and fitting close of their four years' patriotic duty.

No organization puts the same warmth into its reception to the home-comers as the Salvation Army is doing. It neglects no opportunity to help the boys and their families, and when it gets hold of a case where a little more than ordinary attention is required, it never lets go until full duty is performed.

"There is No Rivalry or Competition Between Canada and United States"

—EX-PRESIDENT TAFT

Hon. William Howard Taft Characterizes the War as a Surgical Operation Which Civilization Was Called Upon to Perform—The League of Nations.

ROUSING MEETING

Hon. William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, famous lawyer, orator and statesman, and President of the League to Enforce Peace, held a big and representative audience at the Grand Opera House last night spellbound, as he developed his plan of a League of Nation as the only effective way of clinching the purposes for which the war was fought. Mr. Taft's eloquence and personality, and the interest of his subject, combined to make the address one of the most fascinating that a Peterborough audience has had an opportunity of hearing, and the manner in which his hearers followed with breathless interest the develonments of his theme, was a tribute alike to Mr. Taft's power as a public speaker and to the importance of his subject.

The people of Peterborough owe a deep debt of gratitude to the Local Council of Women, whose success in arranging a winter Chautauqua course was responsible for the appearance of Mr. Taft in Peterborough.

Representatives of the City Council, Board of Education and other local bodies occupied seats on the stage, while Mr R. R. Hall ably carried out the duties of chairman.

The British and American flags which hung together at the back of the stage, were an appropriate decoration for the occasion. Mr. Taft's address was preceded by an enjoyable musical programme.

Mr. R. R. Hall who occupied the chair congratulated the local branch of the Council of Women for their enterprise and foresight in providing the citiezns of Peterboro with an opportunity of hearing the Hon. William Howard Taft. Mr. Hall referred to the important part which the Council of Women play in the destinies of the City and the influence which the members exercise in their particular sphere of usefulness. The chairman closed with a few remarks concerning the league of nations and the great democracy that it represented and which was exemplified in the government of the United States and Canada.

HON. WILLIAM TAFT

The Hon. William Taft was greeted with a round of applause as he stepped to the edge of the platform. The distinguished speaker graciously thanked the Local Council of Women for the privelige of paying a visit to Peterboro.

"There is no rivalry or competition between Canada and the United States. There is glory enough for us all," said Mr. Taft.

"This war has created a depth of sympathy between those to me north orf the border and those to the south that will never lose its strength."

With these few preliminary remarks the speaker turned his attention to his advocacy of a league of nations which he urged in the interests of a successful and lasting peace. The league would have the necessary power to deal with anything that is justiciable or liable to trial in a court of justice.

Mr. Taft jocularly referred to a couple of treaties that were drawn up between England and the United States and France during his administration as President of the United States.

"The treaties were drafted during an administration now forgotten," said the speaker. There were administrations before Mr. Wilson," added Mr. Taft, with a smile. The treaties provided for the settlement of all disputes by arbitration with the exception of questions that might involve the honor of the country effected. By the time the Senate got through with the two treaties they were unrecogniazble. "Their own father wouldn't know them," said Mr. Taft.

"I was disappointed and hope the Senate would change their minds or the people would change the Senate. Instead they changed me."

ALL NATIONS ARE URGED TO GET BACK ON PEACE BASIS

(By Fred S. Ferguson, United Press.)

PARIS, January 24. — A warning was issued by American officials to-day that Germany is planning a big commercial campaign, particularly in the United States and France.

They pointed out that Germany has always been commercially powerful, and for the last quarter of a cenutry she had devoted half her energy to commerce, and the other half to building up a war machine. Now the war machine is eliminated and her industrial organizations can direct vastly more energy to trade.

It is understood that Hurley will urge all nations to get back on a peace basis as rapidly as possible so as to stabilize world's commerce. He is known to believe that a general demobilization of the French and Italian armies as well as the American and British is essential to a revival of international trade.

Germany Must Be Made to Pay Full Indemnities in Addition to Reparation Cost

Discussions at Peace Conference Embrace Wide Range of Subjects—Abolition of Conscription.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Jan. 24.—During consideration of the question of reparation at a meeting of the Supreme War Council yesterday in Paris, the editor of the London Daily Mail says, President Wilson agreed to the principle that Germany must be made to pay indemnities in addition to the full cost of reparation. At the instance of the British representatives, the paper adds, the discussion was also begun on questions of abolition of conscription and general disarmament.

Likely Be President.

President Wilson is likely to be offered the Presidency of the Permanent Commission of League of Nations. By a Commission of League of Nations is probably meant the permanent executive body for the conduct of the proposed league.

Bureau Does Not Create Employment

Merely Fits the Capable Returned Man into Any Job That Offers.

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—"In co-operation with the Federal Government, we undertake, not to create employment, but merely to run an efficient employment machine to relate persons to opportunities for employment said Dr. Riddell, superintendent of the Trades and Labor Branch of the Ontario Government, in outlining the Government's scheme of soldiers' employment bureau.

The Federal Government is bearing half the expense of the administration of the system, and the Provincial Governments throughout the dominion the other half; this was decided at a recent conference. The Federal Government also sends out scouts from the department of labor, who canvass the mine operators, lumber camps, and others similar fields of employment, and report to the clearing houses in Toronto and the other Provincial headquarters.

A bureau is about to be opened in Peterboro.

PENSION FOR MRS. ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Senate has passed a resolution authorizing payment of a pension of $5,000 a year and the extending of mail franking privileges to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

Theodore Roosevelt, several days before his death, requested the American Red Cross to donate $6,900 of its share of the Goebel Peace Prize money received from him to the French village near which his son Quentin, is buried. In making this announcement the Red Cross said Colonel Roosevelt did not designate the form of the gift and that the wishes of the population of the village are being consulted by the Red Cross commission to France.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT "STARTS SOMETHING."

During his stay at the Empress Ex-President Taft made a friend of Tommy Reynolds, the little grandson of Mr. George Graham. Coming up behind the small boy, Mr. Taft picked him up by his sweater and attempted to carry him upstairs, when Tommy's small dog made for the ex-President. "I guess I've started something," remarked Mr. Taft, and dropped the boy.

Port Hope Is Threatened With Another Industry

The Lakeshore Town Lost the Nicholson Fyle Company and Claims to Have Another in Sight

(Port Hope Guide.)

Through the efforts of ex-Alderman Long and Aldermen Curtis and Davison, Port Hope is now assured of another factory, the Matthews Gravity Carrier Company. Negotiations have been going on for some time and these men left no stone unturned to have the new industry locate here. The Council gave the by-law two readings and it will be submitted to the ratepayers for their approval The shifting in their Toronto factory has been taken down and the new concern will locate here at once and be in full operation by April. The Matthews Gravity Roller Conveyor carries goods smoothly from place to place— from freight car to factory, from floor to floor, from warehouse to shipping yard—straight and around corners. Its steel, ball-bearing rollers take shell forgings or dairy products, bricks or lumber—practically anything. No delay! No expense for power! All the labour necessary is a man or two at each end of the conveyor. You can speed up production and reduce conveying costs. It dispenses with the entire hand-truck force. It saves flooring, increases the available floor space. It is durable, built for service —quickly pays for itself as a labour saver. It answers the carrying needs of many different industries. Its uses are innumerable. It comes in portable or permanent units for light or heavy work.

Leaped From the Rail of French Steamer—Were Attached to Red Cross Unit.

LEFT A LETTER

Canadian Press:

BORDEAUX, Jan. 24. — Misses Gladys and Dorothy Cromwell, sisters of a prominent New York family, leaped from the rail of the French steamer Lorraine, found for New York, to-day. Both were drowned. The bodies have not yet been recovered. A letter found in the stateroom, addressed to the commanding officer of their Red Cross unit, informed him of their intention to end it all. They had spent much time at the front and friends said they had complained of being tired physically and mentally.

Windsor Folk Ask Crothers to Find Reason For Boost

Milk Is Up to 17 Cents a Quart—People Up in Arms.

WINDSOR, Jan. 24.—The people of this city are up in arms over the increase of milk to 17 cents a quart, and will ask the acting minister of labor in the Federal cabinet to have an investigation made as to the reasons for the boost.

The Walkerville Dairy Company of Walkerville, it is alleged, controls the milk prices in the border municipalities. In that their prices are always followed by smaller dealers and dairies. This is a jump of two cents a quart.

Shortage of Homes.

With its industrial growth retarded by a serious shortage of workmen's homes, the municipality of Ford must take action this year to relieve the situation, Mayor C. H. Montreuil warned the council this morning in his inaugural address.

Only 20 per cent of the workmen employed in factories of the town live within the borders, the majority residing in Windsor and Sandwich, the mayor said.

One way to give workmen homes at a reasonable rental or sell on the easy payment plan, would be to take advantage of the Government's plan to loan municipalities money for home building, the Mayor advised. Appointment of a special committee to deal with the situation may be made at the first regular meeting of the council.

FRICTION REPORTED

Some Incidents Which Caused Hostility Between American and French Troops.

CAUSES REMOVED

(United Press.)
(By Webb Miller)

American Headquarters in Germany, January 24. — To quiet rumors evidently in circulation that there is considerable friction between the American and the French armies some incidents from which such a feeling might have arisen, are presented.

Undeniably there was some feeling for a time on the part of the men of the third army, but it originated from minor causes and has entirely disappeared now. Publication of some of the incidents from which this feeling started will do more than anything else to halt exaggerated reports.

SUDDEN CHANGE.

As the third army reached the banks of the Rhine there was a sudden change in orders from the allied high command by which the French troops came up and occupied the southern portion of the bridgehead. This necessitated much shifting about of the American troops and caused several divisions to march 36 miles farther to reach the new areas assigned to them. It also deprived the men of the 3rd and 42nd divisions of the honor of crossing the Rhine.

Naturally the men were dissatisfied inasmuch as it caused much marching.

The French apparently were under the impression that the Americans should enforce regulations which the French themselves had put into effect. For instance, when a French regiment marched through Coblenz and was reviewed by General D[illegible]man, several French officers circulated through the crowds, knocking off the hats of German civilians as the colors passed, and when the American National Anthem was played.

REMOVING HATS.

The Americans had promulgated no regulations regarding civilians removing their hats when the colors passed, and some of the third army officers disapproved of this procedure.

Then, human-like, the American soldiers recalled petty personal incidents in France, such as overcharging, which could occur anywhere, and other small matters that were inevitable. This added to the feeling of dissatisfaction.

Other incidents cropped out mostly the outgrowth of misunderstandings, but within a week or two this feeling subsided.

MR. TAFT'S ADDRESS.

The large audience which listened with rapt attention to the splendid address of Hon. William H. Taft last evening, came away with a much more lucid view of what a League of Nations could be made, to mean than probably any of them had before hearing the eloquent exposition of the plan by the former president of the United States. As developed by the speaker the proposal seemed so simple and feasible that one wondered why there should be any hesitation about adopting such a plan. Briefly, Mr. Taft's description of what he considered the machinery essential to the success of a League of Nations included an International court to consider justiciable cases, a council of conciliation to deal with issues that did not involve a point of law, an administrative council to carry out the plans of the League, and the codification of international law. The five great allied nations should be, in Mr. Taft's judgment, the charter members of such an organization, the formation of which the speaker contended was the only effective way in which the purposes for which the allies had fought the war could be clinched.

As an exposition of a great principle by a statesman whose reputation has no boundaries, the address of Mr. Taft was a memorable one; viewed only from the standpoint of eloquence and the happy choice of words his speech was equally notable. The speaker held the undivided attention of his audience—they hung upon every word with an interest that was not altogether attributable to the importance of his subject, but was also a tribute to the manner in which it was developed. Mr. Taft was magnetism personified; his chuckle as he from time to time pointed his argument with some homely little example from everyday life, was infectious, and spread quickly through the audience. He was not above using some of the vernacular expressions of the day and they did not seem out of place, so cleverly were they dovetailed into the general structure of the address. It was a masterly performance by a master orator.

A COMMENDABLE STEP.

The decision of the finance committee of the City Council to authorize Assessor W. J. Henry to secure the services of an assistant, and the recommendation that if possible a returned soldier be given this position, are matters upon which the members of the committee are to be congratulated. In regard to the desire of the aldermen that a discharged soldier should receive the preference, this is a stand that the Council should, and doubtless will take, on all such questions. With scores of returned men already out of work, the situation as regards employment is a serious one, especially as many of those who are at present unable to find positions are not included in the government's war gratuity plan. The City Council in advocating the appointment of an ex-service man as assistant to the assessor have adopted the proper course. The preference in all such appointments must, when other qualifications are equal, be given to the men who sacrificed their positions in order that they might don the khaki of Canada and fight for the righteous cause of the allies. In all public positions this principle must be established, if it is to be expected that private firms are to adopt a similar attitude.

And apart from the matter of finding a position for a returned soldier, the Finance committee's action in authorizing an assistant for the assessor is a business-like action that is to be commended. The Assessment Department is one of the most important of all civic activities, and with a competent assistant, Mr. Henry will have a better opportunity to do justice to the responsible duties of his department, while at the same time his assistant will be familiarizing himself with the work, so that a trained man will always be available. In providing a yearly increase, the aldermen have assured permanency in the position, which is an important factor in an appointment of this kind.

COMRADES IN WAR, FRIENDS IN PEACE.

Captain Carpenter of the Vindictive was not wrong—far from it—when he said at a dinner of the Economic Club on Monday night, that "there is a certain amount of insidious propaganda going about that our navies (the American and the British) did not get along as well together as might have been hoped." As a matter of fact, the propagandists have stuck at nothing to provoke ill feeling among the men of the United States Navy, by disparaging the work of the British sailors in the war, by spreading stories of their treatment of the American in European waters, and particularly by lauding the efficiency and bravery of the Americans at the expense of tehir British Allies. Doubtless in a subtle way the British bluejackets were tampered with, but the opportunities for mischief were not as promising in England; there propagandists sometimes came to grief, and a wetch was always kept upon them.

Since the armistice the sowing of discord has been very noticeable in this country, Captain Carpenter did well to have his say about it. When he faced his great audience on Monday night he used the short and ugly word, with a seaman's dash of profanity, in characterizing the evil work of the enemies of America and Great Britain, and he finished by calling as a witness Admiral Rodman, who said that the personnel of the two navies—he was speaking of their co-operation—had been bound together by the closest ties of regard and esteem, adding: "I sometimes commanded a force with British Admirals under me, and sometimes they commanded me, and no thought of jealousy, no thought of nationality, no thought of misunderstanding, ever arose* Though my comrades in the British Navy were born under a different flag, though we are by geographical boundary different nations, yet I am convinced that the same blood flows in our veins, that we have the same ideals, the same love of righteousness and liberty. Should the time ever come again in the future, as it has done in this war, that we shall stand together through thick and thin, fight together and win together."

That is the feeling among Admiral Rodman's brother officers throughout the navy, and the intelligent warrant officers and sailors share it. Allowing for a certain degree of prejudice against England, coming down from Lexington and Concord, which has been assiduously cultivated by the propagandists, who have not overlooked any racial feeling they could turn to account, American sailors in the past have not been hostile to men in the British service in Manila Bay or elsewhere, though in foreign ports they have had their personal rows, like all bluejackets ashore, as well as their friendly meetings and common amusements. If the American sailor cannot find a comrade in the British sailor, on the Asiatic station, for instance, whom could he get to know and fraternize with in aother navy?

It remained for the great war, with its rivalry in a common cause, the sharing of the same tasks and dangers, the winning together of a historic victory, the exchange of hospitalities, eye-to-eye and hand to hand association ashore in sports and games, to bring the men of the two services closer together in bonds of good-will and esteem than would have been possible in a hundred years of peace. The rank and file never understood one another so well before, and it is a poor specimen of Yankee or Britisher who will let himself be moved by the German propagandist, or any of the breed, to dislike the other uniform.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Esthonians apparently have been successful in putting the trot in Trotsky.

Brantford passed her objective in the Salvation Army drive on the second day of the campaign, thereby setting the pace for the province.

It should be remembered that the Salvation Army needs money as well as praise.

"The finest reception committee for the returned soldier is the former boss with an offer of a better job than the returned man occupied until he went overseas," says the Toronto Globe.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The Women's National Council local lodge will have curious reflections to make for themselves this morning on the splendid lecture by the Hon. W. Taft last evening.

I was one of the audience and when he said that he was a Unitarian and repeated it with emphasis I felt that I was a traitor to Jesus Christ the divine Saviour of the world in listening to him. But I stayed because he has a sort of a right to his opinions I suppose as I have to mine. The Women's Council will no doubt reap little joy from the missionary work they have done so far. A little more of it and the rising generation may reject Jesus altogether. It is a fearful thing to think of but if it is allowable in this way to introduce—but perhaps they did not know it. Then they ought to have known it for everybody else does. "Father forgive them for they know not what they do."

Swine Fever

(From "John Bull".)

On Nov. 9 we suggested that 'flu was really swine-fever; later we hinted that America might send some of her "bacon" to the Germans—and make them eat it; and last week we noted that the Newcastle Food Committee had acted on our first suggestion and given the 'flu its true name; while a Newcastle doctor had successfully treated 400 "'flu" patients for swine fever. Now comes the absolute confirmation of our suspicions. And it is enough to make our hair stand on end. It is swine fever—with a vengeance. That fact was first established by doctors in France, when our soldiers began to fall ill of the mysterious malady. The doctors reported; and the importation of American bacon was stopped. So far so good! Thanks to these powerful measures, the ravages of the plague in the Army was checked. But what was done here at home, where the market was being flooded with American bacon? Nothing—absolutely nothing! The importation was not forbidden, and the public was not told. Why not? These are questions which everybody who has been infected, and every relative of everybody who has died of the plague will demand to be answered. Why were we not told? Why was not the importation stopped? It must be mentioned here that the germ of this disease is so virulent that when a pig is infected it has to be killed and buried straight away, with sulphates to kill the poison. It is not necessary to eat the bacon to be infected. In fact vegetarians are easy victims. If you import the bacon the whole country is open to the ravages of the disease. And we want to know why we were delivered over to this plague. It is believable that the military authorities in France knew and the Food Control Department here did not know. And, if the department knew, what interest other than the public interest could prevent it from immediate and drastic action. Why has such kindness been shown both to the American Meat Trust and to American bacon. A candid statement on these pressing points must be made at once; all the people can't be fooled—or victimized—all the time!

The long-waisted blouse has evidently come to stay.

The short close net sleeves are much worn for evening.

The waistcoat is now braided, like every other smart thing.

cent war that a definite plan was promulvated in the United States for the creation of a league of nations The proposed league takes care to provide that nothing is forced on a nation but questions that might lead to war are first dealt with by a properly constituted court and the people made aware of what they were about to do should war be contemplated. We had no intention of asking any nation to reduce its means of self-defence until it was shown that the league could be accepted as a suitable substitute.

The Machinery

We cannot clinch the purposes of this war unless we constitute the five great powers, making this peace, a league a nations based on the following machinery.

An international court;

A council of conciliation;

An agreement to combine military and naval powers to enforce the judgment of the court;

and a congress of powers to further complete the agreement and give it final authority.

The speaker referred to the efforts of the German state to create a military system that would dominate the world. They associated themselves as partners with God and said they were assisting him to perpetuate civilization.

Surgical Operation

Some said we were fighting the Hohenozllerns. We know better now. Who were the Hohenzollerns? We were fighting the German people led by the Hohenzollerns who fled into Holland when danger threatened them. The German people were carried away by the doctrine of the military caste. They needed a doctor and we were the doctors It is now necessary to hold a club over their heads during their convalescent period.

Fourteen Points

The speaker enumerated a few of the geographical points involved in President Wilson's fourteen points. The fourteen points in questions provide for the establishment of a number of independent states or republics. This would give birth to anywhere from six to ten new nationalities and equip them with self government.

The speaker gave two examples of self government; one in the United States and the other in South America. In the United States the people accept the newly elected government with the knowledge that it is in the interests of the people. In South America the people run to the other extreme and an election is very often punctuated with gun play. Some of the South American States have had sixty revolutions in seventy years.

Questions depending upon the interpretations of the treaty in which the court would be established would arise between the various nations, Mr. Taft said. The constitution of the United States was regarded as a model of simplicity, comprehensiveness and elasticity to new conditions; yet it has been under interpretation for 125 years. And in Washington there are to-day nine distinguished jurists still engaged in interpreting that instrument. What must we expect of the interpretations of this treaty governing not one country but twenty?

The interpretation of a treaty is a jucticiable question. That is, it can be settled by law. For example, the United States has the right to exclude the Japanese, but they don't like that discrimination. The time might come when it would be necessary to consider that question. It is important, therefore, that we have some means of considering, and the council of conciliation is the body, for this question does not involve international law.

Mr. Taft further explained his point by referring to a dispute that arose over seal-fishing off the Pribiloff Islands in the Behring Sea. Owning the islands, the United States contended that British sealers had no right to hunt in the open waters, and by indiscriminate killing of males and females, to decimate the herds. This question was referred to a Board of Arbitration, which decided against the United States, but forthwith changed themselves into a Board of Conciliation and recommended a contract that was accepted, designed to preserve this valuable herd of seals and the great industry dependent upon a steady supply of pelts.

Mr. Taft continued his exposition of the need of a constitution upon which the League would be based, a court to interpret it, and a Council of conciliation for the hearing of secondary questions that are not determined by legal right.

Why couldn't we use the League meeting in Paris for the settlement of these questions of morality, good form and of common decency? Because they wouldn't have time. They would be fully occupied with questions of first importance so that a Council of Conciliation would be required for these other matters.

Force Would Be Needed.

Referring to the need of force to carry through the decisions of the Council, Mr. Taft said that he had learned that the application of the paternal hand was not always necessary. The fact, however, that the broad paternal hand is known to be in the family stimulates the moral tone. The war has shown us the fundamental virtues, but we still have the old frailties. We only need the assurance that if the contingency arose these five nations would furnish the force to stamp out disorder. If a League of Nations is to make itself useful, it is bound to have the machinery described. Germany will get in when she brings forth works meet for her admission. But we are the charter members. Other nations may come in just as a man gets into a club where there is a blackball and where he knows it will be used.

Mr. Taft was confident that the five nations that had borne the heat and the burden in dictating to the others would protect the smaller nations.

Reverting to the composition of the international court, the speaker declared that it need not be representative of the nations but should be made up of capable, high-minded jurists selected from the various countries, but without regard to the consideration of representation. Similarly all the nations could not be directly represented on the Council of Conciliation. Beyond these instruments would be required an administrative agency to assume the government of Constantinople, which is to be internationalized. Constantinople ought to be under the control of all the nations, so also the colonies of Germany. Great Britain is the best colonizing country in the world, but she has enough colonies. She did not enter the war to get colonies, and it is the strength of her position that she did not. If they were placed under the control of Great Britain it would not be long until the criticism was raised that she was exploiting them. Let us remove all difficulties by putting the German colonies under the League of Nations.

A Chief Objection.

Mr. Taft mentioned an objection that would be raised to the effect that the League would create a super-sovereign power with a court to decide principles of law and a Council of Conciliation to recommend compromises, and would thus infringe upon the sovereignty of each nation. Sovereignty in a nation corresponded to liberty in the individual, and by liberty was meant complete freedom of action. No person had in fact unlimited freedom. Liberty was regulated by law, embracing those rules limiting your action to give everybody else equal freedom of action that you enjoy.

The sovereignty of nations, Mr. Taft asserted, was to-day in theory limited by international law, which means that each nation is so to conduct itself that all others have equal sovereignty.

We propose in this League to enforce rules of international law limiting that sovereignty in order that the sovereignty all nations enjoy shall be equal. Hence we do not limit the sovereignty of any nation.

I don't know whether we are going to succeed or not, but we are struggling for it because we think that by this means we can clinch the purposes of the war.

The Music

The meeting opend with a musical programme provided by the following local talent, Mr. and Mrs. George King, Captain and Mrs. Maurice Park and Mr. John Allan, who presided at the piano. The opening number was the "Star Spangled Banner" effectively sung by Mrs. George King Mrs. Park gave an rendition of the "Marselaise" in French and was followed by Mrs. King who sang "The Khaki Lad". The closing number on the programme was "The Garden of My Heart" sung as a duet by Captain and Mrs. Park.

On the Platform

Among those present on the platform with Mr. Taft were Judge Huycke, Mayor Duncan, J. H. Burnham, R. R. Hall, Ryerson Ritchie, W. R. Brayfogle, Alderman Morrison, McIntyre, Gainey, Garside, Phelan, Taylor, Robert Harstone, F. D. Kerr Dr. T. N. Greer, Dr. Scott, Dr. F. C. Neal, G. O. Cameron, W. R. ## Fleeing Policeman Seized, Charged With Rifling Till

Louis Rousseau, Bronx Grocer, Accuses Officer of Robbery After Holding Him Up in His Store.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Taken prisoner after a chase which led through a half mile of the principle business streets in the Bronx, John Morris, a policeman of the Alexander avenue station, was charged with robbery and locked up in the Bronx county jail. The complainant against him, Louis Rousseau, manager of the grocery store at No. 707 Melrose avenue, was positive Morris was the man who had entered the store to rifle the cash register.

Rousseau, according to the story he told the Morrisania station, where Morris was taken, was behind his counter cleaning a knife when the policeman, clad in civilian clothing, entered and advanced toward him. Before Rousseau realized he was being held up, he said, the man displayed a pistol and commanded:

"Drop that knife and throw up your hands!"

Rousseau lost no time in obeying the order. Then he was ordered into the room back of the store. He said he heard the drawer of the cash register opened. At that moment a woman customer, Mrs. J. Casey, of No. 415 East 153rd street, interrupted the robbery by entering the store.

"If you open your mouth I'll shoot you," said the robber, covering her with his pistol. She fled to the street.

The robber, fearing the woman would raise an alarm and call the police, worked quickly. Rousseau says he saw him stuff what money he found in the drawer into his pocket and hurry out of the store.

Before the man had gone more than fifty yards Rousseau was after him. The grocer's shouts for help brought hundreds of passersby and storekeepers to his side, and, with Detective Hazlitt to lead them, the pursuit began.

The fleeing man turned once to wave his revolver at the leaders of the chase and warn them back. They paid no attention to the danger and continued after him. Through East 155th street to Third avenue and up Third avenue to 157th street the fugitive held his own. But at Elton avenue and 157th street he was tripped up and seized by a seaman and a soldier. Detective Hazlitt escorted him to the station.

His clothing was searched and in one pocket was found $56 in bills, rolled up with the bills was half of a one dollar bill. Rousseau declared it to be one of the halves of a torn bill he had placed in his cash drawer early in the day. Morris said the money represented a part of his pay.

He was arraigned before Magistrate Mangano in the Morrisania Court. He pleaded not guilty and an adjournment was granted until Monday.

Skulls and Bones Are Evidences of Bulgars' Butchery

LONDON, Jan. 24.—It is now agreed that probably no crimes during the war exceeded the wholesale cruelty and horror of those committed by Bulgarians against the Greeks and Serbians. Reuters learns from official Serbian sources that the commission, which has been investigating outrages, and which brought to light appalling and almost unbelievable atrocities, have in many cases, secured the names of officers actually responsible.

Among many Bulgarian documents which give this information is one which specifically mentions a certain Sub-Lieutenant Pelkov as having in the district of Vlasotinci burned people alive. Moreover, in this comparatively small district, 140 murders, 235 cases of flogging, 51 of torture, 187 of blackmail and 316 of arson have been proved during the Bulgarian occupation.

In another district it has been proved that women had their flesh torn off with pincers by order of a certain Major Murtzy, and under the supervision of a certain Sergt. Vasil, whilst in yet another district, 500 men and women and children, by order of a certain Lieut. Stojanov were massacred with knives and bayonets. The spot where this occurred is marked by skulls and bones.

WAS PICKED UP FOR DEAD.

But Tippler Was Found to be Very Much Alive.

(Kingston Whig.)

Sunday morning, at 3.15 o'clock, a man was found drunk on the market square, with two fine bottles of whiskey in his possession, but when asked by the magistrate, as to where he had procured the liquor he did not have the slightest recollection. Magistrate Farrell remanded him for a week in order to give him time to put his "thinking cap" on. One thing sure is no person is giving away liquor these days, as it is altogether too precious.

In spite of the "dry laws" there appears to be quite a lot of liquor going the rounds for the thirsty ones. A second man in the prisoner's dock was also charged with being drunk. He admitted being drunk, but for his life he could not say who the party was who gave him the liquor. He was fined $10 and costs.

This tippler was found by the police in a helpless condition at the foot of Ontario street. At first it was thought that he was dead, but after a time he began to show signs of life. He said that he only had two drinks, but if such was the case he must have been up against some pretty bad whiskey, for two shots of "good stuff" would not have put him under in this way.

W. Rickets Got One Worth Thirty-five Dollars In Oyster

Hamilton, Jan. 24.—It's sometimes better to be born lucky than rich. That's what William Rickets thought yesterday. He had good reason to be elated. Some days ago, Mr. Ricketts bought some oysters. Upon opening one he found a pearl. Mr. Ricketts took it to o North James Street jeweler, who offered $35 for the gem. But the lucky finder decided that his wife was worthy of the gem and he will have it mounted for her. T. H. BBlinkow, a guest o fan East Barton Street friend some months ago, at an oyster supper had the luck to discover two valuable pearls within the same shell. He was offered $150 for the pair, but declined and took them to Boston, Mass., where he lived.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Though the three days formal canvassing have closed all of the work is not as yet done. Men dropped off the team and did not find substitutes to take their places on the teams. This necessitates picking up the loose ends and cleaning up parts of several districts. It all means money. All day long we run up against people who were out of the city or who had not been reached. So many a substantial sum is added to the total.

Repeated enquiries have been made as to the sum realized So far no attempt has been made to open the packages and make a list of receipts. This morning a clothes basketful of big envelopes containing cards, cash and returns was handed to Mr. W. H. Dunsford, of the Bank of Commerce, who has undertaken as treasurer, to get the proceeds into orderly shape. Many workers handed in their statements personally instead of giving it to the team captain to be credited on the work of the team. This will now be done and presently we shall know how the Big Drive has worked out.

Then again the cards of subscriptions from the factories have not all been collected. In the aggregate these will amount to a very considerable sum and will strengthen the total very well. In general has been disclosed a cheerful willingness to help the Army, and even if the amount offered be not large there are a whole lot of such contributions.

Presently, say at the beginning of the week, those who have been in the work will be called together in conference to see who have been missed, and what can be done to cover those cases. Many, no doubt, willing to contribute are asked. An appreciated help was the generous gift of the Woman's Patriotic League, of East City, $100.00, per the President Mrs. R. H. Parsons. The scrutiny of the returns will no doubt disclose other and similar contributions from local societies, and all such shall have due mention.

As several cases have come in where people have signified willingness to subscribe and did not know where to take the gift, it has been arranged that such may be handed to the Treasurer, Mr. W. H. Dunsford, at the Bank of Commerce, who will give receipts and credit for the same.

One satisfaction in the campaign is that the expenses of the Drive have been only trifling. The newspapers have been more than generous, and their help has been a factor in the general result. It is true that a larger organization, calling for nightly meetings, lunches, etc., as was done at the Patriotic Fund campaigns would have been nice and rousing and worth the money from the point of get-together spirit aroused But it was felt that any extraneous expense could be set aside and that personal work and diligence might be reckoned on the makeup anything that the other course might have ensured.

Youth Admitted Firing Barn; is Held By Police

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 24. Leslie West, 20-year-old son of Thomas West, whose barn was burned here, was brought to the county jail by County Constable Fred. Hill. He has confessed to having set fire to the barn, but stoutly denies any knowledge of the other fires in the neighborhood.

At the time of the fire in the house last week he claims he was in the bush chopping wood. He appears repentant, but does not know why he did the deed.

The fine barn on the Beachville Road which went up in smoke made the third in the last few months in the immediate vicinity. The fire was on the farm of Al Cormack, about three miles west of the city.

Discovered by West.

About 12.30 in the morning the barn was discovered in flames by Leslie West, son of Thomas West, who lives on the place. The building was totally destroyed, together with the contents. Young West became so worked up over the fire that he collapsed and is in a serious condition.

It was at the home of West's son that the attempt was made to burn the house a few days ago. The family was given another scare, for on going into the cellar about 9 o'clock it was found that the cellar window had been removed. This information was conveyed to the father's home, and it was decided that watch should be kept.

However, the fire broke out, despite the vigilance. Young West claims that he saw a man around the barnyard earlier in the evening.

It is only a few weeks ago that a provincial fire marshal conducted an investigation here in an effort to ascertain the causes of the burning of two barns that adjoined the one destroyed here Monday.

Illness of Expert Holds Up Application of the Bell Company for Three Weeks

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—Owing to the illness of W. J. Hagenah, an American expert, the application of the Bell Telephone Company for an increase in rates has been adjourned three weeks by the Railway Board.

Sensations In Western Politics

WINNIPEG. Surprising developments of a political character are disturbing old party circles on the prairies these days It is a conspiracy to work out an alliance between the trade unions, the Great War Veterans and the Grain Growers. For some months, delegates have been exchanged in Saskatchewan and Alberta between the Veterans' and the Labour Confederation. The exchange has grown up informally, not sanctioned by the laws of either organization. These delegates are not given votes in the other organization, but they have been welcomed to sit in the meetings and participate in the discussions. The Grain Growers have watched this approaching coalition wi undisguised interest. At the meeting of the United Farmers of Alberta in Calgary month ago, the subject came informally before the executive, and again at the Brandon meeting last week of the Manitoba branch of the Grain Growers it was discussed, not openly but by the inner ring. And the point is, that it was greeted with enthusiasm as a fine stroke of business. The Grain Growers' Guide has been working in this direction for some time, outlining the commanding position it would give these three interests in Parliament if they were acting as a unit, and suggesting the identity of interests involved. And it would. Outside the large centres of population in the west such a combination would be difficult to defeat.

Both old party managers on the prairies admit the danger of such a plan, but they do not believe it can be effective, chiefly because the labouring man wants first of all cheap food, the very thing the grain grower is most interested in keeping at a high figure.

In the meantime, the two old parties are not losing any time in getting their distinct organizations together all over the West. Alberta Liberals held their provincial convention this week, and arranged their lines for federal action, and in Saskatchewan a Liberal federal convention will shortly be held. Hon. Robert Rogers is being urged to call a convention of Manitoba Conservatives in the near future for more aggressive federal action, while the Canadian manufacturers have their agents in the West looking over the ground.

RENOUNCES SUCCESSION DUTIES

WINNIPEG, Jan. 24.—Hon. T. H. Johnson, attorney-general of Manitoba, announced that the Provincial Cabinet has passed an order-in-council, waiving succession duties on estates of Manitoba soldiers who died on active service. It was stated also that land titles, office and surrogate court fees in connection with the probate of such soldiers' estates as are handled by the law clerk of the Returned Soldier's Manitoba Commission will be omitted.

100 YEARS IS ENOUGH, CENTENARIAN A SUICIDE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Frederick Layton, 100 years old, ended his life here by hanging himself at his home. The centenarian used a rope made from a bed sheet. He had recently said he was tired of life.

In Japan 50 per cent. of all factory operatives are women.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

HON. WILLIAM TAFT'S ADDRESS TO PETERBORO LAW ASSOCIATION

The Former President of the United States Has a Deep Respect For English Law.

The Peterborough Law Association formally welcomed Ex-President William Taft yesterday evening in the Court room. The dais was tastefully decorated with a British Jack and the Canadian Ensign, while at the rear of the room Peterborough's Victory Loan met the eyes of the distinguished visitor. After the address of welcome was read by Mr. F. D. Kerr, President of the Peterborough Law Association, His Honour Judge Huycke, who occupied a seat on the dais immediately to the right of Mr. Taft, rose and addressed him.

"You are a world figure in the past few years, and as such we welcome you to our city.

His Honour referred to the League of Nations and hoped that it would be a reality.

"But the greatest league of nations is that of friendship and of affection that exists between the United States and the British Empire. We have a common literature and a common tongue, but there is one of greater importance—a common law. You have been an apostle of good will and we are glad to welcome you here."

Mr. Taft's Reply.

Mr. Taft won the hearts of everybody with his hearty, unaffected laugh, which punctuated his remarks.

"I am as much grateful as surprised in the welcome that I have received," said Mr. Taft. "I don't feel a stranger in these surroundings. There is only one thing different, and rightly different, than there was in my own court and that is the robing of the lawyers and judge. That ought to be. They are taking part in a sacred task when they administer justice.

My father was a lawyer and afterwards a judge. He had a large library and he was in the habit of calling me into this library, and this not only trained me, but it made me know law. When I was at the bar as Solicitor-General, and as a local judge on the Federal bench, I always gave attention to English reports. I was inspired with respect for the English administration of justice. There is no higher boast that Britain can make than that she taught hundreds of millions of people the value of the administration of justice. If there is anything that has contributed more to your guardianship and government in India and the comfort which those millions have, I would like to know what it is. The British Empire and the United States have a common law. I love it as I love a friend. The English common law is like English government; it is built on a practical basis.

Is Adaptable.

It has its defects, but it also has its virtues. It has virtue in the fact that it is adapted to the people and can be changed to suit conditions; neither is it the product of one mind. So you can go through the guarantees of liberty and find that practicability that makes justice. I had to study law in the Philippines. They had a set code for criminal punishment that established a certain punishment for every crime or for every degree of crime and all the judge had to do was to deliver the sentence. Everything was mapped out.

Canada in her courts has followed the practice of the English courts in her conduct of cases, which is always brief and effective. We in the United States have suffered somewhat in legislation. Sometimes we take one month to finish a case when it takes you only three days. This is because your judges have more power. The lawyers in the United States have stimulated legislation limiting the power of judges. In the United States' Federal courts where the judges are appointed for life, we don't have that trouble. In some States the cases of the prosecutions and the defences are written out and placed in the hands of the judge, who is entirely ruled by these facts and must address the jury on these summaries of the prosecution and the defence. Why the judges haven't any more power than a moderator in a religious conference.

War Record.

It is wonderful to be in Canada after the great world record that you have made in the war, after you have tested your strength and courage in this great struggle for freedom.

We have had our differences, but who in a family don't? A family that has no differences has no original thought and it is no interest to be a member of such a family. We are a living example what other nations ought to become. We have all had arbitration and we have both won and lost, and we have both damned the court with fervour. But now we realize how useful it is. It makes us play with an open hand. You can't be saved unless you are willing to be damned. (Cheers.)

Keep Moving.

A United States' Congressman was once asked what a statesman was and he replied that a statesman is a politician who is dead. The lessons from the war as we faced death in our sons and our dear ones make everything material seem dross and everything selfish seem base. Such an experience as you have gone through is certainly an event. Now that the war is over we should keep on the move and not go back to our old weaknesses.

Mr. C. G. Trumbull Is in Peterboro

Mr. Charles Trumbull, editor of the Sunday School Times, will address two meetings to-day in St. Paul's Church, in the afternoon at 3 o'clock, and in the evening at 8 o'clock. The pastor of the church, Rev. R. Pogue, knew him personally when he was in Philadelphia, and it was through his efforts and that of others who were anxious to hear him, that the Christion people of Peterboro will have the opportunity of hearing his messages. His subjects for both meetings will be "The Victorious Life."

He arrived this morning by the 12.25 train, and met the ministers of the city at a luncheon given them in Hooper's parlours by a couple of Laymen.

inds Life Too Easy; Stirs Up Trouble for His Own Love Affair

Up Romance Road" and Other Fine Pictures at the Empire.

It takes something smashing to ake up a fellow born to a feather ed.

William Russell as Gregory Thorne, h man's son, bound to marry arta Milbanke, the prettiest girl in world, discovered that he had n her too easily in "Up Romance ad," his late Mutual play. He nted to fight for her.

So when war broke out he lit into a nd of spies and contrived to save father-in-law's warehouse from destruction by coppering the spy game.

Of course pretty Marta was mixed in the affair, and equally, of urse, Gregory profited by being first the job. The society man won his fe by fighting, as he hoped to do.

See this good picture at the Empire night and to-morrow.

OLSHEVIK ARMY JOINS ESTHONIANS.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 24.—The enBolshevist army on the Narva nt, numbering 60,000, has joined Esthonians, according to deatches from Helsingfors to-day.

Why Spain Retained Neutral Position

Public Opinion Was Against Entry Into War, Says Premier Romanones.

MADRID, Jan. 24.—Count Romanones, the Spanish Premier, was interpellated by Deputy Darcia, republican reformist, relative to his visit in Paris, the Moroc n question and the seizure of ships belonging to the central powers interned in Spanish ports.

The Premier replied: "During the war, Spain was the object of constant aggression from the German submarines. I wished them to react against aggressions, but found myself deprived of the support of public opinion. We, therefore, were compelled to be neutral and were loyally so. The armistice being signed we can no longer be neutral. We must resume our pre-war position. Count Romanones recognized that Spain's policy in Morocco had been a failure, but declared that Spain must observe the Cartagena convention (between England, France and Spain relative to the community of interest beween the three countries in Mediterranean and Eastern Atlantic waters.

Deputy Darcia mentioned Gibraltar in his speech, but on this subject the Premier only said: "I do not wish to negotiate about it and will reply to no question on that subject," he said he had been unable to get a reply concerning interned German ships, but added that negotiations were proceeding.

Sentences Have Been Reduced

Watson and Cheeseman Receive Consideration from Department of Justice.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—Charles Watson, sentenced to three years and a fine of $500 for having banned literature in his possession, has had his sentence reduced to thirty days and fine remitted. Harry Cheeseman, sentenced to six months at Burwash, has had his sentence reduced to fifteen days.

MONARCHY PROCLAIMED

Ex-King Manuel Is Still in London.

Canadian Press:

MADRID, Jan. 24.—The Monarchy has been proclaimed in Lisbon, the Portuguese capital. The widely circulated rumour that former King Manuel of Portugal was about to land on Portuguese territory is at least premature. Ex-King Manuel was still in London to-day.

St. John's Choir Was Entertained

A very pleasant change from the regular procedure of St. John's choir on Thursday evenings was made last night when the adult choristers accepted the invitation of Mrs. George Dredge, 339 London street, to meet at her home at 6.45 for supper and an evening's entertainment.

Assisted by Mr. Harry Long, Mrs. Dredge gave her visitors a royal time, and the hearty appreciation of all the company was voiced by the Rev. Canon Davidson, Mr. H. W. Morphet and Mr. R. J. Devey, specially for the kindly thoughtfulness that prompted the event.

A letter conveying the resolution of the Vestry, appreciating the services of the choristers, was read, and Mr. Harry Long, replying to a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Dredge, expressed the pleasure felt at the presence of the choristers, for whose services no recognition was too good.

A thoroughly enjoyable evening terminated at 11.30 with Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

GERMAN ARMY NOW REDUCED TO MILLION.

Special to the Examiner:

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—"The German army, including sick and wounded, now numbers approximately a million," War Minister Reinhardt declared in an interview here to-day.

Gordon Wilson, M.P., Charges Hamilton Doctor With Extortion

Accuses Hamilton Doctor of Demanding $200 and $150 Cash Before He Would Perform Operations.

ONE WAS SISTER OF SOLDIERS.

Hamilton, Jan. 24.—One of the charges that Gordon C. Wilson, M. P., announces that he will bring before the attorney-general against a Hamilton doctor concerns a young Dundas girl. She had no relatives to look after her because they were overseas fighting for the causes of freedom.

One of the brothers was killed in action. She had little money because though given an allowance by the government, she sent most of it to her brothers, who, she believed needed it to buy comforts.

DEMANDED $200

According to the charges made to Mr. Wilson, this girl was taken ill. A young man who knew her only slightly, was called into an office and asked to speak over the telephone to the Hamilton doctor, who told him that the operation was necessary to save the girl's life, and that the doctor must have $200 before he could operate.

The young man says he tried to explain that the girl had no money; that she could not afford such an expensive operation and that she had no relatives or friends able to put up that amount of money.

YOUNG MAN'S CHARGE

"The doctor kept insisting that if the operation was not performed it meant the girl's death, until I could stand it no longer, and I told him to save her life, I would put up the $200," the young man declares.

CHECK CASHED PROMPTLY

The young man says that a Dundas woman made inquiries of another doctor, who said the operation, under the circumstances ought not to cost more than $100 or $125 at the most, and he decided to take the case out of the other doctor's hands. For that purpose he went to the bank next morning to stop payment of the $200 check, but found that it had already been cashed.

SAYS HE PLEADED IN VAIN

After the operation, he says he went to the doctor again, explaining that while he had no personal interest in the financial end of the case, since the girl would repay him, but he pleaded for a reduction of the account for the girl's sake. The doctor, he says, claimed that he was letting the girl off easy, and showed him his books filled with entries of charges of $200 or more for operations. While the doctor was pointing to one side of a page, the young man caught an entry on the other side, showing that the doctor had accepted in one case $100 in part payment, allowing the remainder of the bill to stand. The young man pleaded for similar treatment for the young girl, but says the doctor refused to alter the account in any way.

ANOTHER CHARGE

Another charge is concerning the case of a young man who says it was represented to him that, since he had no ready money, his operation would be done free of charge. After being taken to the hospital, he charges that the Hamilton doctor sent for his wife and demanded $150 before the operation was performed. He claims he was kept in the hospital for a week or more while his wife was carrying on negotiations with the doctor. He feared to say anything to the doctor for fear the bill might be made larger. After he had been in the institution some days the doctor announced that the operation would take place the next day. In the meantime his mother had come to his rescue, and had put up $100. The doctor accepted that complainingly, and insisted that the remaining $50 be paid as soon as the operation was performed. After the operation, while he was convalescent the doctor kept inquiring as to when the patient's wife was coming to the hospital, remarking, according to the patient: "You know this is a cash operation."

DR. GRIFFIN INTERVIEWED

Dr. H. S. Griffin, local member of the medical council said that charges which had been directed at a local doctor were of such a nature at the present time that the medical council could take no action, unless it could be proved that he had been guilty of conduct that was unprofessional.

"The only time the council can take action is when a member of the profession is found guilty in a civil court of felony, or of some professional misconduct, or when four registered medical men make application to have the actions of another doctor investigated. If the doctor who is charged is found not guilty, and the charges laid against him are ungrounded, then the accused can claim his costs and expenses in connection with the investigation, which must be borne by the medical men who asked for the investigation."

Dr. Griffin said that if charges were laid against any doctor he would present them to the medical council. He added that the charges must be of such a nature that the council could deal with them. Cases of overcharging were for the civil court, and nothing was in the medical act that would permit the council to investigate these.

In speaking of serums the doctor said only one serum he knew of would cost the patient five dollars. It was a special serum. The doctor produced a bottle of serum which he had purchased from a firm in Detroit, and stated that it contained enough serum for twelve injections and that it cost him one dollar.

"I make no charge for the injecting of it or for the serum," he said. "The serum which was made by Dr. Jaffray was given free to patients and to the doctors," concluded Dr. Griffin.

Dr. Jaffray stated that he had made a small charge for the injecting of serum during the influenza epidemic, but it was when he was requested to leave his private office practice and in his spare time from the hospital to go to a home and make the injection personally. This only occurred once or twice, said Dr. Jaffray, yesterday

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden; a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure. You can take off the fat where it shows by taking after each meal and at bedtime, one Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a case to-day. Your druggist sells them at 75 cents or if you prefer, you may write direct to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich. You can thus say goodbye to dieting, exercise and fat.

Provinces Will Be Handed Over Their Resources

OTTAWA, Jan. 24—The question of handing over to the Western Provinces their natural resources, which has been hanging fire since the Provincial Conference was held, is again before a sub-committee of the Cabinet, of which Hon. J. A. Calder and others are members.

It is stated that a compromise has been reached whereby it is proposed to hand over the resources, with certain reservations to the Provinces It is not proposed, however, that they shall, as requested, retain the full amount of their subsidies in lieu of lands, but that part of these shall be given to the lower Provinces.

Leon Trotsky is Reported Captured

Canadian Press:

BASEL, Jan. 24.—Leon Trotsky, Bolshevist Minister of War and Marine, did not escape from Narva after the defeat of the Bolshevists by the Esthonians, but was taken prisoner, according o despatches received here from Libau. Advices from the same source state that owing to the intervention of Finnish troops in Northern Esthonia and Livonia, the country has been completely cleared of the Bolshevist forces.

GERMANY FAVORS OPEN CONFERENCE.

Accepts this Plan as one of Wilson's Fourteen Points.

(Special to Examiner.)
(By John Graudenz.)

BERLIN, Jan. 24. — Germany's delegates to the Peace Congress favor full publicity of all proceedings, the United Press was officially informed to-day.

In response to a query, Philip Scheidemann and Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, who will represent Germany at Versailles, said that they sustain the attitude of America and Great Britain that the conferences must be open.

"Germany is in favour of no secrecy whatever," declared Scheidemann. "Having accepted all of President Wilson's points she wishes to begin with the demand that the peace treaty must be arrived at openly."

Veterans May Purchase The Innes Property

It is understood that the War Veterans have the residence of the late Robert Innes, 356 Rubidge street, under consideration as a possible location for their new club rooms. With the central location and large rooms the house would doubtless make admirable quarters for the purpose.

LIVE STOCK TO BE A BIG INDUSTRY

Burleigh Township Ranch Sees Great Possibilities for This Particular Line.

"The production of live stock is going to enter more largely into Ontario's postwar farm record than anything else," said Mr. S. A. Conklin, General Manager of the Burleigh Ranches, and one of the most widely known stock breeders in the east. "Even in the West the farmers are going more and more into the raising of stock and the Federal and Provincial Government have already encouraged Ontario stock breeders to increase their efforts and give all attention possible to the development of the industry in this province. In my opinion, the price of beef will not slump for a long time to come pork has been hit very hard in the last few weeks, and other commodities are bound to follow. But beef is destined, I think, to remain staple." The main ranch of the Burleigh Ranches Company, and the one from which it takes its name, is situated in Burleigh township, north of Lakefield, and is the largest ranch east of Winnipeg. Mr. Conklin, whose livestock interest and activities in the West are well known, has recently moved East and is in charge of the various ranches of the company of which he is General Manager. Arrangements have been made, he said, to double their livestock holdings by this time next year, and he urges upon other and smaller producers to take the livestock branch of their farms most seriously, in the interests of after war production, which must mean a great deal in the development of the province.

Lakefield Soldier Returns Home

Pte. J. R. Hill Has Been Away Nearly Four Years.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 24.—Pte. Joe R. Hill, M.M., returned on Tuesday to the village after an absence of nearly four years. He enlisted with the first Lakefield detachment of the 21st battalion, leaving Lakefield early in November, 1914. He served in France with his unit, being among the first Lakefield men to receive a medal. He was wounded twice and has been some months in England. Pte. Hill is the second of the Lakefield quota to the 21st Battalion to return, the first being Pte. J. Roy Robinson.

A Big Record.

Pte. W. Scott, of Red Deer, Sask., was in the village on Tuesday after a short visit to Apsley. Pte. Scott, who has been four years and five months in the army, three years of which was on active service in France, came through without a scratch. This is a remarkable record.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church was held on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance and the reports of the various organizations showed a marked increase in receipts over other years. This was also true both of the general fund and the missionary fund.

The minister, Rev. P. L. Jull, was granted an increase of $100 in his salary.

It was decided to do something towards erecting a memorial to the soldiers who have made the supreme sacrifice in the war.

Surprise Evening.

On Monday evening, Jan. 20th the A.Y.P.A. held a surprise evening in St. John's school room, in honour of Miss Hilliard, Mr. W. Hampton and Mr. W. Metcalfe, who are celebrating birthplace this week. The evening was a pleasant one and the time passed all too quickly. The members noted with pleasure the new honour roll with brass tablet which has replaced the one lost in the town hall fire. Miss Hilliard, who had presented the other in memory of her brother, Lieut. Geoffrey Hilliard, R.C.D., has generously replaced it at her own expense.

Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson entertained a number of their young friends on Tuesday evening to a progressive crokinole party in honour of their son, Spr. Percy Johnson, who recently returned home from overseas.

Personals.

Mr. Gordon Fairbairn went to Kingston on Tuesday on business.

Mr. William Webdale returned to his home in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Finnamore were visitors to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. Thomas McIlmoyl, who has been visiting friends in Campbellford, passed through the village en route to his home in Apsley on Tuesday.

Mr. F. Erskine was in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Miss Nelson spent Tuesday in Peterborough.

Epworth League Convention To Be Held Monday

The annual convention of the Epworth League of this district will be held in George street Methodist church next Monday, January 27th. Rev. A. McLaughlin, B.A., of Pontypool, President of the League for this district, will occupy the chair. It promises to be a large convention and delegates from outside points will attend. At the afternoon session Major (Rev.) H. A. Frost, B.A., B.D., who went overseas with the Canadian Y.M.C.A., will speak, and will take as his subject, "Comparisons of Mohammedanism and Christianity as Observed in Egypt and Gallipoli." Rev. F. E. Malott, of Trinity Methodist church, will also speak in the afternoon. At the evening meeting Rev. E. Valentine Tilson, of Lindsay, will address the delegates.

Aldermen Pleased With New System

DON'T FANCY IDEA OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

LONDON, Jan 24—"The executive committee, which it was proposed to form, in a measure to take the place of the board of control, will certainly not be revived, after the experience of the aldermen at the meeting of the council on Monday night," said one of the aldermen yesterday.

Monday night's was the first council meeting for some years that the chairman of the two standing committees reported directly to the council, and the majority of the aldermen welcome the change. During the life of the board of control the reports of the committees were referred to that body, and then revised by it, if thought necessary, before being sent on to the council for ratification. Often when the reports were presented the members of the committees would object to the changes made and the feeling between some of the members of the council and the board of control and the aldermen was not of the most peaceful.

Old things have passed away and all things have become new and the two reports were presented and passed by the council in record time.

The question of the executive committee will likely come up before No. 1 committee this evening, but it is confidently expected that it will be turned down.

Hutchinson's Stone House Burned

One of the Ancient Relics of Cavan Township.

The Hutchinson stone house, between Millbrook and Cavan belonging to Mrs Gott (Sarah Jane Hutchinson) and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John McKnight, Jr., was laid low except the stone walls by fire on Wednesday morning about 2 a.m. The fire seemed to have started from a defectly chimney as when first seen by some passers was heaviest at the roof. Mr. McKnight saved the piano and some furniture but lost all their clothing. They had some insurance. Mrs. Gott had insurance on the house. Thus passes another of the old land-marks built some seventy years ago by Mr. Hutchinson, Sr., when Cavan was a youth, in growing clothes.

Mr. Honeywell In Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 24.— The exuses the spiritual worker has to contend with was given a severe combing by Evangelist Honeywell Wednesday night. With his long service in evangelistic work he is so familiar with every one of them, and he knocked even the slightest resemblance to reason out of each one. Then he pointed out the necessity to accept Christ and become a follower of His, before one becomes hardened to the voice of the Holy Ghost and finally lost altogether.

The evangelist remarked that in all his experience he had never heard a plausible reason for a man or woman to refuse Christianity, while procrastination has robbed many an individual of eternal life.

Food Board Flashes

Keep chickens—even if you have only a pocket edition of a backyard. It's a paying proposition and it keeps your garbage can cleaned out. On the basis of two hens to every member of the family, the ordinary kitchen scraps should save one-third of the feed daily. It is estimated that the table scraps of an economical family, when fed to the hens during the six winter months, represent in value 50 cents a month to each member of the family.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple, old-fashioned home recipe consisting of Bay Rum, Lavona (de compose) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 3 oz. Bay Rum and 1-2 dram of Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 6 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be looked on your scalp as tight as a wire. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine, downy new hair sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its results.

PEACE BENEFIT SALE

AT

FRANK L. JENNE'S

Every Suit I offer for sale is of genuine Semi-ready Tailoring.

Every Overcoot I offer at this sale is a genuine Semi-ready.

I do not aim to keep an exclusive shop, but everything I sell is made by manufacturers who enjoy the highest reputation in their particular line of Endeavour.

These makers do not try to see how cheap they can work, but how good they can make it. They don't rob or burglarize quality, nor indulge in other camouflage of value.

Saturday, will be a big day in my shop, and will keep open until 11 o'clock.

WINTER OVERCOATS and CANADIAN ULSTERS

Even the staple Meltons and the scarcest fabrics of Ulsterings are to be included in this Peace Benefit Sale; plain blacks, navy blues, and Oxford greys; all the meat-and-drink or bread-and-butter styles which are usually laid away in the big Bargain Sale—are to be sold here at real Bargain Prices.

Chesterfields, King Edwards, Canada Ulsters, and the English Ulsters sold at specialty shops under fancy names at fancy prices—there's not a hidden garment held in reserve in either Suit or Overcoat Shop—and there's not one coat but is of perfect workmanship and clear-through materials; we guarantee against all defects.

MEN'S WINTER OVERCOATS

EVERY OVERCOAT I have is of genuine Semi-ready Tailoring and is therefore measured by a higher standard of value, with the fixed dollar-in-the-pocket indication of worth.

All sizes, with form-fitting and loose-fitting models; all of substantial English weaves, and many worth at wholesale more than these sale prices—

DISTRICT CUP AND TANKARD GAMES ARE AGAIN POSTPONED

The interest and hopes of the curlers rose overnight in proportion to the slight fall in the thermometer. The Tankard and District Cup postponed games that were to have been played to-day have been set over until next week. Mr. Flavelle telephoned from Lindsay that their ice was too slushy for curling, and as a result the District Cup games will be played on Tuesday. It was intended to hold the Tankard games here on the same day, but some of the Lindsay curlers sent a special request to Mr. R. M. Waddell, urging that any other day be selected. Hence the Tankard games will be played here next Wednesday—if there is ice.

The Vice-Skips' Bonspiel.

The draw for the vice-skips' bonspiel will be made on Saturday night. All the rinks will be entered by the committee, and if any of them fail to respond their games will go by default. It is hoped that the entire thirty-two rinks will participate in this bonspiel, which begins on Tuesday night. There will be two draws each night ,one at 7 o'clock and the other at 9.

With any kind of satisfactory winter weather the curlers can dispose of their deferred games in a short time, but the weather man's "come back" must be immediate and complete.

Cobourg vs. P.C.I. To-morrow

There will be a good game of hockey at Brock street rink to-morrow morning at 10.30 o'clock, when the Peterborough Collegiate Institute team will meet the Cobourg Collegiate. There are a number of Junior O.H.A. players on both line-ups, and the game should be a fast exhibition. The local Collegiate team will be as follows:

Goal—Flowers.
Defence—Armstrong, Park.
Centre—Rutherford.
Left wing—Huff.
Right wing—Hunter.
Subs—Fitzgerald, Elliott.

HOCKEY

The Boy's Bible Class of St. John's are reminded to be at the Mark St. Rink to-night at 6:30 o'clock.

The Peterboro Junior and Intermediate O.H.A. teams will practice tonight at Brock street Rink at 7 o'clock. A fine turnout of the regulars of both teams is requested.

POSITION FOR "PETE" CAMPBELL

Captain "Pete" Campbell, the well known ex-Varsity quarter-back star and captain of the Varsity rugby team, has been appointed A. D. C. to Brigadier-General John A. Cunningham, C.M.G., D.S.O., of the Toronto Military District. Captain Campbell succeeds Captain Gordon Hunter, who is retiring to civilian life.

Captain Campbell is a son of Mr. P. Campbell, former manager of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Bring Women From England Free Of Charge

Dominion Government Undertaking Care of Soldier Dependents Now Overseas—55,000 of Them Still Here

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Realizing that the first step in getting the soldier back into civilian life is the re-establishing of his home in Canada, the Dominion Government is completing plans by which nearly 55,000 women and children, dependents of Canadian soldiers living in England and France will be brought back at the Government's expense.

As already announced the Canadian Patriotic Fund is co-operating with the Repatriation Committee at Ottawa, and will give great assistance in the work.

The Young Women's Christian Association will have a representative on every boat that carries 200 women. Every boat is met at Halifax and St. John by a committee representing all the women's organizations, which locates women's baggage takes care of babies and takes the women and children to a comfortable rest room. Cots and baths are provided there for the children, hot lunches can be secured, and, if necessary, overnight accommodation can be arranged. Women who are too sick to continue their journey are taken to the local hospitals, and any who are without money receive assistance from the Patriotic Fund. These organizations also secure railway tickets for the women, get their money changed and accompany every woman to her train.

On every train upon which women and children travel is a Red Cross nurse, who carries first aid supplies and an emergency supply of money. These nurses have been enrolled by the Canadian Nurses' Association. The nurse sends information to the Patriotic Fund at each dispersal station, giving the number of women who will alight from the train and the number in need of assistance.

At each dispersal station the women and children are met by a reception committee, organized in most cases by the Patriotic Fund. Relatives are being urged to meet the trains. At Toronto and Montreal special canteens and rest rooms have been opened. There are hostels also at Toronto and Winnipeg.

The provincial women's organization through their local societies, make every endeavour to keep in touch with the returned dependents of Canadian soldiers. In fact every voluntary organization in Canada has agreed to co-operate and nothing will be left undone that will make for the comfort, and convenience of the women and children soon to come to Canada—many of them for the first time.

PARISIANS WALKED TO WORK TO-DAY.

General Transportation Strike to force Wage Increase.

(Special to Examiner.)

PARIS, January 24. — Parisians walked to-day, the result of a general transportation strike called to force a wage increase. The strike was voted at a joint meeting of the subway, tram cars and omnibus company employees. They drew up a scale of the increased cost of living to show their demands were justified.

Only a few busses were running to-day and a policeman sat by the side of each driver. The police were also guarding the subway entrances.

STOREKEEPER ASSAULTED

Burglar in Broad Daylight Throws Pepper in Man's Eyes.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 24.—A stranger with his face blackened, walked into the grocery store of Foley Devillano, on Niagara street, yesterday and asked for a package of tobacco. The proprietor turned to fill the order when the man threw a quantity of black pepper into the grocery man's eyes. As Devillano endeavored to brush the pepper out of his eyes he was hit on the head and body with a heavy instrument and though badly cut, partly dazed and his arm broken, he closed with his assailant and put up a fight. The thug made his get-away. Devillano was taken to the General and Marine hospital.

Black suede shoes are most becoming to the feet.

Waistcoat chemisettes are made of embroidered net.

Press Comment On Russian Plan

Considerable Difference of Opinion Regarding the Proposal.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Jan. 24. — The newspapers here comment luke-warmly on the plan for a conference between an allied commission and representatives of the various goverments in Russia.

The Post sarcastically condemns the proposal, saying among other things, that it displays more than Christian meekness.

The Telegraph, while admitting the plan to be inspired by the best of motives, condemns it as being politically hazardous and ethically wrong.

The Times, while not enthusiastically in favour of the proposal, hopes that it will work, and says that even if it does not, the hands of the allies will have been strengthened by its failure.

Dillon, the foreign political expert of the Telegraph, writing from Paris, says that the Princes Islands plan caused consternation in various circles in Paris and adds that he is authorized to declare that the governments of Omsk, Archangel, the Crimea and Yekaterisodar, will absolutely refuse to send representatives to the conference.

FORMER PETERBORO BOY DIED OVERSEAS

Was Employed in Local Branch of Bank of Montreal.

Word has been received in the city through letters from Salonika that Ross McWright (Mac) died on December the 15th in Salonika as a result of Spanish influenza. Before enlisting with the Canadian army, Mr. McWright was a member of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal. His home is in Picton.

ADMIRAL BEATTY MAY QUIT

Westminster Gazette Says He May Become First Sea Lord of Admiralty.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Admiral Sir David Beatty, according to a despatch to the Westminster Gazette from Rosyth, will soon give up the command of the British Grand Fleet, and will come to London as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty. The present First Sea Lord is Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss.

NEW PLAN TO STOP MERGER

Ottawa Business Men Now Propose to Buy a Controlling Interest in Bank of Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—That the people of Ottawa should prevent the passing of the Bank of Ottawa by buying its stock and voting against any amalgamation, is the latest move contemplated by the men interested in retaining the Bank of Ottawa with its peculiar advantages to the city.

Red Shield Campaign To Continue

In order to give every one a chance to subscribe to the Salvation Red Shield Drive, the campaign is being continued. The merit of the cause should result in a splendid total if the people of Peterborough realize the necessity of supporting this fine movement.

MR. TAFT DELIGHTED BY THE WARMTH OF THE CITY'S RECEPTION

Before departing for Brockville last night Mr. Taft told Mayor Duncan that he had been surprised and delighted by the warmth of the reception the Ontario cities he was visiting this week were extending to him. He was charmed by the welcome Peterborough had given him, and expressed his appreciation of the interesting features that had been provided in his brief stay. In fact Mr. Taft hinted that Peterborough had left a lasting impression upon his affections and that he would not forget the cordiality of his reception and the citizens who had tendered it. Mayor Duncan was glowing to-day with satisfaction over the smooth working of the day's programme in so far as the city was concerned. Some of the lawyers admitted that Mr. Taft's lecture had provided an instructive lesson on "justiciable" and other legal questions, and the women's Council may take the satisfaction of having been instrumental in bringing to Peterborough a statesman of the first rank among the nation's best, a kindly gentleman with a personality that will be cherished in the memories of those who met him.

Japan Prohibits Use of Tobacco By the Children

Over sixteen years ago a bill was introduced in Japan, prohibiting the use of tobacco in any form before the age of twenty years. This became law the same year.

Neomoto in presenting the bill, said: "Recently, children in our public schools have come to smoke cheap imported cigarettes, the consequences of which we fear will bring our country down to the miserable condition of countries like China and India, because tobacco, like opium, contains narcotic poisons which benumb the nervous system, weaken the mental power of our children addicted to smoking; and thus to give point to our national policy, we must strictly prohibit the smoking of tobacco by children and young people. If we expect to make this nation superior to the nations of Europe and America, we must not allow our youths in common schools, who are to become fathers and mothers of our country in the near future, to smoke."

THE WEATHER

One of those sudden changes peculiar to this portion of the Dominion occurred last night. In the evening rain was falling, and the temperature up to 40 degrees. A gale set in later, and in a short time there was a drop of the thermometer of 30 degrees. This cold dip came from the north, but will not likely continue long.—W. P.

CALGARY, Jan. 24.—Major R. T. Aitken, Canadian Army Service Corps, brother of Lord Beaverbrook, is being tried here on two charges: first, neglect to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in that he did not inspect the company canteen and see that a proper audit was made, and, second, that he was using canteen funds. The accused pleaded not guilty to both charges.

Taft Humor

Ex-President William Taft delighted his audience yesterday by his rare sense of humour, which seemed to come to him while speaking, and which, judging by his laugh, he enjoyed as thoroughly as those who heard them

Referring to the large number of delegates who would be at the Peace Conference, if every little nation was represented, and the powers had a proportionate number of representatives, Mr Taft said:

"It would be like a Board of Aldermen running a street railway,' which seemed to tickle some of Peterboro's worthy fathers sitting on the platform.

Also speaking of a police force for the proposed League of Nations, and that such a force would not necessarily involve war, he referred to Chief Thompson's vigilant guardians of the law in the following quotation:

"They also serve who stand and wait."

Ex-Presidents and other great men of course are presented with sheafs of addresses, illuminated and otherwise, and Mr. Taft is no exception:

"It reminds me of former greatness," said the speaker, referring to the address presented to him by the Law Association.

Each of the Associated Powers have their own societies for the promotion of the League of Nations.

"But," said the Ex-President, with his little laugh, "We (the Americans) were the only ones that put a man up to be knocked down."

NEW EPIDEMICS MAKING INROADS ON ANIMALS

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 24.—A new and deadly epidemic has made its appearance in this city, and already the animals in the local Pinafore Park zoo are suffering to a great extent from its effects. It is known professionally as Haemorrhageic Septicemia The disease is in many respects like blood-poisoning, and in Buffalo a year ago it killed off a large collection of Bison, Yak and Elk. Effort is being made to save the lives of the two adult buffalo in the focal park but it is feared that they will die.

The German Army Now Numbers About 1,500,000

Its Morale in a Crisis is Big Question, Despite Efforts Made by Hindenburg—Many Officers Retained—Re-enlistment of Demobilized Men to Protect the Fatherland Also an Important Factor.

Coblenz, Jan. 24.—It is not to be supposed that the German Army has completely disentegrated or that it has ceased to be a potential military machine. Of course, it to-day is nothing like it was on Nov. 11, but it perhaps is equal in size to what the German Army was the first of July, 1914.

They were about 3,500,000 men in the German Army when hostilities ceased; there are more than 1,000,000 men in the German Army to-day. Its morale in a crisis is a big question.

But it must be borne in mind that Hindenburg has kept up a large part of the officer's corps, and officers, and the skeletons of many regiments and divisions of which most of the privates have been demobilized. Hindenburg plans to turn over his command of the army to the government on Feb. 1, and it is his intention to deliver then an appreciable army for whatever use the government may seek to put it to.

Many Germans Deserted

An expert has given me the following statement as to the best information on the morale of the German Army:

"In addition to the men regularly demobilized large numbers have deserted. Considerable numbers of soldiers actually with their regiments in their depots are doing little more than collecting pay. In general such soldiers as remain with the colors appear to have little disposition to obey military orders which involve personal danger to themselves. Of the few exceptions at present appear to be some units employed in enforcing order in Berlin.

"The morale of the volunteer forces is yet to be tried. Officers who have not been regularly demobilized appear to be largely remaining at their post, marking time in anticipation of any turn of events which may restore the normal military procedure. There are many evidences of their attempts to restore regimental life on the same lines as existed in the depots prior to the war, but their efforts do not appear to extend to the enforcement of objectionable orders.

"So long as the present lack of unity of purpose and control continues the German Army is of negligible value for any military operations. Nevertheless, if any turn of events should happen to bring about any common inspiration among the German people there still exists a skeletonized German organization which in such an event might quickly become an effective army."

Enlistment of Volunteers

In consideration of the German Army, especial attention should be paid to the nationwide enlistment of volunteers now going on, under which many men mobilized are again joining the army in response to the call for troops to protect Germany on the east and maintain order within the boundaries of the nation.

For the most part the German divisions have gone to their home districts—that is the regions where they were garrisoned before the war. This is not true of some forces on the eastern border, which are being held in readiness to fight against the threatened invasion of the Fatherland by the Poles or by the Bolsheviki.

It has been proved not true that all German soldiers except two classes have been discharged. The classes of '96, '97, '98 and '99 have not been discharged officially. Members of classes of '96 and '97 living in occupied Germany have been discharged, and the discharge of all members of these classes had been promised for February, but has not yet taken place.

The size of a class in Germany averages 500,000, but of course there have been heavy tolls among these classes, and the estimate of the number of men now in the German Army is placed at 1,250,000.

CATTLE MARKET

With heavy receipts of cattle, constituting a record for this season of the year, this week's markets opened on Monday with a rather sharp decline of from 75c. to $1 for light and medium quality butcher cattle. There was a good demand for heavyweight steers, but offerings in this class were few. A small bunch of four steers topped the market at $15, and a few lots sold around $13.75 to $14, but outside of these few cattle of extra quality the general demand for the bulk of the offerings was slow and draggy. The subsequent markets were not helped any by the prolonged and unusual mild weather conditions, the dressed beef trade in consequence being very dull. Monday's price declines, therefore, never had a chance to recover, but rather the tendency was to go still lower in a dull and draggy market.

Cows suffered in the general decline, and the commoner sorts were hard to sell.

Canners declined fully a dollar from the previous week's prices.

For anything of choice quality and good weight among the feeders there was a fairly steady demand at good prices.

Except for choice veals the calf trade was weak.

The sheep and lamb market steadily declined during the week, closing very dull on a total decline for the week of from $2 to $3, heavy lambs suffering the most.

The hog market has been in a very unsettled state, in consequence of the recent cessation of buying by the British Commission. Something like a panic occurred, in fact on Monday, when the leading packers' representatives announced that they had received orders not to buy any hogs this week. Prices in consequence slumped heavily. But in spite of the supposed order not to buy, it soon became evident that the packers were buying hogs in the country, and later here, and that prices showed a tendency to stiffen again, though covering a rather wide range, and the market remaining generally very unsettled. The low point during the week seemed to be about $15.25 to $15.50 on the fed and watered basis, while the high point went from $16 up to $17 for select hogs, weighing anywhere from 150 to 240 lbs. Heavy hogs were at the bottom of the scale. Buyers were not particularly keen for hogs in the closing market.

Cattle Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total Receipts this week—435 cars, with 8,134 cattle, 527 calves, 5,771 hogs, and 2,808 sheep and lambs.

City Cattle Market —25 cars, with 303 cattle, 514 sheep and lambs, 309 hogs, and 38 calves.

MAN CHARGED WITH THEFT OF HEROIN IS EXTRADITED TO U. S.

G. H. Teller, Held at Chatham, is Removed Across the Border.

CHATHAM, Jan. 24.—George Howe Teller, who was arrested here on a charge of stealing dope, has been extradited. He came there from the states, and by a clever ruse, it is alleged, secured a quantity of heroin from a local drug store, while he was not being watched. The drug was recovered and when he was arrested he had a number of needles and other dope-fiend appliances.

Passing of An Old Western Institution

Saloons in Pacific States Have Existed Since Early Days of Gold Rush.

Statewide prohibition went into effect in Montana at midnight of December 30, 1918. With the passing of the saloon there disappeared one of the picturesque institutions of the West, says a Helena, Montana, story to the San Francisco Bulletin. At one time the saloon was an important feature in the social life of the hardy pioneers of the Treasure State.

In the early days when men were blazing the Western trails, the saloon followed them and, as a rule, was among the first industries to set up and transact business in the community. With a canvas for a top and a board bridging two boxes for a bar, hospitality at so much a drink was dispensed to the argonauts.

As communities prospered, the owner of the saloon or "halfway house" waxed prosperous in proportion. The barkeeper's was a strenuous life, for those who sought the cheer he dispensed included miners, cowboys, Indian fighters, cattlemen, sheepmen, the renegade and the ne'erdowell. Revolvers, more often than not, were the arbiters of disputes. The barkeeper's argument lay on the bar within handy reach and in full sight of the perhaps too ebullient customer to remind him that there were limits within which he mus confine his celebration.

Cowpunchers, after months on the prairies, looking after cattle, free of restraint and their pockets full of money, rode into town scarcely discernable in a cloud of dust, punctuated with the flash of fire and report of revolvers. Like a tornado they swirled up to the front of the saloon, reined their ponies back on their haunches and sometimes rode in through the swinging doors. These were profitable days for the barkeeper, but he must needs be a diplomat if his place remained intact.

Hard on the heels of the saloon came the gambler with the tools of his trade. Then followed the dance hall adjunct which brought with it the "orchestra," such as it was, or the automatic musical machines. All were part and parcel of the saloon.

Some of the modern saloons in the State's larger cities were elaborate in their fixtures, furniture and decorations. Until a few years ago Butte had a buffet whose entire floor was inlaid with imitation dollar coins, entirely natural in appearance.

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"Review of the Bond Market in Canada for 1918"

By J. W. MITCHELL, Vice-President, Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited.

Constant familiarity with current financial events is one of the prerequisites of successful investing.

We have prepared a pamphlet briefly reviewing the Canadian Financial situation during the year 1918. Final figures for the Victory Loan and comparative statistics of Canadian bond sales, 1910-18, are included. We shall be glad to furnish a copy on request.

Brian Refuses to Make Up, Although Ruth Begs Him To.

CHAPTER XCVI

In the midst of Ruth's misery there was projected the thought of her employer's kindness and thoughtfulness. For the first time there crossed her mind something like a wish that Brian was more like him. Mandel was so dependable, and Brian so erratic. How she hated that crowd which were in he thoughts, represented by Mollie King and Claude Beckly. She blamed them for Brian's defection, for all his unstable ways, instead of blaming Brian himself.

It was getting late. Where had Brian gone? Would he return that night or was he so angry he would do as he had the night before and remain out? Finally Ruth's sobs were quieted. She, too, began to get angry. If Brian were going to treat her like this she would not be so careful in the future not to hurt him. She rose, took a hot bath, then went to bed. Hardly had she crept between the sheets when she heard his key in the door. She would pretend to be asleep. He could think then that she was as indifferent as he. So when he spoke she pretended not to hear, even when he sighed so deeply that she wanted to ask him what he meant. She hoped he was sighing because they weren't good friends, but she wasn't going to risk another snub, so she kept her eyes closed.

The next morning she made up her mind to try to act as if nothing had happened. Brian had explained where he was the night she came home; and she knew that down in his heart he knew she loved him, also that he knew her coming home in Mandel's car meant nothing. She never thought of doubting HIM. Neither that he might not accept HER explanation in the same spirit.

"Hurry, Brian, breakfast is nearly ready," she called as she hurried into the kitchen to see what Rachel had had for breakfast.

When he sat down with her a few moments later, she saw he had not recovered his good nature; that he was still grouchy. She sighed a little as she poured his coffee, and tried to get him to tell her what news was in the paper.

"You can read, look for yourself," he gave her a part of the paper.

"Oh, isn't the war news dreadful? Why, this article reads as if something might happen to drag us into it." Then after a minute: "Here's another one. All on our preparedness, rather unpreparedness. Why Brian, think what it would mean to us if anything should happen. This country, I mean. We are 3,000 miles away. We couldn't get a large army across. It would be impossible."

"Nothing is impossible to Uncle Sam," his tone gruff.

"But we haven't ships, means of transportation, and we have no drilled soldiers ready to fight, like the other countries."

"It's a disgrace that we haven't," he went on eating. Ruth was almost discouraged, trying to make up with him. Even talking of the war, in which he had always been so interested, would not make him pleasant to her. He was more hurt than she knew.

"How long are those Canadian soldiers going to be here?" she tried again.

"I haven't asked them."

It was awfully discouraging. Her lip quivered as she took the cup he held out to her and refilled it. Even the fact trivial as it was, that he always said something about the coffee being good and this morning said nothing, hurt her.

"Do be nice, Brian," she said as she passed back the cup I shall be unhappy all day if you are not."

"I see no reason why I should be nice to you. Mandel will probably see that you are taken care of."

"Oh, Brian, you silly boy!" she realized that he was still thinking of Mandel's courtesy of the day before. "I'm sorry I let him send me home, dear. But I really was ill. He has offered to many times before, but I always refused. You made me ill by staying out all night!" she said more heatedly. "It was your fault that I felt so badly I was willing to accept the favor, not mine."

"That's right! Try to save your own face by throwing the blame on someone else. Ride in Mandel's cars all you want to. I knew it would come to that when you went to work for him. I'm not a fool, neither am I blind!"

"Oh, Brian!" Ruth said again as he flung from the table and started for the hall. "Aren't you going to kiss me, dear? You haven't, you know, since I came home."

"Mandel has most likely made up my deficiencies."

The door closed after him upon the last word. Ruth laid her head on the table and cried as if her heart would break. Mammy Rachel could give her no comfort. She was sure she had lost Brian, and could not feel herself at fault. She telephoned the shop she was too illl to work.

WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are extremely hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms; takes colds and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They regulate the stomach and bowels and prevent or cure colds. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Make Your Hens Lay More Eggs

Whether eggs bring 30c. or $1.00 per dozen, the profit from hens is in the number of eggs they lay. Make your hens lay more eggs by giving them proper feed. Ordinary grain feed and mill-mixtures will keep poultry alive and supply the elements that develop yolks, but, for complete eggs you must give hens egg-making feed which produces whites in equal proportion to yolks. Purina Scratch Feed and Purina Chicken Chowder are the result of scientific research and many years of practical experience in developing a food that is a perfectly balanced egg-producing combination. To users of Purina Scratch Feed and Purina Chicken Chowder, we give a guarantee of MORE EGGS or YOUR MONEY BACK. Young chicks grow fast and big in bone and meat and Moulting Hens get fine new plumage quickly and start laying again promptly, when fed Purina Foods. Ask your dealer for Purina Poultry Foods. ### BLAME AMERICAN BACON.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—A statement issued by the Department of Agriculture yesterday, touches on the situation created by British cancellation of orders for Canadian meat products. The statement reads: "Sales of Canadian bacon are very slack on the European market at the present time. This is largely due to market readjustments, which are now going on in Great Britain. Comparatively large quantities of American dry salt bacon are in storage there. This unusual supply of bacon, of a kind not usually used by the British consumer and not relished by him in reducing consumption. It is anticipated, however, that considerable of the American bacon in question will shortly now be sent to continental nations accustomed to using it, and thus relieve the situation in Great Britain. There are no large stocks of Canadian bacon on hand in Great Britain, hence the present cessation of shipments is regarded as only temporary, and need not cause undue alarm. As far as can be seen at present, the British market will be ready to absorb our whole exportable surplus in the near future.

GRIP? KNOCK IT OUT

Victim Tells of Decoction That Cured Him Quickly.

Prescription Brought From France by Soldier Son Saved Him Many Days and Nights of Misery and a Doctor's Bill.

The symptoms were unmistakable. Pains shot up my back and through my head. Sneeze followed sneeze, and I felt as weak as, but more helpless than, a kitten.

When I got home from the office—and I don't know how I managed to crawl there—my whole body was one large ache. My wife rushed to meet me at the gate.

"Jack's come home on leave, dear," she said, throwing her arms around my neck in sheer ecstasy. "He got fourteen days. Isn't it simply glorious?" (Jack is our soldier boy.)

I didn't like to do so, but on the grounds of expediency I gently but firmly pushed her off.

"Be careful, old girl," I explained. "I've got it."

She knew by my watery eyes what I meant by it, and slipped her arm in mine to help me up the path. I was glad of her assistance, for I was shivering all over and felt very depressed.

"Jack will be disappointed. He's looking forward to having such a good time, and now it looks as if you will be in all the time."

With a groan, I curled up on the couch.

"Whatever are we to do?" she asked as she brought my slippers. "I've nothing in the house and the shops are all closed. Goodness knows where we can find a doctor, and poor Jack will soon be back. He's just run round to have a peep at Gwen."

The situation was certainly desperate. My head seemed to be bursting, and so did my heart. This was a poor sort of welcome to give to our sonnie after years of absence, and I will freely own that by this time something else as well as influenza was responsible for my watery eyes.

"Yes, dad," said Jack half an hour later as he sat by my bed, "a month ago I thought some of us were in for a terrible time. We never had such a drenching and couldn't get a blessed bit of clothing dry. We ached all over. In fact, we were just about like you. It was rotten luck, too, for we missed some of the fun. But just when we were at our worst, a French peasant told us he knew of something that would soon put us right. He told us he had two herbs in his garden which he believed would save half the world if they were only used. Elder blossom and peppermint, those were the two.

"Well, he dropped a handful of each in a jug and made a strong infusion by pouring a pint and a half of boiling water over them, just as I have done. He let it steep for about half an hour on the hob, then strained and sweetened it, and made us drink it as hot as we could stand it. He simply soaked us with it, but the next day we were like new men.

"What, do you say you can hardly believe it? Well, here comes mother with a jugful. It was lucky I had some with me, and I'll take good care never to be without it. Now take a good swig of this. It's quite nice. Then cover up and we'll pile on the clothes."

Sooner than I could have believed, the perspiration was rolling down my face in grand style. Later on I emptied the jug and fell into a deep, refreshing sleep.

The next morning the feeling of ennui had passed away. My head was clearer, and I could even make a joke. The day after I was able to sit up, and I've never looked back since.

Now this is not a fairy tale, but a sober fact, and if all who are victims of the influenza fiend would try this magic potion they would soon be breathing benedictions on the head of that unknown peasant in Flanders. It is so harmless that you cannot use it amiss, and so effectual that you cannot give it in vain.—Buffalo Express.

DOLLAR DAY

The day when the Dollar Bill talks louder in Peterborough Stores than any other day in the year. This season it will be held on Wednesday, January 29th. About 60 of the principal stores in the City are participating and are busy preparing the best list of bargains they can possibly find in their splendid Stocks and shoppers will certainly appreciate the extremely varied offerings such an array of stores will assure. As usual the big list of Cash Bonuses is a liberal one, as the Merchants ARE GIVING AWAY $185.

Wednesday, Jan. 29

$185 CASH PRIZES

This Money will be Given Away in this way:—With every Dollar Purchase on that day, an Estimating Blank will be given to the purchaser. You will fill in your name and address, and a number representing your estimate on the following question:

Estimate the Number of these Blanks that will be filled in and dropped into the Wooden Box in front of "Examiner" Office by 10.15 p.m. on DOLLAR DAY

The nearest correct estimate will be awarded 1st Prize of $35, 2nd $20, 3rd $15, and so on

STORE EMPLOYEES EXCLUDED. PRIZES ARE INTENDED FOR THE PUBLIC EXCLUSIVELY, AND EMPLOYEES OF THE STORES ARE NOT ALLOWED TO COMPETE.

56 Cash Prizes

| | |
|---|---|
| Nearest correct estimate, 1st prize | $35.00 |
| Next nearest correct estimate, 2nd prize | $20.00 |
| Next nearest correct estimate, 3rd prize | $15.00 |

| Next nearest correct estimate, 11th prize | $5.00 |
| Next 5 nearest correct estimates, 5 prizes, each | $3.00 |
| Next 10 nearest correct estimates, 10 prizes, each | $2.00 |
| Next 30 nearest correct estimates, 30 prizes, each | $1.00 |

For your guidance in estimating, we might say that The Examiner is printing and distributing to the Merchants, for use on Dollar Day, 25,000 blanks, and it is only necessary to estimate what number each purchaser thinks will be used on the great day. Should any store run short of blanks, The Examiner will print more, so that the number printed might reach as high as 40,000. The number of estimates put in the last Dollar Day Campaign was in the neighbourhood of 10,000. With this information, an estimate can be made before doing your shopping. Of course as many estimates can be made as the purchaser has blanks, and they will get one with every Dollar purchase they make.

Make up your mind what and where you want to buy and come to Peterborough on Wednesday, January 29th, expecting the greatest economy shopping event of your lives.

YOU CAN RECOGNIZE ALL THE STORES WHERE DOLLAR SPECIALS ARE BEING GIVEN BY THE BLUE LETTERED PENNANTS IN THEIR WINDOWS.

Haircuts Coming High.

It begins to look as if the married man will have to get his wife to mow the grass on his dome or learn to cut his own hair. For the 50-cent haircut has appeared on the barber shop horizon. The Master Barbers' association has decided that in these prosperous times their rakeoff is not sufficient to purchase the good things, so they have called a meeting for the purpose of boosting the price of a haircut to 50 cents. There is an excuse, of course. It is the war. Many barbers have been taken by the draft, is the assertion of the master wielders of the shears and razors, and it is difficult to get expert hair cutters and shavers to fill their places. Also the tips have fallen off, so the bosses are confronted with the possibility of paying higher wages to counteract the loss of tips, thus playing the good old game of "passing it on to the consumer."—New York Sun.

His Bread Pan No Wash Basin.

The only pan in the camp of forest fire fighters on North river and the refusal of the cook of the camp to allow the pan to be used as a wash basin started the trouble which resulted in the discharge of part of the crew, who were forced to walk back to civilization many a weary mile to enjoy the luxury of a bathtub and restaurant meals, says a Seattle (Wash. dispatch to Milwaukee Free Press.

The cook decreed that the pan must be used for bread-making purposes only. He objected, as did the foreman, to the combination use of the pan. Orders were issued that all fire fighters could lave their soiled countenances in a nearby creek.

Now the cook has supreme control and supervision of the pan for bread-making only.

Gold Mining Classed as Essential.

Gold mining has been listed as an essential industry, the war industries board announced on July 19, and all reasonable priority of material and supplies used in gold production will be given. The action was taken on request of the treasury department. The decision was interpreted by an official of the priorities committee to mean that every possible assistance would be given the gold mines in obtaining necessary materials.—Engineering and Mining Journal.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

TO PROTECT WIDOW

Egyptian Wrote First Will of Which There Is Record.

Papyrus on Which the Desires of Utah Were Recorded Has Recently Been Discovered in a Good State of Preservation.

Utah, the Egyptian, looked out from beneath his shaggy eyebrows across the Nile, where the eternal Pyramids shimmered in the heat against the cloudless sky. Gods of Egypt! How dim were those piles of stone! In the bright light of the sun god, Ra, he should have seen those man-made mountains clearly.

Shades of his ancestors! His eyes were dimming fast! He was getting old—very old, so he suddenly realized. He looked into the basin of the fountain in the courtyard. The image reflected made him conscious, for the first time, of his swiftly approaching end. He sank down upon the fountain's rim and mused upon the shortness of life, its varying fortunes and the prospects af the future life—according to the beliefs of himself and his fathers.

Ah, well, he was ready to die. He did not fear after death to take the journey with the sun god, Ra, in the Boat of a Million Years to the Fields of Peace. No, by Amen, the god of Thebes! Had not Utah led a good life?

Yes, he had always been just, merciful and kind to his servants and his household. They had lacked nothing while he lived, nor had his wife, Shefta, the daughter of Sat Sepdu.

But, after he was gone—ah, Pharaoh, the great one who gives life to his people—would his memory be sufficient to keep her from want or mistreatment? Would she ever be set out of the great stone house as the widows of others had been in the past?

A chill, sharper even than the chill of old age, shook him. It was the chill of fear for his beloved.

Then a happy thought warmed his veins again.

The people of his household and his city ever had listened and obeyed his spoken and written word during his life. His words by voice or writing were considered authority and wholesomely respected. Doubtless, then, would his written words be followed when he was in the Fields of Peace. Strange, neither he nor anyone else had thought of such a thing before.

So with reeds, fluid and papyrus he wrote in beautiful picture writing.

That happened more than 1,500 years ago. However, the papyrus has kept in a good state of preservation all those centuries and was recently discovered by excavators. Translated, it proved to be the will or legacy of Utah, allowing his wife, "Shefta, daughter of Sat Sepdu of Gesab," four Eastern slaves and "the right to dwell in my house without allowing her to be put forth on the ground by any person."

The "will" is considered by authorities to be the first ever drawn.

Buttons and the War.

Buttons are not generally regarded as one of the great articles of commerce, yet a report issued by the federal tariff commission presents some astonishing figures regarding the magnitude of the button industry and the capital invested therein.

There are more than 500 button-manufacturing establishments in this country, representing a capital of approximately $20,000,000 and an annual payroll of $8,000,000. The annual value of the products is more than $20,000,000. New York has almost half the factories, but the middle West supplies most of the fresh-water pearl.

The war has put up the price of buttons, owing to the advance in the cost of metals used in button manufacture, and the increased price of celluloid sheets and all subsidiary raw materials, such as dyes, chalk, acids and canvas. It is interesting to learn that the war has stimulated the business in this country and has led to the manufacture of glass buttons, which formerly were imported—another instance of beating Germany at its own game.

She Saves Fuel.

A little old woman, wearing a woolen dress, a black silk jacket and a little round hat, entered a surface car at a transfer station yesterday, her arms so filled with a great bundle of rumpled newspapers that she could barely keep her balance.

"We've got to conserve," she said cheerfully to another woman who held a seat for her, as she tumbled into a seat, making a dive at the same time for an evening paper that some one had left lying there. "Is this yours? No? Well, the government says we've got to save paper," she continued, as she added this last one to her already big package: "and I'll tell you it saves a lot of wood when I make my coffee in the morning."—New York Times.

Model Village in Belgium.

At the initiative of M. F. Malfait, director of the architectural works of the city of Brussels, specialists are studying at present a project looking toward the creation, on the boundary of Great Brussels, of a large village for workmen which will be, as far as the authorities permit, annexed to Brussels city. It will be a garden city, conceived after the most recent esthetic ideas of cities and especially destined for workingmen and small shopkeepers. Special installations will be provided for work at home.—From Belgian Bulletin.

1st Prize, $50.00 in Cash. 2nd Prize, $40.00 in Cash
3rd Prize, $35.00 in Cash. 4th Prize, $25.00 in Cash
5th to 9th Prizes—Each $10.00 in Cash.
TOGETHER WITH MANY MERCHANDISE PRIZES

Herewith will be found the picture of an Aviator who has just dropped a bomb on a pile of Shells. At first glance the Aeroplane and the Explosion appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful study the faces of several soldiers will be found. There are 7 of them in all. Can you find them? It is nothing but by patience and endurance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses which we will send you. If you find the faces mark each one with an X, cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness are considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time but as TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and many merchandise prizes are given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

WE DO NOT ASK YOU TO SPEND ONE CENT OF YOUR MONEY IN ORDER TO ENTER THIS CONTEST

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. (This condition does not involve the spending of any of your money.)

Winners of cash prizes in our late competitions will not be allowed to enter this Contest.

This Competition will be judged by two well known business men of undoubted integrity, who have no connection with this Company, whose decisions must be accepted as final.

Upon receipt of your reply we will send a complete list of the names and addresses of persons who have won $4,500.00 in Cash Prizes in recent contests held by the publishers of this advertisement. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, as all previous winners of cash prizes are debarred from entering this contest.

NO SECRET PRISON CAMPS IN GERMANY

LONDON, Jan. 24.—German authorities have assured the Netherlands Minister at Berlin that no secret prison camps now exist or have ever existed. The Netherlands Minister states that there is no evidence of their existence. Search parties are still in Germany seeking prisoners whose whereabouts are unknown.

"Confidential Man" Proves To Be a Spy Go-Between

Jay W. Robinson Held in New York on Charge of Treason as Berlin Agent.

CODE MESSAGES

NEW YORK.—Jay Willard Robinson, "confidential man" for Jeremiah A. O'Leary, and heretofore known as Willard J. Robinson, was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of treason in connection with German spy and bomb plots in this country since the United States declared war on Germany, on April 6, 1917.

The three counts in the indictment returned against him allege that Robinson acted as a messenger in carrying code messages written in invisible ink between representatives of the late Imperial German Government in Europe and O'Leary, Mme. Maria De Victorica and Hermann Wessels, alias Lieutenant Karl Rodiger, of the Imperial German Navy, head of the German spy and bomb plots in America.

The indictment also alleges that Robinson, at the time he arrived in Holland with code messages in invisible ink, which he delivered to Frank Rivhards, a native American who was in charge of the German naval spy system in Berlin, he was introduced to a personal representative of the Kaiser, either in Holland or in Berlin, to whom he delivered a verbal message inquiring on behalf of O'Leary and John T. Ryan, leaders in the movement in America, for a free Ireland, just what the Kaiser intended to do for the Irish cause in return for the help Irishmen in the United States were giving Germany in the war.

Meeting With Kaiser Arranged.

His meeting with the Kaiser's personal representatives had been arranged for in advance by agents of the German military stationed in Rotterdam, Holland, and according to George Winship Taylor, Assistant United States Attorney, who worked up the case upon which the indictment was returned, the Kaiser assured O'Leary and Ryand through their intermediaries that Germany had the matter of freeing Ireland from the control of Great Britain in mind, and that just as soon as Germany had defeated her enemies she would prepare a demand which would be presented at the peace conference in which Germany would insist that Ireland be permitted to become a republic.

The Kaiser's representatives informed Robinson that victory for the Germans was certain, and that in return for the help the Irish were giving the German cause a free Ireland was certain to come.

Incidentally the indictment revealed that the rounding up of the evidence against Wessels, Mme. De Victorica, O'Leary, Robinson and others who have been indicted in this city in connection with the German spy and bomb plots was due in a large degree to the loyalty of Benjamin F. Benson, a naturalized American citizent, born in Sweden, whom Richards and another spy chief, then conducting negotiations with the spies in this country from Sweden, approached in the latter part of April of last year, with a proposition to act as a messenger for the transmission to Robinson of secret code messages.

The proposition was made at about the time government officials were contemplating arresting O'Leary, Mme. De Victorica, Wessels and Robinson on charges of conspiring to violate the Espionage law in this country. Mr. Benson, as soon as he gathered the significance of the proposition, hurried to the American Legation in Stockholm and informed American officials there of the matter.

He was advised to fall in with the scheme and to do whatever the German spy chiefs wanted him to do, but to keep in touch all the time with certain officials in Stockholm of the American Military Intelligence Service.

Gets Notes in Invisible Ink.

On May 1 Richards, the American chief of the German naval spy and bomb plot system in Berlin, and a man named in the indictment as "Milton" and "Minkwitz," who is believed to have been the Kaiser's personal representative, met Mr. Benson in a house in Stockholm, where they turned over to him two copies of a message written in invisible ink. It was explained that new copies were written as a precaution against one of them being soiled or destroyed.

On the top of each sheet was the letterhead of the Skandinaviska Import Kompaniet, Stockholm, and they were addressed to "Mr. W. J. Robinson, 33 Beauvoir, Summit, New Jersey, U.S.A." Richards also gave to Mr. Benson 20,000 kronen in Swedish money which he was to deliver to Robinson at his home, in Summit, in person, and four soft white collars, three white handkerchiefs and one white tie.

Mr. Benson informed the agents of the American Military Intelligence Service about the letters, the money and the collars, handkerchiefs and the tie, and after examining the letters they told him to take them to Robinson as soon as he arrived in this country.

Mr. Benson also informed them of a verbal message Richards and "Minkwitz" asked him to deliver to Robinson when he met him, and this message, which was sent by cable immediately to government officials here, is substantially as follows:

"I have regards from friend Robinson. Since September no news from Mayor Dillon received. Mary shall, as soon as possible, send a messenger to Europe for a personal report over the business standing and how much money needed. Mary shall furthermore give a complete report in writing, preferably on one of the firm's letterheads."

Watched by French and British.

Secret Service agents of France, Great Britain and America had been aware of the activities of the spy bomb plotters for months before the United States declared war on Germany. A close watch had been kept on O'Leary, Mme. De Victorica and Wessels from the day Wessels and Mme. De Victorica were discovered to be in this country. Various meetings of O'Leary with the two chiefs of the German spy band's bomb plots in this country were watched, and eventually it was discovered that Robinson, who up to that time had been an itinerant stenographer in law offices about the city, was taking a prominent hand in the matter.

A special watch was placed on him, and it was found that he was born in Minor, S. Dakota, twenty-seven years before, of American parents. He acted as messenger between John T. Ryan, head of the movement for free Ireland in Buffalo, and "Jerry" O'Leary, in this city.

On April 14 he was followed to Halifax, N.S., where he was observed to board the oil tankship American. It was found arrangements had been made to have him become one of the crew of the vessels which was to leave for Rotterdam, Holland, on April 16. When the vessel steamed out of the harbour of Halifax on the latter date, the Secret Service agents of the American, French and British Governments in Holland immediately were notified.

When he delivered the secret messages to her Robinson informed O'Leary and the woman spy chief that in addition to carrying through the messages they had entrusted to him, he also had made arrangements with Richards and "Minkwitz" to become chief of the anti-British propaganda in this country. He explained he was to get up "soap box" meetings in all the principal cities of the country to urge a movement against the United States sending troops to France.

With the receipt of the return communication from Richards and "Minkwitz," Mme. De Victorica, who also is mentioned in the indictment as the Baroness Maria von Kretschmann, immediately communicated with Wessels, Albert Paul Fricke and other leaders in the German plots here, and in a few days a thorough system of communication between the German spy chiefs in Berlin and Mme. Victorica and her associates was in full operation.

About this time agents of the French and British military intelligence services in Spain, Denmark, Sweden and Holland discovered that Richards and "Minkwitz," who were conducting most of their work from Sweden, were sending code messages, some of them typewritten, but most of them in invisible ink, from those countries to the conspirators in this city. Many of the messages were to be sent through seamen on vessels flying the flags of those countries.

Sent Message From Spain.

On November 3 an agent of Richards in Madrid, Spain, mailed a letter to Robinson to his home in Summit, which was intended, the government declares, for Mme. De Victorica and her co-conspirators. It was typewritten, but in code.

Richards and Erickson, one of his sistant spy chiefs in Sweden, on January 10 mailed a letter from Stockholm to Robinson, which was written in invisible ink. When developed it was found to be addressed to "My Dear Mrs. Chaudiere," and signed "your affectionate Maud." Despite the fact it was written in invisible ink, it was in code.

INFLUENZA LEAVES THE BLOOD THIN, THE NERVES WEAK

The Danger From the Disease is Seldom Over When the Acute Stage is Passed---Tonic Treatment Strongly Recommended.

Doctors have agreed that Spanish influenza is really a severe form of the grippe which became known in this country a number of years ago under the French name of "la grippe" and which has been epidemic several times since.

The danger from grippe is seldom over when the characteristic symptoms, the fever, the catarrh, the headache and the depression of spirits pass away. The grippe leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and oversensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption. Too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of strengthening the blood and nerves during convalescence. Until the blood is built up there can be no complete recovery of strength and health.

COULD HARDLY CRAWL ABOUT

Among the many victims of la grippe who proclaim the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Amos Kaulback, of Petite Riviere, N.S., who says:—"I was taken down with a sesere attack of la grippe, or influenza. After a time the early symptoms of the trouble left me, but did not regain my usual strength, and I had always been a strong man. There were times when I felt I could hardly crawl about and I was so run down I could hardly go about my business. I continued taking medicine but it did me no good. Then I found the trouble was affecting my digestion and the disagreeable feeling from his added to my general misery. I was finally advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. I had only been taking the pills a few weeks when I found my strength returning, my appetite improved, and still continuing the use of the pills a few weeks more found me restored to my old-time vigor. I can most strongly recommend Dr Williams' Pink Pills to all who have passed through an attack of influenza, as a safe medicine for renewing their strength."

REGAINED FLESH AND STRENGTH

To rebuild the blood, to strengthen the weakened nerves and to get back the lost flesh and strength is the problem of the victim of an attack of influenza. How Mr. Charles Darling, of No. 14 Week Street, Bath, Me., accomplished this is best told in his own words:

"My doctor treated me successfully for the grippe,' he says, 'but he did not seem to help the after-effects of the disease. I had headaches nearly all the time, my strength was nearly spent and I often had to lie down and rest. I was pale and lost in weight and had a dull, languid feeling most of the time. My blood was very thin and poor and my stomach troubled me.

"One day I got a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the drug store and after taking them for about a week I noticed my health was better. My headache was relieved and I was getting stronger. I continued their use and have a better appetite and can eat anything I want. I no longer have that tired feeling, my color is normal and I am gaining in flesh."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain just the elements needed to build up the blood and restore the lost color and vitality. New energy circulates through the system with the enriched blood, the heart stops its alarming palpitating, color returns to cheeks and lips. Nothing more is needed except sunlight, good air, proper food and rest.

WEAK AND RUN DOWN

Miss Irene Bootes, Portsmouth, Ont., says:—"I take much pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because I have proved their worth in my own case, last winter I had a severe attack of la grippe and it left me weak and rundown. I had severe pains in the chest and under the arms, palpitation of the heart and attacks of neuralgia which left me with the feeling that life was scarcely worth living. I was taking doctor's medicine, but it did not help me and I was much discouraged. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began their use only on the principle that I would try anything that might better my condition. I had only been using the pills a couple of weeks when the pains began to leave me. Gradually my strength returned, my appetite improved, and in a little more than a month I felt my old-time vigor had returned. I am sincerely glad I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I shall always have a good word to say for them.

HELPED HIM WONDERFULLY

Following an attack of grippe, Mr. William Fielder, of No. 132 First street, Albany N.Y., suffered from stomach trouble He says:

"I was very much run down after having the grippe and lost both in weight and strength My stomach was often sour and was very weak. A dull aching pain in the back of my head caused me much distress An article in the paper brought my attention to Dr.Williams' Pink Pills and I gave them a trial. Before the first box was finished I felt stronger and kept on with the remedy. I am feeling good, and my stomach is as strong as it ever was. I have gained in weight and strength and no longer suffer from headaches. Dr. Williams Pink Pills certainly helped me wonderfully and I am glad to recommend them."

GRIP VICTIMS NEED A TONIC

The debility that invariably follows the grippe is not a disease of any one organ. It is a general condition of unfitness. It must be met by a remedy whose good results will be quickly generalized throughout the entire system. In fact it must be corrected by building up the blood which, when rich and red, carries renewed health and strength to every part of the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic, not a stimulant. They build up the blood and not only cure the disastrous after effects of grippe, but are also a specific for all troubles due to poor blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, women's ailments, and the generally worn out feeling that affects so many people. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Doctor Williams Medicine Co., Brockville ,Ont.

The History of Gin as a Curative Agent

Before Gin Pills were available, gin seemed to be the popular remedy for backache, pains in the groins, swelling of the joints and ankles, lumbago, sciatica and other troubles arising from deranged kidney action: but when Gin Pills were placed on the market containing the curative agent of gin—without the alcohol, people realised that the benefits of the old remedy were purely temporary and that permanent relief would be found only by using the new.

The success of Gin Pills is the best testimonial to the value of this medicine, but for those who prefer more direct testimony we have hundreds of letters on file from people who owe their return to health entirely to taking Gin Pills.

The function of the kidneys is to remove the impurities and poisons gathered by the blood. When the kidneys fail to act, these poisons remain in the blood stream, and are circulated through the system until they settle in muscles and joints and there set up infection. You can readily understand, then, the danger of allowing the kidneys to become deranged, and how important it is to keep them in good shape always.

Do not let your kidneys go from bad to worse. At the first sign of trouble, go to your nearest dealer and buy Gin Pills—50c a box.

Or if you prefer, a free sample of Gin Pills will be mailed upon request to the National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto. U. S. residents should write Na-Dru-Co., Inc., 202 Main St., Buffalo. 104

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother!-See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour;

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

HYDRO POWER FOR HAVELOCK.

HAVELOCK, Jan. 24. — Havelock Village Council at their first sitting held on the 13th inst., appointed a committee to urge the extension of Hydro-Electric power and passed a resolution requesting the co-operation of Norwood, Hastings and Peterborough in bringing the matter to the attention of Sir Adam Beck and the members of the Ontario Power Commission. Norwood Council has endorsed the effort by appointing Reeve Squire to co-operate with the other municipalities.

MRS. LENG ISSUES WRIT AGAINST C.P.R.

Is Claiming $8,000 Damages For Death of Husband

Mrs. Jessie Leng of Havelock, has issued a writ against the C. P. R. Co. for $8,000 damages, for the death of her husband, the late William Leng at Bonar Law station on Oct. 12th last, when a C.N.R. freight train collided with a C.N.R. passenger train causing the fatality.

Suit is entered on behalf of the widow, and her two daughters, May and Marjorie Leng.

The case will be tried at the Spring Assizes.

The German Army

How great have been the inroads of Bolshevist preaching in their ranks no one yet, not even their commissioned officers, knows accurately. The officers remain generally faithful to their commanders. It is in his officer's corps that Hindenburg places great reliance as a force to restore order in Germany should the old commander be called upon to undertake that task.

Demobilization of Staffs

While we have fairly accurate data as to the demobilization of privates, the extent of the demobilization or staffs of divisions and regimnets is not so easy to get. In general, it is believed that the Germans will disband all regiments and divisions which were not part of the German Army before the war, except certain new divisions formed of old regiments. It seems that at fewest fifty divisions' skeletons are now functioning and being built up from men from the divisions. The completion of this work would give a standing army of approximately 1,000,000 men.

Great importance is attached to the public volunteer recruiting now going on and unemployment among the demobilized soldiers seems to be aiding this work. Recruiting posters call for lovers of their country to shield it against invasion from the East and against the Bolshevist poison from within.

A number of German divisions on the Russian Baltic line have not been at all demobilized and units whose home districts are in the region next to the Poles appear to be preparing for operations without much change in their personnel. In addition, units whose home districts are in and about Berlin are there and recently other units, although not any large number, have been moved into the vicinity of the capital. Units belonging in occupied territory are distributed in occupied districts.

A careful review of the situation in a belt of 150 kilometres from the Rhine eastward shows that there are in that territory only units which were there before the war or which occupation has moved there. This means that no precautions have been taken by the Germans looking toward a resumption of hostilities with the Allies.

While on the eastern front the army staffs continue to operate in the rest of Germany the army staffs have disbanded, and local command is vested in the corps staffs which were Germany's system before the war.

Headquarters to Close

We have information that on or about Feb. 1 Hindenburg will close his General Headquarters at Cassel and pass on its functions to the War Ministry at Berlin.

The last official task of Burgomaster Clostermann was to prepare a statement of the part that the city of Coblenz played in supporting the personnel of the German Army. His report showed that the total number of soldiers drafted from the city of Coblenz, with 70,000 population was 11,723. Of this number 1,033 were killed or died, and 429 were discharged because of wounds. Since the armistice 6,532 have been demobilized. Had America been called on to place the same proportion of soldiers in the field as did Coblenz she would have had an army of 17,000,000.

MRS. MARION HALE PASSES.

Was Widow of Late George H. Hale, Publisher of Orillia Packet.

After an illness of two days Mrs. Marion Hale, widow of the late George H. Hale, of the Orillia Packet, died at her home, "The Walnuts," in Orillia yesterday, following a paralytic stroke on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Hale, who was in her 68th year, had been unconscious since she took ill. Mr. Hale, who was one of the best-known and oldest weekly publishers, died two years ago last December.

Mrs. Hale was one of Orillia's oldest residents, and had lived in the town about 67 years, having come with her parents from Glasgow, Scotland, where she was born in 1851. She settled in Orillia. Her father was the late James Gow, one of Orillia's pioneers. Mrs. Hale was married in 1873, when she was eighteen.

Four children survive, two sons and two daughters, Harold and Russell Hale, associated with the "Packet," and Misses Gertrude and Dorothy at home. Mrs. George H. Wright, of Penetanguishene, is a sister, and the only surviving member of the Gow family who lived in Orillia. The late James Gow, of Lakeview Avenue, Toronto, who died last January, was a brother. The funeral will take place on Saturday from the family residence to the Anglican Church in Orillia. Interment will take place in the family plot.

Carpentier Is Getting Ready

Expects to Re-enter Pugilistic Game in Near Future.

Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight champion who expects to be discharged from the French army in April, is already laying plans for a re-entry into the pugilistic game. He has let it become known, however, that he will not rush matters, for while he has developed wonderful ability as an airman he realizes that he has become somewhat rusty at the fistic game. Meanwhile he is receiving offers from all parts of the world to meet boxers and he is undoubtedly considering some of them. But Carpentier is out for big honours, and for this reason will go slowly. He has given himself at least a year to enter the ring as a contender for world's championship honours. Two bouts have already been arranged for him, however, one to be held at Strasbourg in the summer and the other in London next October. His opponents have not yet been named, but it is expected that Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight champion, will be one of them.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Loyal Helper

By JESSIE ETHEL SHERWIN

"Now, don't get hysterical, Edna!"

"Oh, it is all my fault!"

In a wild paroxysm of emotion Edna Lyall, the bride of a year, wept upon the shoulder of her father. He looked pitying and serious, but did not speak until she had fully sobbed out her grief and self reproaches. Then he said:

"You must be sensible and do nothing to discourage Harry, or let him suspect what I have told you. He continues to hold his position at the plant, so the trouble must have been adjusted. I fear that cousin of his, Alec Thorpe, who has left town, may have led Harry to gamble or speculate. At all events, Harry has become involved. He came to me to borrow two hundred dollars. It was after he left that I found a scrap of paper with some notations on it. I was pretty well startled, for it indicated that he owed the firm nearly two thousand dollars."

"Oh, father!" gasped Edna.

"I would not humiliate Harry, nor meddle in his affairs by letting him know what I suspect," went on Mr. Worth.

"But what can it all mean, father?" questioned Edna anxiously. "You don't believe he has been dishonest?"

"I think that he has overdrawn his limit and is paying for his extravagance," responded Mr. Worth. "I think, too, knowing the manner of man Harry is, that he will benefit from the lesson taught. I shall keep my eyes on him and make him tell me the real condition of affairs if I see him getting too worried."

It was the first break for Nellie in a hitherto calm and happy life. "It is all my fault!" she constantly told herself. Then, like the sensible little woman that she was, she sat down all by herself and meditated over every phase of the complex situation.

I've let Harry take an expensive flat, and buy an automobile, and cater to all my expensive whims as though he were made of money," she censured herself. "Poor, dear fellow; he has never tried to restrict me, because he loves me so. From what father says, Harry has got into debt over two thousand dollars. What can I do to help him out of it?"

To her artless method of reasoning Harry had simply overdrawn until he owed the firm a large amount. He held a good position, he was a valuable man in his place, and of course it was ridiculous to suppose that he had been in any way criminally culpable, or the firm would not have kept him in its employ.

Never had Edna been more loving and gentle than during the days succeeding to these disclosures. There had been an unusual gravity about Harry, seeming to be thoughtfulness more than worry. Even this graveness, however, was banished under the influence of Edna's winning ways.

"Dear, I have something dreadfully important to tell you," she announced one evening. "I have been reckoning up and I find that I have got to turn over a new leaf."

"In what way, little woman?" questioned Harry.

"I've been living too extravagantly and we must economize. No, no, dear, do not tell me I have nothing to do but enjoy myself and you will do the providing. Why! we are saving nothing and where are our cherished plans for a home? Father told me only yesterday that just as soon as we can build a house he will gladly donate the lot next to him."

"We shall reach it in time," prophesied Harry cheerily.

"And I want to help. Now, there is the automobile. Winter is coming on and we use it so little even in summer. Another thing, I want to help every way I can. Just think! at the end of the year I may be able to hand you quite a sum of money. How that may help you out! for I believe you have overtaxed yourself in catering to all my foolish whims."

Harry asserted strenuously that he had but one motive in life, to give her everything she wished for, but the relieved glow that came to his eyes told that she had hit the mark and that he would be grateful for her co-operation.

There was a new surprise for him, when a week later Edna advised him that she had rented two rooms in the flat they did not need to a couple of lady school teachers at a remarkably liberal price. It was truly wonderful what the sale of the automobile, and the rent money, and Nellie's saving on household expenses amounted to in a year. At its end she came to him one evening, flushed and exultant, and placed a wallet in his hand.

"Harry," she said, "there is nearly $800 in this, and you are to take it and help pay your debts, and I'm so glad to think I can give it."

"Debts?" repeated Harry. "Why, Edna, dear, I have none!"

"But what you borrowed of papa, and the $2,000 of the firm?"

"Oh! so you know of that, do you?" cried Harry. "You dear, sweet, loyal little wife! the $200 was paid months ago and the $2,000 I never owed. I guaranteed its payment. It worried me for a time, but Alec Thorpe had overdrawn it and has paid it back. This money you have saved you will continue to keep."

"As a nest egg start for our new home, yes!" cried the enraptured Edna.

NOT MARK OF DISRESPECT

Omission of "Mr." Before Name of President Is Thoroughly Sanctioned by Good Usage.

A Kansas City teacher asks the Star whether it is really in good taste to refer to the president in a headline or elsewhere as "Wilson." Ought it not always be "Mr. Wilson" or "President Wilson?" she asks. It has jarred on her in reading the news to pupils to find the president's name used without a handle.

Hard and fast rules in matters of good taste are difficult to establish. In general the title is appropriately used with the president's name; in general, but not always. The omission of the title is not disrespectful; on the contrary, the more distinguished the man, the more the omission of the title is sanctioned by good usage. We speak of Webster, Calhoun, Lincoln, Gladstone habitually without the "Mr." So with living men. Isn't it more often "Edison" than "Mr. Edison," "Bergson" than "M. Bergson," "Kipling" than "Mr. Kipling," "Lloyd George" than "Mr. Lloyd George," "Poincare" than "M. Poincare," "Kerensky" than "Mr. Kerensky?"

When reference is made to a well-known man by his name without title or even initials, there is an implied compliment. The implication is that there is only one Lloyd George, only one Clemenceau, only one Wilson. Whether the title is used or not depends largely on what seems to be the requirements of the occasion [illegible]

One Day Too Late.

The average Oklahoma Indian is more interested in oil royalties than in current events. Recently a locally well-known Indian came into Ardmore to cash his quarterly check, and on being approached for a Red Cross contribution, asked:

"What for, Red Cross?"

Red Cross work was briefly explained, and the Indian came back with another query. "What war?"

"Why, the war with the Germans," was the answer. "Didn't you know America is at war with the Germans?"

"No," replied the Indian. "How long?"

The situation was explained at length, and after studying over the matter, the Indian said:

"Too bad! Know um yesterday, could help heap. Two Germans by my place, hauling well-rig. Could kill 'em easy."—Everybody's Magazine.

Entire Town on Auction Block.

Any man whose ambition is to own a whole town will have an opportunity to satisfy his desire.

By direction of Lord Stalbridge, the owner, the entire town of Shaftesbury, England, will be put on the auction block, including private houses, banks, postoffices, stores, offices, hotels and three saloons. The town is in a picturesque part of Derbyshire, perched on a hill in the midst of rolling farm country. The nearest railway station is three miles distant, at Semley.

Sales of great estates are frequent in these days, when taxes are eating up profits and many of the younger generation of the nobility are losing their lives on the battlefields. This is the first sale of an entire town which has been arranged.

Historic Signals.

Our books on naval history which give, in terms of flags, Nelson's signal at Trafalgar, will have to be brought up to date to include in Morse dots and dashes, the immortal "St. George for England" of Zeebrugge. Our Japanese allies will be the first to note the fine watchword for Togo, an intense admirer of Nelson, employed a variant of the Trafalgar signal in the great sea battle with Russia. Said he in his report: "I ran up this signal for all the ships in sight: 'The fate of the empire depends upon this event; every man is expected to do his utmost.'"—London Chronicle.

Got More Than His Share.

The record of having survived two torpedo attacks belongs to Edwin J. Britt, a wireless operator. Within the short space of eight weeks he figured in two sea disasters in the war zone. He was wireless operator on the destroyer Jacob Jones when the American vessel was sunk by a German torpedo. Shortly after his return to land he shipped on the transport Tuscania, which also fell a victim to the submarine. Britt has upheld the tradition of radio men for nerve and steadfastness to duty. His home is in Brooklyn.

Few People Know This

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

Making the Soldier A Civilian

EARLY in the war, the Government realised that the returned soldier would need one of three things.

(1) If he was ill, he would want to be made well.

(2) If he was so disabled by service that he could not follow his old occupation he would want an opportunity to recover his power to "make good" as a civilian.

(3) If he was fit, he would want to be put into touch with employment opportunities.

To help in this three-fold service the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment was organized.

The Medical Branch.

The Medical Branch of this Department gives the special after-care that soldiers who have suffered through war service need.

On his return to Canada the invalided or wounded soldier is treated in military hospitals. If the Medical Board decides that his case requires extended treatment in certain diseases, he is discharged from the army and comes under the care of this Department.

The Medical Branch then provides free medical and surgical treatment;

—free artificial limbs and special boots for deformed feet;

—free surgical appliances, eyeglasses, etc.;

—free dental treatment.

At present this service is available not only on the soldier's discharge from the army, but whenever he becomes ill again on account of disease or wounds due to war service.

The Vocational "Re-Training" Branch.

Some soldiers have so suffered on war service that they are prevented from working at the trade or occupation they followed before enlisting. This branch of the Department arranges for such men free re-training in some trade or occupation.

* * * * *

While undergoing medical or surgical treatment in the hospitals of the Department, or "Re-Training," the soldier receives pay, and his family and dependents are granted adequate allowances.

Information and Service Branch.

This branch of the Department has been organized recently to give special service to the demobilized soldier.

This branch first comes into contact with the soldier in France and England. Here it finds out the soldier's previous experience, the employment he now prefers to take up, and the locality in which he intends to settle.

Representatives of the Department keep in constant touch with returning soldiers before they reach Canada to let the men know just what the country is prepared to do for them, to advise them, and to give them information.

This service will be extended throughout Canada and by means of it the returned soldier will be placed in touch with Government Employment Offices, where details of existing opportunities for employment are available.

The representatives of the Department will themselves be returned men—those who can appreciate the soldier's problem.

The work these branches do will be described more fully in later announcements.

To any one interested in the work of this Department information will be gladly given on application to—

All the Same to Him.

A new office boy, rather small, recently was employed by an Indianapolis bank. He had been on the job long enough to whistle when on duty, but not long enough to make the personal acquaintance of all the other insiders, including the president. The other day the dignified head of the institution saw Young America sliding through the lobby and, observing that he wore his hair pompadour, called out to him: "Say, boy, do you know you look like Hindenburg?"

"Huh," came back the youngster, "I hate to tell you who you look like."

When somebody laughed behind his desk and told the office boy that he had spoken curtly to a real live bank president, he got this answer: "Well, no man can tell me I look like Hindenburg and get away with it. That goes with bank presidents, too."

The boy is still drawing his pay.—Indianapolis News.

Winnipeg Statue Has Close Call.

The fine bronze statue of a winged Mercury carrying a sheaf of grain, which is to be the crowning jewel surmounting Manitoba's new Parliamentary pile, narrowly escaped destruction by a German shell in Paris last month. The building in which it had just been cast was partly destroyed.

Chile Building Ships.

Two large shipbuilding plants are being erected in southern Chile. They will be ready for operation in September and the building of wooden vessels will begin immediately. The first vessel, of 3,000 tons, will be launched in March, 1919, according to the schedule, and another vessel of the same size will leave the ways shortly afterward.

The new shipyards are being constructed at Llanao. The wood to be used in shipbuilding is native timber—Chilean oak, spruce and other woods. The machinery for the new vessels will be bought in the United States if it is possible to get it from this country; otherwise the builders will get it from Antofagasta.

Jews Fought Well.

The reference to Jewish troops, in a communique on the fighting in Palestine, not long before the close of the war, has thrilled the Jewish soldiers, who earned a name for themselves as good fighters, but the fact that they have fought at all in Palestine is a great event in the history of the Jewish nation. The last previous time that an organized body of armed Jews fought in the Holy Land was in A.D. 135, against the Romans. The men who recently brought laurels to their race are the same who marched through the streets of London, a few months ago, with Col. Patterson at their head.

EXIST IN SWARMS

Chinese Race Compared to the Sea, Inexhaustible.

Impulse That Rules Yellow People Keeps Nation From Extinction—White Men Cut Little Figure in Vast Land.

The procreative impulse rules China as the Manchus never ruled it. Three out of four babies die, but the fourth is more than enough. Kill 100,000,000 Chinese and in two generations there are more graves cluttering the earth, but as many living as ever.

The principal product of China is cheap, rice-fed men, who work and starve, or perhaps freeze to death in the cold January nights, or die by the hundreds of thousands in periodical famines, or obstinately survive and raise more cheap, rice-fed men. There are hundreds of millions of them with vision bounded by a bowl of rice and the desire of male offspring. The race is like the sea, inexhaustible, imperishable. It does not wither away at the breath of western civilization. It does not disappear. It does not go under. It persists.

It is, moreover, an impermeable race; to attempt to interpenetrate it is as hopeless as to pour water into a jar filled with mercury. I thought of Macao, Walter E. Weyl writes in Harper's Magazine. The Portuguese have been there more than three centuries and have contrived to make of it a beautiful city, living on opium, gambling and other devices, like a pretty prostitute in pink ribbons. The picturesque streets have Portuguese names, but the city is irredeemably, unalterably Chinese. Look down from the green-clad hills upon the flat roofs, blue and green and red, of the cluttered, wind-swept city, and you see the homes not of Portuguese, but of Orientals. Of a population of 75,000, only a scant 2,000 claim a dubious Portuguese origin.

The same is true of Hongkong, with its British bund and its foreign banks, and its few thousand white-faced men surrounded by swarming Chinese. In the Hongkong city of Victoria, which is a narrow strip between the granite hills and the bay, the wealthy white inhabitants are forced upward onto the terraced hillsides, where their charming semi-tropical gardens look out upon the blue water, while below on the narrow plain, inundation after inundation of Chinese fills the city to the saturation point. There are districts in the city—Chinese districts, of course—where the population averages more than 640,000 to the square mile (1,000 to the acre), and the crowding tends to become worse. It is a Chinese city.

So, too, Tientsin, Shanghai, Hankow, though they have their foreign concessions, small European islands in an Asiatic ocean, are in population unmistakably Chinese. The white man comes and goes; he lives on the surface of China as a flea might live upon the hide of a rhinoceros. The Chinese remain, breed, multiply.

This the Day of Young Men.

In their enthusiasm, some well stricken in years have been heard to argue that this ought to be called the day of old men. But one would have to be not only old but foolish to attempt to make that out. Youth will still be served. It is really more emphatically than ever before the day of young men. Theirs the main service, theirs the thrill and ecstasy of patriotic devotion. Yet their elders cannot be denied a share in the great making of history which is going on. To be living through it at any age is to stir the pulses and quicken the imagination. It is a time when, with the country making so many calls upon her older sons, they can scarcely be blamed if they adapt for their own use the poet's saying, and declare that it is a period when it is bliss to be alive and very Heaven to be old.—New York Evening Post.

Some men are such clever liars that they can even explain to the satisfaction of their wives where they have been.

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION CURED BY Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small, and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Englishman's Idea of a Yankee.

A lean American was monopolizing the conversation at the club.

"Yass," he drawled. "I've been about some. I've lumbered on the Mississippi, met bears in the Rockies, seen cattle ranchin' out Texas way, glanced round Australia, seen some bush life an' gold minin'.

"Hobnobbed with Indian rajahs, watched a bull scrimmage in Spain. China? Reckon I jest have. Bin anywhere else? I should smile. There's Japan, the Alps, Switzerland, and that jest about finishes the caboodle."

"What is his profession?" asked some one, when the American had departed.

"His profession?" said a little man who had hitherto not spoken. "Why, he's manager of a cinematograph show in the West End."—London Tit-Bits.

Forgot the Laundry.

They were on an interurban car bound for the big city. One of them, the son of a banker, had been intrusted with a bundle containing $5,000 in bills. The bundle was wrapped in a newspaper. Being young, the bearers of the treasure fell to talking of girls and things and when they arrived at the station both got up and started away without the bundle.

"Hey, you fellows," a man who had been sitting back of them shouted. "Hey, boys, you've forgot your laundry."

It need not be guessed that the boys double-quicked back for the "laundry."

BAGPIPES IN BRUSSELS

The Daily Telegraph in its account of the entry into Brussels of King Albert says:—The Yanks came first in the military cortege which followed the Royal party. Then came the French. An interval of 200 yards, and a silence, and then a sound strange to the Bruxellois, the skirl or bagpipes blow by thirty Highlanders leading the way for a company of their kilted comrades. The Scotsman, let it be recorded, had the success d'estime of the parade. How the ladies waved their handkerchiefs as the Highlanders swung past, and how everybody voiced his and her admiration for these stalwart men.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong---According to Dr. Lewis

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by WARNE DRUG CO. & OTHERS.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1919

Largely Attended Meeting Addressed By Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works

Minister Did Not Take Any Chances on Telling His Auditors Anything They Did Not Already Know.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Mayor Duncan's typewritten eulogy of the Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, did not move the last named gentleman to indicate what Peterboro might expect in the way of government aid towards the construction of the proposed Hunter St. overhead bridge or the erection of a public building and drydock long voted for in the parliamentary estimates. Last evening Mr. Carvell addressed a fairly attended public meeting in the Opera House. Other speakers were Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., Mr. R. R. Hall, and Mayor G. H. Duncan, who introduced the speaker of the evening.

Mr. R. R. Hall.

Mr. Hall, who followed Mayor Duncan's introductory remarks, referred to the transition period through which the country is passing. In order to better conditions of employment, Mr. Hall urged the construction of necessary public works such as water powers situated north of the city. This would not only give employment to a large number of men but also provide cheaper light and power for domestic and commercial needs.

No Excuse.

The next speaker was Mr. Burnham, who said that there was no excuse for anything approaching a policy of retrenchment on the part of the government. The wheels of industry must be kept in motion. The government is elected by a mandate of the people and if it is the people's wish that the government stimulate industry by large expenditures of money for public works the government must obey.

Not Pessimistic.

The Hon. Mr. Carvell opened his address with the remark that he was not pessimistic enough to believe that a young virile country like Canada can ever be very seriously affected by depression.

"I will admit," said the speaker, "that we are passing through very trying times. I am not attempting to minimize the problems we have to face. We are seeking a speedy and successful solution of the many problems that confront us. The Government realizes the necessity of constructing public works, not so much from what one place may claim to need more than another, but from the standpoint of giving empolyment to returned soldiers and others.

A Quick Change.

"It is difficult to pass from the task of prosecuting a war to the arts of peace. During the past four years or more we have been doing what no other Government ever thought of doing. We have been passing orders-in-council as though we were lords of all we survey. We have been telling people what to eat, and what they must not eat. The legislation we enacted may have seemed drastic sometimes but it was justified by the purpose we had in view.

"The first duty of this Government now that the war is over, is to bring Canada's army home, and see that the men are properly looked after."

Repatriation.

Mr. Carvell gave a resume of some of the Government's activities in connection with the care and re-establishment on a peace basis, of the returned soldier. This included the post-discharge pay, hospital treatment, vocational schools, pensions, and the land settlement scheme.

Referrig to the latter, the speaker said:

"It takes a lot of money to buy land a good deal more to provide the stock and equipment necessary to work the land. At the next session of the House, the Government will be asked to endorse legislation that will make it possible to loan the prospective soldier-farmer more money on a twenty year repayment basis."

Another problem which the Government is preparing to deal with is the coming to Canada from Great Britain of fifty thousand wives and dependents of soldiers. "This," said Mr. Carvell, "presents a problem in itself. It is to be hoped the people of every city and town in Canada will

Aquitania Has Arrived

Big Transport Has Over Five Thousand Canadian Troops on Board.

(Special to The Examiner.)

HALIFAX, Jan. 25.—Promptly at 8:30 a.m. to-day the greater Cunarder Aquitania with 5,420 Canadian troops aboard, crushed the fenders to matchwood as she slid into Pier 2. The usual crowd of military officers and officials were on hand to receive her, but there were fewer general spectators than usual in comparison with the arrival of the Olympic, her coming was practically noiseless.

In answer to the strains of the band the troops on board sent up round after round of cheers, but there was much less racket than usual. The morning was damp and cheerless, a thick fog hung on the waters, and the great troopship had her headlight burning as she hove in sight. By a strange chance her turning point in the ocean was just opposite the Olympic, which brought an equal number of troops about a week ago, and which is to sail tomorrow with passengers. The Aquitania in the foreground bulked larger in the eye and completely blotted out the other monster, the Aquitania had also passed on her way on down stream the hospital ship Essequibo, which arrived last night with nearly 600 soldiers aboard, including seven officers and 172 other ranks for Toronto and district. The hospital ship will have to give the troopship precedence, and the men will have to stay aboard until to-morrow.

Interview With the McLaughlin Dealer

Encouraging Business Prospects for Cars and Trucks for 1919.

An interview with Mr. Brown, local McLaughlin distributor, makes certain that the purchaser of a McLaughlin car between now and the end of the 1919 season is not running any chance that the price will be subject to further change during that period.

"I have just received a letter from the home office," said Mr. Brown, "containing the revised price schedule effective January 1st, covering the various McLaughlin models, during the remainder of the season. Ten models have been reduced in price, and the other two remain untouched."

It is not necessary to say very much about the quality of McLaughlin cars, and the service provided by Mr. Brown, when it is a known fact that since 1916 the McLaughlin business has increased in Peterborough 800 per cent.

The McLaughlin business year starts on July 1st, and Mr. Brown states he has already sold over $28,000 worth of cars so far. It would look like good business for those intending to purchase McLaughlin cars to get their order in early, as they are assured that the price will not be any lower, and they would be sure of early spring delivery.

Mr. Brown has also secured the agency for the Republic Truck Co. This firm manufactures trucks only, and are the largest manufacturers of trucks in the world. They are now arranging for a large plant in Canada. It is expected this will be located in Toronto. The different models are from three-quarter to five-ton capacity.

Mr. Brown will be glad to discuss the truck proposition with any intending purchasers. See ad. on page one.

QUEBEC, Jan. 25.—Mayor Lavigueur has returned from Ottawa, where he passed a good part of the week in the interest of the city and the district of Quebec.

The Minister of Public Works announced that the estimates were ready, and that during the coming session the Minister would demand the necessary subsidies for the continuation of the works on the River St. Charles and the utilization of the shops at St. Malo.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Second Session Opens This Afternoon—Many Subjects to be Discussed.

OPEN MEETING

(By William Philip Simms—United Press).

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The discussion of the League of Nations was expected to form the principal business of the second session of the general Peace Congress which met in the Quai d'Orsay this afternoon.

Other subjects which had been whipped into shape for open debate during this week's sittings of the "Steering Committee" were:

Responsibility and punishment for the war;

Reparation for war damages;

International labour legislation;

Internationalization of certain ports, waterways and railways, and the procedure for bringing territorial questions before the delegates.

Press Admitted.

Correspondents were admitted to to-day's session, in observance with the present programme of five secret meetings to one open meeting. Premier Lloyd George was to begin the debate on the League of Nations by presenting the British plan. Whether the American programme would be brought forward also was uncertain. It is understood that both the British and American plans, according to the latest modifications, provide for the establishment of what amounts to an enlarged and improved Hague tribunal. The principal provisions of the British scheme are understood to include the establishment of a high court to settle international disputes with enforcement of its findings by public opinion rather than a supernational police force; some form of disarmament; cancellation of all treaties which would interfere with the workings of the League; formation of a board to pass on international labour problems, and the exclusion of the Central Powers until they had proven their fitness for membership.

To-night and All Next Week

Semi-Ready Peace Benefit Sale to Get Over the Top of February.

Frank L. Jenne says that he is not fond of losing money, but that his Peace Benefit Sale has brought him so many new friends and new customers that he feels inclined to continue his sale all next week and up to the first Saturday in February.

"Every blessed article in my store will be marked down. Where odds and ends and semi-ready "lovlies" are not specifically marked or advertised I will give a no-disappointment discount of 20 per cent. There is one line of collars which I am not free to offer any discount off, and for that reason I am giving a more generous discount on silk cravats and silk mufflers," said Mr. Jenne.

"I am selling semi-ready suits and semi-ready overcoats, below the present wholesale value, and for next week only I will do what I have never done before, and what no semi-ready store has ever done. I will make suits to custom measure at the stock price. That is, I will take your measure for a $30 or $35 suiting, the pattern of which you may chose from hundreds of samples I show, and five days afterwards the suit will be here, tailored to your exact measure, as though made by a custom tailor.

Thousands of custom made suits are tailored every season this way in the semi-ready tailors' shops in Montreal. Their special order trade would alone make them the biggest wholesale tailoring to the trade house in Canada. At the stock prices the saving on a custom-made semi-ready suit will save each buyer $15 and more. The Premier and the representative men of Canada wear semi-ready clothes because they are of better design and cut and of finer tailoring," concluded Mr. Jenne.

"I never in my life had anything to do, directly or indirectly, with Villa," he declared. "It is one of the many fake stories invented about me to create anti-German sentiment."

Need Funds to Carry On the Charitable Work

Wilson MacDonald Discusses Work of "Sunny France" Cast.

When asked how the talent of Peterborough compares with the talent of other towns, Wilson MacDonald remarked: "As far as the High School girls and public school children go, I have never found superior talent in America. The ladies who present the 'Dance of the Seasons' are as graceful a bevy of girls as I have encountered in my travels. The 'Tennis,' 'Kisses,' 'My Word,' 'Legerdemain' and 'Girls' dances will be a revelation to Peterborough people. And, if I am not mistaken, you will take the house by storm.

"You no doubt will be amazed to learn that 'Sunny France' ran twenty-two performances in Victoria, British Columbia—this is a record not exceeded by any amateur play in Canada, of which I have any knowledge.

"'Sunny France' is out of the ordinary, and an appreciation of this fact is becoming general in Peterborough, judging from the manner in which the tickets are being purchased."

Mr. MacDonald has just published a book of poems entitled "A Song of the Prairie and Other Poems," that has met with most favourable criticisms throughout the literary world. Mr. MacDonald has been described by Sir Thomas Lipton as "one of the most wonderful men I have ever met."

The Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E. have arranged with Mr. MacDonald to present 'Sunny France' in order to gain funds to enable them to assume their share of the work undertaken by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, throughout the Empire, in the charitable, patriotic and other work that is characteristic of the activities of this wonderful organization of British women. They need hundreds of thousands of dollars for the work they have undertaken, a work deeply appreciated by the governments of the Allied nations whose efforts are devoted to the rehabilitation of the outraged and starved peoples and lands of the world.

"Sunny France" will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Monday and Tuesday, January 27th and 28th.

King Nicholas Believes in the Right of Self-Determination For the Smaller Nations

Interview With the Aged Ruler of Montenegro Throws New Light on Conditions Existing Between Serbia and Montenegro—Willing to Relinquish Throne.

ADMITS FAIRNESS OF ALLIES

By William Philip Simms.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Jan. 25.—King Nicholas, the aged ruler of Montenegro, believes his little nation should enjoy the same right of self-determination as the larger countries. He expressed confidence to-day that the Peace Congress will enforce the application of this principle.

In an interview with the United Press, Nicholas declared that Serbia is attempting forcibly to annex Montenegro, rather than join with her in the formation of a new Jugo-Slav State. This alleged attitude of Serbia is believed to have been one of the elements which resulted in the warning issued yesterday by the Supreme War Council, that claims to territory seized by arms will receive no recognition from the Peace Congress.

SUPPORTS POLICY.

Nicholas, who is living in the Hotel Rue De Rivoli, is watching the work of the peace delegation closely, to determine whether he is to be a king without a kingdom, or the ruler of an independent nation. He declared he is an enthusiastic supporter of President Wilson's policy and that he is willing to abide by the Wilsonian test, as applied to Montenegro, even if it means the loss of his crown.

"The Serbian army occupied Montenegro even after the signing of the armistice, after the Montenegrins had driven the Austrians out of the country," said King Nicholas.

"The Serbian government then hastily attempted to annex our land by force. The Serbian (Prince Alexander) did not hesitate to assume the Montenegrin crown which I wore, and still wear legally, after a reign of nearly sixty years. He wished to go before the Peace Conference with the "Union" of Serbia and Montenegro as an established fact, explaining to the delegates that this was the will of the Montenegrin people. But the Montenegrins rose in arms to defend their rights. They, like the other Jugo-Slavs, wished to become part of a Confederation modelled on the United States, where many of our soldiers lived for many years. They wish to see President Wilson's principles applied to organization of the Jugo-Slavs—that is, the people should decide their own fate.

IN ACCORD.

"I am absolutely in accord with my people, but Serbia insists that any move by the Jugo-Slav people should receive sanction of the Prince Regent of Serbia. Profiting by the extreme misery of my people, who have lived under war conditions since 1912, the Serbians have attempted to win the Montenegrins by distribution of silver and food, these going only to those who did not oppose Serbian activities. But this game was unsuccessful. Bloody fighting has taken place between the Montenegrins and the Serbians, and is still going on.

"In order to stop this war, my office has sent a message to the Montenegrins, begging them not to spill further blood. I am confident of their fate, now that the Allies have again given me a guarantee that the rights of our people will be respected. I am positive that the Allies want fair play; not only for the Jugo-Slavs of Austria and Hungary, but for Montenegro and Serbia, too. I am positively confident your great President will not fail us now, for Montenegro offers a present example of the principle of self-determination. I repeat, that if my people are given a fair chance to express their wishes, I am perfectly willing to abide by their decision."

Movement Suppressed

Portuguese Government Makes An Official Statement Concerning Situation.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LISBON, Jan. 25.—"The monarchist movement has not been extended," the Portuguese government announced officially to-day. "Monarchist troops are marching on Oporto for the purpose of attacking the city. The government is confident it will soon suppress the uprising."

Several warships have bombarded Oporto, where the monarchist's revolt is centred, advices from the frontier reported to-day. Food was said to be very scarce in that city.

Paiva Conceire, leader of the Monarchists, is reported to have threatened to shoot all officials who refuse to obey the Royalist provisional government.

Wireless Plant Seized.

VIGO, Spain, Jan. 25.—Most of the Lisbon garrison has gone over to the monarchists, according to a despatch received from Coimbre today. It was also reported that the Monsante wireless station has been seized by the Royalist.

The monarchist, the despatch said, have sent an emissary to Madrid on an important mission.

manufacturers: The address as an exposition of the serious nature of the problems of the reconstruction period, left little to be desired, but to those who sought to find in Mr. Carvell's words, some immediate alleviation of the unemployment crisis, the speech of the Minister contained little comfort.

A STRONG COMPANY

The annual report of Toronto Savings and Loan Company, published elsewhere in to-days issue of the Examiner, must be gratifying to the shareholders of this flourishing company, inasmuch as it shows the affairs of the company to be in a most sound and healthy condition, indicating shrewd and energetic management. The report shows that the net profits for the past year, after deducting charges of management, interest on debentures and deposits, etc. reached the splendid total of $147,902.60. This amount added to the balance of $36,701.44 brought forward from the preceeding year, makes a total of $184,604.12, which enabled the payment of four quarterly dividends at the rate of ten per cent for the year, the transfer of $50.000 to the reserve fund and the maintenance of a balance of $34,604.12 in the profit and loss acount. The reserve fund of the company has now reached the substantial total of $1,100,000.00, while assets otal $4,074,188.32. The growth of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company has been steady and consistent; it has been direct and managed wisely since its organization and the report of the operations of the past year proves that the progress that has always distinguished the concern has been maintained. Mr. Herbert C. Cox has been re-elected president of the company for the ensuing year. The other officers, Messrs. W. G. Morrow and Richard Hall, Vice-Presidents, and Messrs D. W. Dumble, E. T. Malone K. C. and E. R. Wood directors have also been re-elected.

THE ARMY DRIVE.

The Salvation Army Red Shield Drive, not only locally but in many other centres, has not been meeting with the support that it merits. No campaign has been so generally endorsed or so little criticized as the one at present before the people of Canada. Everybody is enthusiastic over the work of the Army, both here and overseas, and everybody is anxious that the movement should be helped; but the trouble is that nearly everybody wants the other fellow to do the helping. Words of commendation will not maintain comfort depots for our men overseas—laudations on the work of the Army will not equip hostels or provide emergency homes here in Canada. The cold hard cash is what is required, and so far it has not been produced in the quantities that are essential for the proper carrying out of the splendid plans of the Salvation Army.

The campaign is not yet closed, and there is still the chance of Peterborough redeeming herself. This city, which went over the top in every patriotic campaign since the war began, cannot afford to fail now, when an organization like the Salvation Army, whose efforts have been commended by every Canadian soldier, is making its first appeal for assistance. There are people who could have made a big donation who have been satisfied with contributing a trifling sum; there are other people who could have helped to some extent at least, who have given absolutely nothing.

Before the campaign is finally closed it is confidently hoped that the people of Peterborough will realize their responsibility and rally to the support of the Salvation Army. The words of Major C. A. Williams, pastor of Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto, should be remembered. "The Salvation Army," says Major Williams, "gets nearer to the people than any church. Its officers and soldiers are trained in the university of humanity itself, and they face in a human way humanity's greatest difficulties. For this we should be devoutly grateful and support to the limit their splendid effort in re-making manhood and womanhood."

BE A REAL CANADIAN.

"Canadian" is the name given to the man, woman and child who lives in Canada. We do not feel jealous because the United Statesers appropriate the title of "American."

One does not have to be born in Canada to be a Canadian. Citizenship is achieved, apart from birthright, by origin in British countries and by naturalization.

The people who have come to Canada are known as Canadians. Either they are proud to bear the name or they should not be in the country.

The British-born immigrant became a Canadian when he passed down the gangplank of the ship. He did not give up his heart bonds with the motherland, but he cast in his lot with the country to which many other British people had come.

Every Canadian should be working for the welfare of the country. We should all be worthy of a free citizenship. We are a sovereign people in our own right. As a Toronto judge said the other day when a Canadian goes into a jury box he is no longer subject, but sovereign. We are a nation within a congress of nations, and we are asking for a voice as a nation at the peace conference. Our identity is sharply defined as distinct as that of the Australian.

The weight of every Canadian, of every political party, should be devoted to the building up of Canada and things Canadian. In the race of nations we got a late start, but our SPEED AND STRENGTH are going to make up for that.

Everyone who endeavoured to do his duty while the country was at war in more reason than ever before to cling to the name Canadian, and to realize that before every man lies the path to the highest office in the gift of the nation.—London Advertiser.

OVERDOING THINGS.

Mr. G. W. Powell has done so much good work as agent of the Children's Aid Society, and the motive behind his present activity in seeing to the enforcement of what, for want of a better name, be called the curfew law, is inspired by so sincere a desire to be of service that the Examiner hesitates to say anything that savours of criticism. At the same time we feel that there is a danger of Mr. Powell going too far in his anxiety to preserve the youngsters of Peterborough from the pitfalls that may besprinkle their path. The law that prohibits children from being abroad after a certain hour at night has as its purpose the keeping of the young folks off the streets and out of places that they should not be in, at least that they should not be allowed to frequent at a late hour in the evening. The spirit of such a measure is excellent, and Mr. Powell is to be commended for his zeal in the matter, but it seems that it is carrying the policy further than the framers of the law intended in seeking to prevent youngsters from attending hockey matches and similar innocuous pastimes. It is true that if the parents accompany the young hopefuls there will be no difficulty, but in many cases this is not feasible. Infirmities may keep the father away from the rink and the fathers of many Peterborough youngsters are still overseas. Surely there is no necessity of enforcing the law to such an extent that a boy of fifteen years of age cannot attend a harmless game of hockey unless he is in the custody of an adult. There is something about an athletic contest that appeals to the young Canadians and young Britishers generally, in fact there is something wrong with the make-up of a boy who has not a healthy, red-blooded interest in such things. He would not come to much harm in watching a game of hockey or in playing one himself, and as a general rule the boy whose mind is occupied with an interest in clean sport, and whose body is developed by participation in athletic contests is not very much inclined to get interested in other amusements which are far more harmful.

It may be the law that boys of fourteen and fifteen years of age must not be found unaccompanied in a hockey rink after the curfew hour, but it is a law that is not enforced in any town or city in the country. Public opinion is not behind such a strict interpretation of this measure, and in attempting to enforce it in Peterborough there is a danger of antagonizing citizens generally instead of securing the support of the people that is necessary for the successful carrying out of any such policy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

According to press reports the atrocities of the Bulgarians during the war surpassed in wholesale cruelty the worst of those credited to the Germans.

The War Trade Board of the Dominion Government has practically ceased operations. It is now on the same footing as some of the other government boards which have never got started.

A Dutch choral society proposes to give a concert in honour of the Kaiser's birthday, and there is some opposition to the scheme. If the society's singing is as bad as its judgment, the concert should be allowed to go on.

"Canada's job is to grow food," says a newspaper heading. The Food Board says Canada's job is to save food. And the average man thinks that it is considerable of a job now to buy food.

MISS INONA MORRIS, YOUNG WOMAN OF 23, COMPLAINS IN COURT THAT CLINTON MACKENZIE FORSOOK HER

New York, Jan. 25—Companionship with Miss Inona Morris, a young woman of 23, says she bestowed on Clinton MacKenzie, middle aged architect, at his own behest is valued by her at $150,000 in a complaint which came before Justice Erlanger in the Supreme Court. Mr. Mackenzie is married, and lives at No. 399 Park Avenue, His office is at No.15 Broad Street.

Through his attorney, Harford T. Marshall, of No. 34 Nassau street Mr. MacKenzie demurred to the complaint and asked for the dismissal of young woman's actions. He asserted there was insufficient ground for Miss Morris' appeal for damages based upon any alleged contractural agreement. He contended it was against public policy, especially when the plaintiff was of mature age.

According to Miss Morris she made the acquaintance of the architect in August, 1917, when he is alleged to have professed loneliness. She avers Mr. McKenzie said he was anxious for her society and companionship, and requested that she devote herself to him.

Miss Morris says she accepted the arrangement and was lavishly entertained by the architect for thirteen months during which she alleges he spent on her $15,000. Finally, in Sept. last, Miss Morris declares she was informed that Mr. MacKenzie had changed his mind about the solace of her society. In computing her damages she based the amount upon the probable longevity of life.

That Mr. MacKenzie's acquaintance with Miss Morris was not unknown to his wife was asserted by his counsel yesterday. He denied there existed any justification for the young woman's action.

Justcie Erlanger is upholding the complaint as showing sufficiency of cause, said the action concerned the alleged breach of contract to support Miss. Morris for life. Justice Erlanger permitted Mr. MacKenzie to file an answer to the complaint.

Western Municipality Has Engaged Doctor to Give Free Services to Its Ratepayers

An Experiment Launched in 1915 Has Proved a Success—The Municipal Doctor Given $1,000 Bonus for His Work Last Year.

VISITS THE SCHOOLS

One of the most arresting facts set forth in its national importance under the severe test of war was the state's need of physically fit men and women. The call to arms brought forth the weak and strong in all the countries, and it is said to have been practically an universal experience, and an alarming one, that many of the men who looked fit and well enough to pass the medical boards were actually rejected for various physical defects the existence of which had been unknown to them, and unrevealed by the ordinary demands of work and everyday living.

This revelation had prompted the hope that after the war the state would not forget the lesson that had been so cruelly taught, that physically fit men and women were the bulwark of the nation in time of war; in short that sound bodies were the palladium of a nation's life and honor. It was felt, therefore, that there would a new interest in community hygiene, broader and more intelligent plans for promoting and safeguarding public health, and greater stress upon habits that impair and conditions that slowly break down the health of the persons and families that are the units of the state.

This was the war time hope, but, like other bright hopes that illumined the dark days of the war it seems to be lapsing into the shade cast by the pressing problems of reconstruction.

However, to indicate that some communities have the courage to risk innovations and to carry them through to success, it may be helpful to outline the experiment in communal doctoring that has been lifted securely above the experimental stage by the rural municipality of Sarnia, Saskatchewan. This district is adjacent to the settlement of Holdfast. An agricultural section, it is populated by farmers whose homes are necessarily separated and often widely scattered. Because of the uncertainty of obtaining medical service, the men of Sarnia decided to engage a doctor who would give their families his first attentions.

Salary Was $3,000 a Year

Briefly, Dr. H. J. Schmitt of Holdfast was engaged at a salary of $3,000 a year. Under the agreement with the municipality he is required to give medical sevices free to every resident ratepayer, his family and hired help in Sarnia township. He furnishes his own conveyance, but in winter or when the weather is unusually rough, he may request those persons who call him to make arrangements to have some one meet him half way.

The municipality's doctor must visit all schools at least once a year and report on the health of the children and the sanitary conditions of the buildings and surroundings.

The doctor is permitted to make a charge for medicine, not to exceed 50 cents for each prescription, and for maternity cases his fee is fixed at $7.

A Bonus of $1,000

W. S. Cherry, secretary-treasurer of Sarnia, recently gave the information that to meet the expenditure of this venture an extra mill was added to the tax rate. Because of the epidemic of influenza the doctor was unable to report on the number of cases he had attended during the year, but attended at least 1,000 influenza patients alone, only twelve of whom died.

The ratepayers were so satisfied with the doctor's services that in December they organized a deputation and requested the council vote him a bonus of $1,000. The council adopted this suggestion and as a further appreciation recommended the 1919 council to raise the doctor's salary to $4,000 and to present him with a new car.

Oscar Johnston, former secretary of the municipality said that there had been few complaints against this system which he described as a complete success.

Rural School Nurses

A sign of further progress in the Saskatchewan Gov provision for school nurse rural districts. The Governme organized a school nursing division, and a number of nurses have already been appointed for work in health inspection and follow up the work, operating from the schools of the province This has already meant a great service to many districts, especially during the influenza epidemic.

The substance of this account of Sarnia's experiment was received through the Rev. Hugh Dobson, field secretary at Regina of the department of Social Service and Evangelism of the Methodist Church.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backachy or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications

British Fleet Saved Riga From Attack by Bolshevists

British Refugees Given An Opportunity to Leave Russia – Gain For the Bolshevists.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The Bolshevists attempt to bombard Revel, the capital of Esthonia from the sea have resulted in a complete failure, according to reports received here. Every vessel in the fleet is said to have been sunk.

Riga was saved from attack by Bolshevists and from disorders within the city by the British fleet, which was sent into the Baltic late in December for the purpose of assisting British refugees to leave Russia.

Supplies Failed.

Ufa has fallen to the Bolshevists; the reverse to Russian and Czecho-Slovak forces there being said to be chiefly due to the failure of arms to arrive from Vladivostok. Troops, which defended the city have fallen back to Zlatoust, 140 miles to the northeast, where they are making a courageous stand in the Gorges of the Ural country. Thousands of rifles have arrived at the front and have been rushed to Cheliabinsk, which is not believed to be in danger for the present at least.

THRIFT RECIPES

Issued by the Canada Food Board.

CABBAGE SOUP.

1½ Cups cabbage.
¾ Cup tomato.
¼ Cup of onion sliced
½ Cup carrots diced.

Seasonings: Salt, pepper, bayleaf, thyme, parsley.

Method: Parboil the cabbage and drain. Put on the cabbage to cook in 7 cups of water with the seasonings and other vegetables, carrots, onion and tomato. Cook until all the vegetables are tender. Add all the seasonings tied in a cheese cloth bag one-half hour before the soup is finished. Remove the bag when the soup is done. Serve very hot.

TWEED REVIVAL IN FULL SWING.

A real old-time revival has been in full swing at Tweed for the last month. Evangelist H. D. Kennedy, of our city, conducted the meetings. From the start keen interest was shown, and as the campaign progressed the attendance grew, until large numbers were driving in for several miles around, and nightly the large church was crowded and the altar thronged with seekers, and over 200 were definitely converted and publicly confessed Christ as their personal saviour. Every one was brought to see that the old gospel had lost none of its power. The local paper speaks on the highest terms of the genuineness of the evangelist's methods and work.

Mr. Kennedy is to open another month's campaign to-morrow at Thedford, Ont., in the London Conference, and he expects to continue working in Ontario for the balance of the season.

Findlay Released and is Again Arrested

Former B. C. Prohibition Commissioner Now Faces Charge of Stealing Whiskey.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25.—Walter C. Findlay, former prohibition commissioner for British Columbia, was released late on Thursday on a writ of habeas corpus, but was immediately re-arrested, charged with the theft of seventy cases of whiskey. At a preliminary hearing of the same charge, Findlay was acquitted, but on instructions from the Attorney General's Department, new information has been laid to ensure a re-hearing of the evidence.

In view of the adverse decision handed down by Chief Justice Hunter declaring the Royal Commission appointed by the Provincial Government to inquire into illegal transactions in liquor to be ultra vires, Hon. J. W. Deb Farris, Attorney General, stated that he had instructed Crown counsel to institute appeal proceedings forthwith. Mr. Farris also said that arising from the proceedings of the commission so far as it went, sufficient information had been adduced to enable Police Court proceedings to be taken.

Young Men Quit In Danger Time

Halifax Mayor's Allegations Refuted by Deputy Naval Minister

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—G. J. Desbarats Deputy Minister of Naval Affairs, when shown a despatch from Halifax, in which the mayor of that city is quoted as having said that there were a number of boys confined in prison because they refused to go to sea in an unseaworthy trawler, and that he considered the boys had been given a "raw deal" by the Naval Department, stated that the facts of the case were as follows:

"The boys referred to by the mayor were none of them under 18 years of age, and probably ranged in age from that up to 25. They had refused to take their ship, an armed trawler, out to act as convoy to a vessel at a time when submarines were operating around the coast.

The reason for their refusal was not that the boat was unseaworthy, but that their sleeping quarters were damp, water leaking through the cracks in the deck over their heads. They had been tried in an open court-martial for refusing to do their duty in face of enemy, and on being found guilty were given a prison term of eighteen months. An officer had charge of their defence, and they were perfectly free to employ any other counsel that they desired."

Mr. Desbarats said that the men were absolutely wrong in refusing to take out their ship under the circumstances. Their action was much the same as a body of soldiers who refused to go up to the front line trench because they did not want to experience the discomfort involved in so doing. The ship which they were to escort might have been torpedoed through their failure to go out, and every man on board might have been drowned.

Why are more Republics sold than any other make?

The reason why Republics are sold in greater numbers than any other truck—more than twice as many as any other—can be summed up in two words: Quality and Service.

Every piece of material that goes into a Republic must pass the extra-rigid Republic inspection and every part must be designed and put together in the way Republic engineers have proved to be best.

And the result has shown in the service Republics have given in the hands of their owners, the kind of service that makes Republic owners buy more Republics and recommend Republics to their friends.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN ALL SAINTS

To-morrow will be a day of special interest at All Saints' Church, when anniversary services will be held, the preacher being the Rev. Dr. O'Meara of Toronto. It will be of interest to many at this time to know that the work of All Saints' dates back over a period of about forty-four years; from 1875, when a mission Sunday school was established in a small way, under the leadership of Rev. J. W. Beck, M.A. In 1890 the first church building was erected and subsequently converted into a parish hall in 1910, which witnessed the building of the nave of the present church. The history of All Saints as a separate parish dates from January, 1902, while January, 1915, witnessed the completion of the present building by the addition of the chancel and vestries, thus making the anniversary of double significance.

The gravity of All Saints has been noteworthy. At present the congregation numbers 350 families, while the Sunday School has outgrown the capacity of the present building, necessitating the use of the church for Bible class purposes. The Sunday School attendance last Sunday was 388, including 30 teachers and officers.

During the past six years, besides meeting its current needs, the congregation has raised over eleven thousand dollars for building purposes. About five thousand of this was contributed voluntarily recently in the course of a year.

Dr. O'Meara, the Principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, who will preach at both services to-morrow, is widely known throughout the Dominion as a preacher and organizer.

The special collection will be for the half-yearly interest fund, for which $350 is required. The annual vestry meeting will be held on Monday evening.

NO CHANCE FOR THE GERMS.

Appendicitis Operations Not Always Necessary

Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause.

Your physician will tell you that Appendicitis is an inflamed condition of the little sack called the Appendix at the lower right hand corner of the Colon or large intestine. By cleansing this Colon with purified warm water by the "J. B. L. Cascade" this sack is cleansed and the inflammation subsides. Hundreds of operations have been avoided by using the warm water cure for Appendicitis. Mr. Jas. McLaughlin, 91 Evanston street, Winnipeg, writes:—

"I have spent over fifty dollars with doctors trying to cure Appendicitis. Finally the doctor said I must go to the hospital at once for an operation. Your advertisement interested me. I bought a 'J. B. L. Cascade,' which relieved me at once, and am now completely cured. Never felt better in my life; all pain and soreness gone, and I eat and sleep like a boy. I am grateful to Dr. Tyrrell for this wonderful health-giving invention."

Ninety-five per cent. of all human ills are caused by accumulated waste in the Colon. Internal Bathing with the "J. B. L. Cascade" keeps this large intestine as free from all waste and as clean as nature demands it should be for perfect health. Ask Wayne Drug Co., Peterborough, for booklet called "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient." It is free. They will also be leased to show and explain the "J. B. L. Cascade" to you.

Mr. R. R. Hall Refers to the Groundhog Methods Used in Connection With C.N.R.

"Instead of Being Decorated With Titles These So Called Patriots Should Be Subject to An Investigation," Says Mr. Hall.

It is evident that the Review entirely misconceives the object I had in bringing before the Central Ontario Liberal Convention the resolution demanding an investigation into the unknown manipulator investors in the depreciated securities of the Canadian Northern Railway immediately before the Dominion Government suddenly decided to purchase the road with unseemly haste.

The following is a copy of the resolution that I placed before the convention and which was unanimously adopted:—

Moved by Mr. R. R. Hall,

Seconded by Mr. W. H. Johnston;

"WHEREAS, the Dominion Government has purchased sixty Million dollars of Common Stock of the Canadian Northern Railway and has assumed the payment of its debts and liabilities amounting to over $475,000,000 while the Company was showing a loss on its 1916-1917 operations of about $10,000,000.

AND WHEREAS, the legislation authorizing the purchase of the common stock of this Company and the assuming of this Company's enormous debts and liabilities was railroaded through Parliament in its dying days by the use and abuse of "gag law" in August-September, 1917,

Without full disclosure to the people of the Company's affairs,

Without informing the Canadian people the real price that was to be paid for this gigantic undertaking,

Without the people knowing what the yearly loss to the Dominion, its purchase and operation would be,

Without the people knowing why such unseemly haste was necessary in suddenly purchasing this enormous railway undertaking,

Without informing the public about the then recent options and transactions in the London market in respect to depreciated securities which since then have enormously increased in value netting colossal fortunes to the manipulators whose names are unknown to the public,

And without the people knowing what sameless and reckless improvidence induced the Government and its majority to force through Parliament the liability to pay for the unknown purchase price of this colossal undertaking.

NOW, THEREFORE; be it resolved by the Liberals of Central Ontario that a full investigation be held to probe, to find out and make public, all the facts relating to the negotiations for the sale and purchase of this road; the names of those who benefited directly or indirectly by the sale and purchase of this road; the names of those who dealt in its securities before the unexpected purchase of the road was announced and all surrounding facts and corcumstances in any way relating thereto."

Among the liabilities of the Canadian Northern Railway that were assumed by the Government were unguaranteed securities representing the par value of $147,803,745.54.

It is common knowledge that before the Government decided to purchase this road it was proclaimed in Canada and in England, that the Canadian Northern Railway was bankrupt; that foreclosure proceedings would have to be taken; that the road would have to go into the hands of a Receiver; and that financial ruin awaited those who had investments in this road.

All kinds of securities fell in value on the London market and elsewhere owing to the uncertainty arising out of war conditions. For instance C.P.R. stock paying a dividend of 10%, fell from 220 to 150 per share, and during the course of the war even fell lower than 130 per share and all the while the Company kept on paying its regular dividend of 10% per annum.

If this was the experience of a first-class profitable investment what chances would the investor have to dispose of securities of a railway that was being forced into bankruptcy going behind at the rate of $10,000,000 a year with the well founded belief that he would make a great loss.

I have on the most reliable information that unguaranteed securities in the Canadian Northern Railway sold at 37c on the dollar and that transactions took place as low as even 20c on the dollar.

If an investor bought all these unguaranteed securities amounting to $147,000,000, before the Government decided to buy the road, at even 37c on the dollar it would net a profit to the purchaser of these securities of no less than $100,000,000.

Some persons bought immense blocks of these securities before the Dominion Government decided to purchase this Railway undertaking. The important question is had these investors "inside information" that the Government were going to redeem these securities at par? Who are the unknown people that purchased these unguaranted scurities?

These ground hog methods must be investigated and exposed.

It is not a very exalted Canadian patriot who robs the British investor and seriously injures Canadian credit when she needs it most. Instead of being decorated with titles these so-called patriots should be condemned "to go down to the vile dust from whence they sprung."

R. R. HALL.

January 25th, 1919.

Admits Telephone Company is Not Financially Embarrassed

Toronto Officials Up in Arms Over Action of Montreal in Bell Telephone Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 25. — Finance Commissioner Bradshaw's report says that in four years Bell Telephone subscribers increased 27.1 per cent.; miles of conduit, 29.1 per cent.; miles of single duct, 32.3 per cent.; miles of wide, 52.1 per cent. "It would appear," he says, "in view of the great expansion of the company's service, that the time is arriving when new capital will be needed." But instead of getting new capital, the telephone company is attempting to increase its charges to subscribers, though no new capital has been brought into the enterprise for about six years.

There is considerable indignation at the Toronto City Hall over Montreal's action in bringing before the Railway Commission an expert who says that the Bell Telephone Company should get $1,000,000 per year more revenue, although he admits that the company is not at all financially embarrassed and that it has been setting aside too large reserves in the past. It is pointed out locally that these reserves now amount to about $19,000,000, including surplus, depreciation reserve, reserve for extraordinary repairs, deferred ordinary repairs reserve, fire insurance, accident insurance and depreciation of tools, vehicles, furniture and plant supplies.

Mr. Bradshaw, in his report, notes that the authorized capital of the Bell Company of Canada is $30,000,000, as compared with only $18,000,000 subscribed and paid up, leaving $12,000,000 which may yet be issued. A comparison of the more recent issues shows that stockholders were allotted them at a rate far below the market price of the stock at the time; in other words, they were nice ripe "melons" for the shareholders.

Stock Sells at Big Premium.

During the war the stock sold as high as 159 and never lower than 129. January sales this year were at 130. All of this does not seem to indicate extreme poverty on the part of the Bell Company. As a matter of fact, it has paid a dividend of 8 per cent. yearly for 33 years.

Pointing out that 40 per cent. of the capital of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada is held by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, "one of the wealthiest corporations in the United States," Mr. Bradshaw adds that the latter has had a net income increasing from $32,334,814 in 1914 to $38,471,006, while for 1918 net earnings are estimated at over $51,000,000, interest $10,365,000 and balance over $40,635,000. After meeting all charges, it has had surpluses ranging from $4,762,138 in 1914 to $5,589,492 in 1917.

This American Company, whose president and vice-president are directors of the Bell Company in Canada, offered this month $40,000,000 in five-year 6 per cent. notes at 99.25 and the New York Telephone Company, owned by that concern, offered $25,000,000 30-year six per cent. debenture bonds at 101, and the very next day both had been oversubscribed. This shows how readily new capital could be obtained.

Navy to Have Only 3,000 Men Abroad After February 1st

Uncertainty Regarding German Shipping Delays Demobilization Arrangements.

LONDON, Jan. 25. — Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, after a conference with Admiral Sims on arrangements for the demobilization of the American navy in European waters, said to-night that he was confident that with the exception of about three thousand men the American navy would be out of Europe not later than February 15.

When the armistice was signed there were 70,000 American seamen in European waters. To-day there are approximately 25,000. Several thousands are at aviation stations in France and Ireland, but are being sent home as rapidly as possible.

One of the present difficulties in the way of complete demobilisation is the uncertainty at this time regarding just now many German passenger ships will be allotted to carry American soldiers home and regarding when the ships will be delivered. These ships will be manned and operated by the American navy, and their advent into troop service will require the services of men at the ports from which they will carry troops.

The navy is having little difficulty in disposing of the vast amount of material and supplies in France, England and Ireland. The material in England and Ireland is being sold largely to the British Admiralty and the British Air Department. The little that the British government organizations are not taking is of small value and is being sold at auction. In France the navy is selling some material to the American army, while the International Relief Organization also is getting some. The navy also has loaned two hundred and fifty men for relief work in Belgium.

Mr. Roosevelt is here with full authority to clear up demobilization details and will remain until February 1. His presence obviates the delays which would be necessary should many questions have to be referred to Washington.

Inspiring Addresses Delivered By Mr. Trumbull in St. Paul's Church

The "Victorious Life" Formed the Subject of Two Instructive Addresses by Noted Speaker.

Large congregations attended the eloquent addresses on the "Victorious Life," given in St. Paul's church, yesterday afternoon and evening, by Mr. C. G. Trumbull, editor of the Sunday School Times.

In the afternoon Mr. Trumbull gave a definition of the Victorious Life. God's answer to the question, "What is the Victorious Life?" lies in several passages in Scripture, he said. To understand what the victorious life is, we should see what it is not, said the speaker. To begin with it is not a victory, but the victory. To any may ocme the opportunity of victory.

God's Grace.

It is not simply a repression of desires and it is not a matter of our effort. It is a matter of God's grace, which never comes to pass through our own efforts. It is parallel to Salvation.

Grace is what God has done—not what we do. It is just as foolish to believe we could do anything to help Christ to call up the dead on the Resurrection morning as to think our efforts avail anything in attaining the victorious life. Nothig that we can do has anything to do with the victorious life. It is not a life which needs tuning up. It has been said that church going is a necessity to tune up the Christian. It should rather be an act to praise God that He has kept us tuned up.

Christian Acts.

The victorious life is not the result of ourselves. Some suppose the actions in Christian life give victory, but it is not to be had by doing good acts to others, but by being victorious we will do the good acts.

It is a life independent of circumstances and indefatigibly joyous; not an attainment, but an obtainment.

There is ot a syllable in the Bible to indicate that the victorious life is gradual. The victorious life is not possible to obtain by human will or effort. With man it is impossible; with God all things can be done. It is a gift, and like gifts does not come gradually. It is not a matter of effort.

Supernatural Life.

The victorious life is not a repression, but an expression. It is a life which contains Christ; it is God's life; it is the life of Christ; it is wholly supernatural. No person faced with it understands it. It is a life for disabled, not for strong people. If man is sure he is weak and disabled he can qualify for it. Of this we have proof in the words, "My strength is made perfect in your weakness."

It is a life which consists of Christ—not the Christ-like life. The life which does not belong to Christ, but which is part of Him.

There is nocredit due to the man who has the victorious life. The credit is God's. The credit is due not the man who has it, but the Man who paid for it with His own suffering on the cross.

In the evening Mr. Trumbull continued his address with two new phases of the Victorious Life — "Surrender and Faith."

Largely Attended Meeting

greet the newcomers with open arms ad welcome them."

A Partnership.

There is a class of work the government is willing to do and thinks it advisable to do outside of constructing public buildings. This question was dealt with at a conference held in Ottawa some weeks ago and attended by provincial representatives from all over Canada. It is the intention of the government to take the provinces into partnership in such matters. Among the questions discussed was that of technical education, which the government hopes to provide through the medium of technical schools to be established in all parts of Canada. The Federal government also proposes to provide a certain amount of money for the purpose of constructig public highways throughout the country. "There are many ways in which money can be expended," observed Mr. Carvell.

As an example of the huge debt which Canada has accumulated as one result of the war, the speaker pointed out that prior to the war Canada's national debt stood at three hundred and thirty millions. The national debt is now approaching two billions, yet in October last the government of the country was able to borrow from the people in the shrrt space of two weeks the sum of six hundred and seventy millions.

Can Borrow Money.

Mr. Carvell had no doubt about the ability of the government to borrow money, but liquidating the debt was another question. The speaker expressed his approval of the income tax which provides that a rich pay a fair share. The revenue in many cases has increased. A noteworthy exception to this is prohibition which is responsible for a loss in excise of from eighteen to twenty millions.

"Just the same, I am in favor of prohibition," said Mr. Carvell, "and will continue to support it. I am safe in saying that my colleagues are prepared to do the same," he added.

"Manufacturers as a body have enjoyed a wonderful period of prosperity during the past four years as one direct result of war conditions. It is now up to the manufacturers to keep their plants running, even though they do not make a dollar."

The Music.

Those who contributed to the musical part of the programme were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Renwick, Miss Bently, and Mr. E. Hanrahan.

SAYS I. W. W. USED MOONEY AID FUND

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.— Ira M. Ornburn, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labour, has sent a letter to all local unions affiliated with that State organization, warning them that money intended for the defence of Tom Mooney is being used by the I.W.W. in a manner detirmental to the American Federation of Labour. He declared that organized labour must continue "the fight to secure a fair trial for Mooney," but suggests that in future all money so contributed shall be forwarded to the American Federation of Labour, which ought to appoint a commission to handle it.

"In view of information which came into my possession while serving as a delegate to the labour congress on the Mooney case, in Chicago," said Mr. Ornburn, "during the week of January 14, 1919, I am convinced that funds subscribed to the Mooney defence fund by the trade unions of the country are being used to promote the interests of the I.W.W. and in a manner highly detrimental to the American Federation of Labour."

County Council Resumes Next Week the Business of Peace

The Roads Question Will Be Opened Up in All Probability and Some Movement Begun to Assist in Repatriation Scheme—Election of Warden the First Duty.

WARDEN ANDERSON MAY REMAIN

The new County Council which holds its January session next week, opening on Tuesday afternoon, will find itself freed of the special war problems that had multiplied with each of the four years of the war. The only remnant of those recent days is a bundle of appeals for assistance from the Y.M.C.A.'s Red Triangle, the Catholic Army Huts and the Salvation Army's Red Shield Funds. These were referred by last year's Council to its successors, and will doubtless be disposed of at the coming session.

It is expected that the County Roads Question will be introduced for discussion, probably with a report of the conference held in Toronto with the Hon. Mr. McLean. It is not given out by any of the members who went to Toronto on the Kinmount Bridge question, whether the interview with the Minister was satisfactory or not, but the Council at the December session manifested an interest in a proposed County Roads scheme that bespoke something of the proposed activity that was projected into the post-war period. It is felt that the new Council will indicate next week its intentions for the coming year in the matter of good roads.

Who Will Be Next Warden.

This is not the only interesing question that will likely be dealt with at the coming session. Naturally the election of the warden for the year will provide diversion for the first day. W. A. Anderson of Otonabee has more than proved his abilities during the past year, and if he so desires is well qualified and stands a good chance for his return to the chair. It may be observed that his attitude on the roads question has sought a middle course. On the one hand he has stood for and warmly advocated good roads, but has intimated that the provincial scheme does not meet with the approval of the farmers of this county, as he has guaged and received their opinions. If some compromise can be arranged with the department there is little doubt that a County system of roads will be inaugurated in Peterboro as soon as possible. There may be some information on this point from the members who interviewed the Minister. There may also be some effort to assist in work of repatriation, at least to give the lead to rural co-operation with the Government.

However, the reeves who are mentioned as possibilities for the wardenship for 1919 are Mr. McIntosh of North Monaghan and Mr. Bert Squire of Norwood. It is useless to forecast what the County Council will do. There is something of the Sphinx about them, regarding them collectively, as more than one citizen is well aware. They may not be described as inscrutable when receiving deputations and considering such questions as the election of the warden; but the average city man must admit himself working blindly when trying to foretell the Council's action on many questions. This of course excludes such obvious propositions as assisting patriotic causes such as the Red Cross, Patriotic Fund and others of the same land in which the County Council has really shown the way in spontaneous and generous responses But on other matters the city seer is as helpless as if he were playing the leading role in Blind Man's Buff.

Weak, Sickly Folk Regain Health Quickly By New Remedy!

A BLOOD-FOOD, NOW MANUFACTURED THAT ACCOMPLISHES MARVELS

Lots of people that were thin and miserable for years have recently been restored by this simple treatment. All you have to do is take two little chocolated-coated tablets with a sip of water at the close of each meal.

The tablets, which, by the way, are called "Ferrozone," are in reality a perfect food for the blood. They contain exactly those elements your blood lacks when it becomes thin, weak and unhealthy.

This is just the time to use Ferrozone; it excites splendid appetite, gives digestion splendid aid, supplies nourishment for all weak organs. At once you feel buoyant and strong Nutritious blood courses through your veins, supplies strength, makes you tingle with animation and ambition.

No more headaches.

None of that tired languor.

You feel like doing things because Ferrozone completely renews and strengthens your whole system.

No medicine on earth gives such quick, lasting benefits as Ferrozone. It has raised thousands from downright weakness, brings robust health simply because it contains the fortifying elements that run-down systems require.

One week after using Ferrozone you'll feel like new, you'll appreciate what real robust health means. In a month you'll scarcely credit the push your vigor and spirits have received. Ferrozone is more than a tonic because its work lasts, its benefits remain and are not temporary. It restores health where other treatments fail, and should be used by every man woman and child. Try it 50c box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all dealers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

BARRIE'S SALE OF FURS

This Season's Fur and Fur Garments are a triumph of the Furriers' Art. Perfect Skins, Faultless Workmanship and Clever Fashioning, combine to make Our Stock the VERY BEST.

You can have any Fur Garment in Our Stock at a Special Price during this sale; and IT WILL PAY anyone to BUY NOW as good Furs last many years and prices are advancing on all kinds of Fur Skins.

We do not quote discounts or write fervid statements, but for REAL VALUES in Furs we guarantee that none of like quality or style can be procured at as low prices. We leave you to be the judge as you look about and compare among the countless sale values you are solicited to inspect.

Many lines of Furs will be much HIGHER NEXT SEASON; and we know of none that will be lower. This is owing to the increased demand ---the fact that there is a meager supply on hand---a new European demand, and a growing scarcity of Fur bearing animals.

This sale, therefore, means much to those who buy wisely NOW.

We ask all to spend wisely now—keep men and women at work and they too can spend. So start and keep things going--an endless chain- Guarantee prosperity.

That OUR RESPONSIBILITY in this matter be fully met, we are going to let the question of profits go for the next two months, that our Fur factory be kept going to full capacity and at the same wage scale as has prevailed. We want to do our bit to help over the transition period. This is the only way we can accomplish it, and we ask support from all branches of industry to a similar end—the maintenance of wages.

Some Solid Reasons for Business Confidence

and the Object Underlying This Sale

Farming

There are many armies to be fed—armies of the Allies, of the Prisoners, of the Disabled; there are multitudes of destitute in the war-stricken zones, throughout Central Europe, in the Balkans, in Turkey and in Russia.

It will be a year at least, maybe two, before the supply of food will meet the world's demand.

That means continued prosperity for the farmers, who represent half of our population.

Clothing

Every returned soldier will require a new outfit of clothing. The demobilized armies of Great Britain, France and Belgium also will need to be clothed.

Moreover, there will be a great demand on the part of the civilian population for all articles of leather, wool, cotton and silk. There is hardly any article of temporary or permanent use in which we have not more or less stinted ourselves during the past four years.

For the period of demobilization, estimated to take three years, the clothing and textile and all allied industries will be working to capacity.

Building

More houses are urgently needed in Canada. Owing to the scarcity of materials and labour, depreciation of buildings and machinery has gone on almost unchecked. It must be made good.

In England the need is even more acute. And in Northern France and Belgium, in Serbia and parts of Russia everything will have to be rebuilt from the ground up. They will look to us for supplies.

Prosperity for contractors, builders and all the allied trades is assured.

General Manufacturing

Ships are needed, railroad engines and cars, electrical traction, and every means of transportation. All coal mining machinery and the machinery of the lace, silk and textile industries of Belgium and Northern France must be replaced. One authority estimates that there is a need of one million plows in France alone, and other agricultural machinery in proportion.

The steel industries, the machinery factories, the lumber yards, the shipyards will be called upon to the limit of their output.

Immigration

Authorities prophesy a gradually increasing immigation. Our almost unlimited natural resources only need men to develop the wealth that lies waiting.

We have the materials, we shall get the men.

The needs of Canada and Europe guarantee prosperity, if we live up to our opportunities and responsibilities.

Peterboro Soldier Went 96 Hours Without Sleep

"Life in the Trenches Has Its Bright Aspects," Says Bombardier "Eddie" Graham.

"Life in the trenches has its bright aspects," Bombardier "Eddie" Graham told the Examiner when speaking of his three years in France. "You see more genuine humour "over there" mixed with the horrors of the war in a week than you see here in a year. Can you imagine the satisfaction and delight we took last August during the big push when, foot weary and war weary, we landed in a fully equipped German canteen. The fruit was very much the same as our own, but the contents, evidently prepared for the officers, judging by the grade of the wines, brandy and beer discovered, and for which we found ready use. The cigars and cigarettes were smokable, but not nearly as good as our own. In the same canteen we got 30,000 marks, which will no doubt be valuable."

While unwilling to talk about himself, Bombardier Graham admitted that he had, during the big push, gone at one time for 96 hours without sleep. "This," he said, "was quite common, as we were in the habit of only sleeping when we got an opportunity and when some one could be spared to relieve us." He tells graphically of his experiences at Mount Sorrel and Sanctuary Wood when, betrayed by spies, and almost without ammunition, the Canadians suffered such terrible losses.

Children Puny.

One thing about France and Belgium that particularly struck Mr. Graham was the difference in the physique of the children there and the Canadians. They are little, undeveloped creatures, he said, who age long before their time.

Mr. Graham was in hospital at the signing of the armistice, so saw little of the excitement which followed.

The Peterboro Hog Market

Little Change in the Retail Price of Pork.

While the price of live hogs has dropped in the past few days from $17 and $16 to to-day's price of $15.50, the wholesale prices show no reflection as yet of the drop, and retail prices have not been altered. One prominent butcher said to-day that the retail prices will not be affected except by an enormous shipment. He stated that the rise or fall in the price of live hogs is too sudden to reflect upon the retail prices. Hogs selling at $16 may to-morrow be $18, the next day rendering it useless for the retail merchant to alter his prices in keeping with sudden rises and falls.

WILL DISCUSS CHURCH UNION AT ST. JOHN'S

To-morrow morning at St. John's, Canon Davidson will discuss the subject of church union from the standpoints of the Anglican church. This week is being observed throughout the Anglican and American churches throughout the world as a week of intercession for the unity of Christendom. It is expected to hold a World Conference on Faith and Order in the future to be attended by representatives of all communions with the object of advancing the couse of the world-wide Church Union.

KEMP ASKED FOR NEWS.

Militia Department Wants to Know Of Canadian Divisions' Movements.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—The Militia Department has cabled to Sir Edward Kemp, asking for the latest advices with regard to the movements of the Canadian corps in France. No official information on these movements has been received for some time now, and headquarters is anxious to secure definite news.

Mr. G. N. Gordon Delivers Address to Peterboro Collegiate Institute Boys

City Solicitor Deals With the Profession of Law—It Takes Lots of Hard Work to Make a Lawyer.

Mr. G. N. Gordon delivered a speech to the boys of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute Club, at their regular meeting held in the Y.M.C.A last evening. After a sumptuous repast the boys settled down to listen to a speech from the City Solicitor on law.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that profession of law dates back to a very early period and although it is not as that of medicine it is one of the oldest professions in the world. No doubt the profession of medicine has done more good than any other profession and you can only be successful with hard work, diligence and skill and this applies to all other professions. There is more effort and diligence required in the law profession than any other. The lawyer has a great deal to do with the rights of the people. If a lawyer who is defending does not succeed in having an acquittal brought in by the jury, it is not what you would call humiliating, because the lawyer is sworn to see that justice is done

The law profession is subject to a great deal of prejudice and suspicion and it is well founded. In the old days the lawyers were also the men that held the reins of government and they sometimes did what was practical extortion. In England the fees of a lawyer is fixed by a board of judges who have no particular interest in the struggling lawyer. The fees are not fixed by parliament, nor by statute. It is taken out of the hands of parliament because the lawyers in parliament might seek self-interest and fix the fees to suit themselves.

NO EXCEPTION

Lord Elgin said that a lawyer should live like a hermit and work like a horse, and that is good practical sense, because it is only with the closest attention to business and close study and much reading that a lawyer may succeed. To-day is the age of specialization. Teachers, physicians and almost everybody specialises and the lawyer is no exception. Every lawyer should qualify himself to be peculiarly expert in one branch of the profession. In this country a lawyer is usually both a barrister and a solicitor, but that is not so in England. Over there the barrister pleads cases before the judge and the solicitor prepares the briefs and also advises persons, whose rights have been infringed upon. Men who do not find highest positions in it find it a comfortable way of making a living. He is reasonably busy and those that are honest, frugal, industrious and are in good health can reach many high positions. The lawyer's fees are frequently considered high and in some cases they are, other times they are fair.

LAW SCHOOL

Ontario and there you will see a Ontario and there you will see a most magnificent library; the best in Ontario, if not in the whole Dominion. Here you obtain a view of the various courts, appeal and others, and you have some conception of the dignity of the British courts. To be a lawyer you must obtain your matriculation and be articled to a practicing lawyer for two years if you do not go to university, In the lawyer's office you get the practical side of the work. At school lectures are given by various lawyers eminent in the profession and in the interim he passes his spare time in some office in Toronto, where he gets a close up view of the work of a lawyer on a larger scale. The school has a wonderful spirit; the old English spirit, slow but practical and dignified. There is a spirit in the legal profession of freemasonry. There are many prizes and rewards in the profession. You have in your library a friend. Something that you will enjoy better than a group of your friends. You will enjoy that which you can never get at the theatre or at the movies, amusements which simply please the eye and not the mind to any great extent.

PETERBORO FACES THE PROSPECT OF ICELESS SUMMER

Storehouses Are Empty and Ice Harvest is at Mercy of Weather.

Unless the weather conditions change materially during the next few weeks the city will face an iceless summer. Mr. J. F. Allin said that by this time last year practically the whole store of ice had been laid in by his company while as yet he has not cut any. A day like yesterday will not help out as the frost did not go deep enough.

Cottagers at Stoney Lake are very much concerned over the weather conditions as without ice it would be practically impossible to live at the lakes. Not only are the summers hotter there but there is no such thing as a cellar to keep the food even moderately cool.

Fitting Up New Council Chamber

Lakefield Councillors will Soon Have New Home—News of Interest.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 25.—The work is proceeding rapidly at the new Council Chamber and Public Library, which are being fitted up in the old Midland house. The large room on the right of the main entrance is the fire hall, and has been equipped with large doors to accommodate the chemical fire engine which is installed there.

The room on the left of the hall is being remodelled and painted and will be in shape very soon.

A large and very representative gathering of farmers was held in the Queen Street Theatre on Thursday night for the purpose of organizing a Farmers' Co-operative Society. Mr. E. J. Galvin was elected president, and Mr. Gairn Graham, secretary. Several speakers were present and the meeting broke up at a late hour.

Word has been received that Pte. Norman D. Hurl has arrived in Halifax by the "Empress of Britain." Pte. Hurl is another of the original members of the 21st to return to Lakefield. He was wounded last spring and has been in a hospital in England a few months.

Bad Breath IS CAUSED BY CATARRH

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On this account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the outset.

It isn't necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a far better method.

Doctors now treat Catarrh by sending a purifying, healing vapor through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed.

The only successful vapor treatment is CATARRHOZONE, which the patient breathes through a special inhaler to the real seat of the trouble. The rich, piney essences of Catarrhozone heal and soothe all inflamed surfaces. They effectively treat the nose, throat and lungs with a powerful antiseptic that destroys irritation at once.

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balmy air of the pine forest. It cures completely colds, coughs, catarrh, weak throat and bronchitis.

Once tried, Catarrhozone is always used. Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently cure. Accept no substitute. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1.00; small size 50c; sample trial size 25c; at all dealers.

CANADIAN NEW CHAMPION

Taylor Defeats Miyake, Premier Ja Jiu Jitsi.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25. — Jack Taylor, heavyweight wrestling champion of Canada, added another title to his name last night, when he made Miyake, the hitherto undefeated Ju Jitsu champion of the world, cold after a full hour of heavy wrestling. Taylor had the better of the contest all the way.

CLAUDE OLIVER CAN PLAY WITH THE MIDGETS

W. R. Butler, of the Lindsay Hockey Club, has received word from Secretary Hewitt of the O.H.A. regarding the case of Claude Oliver, who was protested by Peterboro under the residence rule. The O.H.A. ruled that Oliver is a bona fide under the students' rule.

LINE-UP FOR MONDAY'S GAME

The line-up for the hockey team to play Port Hope on Monday is Williams, Girard, Flowers, Cherritt, Frost, Campbell, Hagerman and Trainer Dillon. All are requested to be at the station on Monday at

CURLING

The vice-skips are reminded that upon them rests the details of rounding up their rinks for the vice-skips' bonspiel, the first games of which will be played on Tuesday night next. Ordinarily the skips attend to the business of calling their flocks together, but in this bonspiel the skips are set back to the vice position.

Twenty-eight rinks will be entered in the two draws on Tuesday night. The entire 32 scheduled rinks will be entered, and practically all of them will get under way the first night. The curlers are requested to keep next week's nights open to ensure the success of this feature.

HOCKEY

The Peterboro Junior O.H.A. team will play their postponed game in Port Hope on Monday night—provided the weather man does not upset the arrangements, for the third time. The Peterboro youngsters will leave at noon via G.T.R. for Port Hope and the team will be made up of Flowers, Girard, Frost, Park, Cherett, Williams, Campbell and Hagerman. The juniors worked out with the intermediates last night and although they have not had a game since they played Lindsay here two weeks ago, are in fairly good shape and hope to earn the decision over the Lakeshore bunch, although they will undoubtedly have a hard battle on their hands.

Court Decides Boy Must Face Trial For Murder

Douglas Edward Stott Will Be Committed Jan. 28th.

BROTHER WEPT

MONTREAL, Jan. 25. — Manfully striving to strangle the sobs that almost choked him, little Redmond Sheehan, brother of Milton Sheehan, the eleven year old victim of Friday's shooting tragedy on McGill College avenue, as a result of which Douglas Edward Stott, aged 17, is accused of murder, told the story of the affair at the enquete of Stott's trial before Judge Cusson here. When Redmond, who is but seven years of age, reached the point in his story when he began to describe his brother's end, words failed him, and burying his face in his arms, the little fellow shook with emotion and was led from the court room sobbing pitifully.

The brother's evidence revealed an important point in the accused's favour. Prior to the shooting, said Redmond, Stott joined the group of little boys who were playing with the victim, and producing a revolver, explained that it was loaded with four blank cartridges.

Edward Dunderdale, a bright lad of fourteen, who was also present at the shooting, said that Stott pointed the gun at him and said "Give me some candy."

The witness replied that he had no candy, and Stott then turned to another little boy named Willie Harrington, and pointing the gun, told him to get his toboggan out. Harrington did not do this, and the boys, including Stott, continued to play in the snow for about fifteen minutes, the accused holding the gun in his hand, until the shooting occurred. Stott then pointed the gun at Sheehan, and exclaiming "I will shoot you" pulled the trigger on an empty chamber. He pulled the trigger again, and this time the gun went off. Sheehan ran across the street, and fell to the ground calling for air.

Stott went over to where he lay in the snow, and pulling open his coat, felt the dying boy's body saying, "You're only got the shock of the bullet."

Dr. Derome, morgue physician, told the court that the bullet entered Sheehan's side near the abdomen, and breaking a rib, passed through the liver and finally lodged near the spine.

Joseph Foucalt, one of the detectives in the case, said that he smelt powder on Stott's revolver when he arrested him on the night of the tragedy.

Voluntary statement was fixed for January 28. Joseph Cohen, counsel for the accused, not asking for bail at the present stage of the proceedings. Crown Prosecutor Walsh appeared for the Crown.

Borden Will Not Be Home For the Opening

PARIS, Jan. 25.—It may be stated that the draft of the memorandum prepared by the British Dominion delegates on the League of Nations, lays down the principle of separate independent representation in the League Council of the Dominions and India as individual nations. This result was not attained without strenuous effort and long conferences. Premier Lloyd George fully favoured this recognition of the status and importance of the Dominions. Opposition, which strongly developed from other members of the British mission, was overcome.

It is believed the principle will be recognized by the Conference when the formation of the League is settled. This, with any other problems greatly affecting the future of Canada, is engrossing the attention of Premier Borden, and have made it impossible for him to return for the opening of Parliament.

CITY'S GROWING PAINS INDICATED TO CARVELL

Accompanied by Mayor Duncan and an escort of Aldermen, Hon. Frank Carvell threaded his way through the throng of dancers at the Empress last night reaching the stairs through a lane of grace and Belmont beauty which, adventitious as it was to the Minister's visit, became in itself a last phase of the city's reception. Mr. Carvell returned to Ottawa on the late C. P. R. train.

His introduction to Peterborough yesterday was planned with the purpose of giving him complete and first-hand knowledge of the proposed public buildings that fall within his department, also of indicating the canal's possibilities here, including the need of a drydock, likewise the importance of the new Hunter street bridge and the Government's liability for part of its cost, and lastly to impress the Minister with the industrial activities of the city.

Hence his motor trip here covered the water fronts, the leading factories, the site of the proposed new customs house and post office. The city gave Hon. Mr. Carvell a cordial reception, and has the satisfaction of knowing that the local needs have been as thoroughly presented as possible to another member of the Cabinet. The fruit may be reaped at the next session of Parliament.

MEETING TO FORM A LABOUR PARTY HERE

A meeting has been called for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Independent Labour Party in Peterboro and will be held in the Labour Hall next Tuesday night. This movement takes its rise from the Trades and Labour Council which appointed a special committee to weigh the question of forming a local branch and to prepare the preliminaries for the inaugural meeting. In other words the Trades Council gives the Labour Party its first impetus with the hope that it will pick up speed with its own efforts.

"KNOTTY" LEE IS ACTIVE.

GUELPH, Jan. 25.—"Knotty" Lee, of Toronto, who was one of the promoters of the Canadian League, was a visitor in the city this week, the fine spring weather of the past few days having had the effect of starting the baseball fever once more. "Knotty" is out to reorganize the Canadian League, on a stronger and better basis than before, and the prospects for success are exceedingly bright. He saw a number of Guelph gentlemen regarding the placing of a team in this city, and met with much encouragement. It is a certainty that if the League resumes, Guelph will be one of the cities.

Are You Using Pasteurized Milk?

If not, you owe it to yourself and family to study the milk problems of to-day for the following reasons:

1st.—To prevent the spread of Tuberculosis and other diseases known to enumerate from raw milk.

2nd.—Canada lost $1,000,000 last year from Hogs destroyed because of Tuberculosis. The Veterinary Inspector advices that all skim milk and whey be pasteurized before feeding to Calves and Hogs to stop the rapid increase of Tuberculosis in animals.
How much more important to pasteurize for human consumption.

3rd.—Toronto had the second highest death rate of infants on the Continent ten years ago. To-day they are the second lowest because of compulsory Pasteurization of all milk sold in the city.

4th.—You can buy pasteurized milk, clarified in sterilized bottles as cheap as Raw Milk.

Our up-to-date plant prevents all loss from returned milk enabling us to sell at the LOWEST PRICE OF ANY CITY IN ONTARIO selling Pasteurized Milk. Our routes are systemized and not crossing one another.

OBITUARY

JAMES JOHNS.

Mr. James Johns, who resided in the Township of Reach, in the county of Ontario, near the village of Manchester, died very suddenly. He took his breakfast at the accustomed hour on the morning of his death and went out to do his usual work of the forenoon, but at about fifteen minutes to twelve his wife noticed him in a prostrated position in the farmyard, and ran to his assistance at once. He was removed to his house and a doctor from Port Perry summoned, who arrived within forty minutes and ministered all the medical aid possible, but without avail, for the vital spark fled after about three hours of severe suffering. The late James John was born in Llandisilio Parish, Pembrokeshire, South Wales, on May 13th, 1855. He emigrated to Canada in 1894 with his parents. The family settled in Otonabee for one year and then moved to the Township of Emily in the county of Victoria, where his parents lived the remainder of their lives, and in 1902 the late Mr. James Johns married Miss Jane Robertson, daughter of the late Alexander and Martha M. Robertson, of the Scotch Line, Vernlam.

JOHN CAMPBELL.

John Campbell, North Monaghan, died this morning at his residence Lot 6, Concession 13, after an illness of five weeks. He was born in Campbellcroft 78 years ago, and had been a resident of North Monaghan since 1884.

The funeral will take place on Monday from the family residence, lot 6, concession 15, North Monaghan. Service at 2.15. Rev. Canon Davidson officiating.

Americans Buy German Concern

Large Shipbuilding Plant Changes Hands for Huge Sum.

BERLIN, Jan. 25. — The North German Gazette reports that an American concern has bought the Schichau shipbuilding yards at Danzig, one of the most important in Germany, for 160,000,000 marks ($40,000,000).

The Schichau Works built the famous cruiser raider Emden.

Among the important ships surrendered to the Associated Powers under the armistice terms the "Bayern" and the "Koenig Albert," were turned out by the Schichau concern.

KIDNEY DISEASE OVERCOME.

Mr. James Preuss, cattle dealer, Shaho, Sask., writes: "For about ten years I suffered from kidney disease; at times was bad with backache, and derangements of the digestive organs. During that time I was treated by four different doctors. One day I read in Dr. Chase's almanac about the Kidney-Liver Pills and began to use them. Altogether I used six boxes. All I need say is that I feel well now and attribute this condition to the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Canadian Mail Reaches Siberia

First Mail Received by Canadian Troops Since October Last.

(By W. Playfair—Official Correspondent with Canadian Forces in Siberia).

Delayed by Mail.—With the arrival to-day of the transport bringing Canadian troops to Siberia, the advance party of the C. E. F. is completed. Base and force headquarters staffs are now here in full number, with hospital, army service corps and part of the cavalry and infantry units. The draft which left Vancouver on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 15th, by the C.P.R. steamship "Monteagle," arriving to-day, had a remarkably smooth passage for the season. Of three hundred horses brought on the vessel, only four were lost.

Incidentally this transport brought the first mail that has been received by the advance party which arrived here in October. Mail destined for troops here are carried from Vancouver exclusively on the Canadian transports, which are extremely infrequent. On the other hand, outgoing mail for Canada leaves here as often as twice a week. There is a great deal of dissatisfaction among both officers and men concerning the postal arrangements.

Another Expected.

It is now expected that another transport will arrive before Christmas with Canadian mail. A second is expected shortly after the New Year. Although Canada is a land of great distances, the Canadian forces now here are learning new lessons in geography on a large scale. They are many thousands of miles from home, 3,000 miles or more from their fighting front, and in territory of immense distances and exceedingly poor transportation facilities. The city of Vladivostok is separated dismally from the rest of Siberia owing to a virtual breakdown of rail communication with the interior. Canadians arriving here find themselves four thousand five hundred miles from Vancouver. They came expecting to get to early action with the Bolsheviks, but they find them three thousand miles away.

Military Medal For Sergt. Turner

Peterboro Soldier Displayed Great Skill During Fight at Passchendaile.

Lance Sergt. W. H. Turner, who is at present overseas, has won the military medal for gallantry in the field. The London Gazette says:

"For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in action, on the morning of the 10th of November, 1917, during an advance near Passchendaele, the N. C. O. displayed great skill and cool resourcefulness in directing the fire and movement of his small party and succeeded in quickly dispersing a much larger force in a perpared defensive position. He led his party in the pursuit, killing ten of the enemy and wounding many others. This example of this N.C.O. in this and previous operations has inspired his men with a real spirit of confidence and superiority over the enemy."

Sergt. Turner forwarded the medal to Mrs. James Kendry, Water street, to be forwarded to his wife, who is at present residing in the city at 64 Aylmer street.

The Peterboro Prizewinners

Local Men Capture 71 Prizes Out of 87 Entries at Cobourg.—The winners

The Cobourg Winter Show had 1,055 entries in the poultry division. The Peterboro poultry men made a good showing. Mr. George Buller won 22 prizes out of 26 entries, Mr. Percy Hartley captured 6 prizes out of seven entries, Mr. I. Emmerson obtained 27 prizes with 37 birds and Mr. Kent Throop had 17 entries with 16 prizes.

Prices Easier This Morning

Some Lines of Produce Getting Cheaper.

The price of potatoes still continues to drop at the market, and plenty were to be had at $1.30 and $1.40 this morning.

Butter sold at 50 cents, or to the earlier buyers 58 cents.

Eggs sold at 60 and 65 cents.

Chickens at 30 cents a pound.

Apples at $2.75.

Oil Stove Exploded In Bell Block

The oil stove in the office of the J. R. Bell grocery on Hunter Street exploded last night at 6 o'clock. The stove had been turned low by Mr. Bell, but it flickered for some time after Mr. Bell left the office. The fire burnt the framework of the partition, but was quickly extinguished by the firemen, who did not lose any time in getting on the job.

The damage will be small.

Says League Will Not Prevent War

Will Lessen the Probability of War.

(Special to Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, January 25. — The League of Nations would not prevent wars but that its formation would force the United States to wage war on Mexico, was the position taken to-day by Professor Theodore Seares of the University of Chicago.

Addressing the Chicago Society for a League of Nations, Prof. Seares said: "The League will lessen the probability of war, but will not prevent it. In disciplining unruly nations and in enforcing an international policy, it will be necessary now and then to go to war. America will be told to intervene in Mexico and that will mean war."

IN MEMORIAM.

BROOKS.—In proud and loving memory of Driver J. Millard Brooks, 11th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, who died of wounds Jan. 26th, 1918, while on active service in France, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brooks, 199 Dalhousie street.

Advocates Time Limit

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Jan. 25.—It is hoped, says the Paris edition of the London Daily Mail, that when the Peace Conference appoints committee to investigate subjects to-day, it will fix a time limit. The paper quotes diplomats of experience in such matters as estimating that, having regard for the large amount of material already collected, each committee ought be able to prepare its report in a week. He anticipates, however, that committee will ask two weeks, and that matter will be compromised on ten days.

HOHENZOLLERNS MAY RETURN TO GERMANY

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Jan. 25.—A Berlin despatch to the Daily Mail under Friday's date says: A sensational special edition, selling rapidly on the streets here, maintain that the ex-Kaiser and his family intend to return to Germany as soon as the National Assembly has given the country a legal constitution.

Was Presented With a Clock

On Christmas eve Mr. Oliver Green was presented with a handsome clock by the night spinning department of the Auburn Woolen Mills. Although completely taken by surprise, Mr. Green accepted the gift with a few well chosen words, expressing his appreciation of the department's kind thought. The following address was read, Peterborough, Dec. 24, 1918.

Mr. Oliver Green—

Dear Sir: We, the night employees of the spinning department of the Auburn Woollen Mills, have gathered together at this season of the year to show to you in a tangible way our appreciation of the many kindnesses and favours you have shown to us as our foreman. In presenting to you this clock we ask you to accept it as a token of esteem by all over whom you have charge.

Wishing you, your wife and children a most joyful and happy Christmas.

The Night Spinning Dept.,
Auburn Woollen Mills.
(Signed) W. J. Weatherstone,
V. Murphy.

MINISTRY OPPOSES ALLIED OCCUPATION.

Will Resign in a Body if the Answer is in the Affirmative.

(Special to Examiner.)

BERLIN, Dec. 24. — The Hungarian ministry was reported to-day to have declared its opposition to the occupation of Hungary by the Allies. The ministers are understood to have asked the Allies if they intend to occupy the entire country, threatening to resign in a body if the answer is in the affirmative.

Russia Will Receive No Food From the United States So Long as Reds Are in Control

Government Sends Ultimatum That Anarchy Must End Throughout Country Before Any Relief From Hunger Can Be Expected From the United States.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 26. — The American government upon authorization of a cable message from Herbert C. Hoover, who is working out food conditions in Europe, has given its ultimatum to the Bolshevik population of Russia. It amounts to this: — Establish order and receive food, continue anarchy and receive no food.

Finland has been chosen as the place where a concrete example of the policy of the United States will be established. Its location is such that the Russian people will be able to know what is going on. While they are dwelling in Bolshevism and starving, the Finns who started on the Bolshevistic route but repented, will be well supplied.

According to announcement made by the War Trade Board, the shipment of the following units of food to Finland has been authorized:—10,000 tons of cereals, 2,000 tons of pork products, 1,000 tons of industrial fats and 1,000 tons of sugar.

This action has been taken as a result of reports of greatly improved government conditions in Finland. This information comes from Mr. Hoover and allied commissions.

Finland has been going through a severe trying-out process. First absorbed by Russia, a fact that had much to do with the pro-German tendencies of Sweden, later taken by Germany and still later to under an outbreak of Bolsheviki enthusiasm, the country has once more established itself on a sound basis nationally as well as politically.

Treatment of Finland is expected not only to have its effect on Russia but will not go unnoted in Teutonic countries and in some of the neutral countries.

By its control of the available food products of the world the United States is in position to point to the advantages of the maintenance of order against the tendency toward anarchy.

Similar action has been taken by the War Trade Board relative to Sweden where a change in sentiment toward America has occurred. As an evidence of its friendship toward Sweden the United States has authorized the shipment of foods which will arrive before December 25, and will be a welcome Christmas present.

Supplies on the way to Sweden include:—

Coffee, 6,732,000 pounds; cocoa beans, 2,032,800 pounds; dried fruits, 2,000,000 pounds; sweetened condensed milk, 500 tons, and pork, 1,500 tons.

This shipment, it was made clear, is not out of any superabundance of supplies here, but is sharing with the Swedish populace commodities this nation itself well could use

Beech Switches Used to Subdue Otonabee Pupils

A Link With the Past Recalled at School Fair.

Friday, Dec. 21st will be long remembered by the pupils, parents and friends of S. S. No. 12, Otonabee.

Sharp at 1.30 p.m., under the direction of Miss Pearl H. Petrie, the teacher, the following contests were engaged in:

1. The reciting of a poem from their readers by each of the pupils.
2. Spelling match in which all of the pupils took part except the Primers.
3. History.
4. Pupils speaking contest by the senior pupils.

Chairman's Address.

Mr. Thos. E. Sargent, secretary of the school, took the chair and called upon the school to sing Canada's National Anthem, the Maple Leaf, with the audience joining in the chorus.

The chairman's address followed, which was very interesting. Referring to the schools of the present day, he said they were very different from the one he had attended, when the beech switch was the main instrument of persuasion. Being convenient to the Burnham bush it was very handy to get them.

The Programme.

Items on the programme to about the number of twenty followed.

The guest of honour was Mr. Richard Lees, B.A., Public School Inspector of the County, who responded to an invitation to act as judge of the decorations, which were composed of historical and geographical drawings and compositions, art work and collections of wood, seeds and stamps.

In the course of the judge's remarks he said he would rather not say which were best. The work was so uniformly good that all should receive prizes. His suggestion was carried out and all the pupils received prizes from the teacher.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the programme to a close.

Sixth Annual Conversazione of Lakefield High School

Schoolroom Was Decorated for the Occasion—The Honour Roll —Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 23.—The Sixth Concersat of the Lakefield High School was held in the school on Friday evening and was a splendid success. The third form did the decorating which transformed the plain every-day school rooms into a most charming and attractive suite. The assemblyd room was decorate with flags and greens and arches of greens marked off both stairways. The play room was very attractive as a lane of small evergreens trees lead diagonally across it. The supper room was attractively decorated and on the black board was artistically inscribed the Honor Roll of Lakefield High School. The first three names done in red crayon were those who made the supreme sacrifice, Ptes. Keith Cumberland, Wilfred Hull and Sherman Mahood. The remainder of the Honor Roll is as follows:—

Capt. C. S. Carter; Capt. A. H. Baker; Capt. J. R. Fraser, M. D., masters. Lt. Trude Leggot; Lt. Harold Kenneally; Flt. Lt. Aleq Burgess; Sergt. W. J. Lemay; Corp. Roy McDonald; Corp. Stanly Hill; L.cpl. Fred Baptie; Gnr. Victor Bullock; Gnr. M. J. Madill; Sig. P. W. Johnston; Sig. W. Quinn; W. G. Ogilvie; Pte. Morley McDonald; Pte. Joe. R. Hill; Pte. Alex Graham; Pte. T. A. Simpson; Pte. Oscar Steeper; Pte Glenn Madall.

The first part of the evening was given over to a musical and literary programme which was as follows:

God Save the King.
Chairman's address.
Piano solo—Miss BurgBess.
Solo—Mrs. H. J. Fitzgerald.
Duet—Misses Addie Batten and Gwendolyn Simpson.
Piano solo—Mr. Kenneth Madill.
Duet—Miss s Alice and Mary Hill.
Piano solo—Miss Hunter
Solo—Mrs. Osborne.

Solo—Miss Nelson.
Piano Solo—Miss Lolva Waldon.
Reading—Miss Duff
Solo—Rev. B. Davis.
Solo—Miss B. Moore.
Reading—Mr. Sherman McIlmoyl.

At the close of the programme a programme of promenades was carried out and a dainty supper served. The patronesses were Mrs. W. Ridpath and Mrs. Wesley Sherin. Among the out-of-town guests at the Conversat were Miss Hazel Maude of Peterboro, Miss Myrtle Moore of Havelock, Miss Pearl Kidd of Peterboro, Miss Elsie Millage of Peterboro, Messrs Sherman and Edwin Rowe of Peterboro, Mr. Roy McDonald of Belleville and Mr. W. J. Lemay of Kingston.

A PRESENTATION

The pupils of Miss Duff's room in the public school presented her with a flag for the school room and a box of stationary. The gift of the flag, the emblem of fair play and of freedom, was a most acceptable gift and one which was much appreciated by Miss Duff, who has made it her aim to instill the spirit of patriotism into the pupils' hearts and minds. Her success in that respect is manifested by the large number of former pupils who readily answered the call of King and Country in the great war.

SILVER MEDAL

Mr. Roland Darcy, formerly of the Royal Air Force has received a handsome silver medal from the Imperial Government in appreciation of his valuable services while in the service. He also received a certificate of character and efficiency in his work and was recommended by his superior officers.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Tuesday afternoon of last week. Reports of the year's work were read and the following officers elected:

Pres.—Mrs. J. H. Chant.
Vice-Presidents—Mrs. T. Henden. Mrs P. Baptie and Mrs. T. J. Cullen.
Sec.—Mrs. J. A. Porter.
Treas.—Mrs. H. J. Sutton.
Roll Sec.—Mrs. B. Hunter.
Stranger's Sec.—Miss Olive Cullen.
Organist—Mrs. B. Hunter.
Ass't Organist—Miss Cullen.
Programme Comm.—Mrs. Ridpath and Miss Nelson.

HAS BEEN RELEASED

Among the list of repatriated prisoners is the name of Pte. John Montgomery of Hall's Bridge, who was taken prisoner nearly three months ago. Mrs. McIlmoyl of Queen St. is a sister of Pte. Montgomery.

NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH IT

Mr. Fred Adams, New Ross N.S., writes—"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest never fails to relieve a cough and looses satisfaction with this medicine for it is up."

Militarists Have Fled

(Special to Examiner.)

BERLIN, December 24. — The foremost exponents of German militarism on land and sea, are now definitely known to have followed the Kaiser into exile.

General Ludendorff, the former commander in chief of the German armies, is hiding in Sweden, it is revealed to-day.

Admiral Von Tirpitz, the father of the submarine "frightfulness," recently fled to Switzerland, where he is living in seclusion. The location of his residence is kept secret.

Several of Germany's principal espionage and propaganda agents also have left Germany. Captain Von Papen, a former military attache of the German embassy at Washington, is still serving with the army, and is supposed to be in Constantinople, although this could not be verified. Von Papen was implicated in the U-boat plot against Scandinavia and Holland.

Von Papen's co-worker, Capt. Boy-Ed, former naval attache at Washington, left the foreign office several months ago as a commander of a warship in the Baltic. He is believed to have retired to some island in that sea.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 24.—One hundred and fifty leaders of Bolshevik administrations in Vienna and Budapest have been arrested, according to despatches received here to-day. The arrests followed a series of parades through the streets.

Canada Will Take Stock

Committee Has Been Appointed For This Work.

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24. —Canada is to take stock of her war materials and a committee has been appointed to undertake the work. The end of the war has found the Dominion in possession of heavy quantities of cloth, harness, leather goods, boots and shoes, army foodstuffs and all the paraphernalia of war which are stocked in military storehouses everywhere in the Dominion. This is in addition to the vast quantities of materials in England and France.

An inventory is to be taken at once of stocks in Canada, and the question of disposing of the materials without undue disturbances of the markets will be considered. The commission comprises Hon. Messrs. Maclean, Ballantyne, Mewburn, Sir George Foster, Sir H. Laporte, of the War Purchasing Commission, and J. W. McConnell, of the War Trade Board.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian and Mollie Are Unconscious That They Are Watched.

CHAPTER LXXI.

The next morning, recalling that he had made an engagement to take Mollie to dinner that night, so filling in his evening, Brian wrote Ruth a short note as well as replying to her wire. Then he went about his office duties whistling gayly. His duty done, he was free to anticipate the coming of the evening.

There was a time when women had no choice. They were either wives, or, failing that, daughters. No rivalry between business and wifehood existed. Now Ruth, in a sense, had realized that rivalry from the time she had gone to work for Arthur Mandel—realized it with no slightest idea of surrendering either.

Wifehood and a career. Why not? She was young, strong, ambitious. She loved Brian, she would do all in her power to make him happy. She was intensely interested in her work, and would do everything possible to make it a success.

She fully intended to keep a cheery, sweet home for Brian. She would not allow her business even to creep into her talks with him. Yet she, wistfully longed to talk of it to him, to tell him of her plans. But she must force herself to do the things in which he was interested. Not only for his sake, but for the sake of her own happiness.

Whenever Ruth was away from Brian she felt that nothing in the world was worth very much without him, his approval. She was disturbed my doubts, and often by jealous thoughts. Yet never did she allow anything of this to affect her work. That must be done, and done to the best of her ability. It was in the evening when she sat alone in some lonely hotel room, that the doubts came; that the jealous thoughts made her unhappy.

Often she wondered if, had she been less keen for her own independence, she could have helped Brian to push himself more rapidly. Always she decided, no! if it wasn't in him, she could do no more than she had done. Yet always there was Brian—alone, and—Mollie King.

One moment Ruth would grow cold at the possibility of losing Brian's love, the next a wave of something very like defiance would rush over her.

But all this was when she and Brian were separated.

So now she wondered if he were missing her — wondered, and longed to know. While Brian, satisfied that she would have her wire from him before night, her letter the next morning, closed the office early and went to meet Mollie King.

They had decided to dine at one of the Village restaurants, a place patronized by strangers in the city as well as by the villagers themselves.

Strange, it should happen that on that very night Arthur Mandel had consented to join a party at that very restaurant for dinner. He cared nothing for such places, but they were out-of-town business acquaintances so he went along.

With the perversity of fate, they were given a table next to that already occupied by Brian and Mollie.

"I hope that good looking man, the one with the dark hair and eyes, will know us the next time he sees us." Mollie whispered to Brian. "Perhaps he knows you. He hasn't taken his eyes off of us since he sat down."

"It is more than likely he is trying to flirt with you." Brian's quick jealousy immediately aroused. Had he known that it was Ruth's employer who evinced such an interest he might have been more careful in his remark, which, judging from Mandel's expression, he had overheard.

"Let him try! that's all the good it will do. Now, Brian, tell me all about yourself," and soon, the next table and its occupants forgotten, Brian was telling Mollie King, the sympathetic, of his worries, and his hope of ultimate success.

Arthur Mandel caught much of what he said, as Brian's voice was of a penetrating quality, even when he spoke in a low tone. Then after a while, their dinner finished, they rose to go. As they passed the table where Mandel and his guests were seated, Brian said distinctly:

"We'll go there to-morrow night."

"So it's every night when she's away," Mandel thought as he watched them leave. "She's a pretty girl, but the man's a fool. Ruth is worth a dozen of her," he had lately taken to thinking of his employee as "Ruth," although he always addressed her punctiliously as "Mrs. Hackett."

During the remainder of his stay at the restaurant, he was the gayest one at the table. Surely things were happening that would eventually throw Ruth into his arms. He could afford to wait. She was worth serving seven years for, if necessary. And she had refused to take a couple of days' rest at the Springs because he, that young fool, would be lonely!

That night Arthur Mandel slept soundly. Happy in the thought that he would soon make up to Ruth for all the neglect Brian made her suffer.

To-morrow— Mollie Is Dangerously Sympathetic.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Disordered Digestion.

Dyspepsia, anaemia and neurasthenia follow as the logical results of disordered digestion and faulty nutrition.

This condition has given rise to the charge that Americans are a race of gluttons. It is alleged that they eat too much and that the remedy is a reduction in the amount of food taken. Some "experts" even go so far as to urge frequent and long continued periods of fasting. Says one popular science expert and physical culture trainer:

"The dyspeptic, anaemic, neurasthenic type of people, who are becoming so common, are, in my opinion, slowly starving to death. A reduction in the amount of food may give temporary relief from their symptoms by lessening the amount of poison generated from undigested food, but such a course does not strike at the real cause of the trouble, which is undernutrition. The remedy for this class of people is not less food, but more, provided they take sufficient exercise in the open air to bring about a more perfect assimilation of food. Plenty of physical exercise or work and fresh air will work wonders for them. Another important point is to rest at least half an hour after eating. Sufficient sleep is also absolutely necessary."

It Wouldn't Start.

They've got a new joke over at the automobile club. They spring it on every stranger that will bite, but they won't spring it any more because everybody will know it after it is printed here.

The stranger is led to ask, "Who is that man over in the corner?"

Then the other fellow says, "That's Blank, a new member. He's not very popular here."

"Why not?"

"Oh, he's always trying to start something."

"I see. Quarrelsome disposition, eh?"

"No, not at all. He owns a motor cycle."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CONFISCATE THE EDITION.

Newspaper Issues Often Suppressed by the Austrian Censors.

"By order of the 'royal press court' this issue of your paper is hereby confiscated for printing news which the court considers should not be made public." A policeman, with a sword dangling at his side and holding in his hand an official document with an imposing seal on it, enters the managing editor's room and delivers the decree.

It is the famous Austrian press censorship and confiscation machine, called for short the "confiscation apparatus," at work. Down below the big presses are thundering along on the last few thousand copies of a big circulation. It is 3 o'clock in the morning—too late to "make over" by tearing out the offending article or news item, putting something else in its place and reprinting the entire edition.

From the numerous rooms which make up the editorial sanctum there rolls one "Donnerwetter!" and "Verdammt!" after another. The managing editor orders a small sheet, not much larger than a handbill, hastily printed that will tell the subscribers why they will not receive their paper that morning.

This is a scene which has taken place frequently in Viennese newspaper offices lately. One afternoon recently the editions of five evening papers were confiscated. Probably no editions in the world can tell as many interesting stories of news that never reached their readers as the Viennese.

From an American viewpoint of a free press the Austrian press news press censorship and "confiscation apparatus" is about the most absurd and unpleasant institution in existence. Apparently it was created largely for the purpose of keeping the truth from the public.

In Austria books, pictures, illustrated catalogues, price lists, handbills, advertisements and advertising literature newspapers, periodicals and publications which appear occasionally, signs and signboards, posters—in fact, every thing that conveys meaning to the mind by means of type, pictures or symbols is subject to censorship. Until recently even private calling or "visiting" cards were subject to censorship. The printer had to lay a proof of a card before the "press court" before he could deliver the order.

Any district or superior court may constitute itself a "press court" to pass upon and order the confiscation of any newspaper in its jurisdiction.—Vienna Cor. New York Tribune.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable. Relief is sure.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

A Look at the Big Ditch From the Brink of the Culebra Cut.

I shall never forget my own first real look at the canal. It was at the end of a day, about 5 in the afternoon, and I had set out to walk from Empire to Culebra along the brink of the great Culebra cut. This section is perhaps the most dramatic in the whole work. When ships sail through here the passengers on the decks will look up almost 500 precipitous feet along the sliced red side of Gold hill to the crest of the continental divide.

The workmen were all out of the ditch now, and it was time to fire the big blasts. I waited in some trepidation, for the notion of an amount of dynamite that can be stated in tons being shot off at one time and in one place was rather appalling. And what happened was appalling, though not in just the way I expected. My eardrums have been more seriously assaulted on the Fourth of July by a four inch cannon cracker. The quality of the noise made by that blast is rather indescribable. It was immensely vast, a sort of titanic grunt. The great rocky ridges which formed the bottom of the trench heaved up bodily under a sudden cloud of brownish smoke. When it had blown away those defiant rocky ridges were gone, and in their place was chaos.

Figures don't mean much—millions of cubic yards, and so on. But the great trench I was looking at did not look man made at all. The men who were straggling back into it looked like ants. The steam shovels, arrayed en echelon, seemed hardly bigger than big black beetles. And a belated dirt train crawling up the incline out of the cut might have been a caterpillar. It seemed impossible that their puny nibblings could have made that gap in the backbone of a continent. It looked rather like the doing of nature in one of her paroxysms. No, not quite like that. It looked like a crease from the finger nail of Almighty God.—Henry Kitchell Webster in Everybody's.

Flattering.

Wag—I like your new play, old man.

Author—I'm glad of that. When did you see it?

Wag—Oh, I haven't seen it, but the title looks jolly on the bugess.—London Opinion.

A glance at a cake of Gold Soap will show you that it is unusually large. Actual comparisons will show that it is bigger than any other cake of laundry soap at the same price. This big cake of Gold Soap is heavy, solid,—it wears away slowly and evenly, lasting longer than ordinary soap. It is made only from the choicest materials suitable for laundry use,—it goes farther than ordinary soap. A single trial will convince you that Gold Soap is the best and most economical yellow laundry soap that you can use.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Bonhomme's Compliments

By ALEC BRUCE

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was annoying in business hours, very annoying, yes. M'sieur Bonhomme could stand it no longer.

True, he did not do much business after five o'clock. But what had that to do with it? These young men did not mean business, no! Their time was their own. Bah! even Marie, his own beautiful, peachbloom Marie, had had enough. And enough is as good as a feast; her manner said so. Her tongue? More things than tongues can speak!

M'sieu rose suddenly from his ink-splattered desk and paced slowly up and down the dimly lighted aisle of his old furniture store.

"Yes, it will end, now—tonight!" he muttered. "I cannot stand it longer. These young men, young fools, I will pack them home, where they belong. My daughter is my daughter, not a plaything! Her time, my time, is valuable."

Before a nine-centred mirror in a tall mahogany wardrobe he paused a moment, shaking his fist at the full-featured reflection with its curling gray hair and subdued floridity of countenance.

"And you, m'sieur, must pack them home; you have been too long about it!"

His big brown eyes blazed ominously.

"Father!" A door opened in the dimsy tapestry frame screening the little living rooms behind, and a girl, tall and darkly handsome, a little past twenty, perhaps, with a humorous and clever expression, beamed on him out of liquid wells of blue. "Father," she repeated, "Mr. Moorson is coming. He—he—I think he is coming here again."

LOOK FOR EDDY'S NAME ON THE BOX

"Thank you, Marie, thank you," stammered M'sieur, his broad, clean-shaven face pinking distinctly. "Er—and if—if I am not seen, I suppose that I will not be in the way, my dear?"

"Oh, no, father, no!" she laughed, "but make yourself heard up in the gallery. Walk about a little, tumble something, yes. Then I can say, 'Hush, Mr. Moorson; someone is taking stock up there.' Ha ha!" She laughed a nervous little laugh.

"My dear," whispered her father impressively, "of course you know that I do not—er—desire to listen. The sweet things these young men say are not for ears like mine. Ah, I doubt not that I have heard them once or twice already, yes."

This time a low, musical laugh rippled through the long oblong hall, and echoed from the galleries above.

"Mon ami," she murmured archly, "the sweet things these young men say, now, are perhaps just a little different from the things young men said—oh, some twenty years ago, when the little mother heard you speak them, hey? And so, perhaps you might desire—"

"My dear," Bonhomme interrupted with a smile. "I hear footsteps! Never fear, I will walk about in the gallery, or I will cough maybe. But I am busy this afternoon, and I cannot leave the store for the convenience of these young—visitors, ahem! And it is possible that I might hear some leetle snatch—eh? Take care, take care, ma'amselle!"

Ting, ting.

"Ah, your visitor."

Ma'amselle hurried forward with a laugh.

Click! The big swing doors opened wide and a well-set-up, muscular young man met her with a smile that only half explained the meaning of his presence. "Your father is out, I suppose?" he whispered, glancing up the aisle.

M'sieur, fat and breathless, had taken advantage of the greetings to tiptoe up the spiral stairway. "Huh, your father is out?" he wheezed wrathfully. "Listen to faint heart and—" But he did not hear the fair lady's reply.

Bah! At gallery No. 1 he stopped for a moment and viewed with regret the many dust-covered tables near the door. If madame were only here! Hush! He could hear, but could not see his daughter and Mr. Moorson now.

They had seated themselves on a rose-colored divan on the aisle, behind a row of wardrobes. The young man chose the spot with much persuasion.

M'sieur heard him: "Huh, I will go higher up, young man, higher up, where I can get a bird's-eye view," he panted. Whew! Asthma and climbing do not agree, and gallery No. 2 was so high up. It contained the bedding, all the soft goods and M'sieur collapsed on a pile of cushions.

Oh, la, la! he was too high up to hear even a snatch of conversation, but he could see. And the young man was bending so close to Ma'amselle. His speech, his actions, betrayed the feverish anxiety of his mind, and Ma'amselle had turned her crimson face away. Suddenly Mr. Moorson seized her hand. She drew it away.

Mon Dieu! The psychological moment surely? M'sieur looked about for something to drop, something that would make a noise, but there was nothing big, nothing hard. He thought of a cough, but in his present state of breathlessness that also was impossible. A real spasm would take the place of the feigned, and M'sieur was a friend of discretion.

Hark! Loud footsteps sounded on the tiling outside. Mr. Moorson jumped to his feet. Ma'amselle also, and evidently at the young man's urgent solicitation, she threw open the mirrored door of the most convenient wardrobe and pushed him in.

"Ha!" M'sieur noted that wardrobe well—one, two, three, four, five—five! in the mahogany row. "Ah ha! I will go down again to gallery number one," he muttered, a vague disappointment discernible in his tones. "I did not hear one leetle word."

The swing doors bumped, and M'sieur popped his head over the polished rail of gallery number one just as another young man, a tall, bottle-shouldered blonde with a vibrant voice full of round, benignant notes, clasped ma'amselle's small white hand.

"Marie," he cried—M'sieur could hear every word—"I am so glad to see you; and you are alone? Ah, that is fortunate, for I have a secret to tell you tonight. Marie, I—I love you, dear. No, no; do not forbid me. I must tell you—"

"Sh—oh, Mr. Corson," she stammered, glancing swiftly upward, "I—I—please do not tell me any—any secrets tonight, please—I—"

"Marie, my Marie," he insisted, laying a large, bony hand on her small, trembling one, "one kiss, dear, just one," he pleaded, his strong arm stealing around her slender waist.

"No, no, Mr. Corson, no!"

Bang! The full-blown decorated globe of an antiquated lamp splintered on the gallery floor and glittered in frosty powder on a crimson mat.

"Who—who—was that?" demanded Mr. Corson, catching his breath and quickly withdrawing his arm. "What? you father bu-breaking stock—I—I thought that he was out!"

"Hush—hush!"

Again footsteps sounded on the tiling outside and M'sieur began to descend the spiral stairway behind.

Mr. Corson jumped to his feet: "Hide me, Marie, hide me! Someone's coming both ways. I—I would rather not be seen."

"Quick, then, in here!" she breathed, throwing open the door of a fine wardrobe just opposite the fifth mahogany piece. Click!

"Ha!" M'sieur saw Mr. Corson's coattails disappear. "One, two, three, four," he counted carefully, and as he passed up the aisle to meet the portly newcomer shaking hands with Ma'amselle at the door, he turned two keys, in the mahogany and mission rows, and dropped them in his pocket.

"Ha, Mister Barron, good afternoon, good afternoon! You are well, yes? And Mrs. Barron? Ah, that is good! Something—er—this afternoon, perhaps?"

Mr. Barron was M'sieur's best customer. Purchasing agent for a much larger furniture store, when his firm ran out of any particular piece desired at once, Bonhomme, if he could supply, always got the order.

"Ah, good afternoon, M'sieur, good afternoon!" responded Mr. Barron loudly. "Yes, sir, I want two wardrobes, in a hurry. Send them out in our wagon; it's at your door now. A mahogany, one for—er—take a note of them! Ready?" He glanced at the notebook in his hand—"Mr. James Moorson, 91 Cookson avenue. You know the gentleman's son, I think. I've seen him here."

"Ha, ha!" M'sieur chuckled.

Mr. Barron looked curiously over his spectacles. "Eh? and one for Mr. Arthur Corson, 15 Marion terrace. Perhaps you know young Corson, also? Ha, ha!"

"Ha, ha!" echoed M'sieur.

"And I want both in model A, Bonhommie, remember. Ah, you have a row of each, I see. Well, don't fail me. Get 'em home at once. My men are at your service. Good day, I'm off. Busy as bees down our way."

"Good day, sir, good day," smilingly M'sieur bowed his patron out, and signalled the men to come in. They were big strong fellows both of them. But when the wardrobes were loaded and roped, they came back to the store.

"Yes?" queried Bonhomme with arching brows.

"A drink of water, if you please, sir?"

"Certainly," mumbled M'sieur, turning his face away. "Oh, Marie, som' water! som' water, up front here! Ah, and the keys, I forgot the keys," he muttered, when the men followed ma'amselle away, "and these men can deliver them with the goods, yes."

He hurried to his desk and drew out two business cards. "With Bonhomme's compliments," he wrote on each, and placed them with the little gilded keys in their respective envelopes.

One of the men tucked the packets carefully away in his pockets. "Yes, sir," he promised, "I'll see that the right parties gets 'em. You bet I will, sir."

"Oh, father," pouted ma'amselle when the door closed, "these young men, oh, these young men, they are such troubles. Oh, I do not want them, and they are here, yet. What shall I do?"

"Ha, ha, ha! non, non, my dear," laughed M'sieur, "they are not here! You make one beeg mistake. These young men will not trouble you again. They have gone home to their fathers—with the compliments of Bonhomme, yes! Ha, ha!"

"Here, how is this?" demanded the conductor, savagely. "You have thirteen children, and they are all trying to travel on half-rate tickets."

The man and woman addressed looked at each other, and a flush that suggested them to be guilty of trying to swindle the railroad came to their cheeks. But they made no response.

"How old is that girl back there?" continued the conductor, pulling his tawny mustache.

"She will be twelve the 2d of November," replied the woman, figuring it out on her finger ends.

"And how old is that boy, next her?"

"If he lives till the 27th of November he will be twelve, too," answered the man sharply.

"Ha, just as I expected!" gloated the conductor. "Now how can you explain the proximity of their birthdays?" and he waited for the confession.

"That's easy enough," ventured the woman frankly.

"It is, is it?"

"Yes. There is no law I know of that prevents cousins being born the same month."

CONCERNING RESTAURANTS.

Places Where You Can Get Everything Except Nourishment.

A restaurant is a place where you pay $1 for 15 cents' worth of food, accompanied by about $2 worth of light labor, light china and light music, which you have heard before. After leaving your hat with a Wall street syndicate, you pay all the way from 10 cents to a quarter for the privilege of getting it back and wearing it once more. The difference between a man and woman indeed today is quite simple. A woman pays $50 all at once for her hat, while a man pays $5 for his and fifty-five more in tip installments for storage at restaurants while he is vainly trying to obtain enough nourishment to sustain life between times.

The object of all restaurants is to furnish you with everything you want except nourishment. This is carefully extracted from all food before it reaches you.

Every restaurant nowadays has attached to it a homeless hotel and a drugless drugstore, also a newspaper stand where you can buy a paper for not over twice what you can get it for across the street, and a box office dispensary where you can get theater tickets for almost any night you don't want them at the same rates. Every restaurant also has a wine cellar which is filled with native cobwebs, European labels and California grape juice. —Life.

TORTURING, ITCHING ECZEMA

Mrs. J. B. Horth, Pamphlet, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes:—"Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment I have been completely cured of that horrible disease eczema. I was held as if in prison from going among other people, for I was ashamed of the raw, flaming sores. Doctors could do nothing for me and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that was little short of a miracle."

Divided Opinion.

"Are you really going to marry Hapgold?"

"I don't know what to say. All the girls in my class read his letters."

"Well?"

"Eighteen of them think him a dear, and nineteen say he's a dub."—Kansas City Journal.

Distinctive Title.

"I beg your pardon," said the reporter, "but are you Mr. Spudde, the potato king?"

"Yes, but I don't like that term," replied the magnate testily. "Oil kings and cattle kings and the like are so common. Call me a potatonate."—Pittsburgh Press.

Mr. J. A. Findlay, of Norwood, Replies to Mr. Elliott's Letter

Writer Points Out Roads in Peterboro County Which, He Says, Are Scarcely Fit to be Called Public Highways.

Sir,—A very small portion of the letter by Mr Elliott in the Examiner recently is worthy of a reply but this question is entirely too big to permit of politics, personal misrepresentations or any other side issues being used with a view to blocking the agitation or general desire for road improvement.

The question of good roads is one that must be considered from the viewpoint of the greatest good to the greatest number, and the best means of opening the country to development."

I stated previously that pathmasters have not been given a fair chance; who would think of trying to farm now as they did years ago without machinery? Then why expect anybody to make roads to meet present requirements without modern machinery?

As for East Peterboro roads being "high" on the list, let us consider for example the main roads through Norwood. The one from Trent River is very bad, sections of it scarcely fit to be called a public highway. Norwood to Crowe's Landing is abominable; just 13 miles, but it takes one hour and a quarter to motor it or about four hours to drive with an ordinary farm team. This summer one of Peterboro's prominent men (formerly Mayor) said "deliver me from ever having to drive that road again until it IS a road." During September and October Peterboro dealers hauled hundreds of cords of wood over the northern portion, and the cost was double what it would have been over good roads, but the hardship is that the CONSUMERS in Peterboro city have to pay at least $1 50 a cord extra to cover the extra cost of hauling over BAD ROADS, besides the high cost of getting men, provisions, etc., to the camps, over such roads. This is equally true in regard to other commodities.

Then we have the two roads to Peterboro, one bad and the other worse. Norwood to Hastings is fair, but badly in need of repairs in sections. The same road south to Hastings in Northumberland County, is hard and smooth; a pleasure to drive on it and one that has given very reasonable service, because it is looked after regularly throughout the year.

Bad Sections.

Norwood to Havelock is quite bad in sections, and what a contrast to the same road east when Hastings County is reached. Motorists in Hastings or in Prince Edward Counties can drive 25 miles an hour with greater comfort and safety than 15 in this district. Motor cars and trucks are here to stay and if road improvement is not undertaken at once and encouragement given to tourists, motorists, tianciers, prospectors, etc., it will be a distinct hindrance to the development of the country.

This is not fault-finding, in any sense, for I realize that during the war our whole energies have been devoted to "peace with victory" but now that victory is achieved, the time for action in road construction along modern, approved lines has surely arrived.

It is not a question of paying 80c to get 20c of auto fees returned, but in preference to the COUNTY assuming the WHOLE COST of new roads, culverts, bridges, etc., the PROVINCE established a fund for ASSISTING to the extent of 20, 40 or 60% according to the road, for construction and yearly maintenance. Shall we stand aside while other counties USE THIS FUND; is it good policy to continue obsolete methods in preference to modern, tested and approved systems? Peterboro County, with its natural requisites for good roads, should LEAD instead of lagging behind. Who would think of saying that men without family should not contribute to our high and public schools? Similarly, Canadians generally are too broad minded to use such an argument, that because a county road (which is for the benefit of the entire county) does not pass a man's door that he should not contribute.

Eighteen counties have adopted the good roads system and the representative for East Peterboro tells us this system of co-operation is becoming more popular every year, and that millions will be held in reserve for road construction after the war. Shall we let the opportunity pass knowing that every dollar raised by the county is expended in and by the county, together with thousands from the Province?

If there is one item more than anything else that will improve rural districts, increase the value of farm lands and bring inland sections more to the front, it is first class roads. The Department of Trade and Commerce purpose spending thousands of dollars on Canadian moving pictures, lantern slides, etc., to advertise Canada, and through the Canadian Trade Commissioners undertake a most extensive propaganda which will make Canada, Canadian industries known throughout the world. Of what use would this be if we are hesitating and slow, unprepared for development? The needs of Canada and Europe guarantee prosperity if we live up to our opportunities and responsibilities. It is well that other counties are adopting progressive methods regardless of what Peterboro county may do.

It is gratifying to note that meetings are soon to be held in this district to take up the question fully, and I feel sure that the problem will be faced earnestly, unitedly and with determination to make East Peterboro roads not "just as good" but first class, or in other words "the very best."

HIGH SHERIFFS OF SOUTH ENDORSE IT

Prominent Officials From Four States Tell of the Benefits Derived From Tanlac.

Four of the leading sheriffs of the South, in widely separated States, have given their unqualified endorsement to Tanlac.

Hon. Chas. L. Lewis, ex-sheriff of terms was sheriff of Fulton County, Ga., residing in Atlanta, said: "Tanlac has certainly helped me. My condition is now that of a well man. Tanlac proved to be just what I needed to put my system in shape and all my disagreeable symptoms of stomach trouble have disappeared.

Hon. Charles L. Lewis ex-sheriff of Crittenden County, residing at Marion, Ark., said: "Tanlac has entirely relieved me of biliousness and malaria, and has almost made a new woman of my wife, who has suffered for ten years with stomach trouble."

Hon. A. P. Anderson, who was re-elected seven times to the office of sheriff of Harris County, Texas, residing at Houston, said: "Money couldn't buy the good Tanlac has done me. I suffered from indigestion of the worst sort and had severe neuralgic pains. I have taken three bottles of Tanlac; my trouble is gone and I am like a different man."

Hon. S. A. Kelley, sheriff of Extor County, Texas, residing at Odessa, Texas, says: "I needed a general, all-round building up for over seven years and Tanlac has done that very thing for me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by the W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowlers' Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle & Son.

BASEBALL DIPLOMACY.

How Connie Mack Arouses Confidence in His Players.

In the American Magazine Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics tells how Manager Connie Mack inspires his players with confidence in themselves:

"There comes to me an incident when he built McInnes' confidence wonderfully when Stuffy was still doing bench duty. In a game against Chicago a critical situation was looming up. In the eighth inning the score was 6 to 4 against us. After two were out Barry signaled and Lapp came to bat. By this time Mack was beginning to fidget and squirm uneasily in his seat, something he always does when the crisis of a game seems about to break. I heard Harry Davis, who was then captain, say:

"'Connie! Are you going to let —— bat?'

"Davis had mentioned the pitcher, a notoriously weak hitter. I saw McInnes watching Mack out of the corner of his eye. The youngster trembled eagerly, hoping for a chance to go to bat in the pinch, and I think Mack saw him too, for he said to Davis rather loudly:

"'You know very well who is going to hit if Lapp gets on. There's only one man I'd put up—eh?'

"Davis inclined his head toward McInnes, and Mack nodded. McInnes saw all this, as Mack meant he should. Subsequently Lapp smashed out a two base hit, putting Barry on third, and McInnes, told to go to bat, rushed out from the dugout swelling with confidence. He had heard Mack as much as say there was 'no other man on the team he would trust in this pinch' but me. McInnes at that moment possessed overwhelming self confidence. A moment later he drove out the hit that won the game. Mack's little bit of diplomacy had met with success."

Tale of a Tail of a Stuffed Horse.

The stuffed representation of Napoleon's famous charger, Vizier, having worn out its third tail since its master's death, has recently been supplied with a fourth flowing appendage for the benefit of visitors to Paris. Vizier, except for its tail, is the "authentic" war horse ridden by Napoleon. After the animal's death the skin was stuffed and placed among the Napoleonic collection in the Invalides museum, and it became one of the objects which attract most of the attention of visitors. Of the three tails that have already disappeared at the hands of sightseers, despite the vigilance of the guardians, it is believed that at least two are in America in small detachments.

New One-cent Coin.

The Minister of Finance is considering the design for a new one-cent copper coin. The present one-cent piece while of excellent design is of so large size as to make it inconvenient to carry more than two or three in the pocket. The new coin will be slightly larger and slightly thicker than a ten-cent piece so as to be readily distinguishable to the touch. It will take some time to have the die made and the coins issued for circulation.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM PERMANENTLY CURED
NEW BRUNSWICK LADY GIVES FULL PARTICULARS OF HER RECOVERY.
There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.
It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edward Warman, of Kent Jct., N. B.
Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.
Weak and despairing she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thomas Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:
"For five years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day that I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased my painful joints, gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that an ache has ever returned. Even the damp weather no longer affects me."
Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.
By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy, Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a CURE—order to-day. 50c per box, or six for $2.50; sold by all dealers or direct from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Flirts With Sudden Death.

James Drysdale, driver for a Lethbridge fruit firm, was delivering bananas a few days ago when what he thought to be a ripe banana dropped down his neck. He reached and retrieved a yellow-and-green snake three feet long, which he held in his hand while he examined it thoroughly. It was a copperhead, whose bite is instant death. That the snake was numb with cold was probably his salvation.

Street Fighting Between the Soldiers and Sailors Took Place in Berlin

Machine Gun Fire Featured the Proceedings—One Hundred Persons Killed.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Nearly one hundred persons were killed in the street fighting between sailors and soldiers, which began in Berlin on Tuesday morning, according to latest reports from Germany's capital. Republican Guards tried several times to take the Royal stables and headquarters of the revolting sailors, but were repulsed. A large number of soldiers belonging to the Berlin Guard joined the sailors, the Vorwaerts reports, and a few of the Republican Guards followed their example. When these reports were sent a large number of armed civilians were continuing to fight the sailors, not only at the Royal stables, but in Koenigstrasse. This street with all its houses, is reported in the hands of sailors, who are supported by Spartacans. They demand that Premier Ebert and Secretary Haase resign and be replaced by George Ledebour and Karl Liebknecht.

Dr. Liebknecht, the advices add, went to the Chancellor's palace and had a long conference with ministers, the result of which was unknown. Further fighting was anticipated, it was added, as the Spartacans and the sailors are said to have decided to attempt to force the Guards to return to Potsdam. The latter were stationed in Unter Den Linden and on Werderschen Platz.

Seized Red Castle.

According to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen, a force of 800 sailors on Monday formed a guard and seized the red castle, one of the former Royal palaces. They blocked the main streets and entered public buildings and arrested Herr Weis, the military commander of Berlin, Herr Fischer, his adjutant, and Dr. Bongard. The Republican Guard, with machine guns and artillery, bombarded the castle. Holes were made in the walls, the porches were destroyed and all windows smashed. The balcony from which former Emperor William once made his speeches, in which he declared, "I know no parties," was partly smashed. The Guard eventually occupied the castle, but the sailors were still holding another large building at the time the despatch was filed. The square in front of the castle was littered with stones and missiles.

Marines Killed.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Details of the clash between the sailors and Government troops in Berlin on the night of December 23 and 24 are given in a Berlin despatch received by way of Berne. Efforts were made in vain to induce the marines to leave Berlin, and especially the castle, where they have established themselves from the beginning of the revolution. They were informed that they would not receive their pay if they did not leave the castle. The marines eventually occupied military headquarters. After sending a delegation to the military commander of Berlin demanding that eighty thousand marks be paid to them. At the same time a detachment of marines attacked the soldiers occupying university buildings. In an exchange of machine gun fire three marines were killed and four wounded. Later a delegation was sent to the Chancellor's palace to discuss the situation with Chancellor Ebert, Richard Barth, secretary of Independent Social Democratic party, and Herr Lansberg, Socialist member of the Reichstag. The marines put three men under arrest, but after along discussion they released them. The Berlin commander also was arrested and an amount of money alleged to be due the marines was seized.

Has Been Released.

Herr Weis, military commander of Berlin, who was arrested Monday by revolting sailors during fighting, in which many sailors and Republican Guards were killed and wounded, was released shortly before noon to-day. He spent the night in the basement of the former Royal stables.

Some of the more hot-headed sailors were in favour of immediate execution of Weis, but cooler heads opposed this plan. The military commander, however, was not spared humiliation, and some sailors proposed that he be locked up in a small chamber with the dead bodies of sailors and other victims of Monday's fighting. That he escaped violence and possible death was due to intervention of Socialist leaders with sailors. Fifty sailors, it is reported, are still concealed in the Red palace.

Mutinous sailors, who had been holding out in the Red palace at Berlin, have hoisted the white flag and have been allowed to leave under guard. Government troops, the message adds, now occupy the palace and Royal stables.

Wants to Save Kaiser

Von Bernstorff Eager to Escape Russian Situation Huns Created.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—"All the belligerents have accepted President Wilson's fourteen points, and the only question to be discussed is their interpretation," said Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, in giving his opinion on what Germany's attitude would be at the Peace Conference, according to the Geneva correspondent of The Matin.

"Germany," declared the Count, "will keep to the President's programme, which grants each people of an ethnical group the right to dispose of itself." Asked if he thought the President's programme would furnish the basis for a lasting peace, Count von Bernstorff shrugged his shoulders.

"This is the only one which can be proposed at present," he added, "and the attempt must be made to apply it. At any rate we shall support it."

Would Get From Under

When he was asked by the correspondent what attitude Germany would adopt toward the East, he replied:

"All the questions concerning the new States which have sprung up on the Russian frontier are the affair of the allies. Let them disentangle things as best they can. We wash our hands of Russia. We are content to safeguard as far as possible persons who started Germany in fulfilling at the same time the will of the populations."

Wants Wilhelm Saved.

Asked about the White Book which Carl Kautsky is said to be preparing in Berlin, Count van Bernstorff said:

'I don't think the book will reveal the individual responsibilities of the persons who started Germany in 1914. It will rather show the collective faults of the regime.

"I do not favour handing over the Kaiser to the allies. A Sovereign is not responsible for the policy of his Government."

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT CATHOLIC CHURCHES

holy day in the Catholic church es commemorating the nativity of Christ. At St. Peters Cathedral, Pontifical High Mass was sung by his Lordship Bishop O'Brien at 5.30 a.m., with full choir and special music for the feast. The pontifical benediction was given at the close of the mass which was immediately followed by a low mass at which practically every member of the congregation received communion There were other masses during the morning and vespers at night At the other churches the services were at the same hours and were also marked by special music and sermon bearing upon the great feast of Christmas

The music at St. Peter's Cathedral was exceptionally good and in keeping with the spirit of the church in celebrating the anniversary of the birth of the Saviour of Mankind. The choir, which has attained a high standard of efficiency under the capable management of Mr. Minnicolo, and the untiring energy of the organist, Miss Doherty, has seldom been heard to better advantage than in the rendition of Loesch Mass in F, which was sung at the two high masses yesterday. Solos were effectively sung by Misses A. Simons G. Clancy, F. Leahy and Messrs. Hill, Minnicolo, Picard and Hanrahan.

The Adeste Fidelis ('O Come All Ye Faithful') by V. Navello, was sung by full choir at the Offertory, with solos taken by Miss Clancy and Messrs. Picard and Hanrahan.

At the second mass the Pastorale, from the oratorio, Pour Noel, by Lambillotte, was sung with expression by a mixed quartette, the four voices blending harmoniously. Those comprising the quartette were G. Clancy, N. Simons and Messrs. Minnicolo and Hanrahan. Mrs. Halpin sang 'O Holy Night,' by Adams, in her usual capable manner, and Mr. Ed. Hanrahan also sang, "In Old Judea" with full choir in the chorus.

Miss Doherty also played several voluntaries in her usual finished style.

QUALIFIED FOR ELECTION

Fifteen Candidates for the Council and Six for the Board of Education.

LIST OF CONTESTANTS

Of the twenty-five candidates for the City Council nominated on Monday night, fifteen qualified and ten are to be elected. The fifteen are as follows: Aldermen A. A. McIntyre, W. H. Taylor, F. H. Dobbin, Jos. Saunders, John Edgar and Robt. Jones; also the four Labour candidates, Alex. Murray, Harry Gainey, Robert Morrison and James Garside; and J. J. Turner, James H. Hamilton, ex-Alderman Phelan, ex-Alderman Stratton and Hughson Johnstone. At the elections on New Year's the ratepayers must remember that each elector must vote for at least four candidates, and above that number, for as many as they wish up to ten.

Board of Education.

The Board of Education's ballot will contain six names as follows: R. Denne, A. A. Fowler, G. N. Gordon, Mrs. E. K. Morris, J. A. McKone and W. H. Pretty. Three other candidates were nominated but declined to qualify. There are four vacancies on the Board, and electors may vote for not more than four, and under that number as many as they wish.

Christmas at the Protestant Home

Programme Was Pro—Address by Canon Davidson.

Directly one got within the portals of the Protestant Home on Christmas eve, one felt the true, genuinely and kindly spirit of this season manifest. Everything was bright and cheerful, the faces expressed happy expectation, for everyone knew that no one would be forgotten when the gaily decorated and heavily weighted tree came to be dismantled. The members of the Board, one and all, and also Miss Lancaster, the bright and capable superintendent, spared neither thought or effort in the endeavour to make it a truly happy Christmas for all. Mr. John Allan was in charge of the programme, which started by all singing that grand old Christmas hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," for everyone thanks God for "Peace on Earth," and for the end of the awful conflict which has saddened all hearts, and echoes the longing for "Good will towards men" to prevail over all the world.

The programme was contributed to by Capt. and Mrs. Maurice Park, Miss Maysie Armstrong, Miss Garrow, Miss Muriel Harvey, Mr. Douglas Carlisle, and consisted of songs, duets and readings, which were highly appreciated and for which hearty thanks were tendered.

Gave An Address.

Canon Davidson gave a very bright address, telling of how we were one big human family, and that at Christmas time those family feelings were intensified, everyone wanted everyone else to be happy, and were interested in one another, for after all our interests, our sorrows and joys were intermingled, and what affected one portion of the great human family concerned the other. So all joined in celebration of this Christmas, the happiest one for four years, and thanked God for it. He concluded by wishing all the compliments of the season, and thanked those who had taken part in the programme.

Mr. Allan called for thanks to Miss Lancaster for all she had done to make the gathering a success.

God Save the King was then sung, after which all the gifts were taken from the huge tree and distributed to the happy recipients. No one was overlooked from the youngest to the oldest; all participated. The poor old tree was the only lonely-looking object to be seen when it had been denuded of all its pretty and interesting parcels. So ended a happy Christmas afternoon.

THE WEATHER

When the prospects did not look good for sleighing on Christmas day, heavy snow came down at the last minute and saved the situation. Christmas day of this year was very similar to that of last year—snow falling on both days, and the temperture being practically the same. Some very cold weather followed Christmas day of last year, the thermometer being down to 27 degrees below zero on several days and the remaining days were almost as severe. This morning was quite sharp, being but 4 degrees above zero.—W.P.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND PARTY GIVEN ROYAL RECEPTION

Visitors Were Accorded All the Honours Given Royalty.

Canadian Press.

LONDON, Dec. 26.— President and Mrs. Wilson are in Buckingham Palace this afternoon after a journey from Calais to London, during which they were accorded all honours ever given Royalty. Never has Royal progress, except those of great national ceremonies, excited such interest here as the first State visit of an American President. The drive of short procession from the station to the Palace was made through streets lined by Guards regiments in khaki. Fresn nags hung overhead and covered the buildings, while windows, balconies, sidewalks and open spaces were filled with people, many of whom wore American colours. It was a great spectacle. First came the Sovereign's escort of troops from the Household Cavalry, with helmets and steel cuirasses. Then came carriages with King George and President Wilson and Queen Mary and Mrs. Wilson and Princess Mary. These were followed by three others. Although the trip was a short one, it lay through a most interesting section of London. Probably the most interesting part of the spectacle for the President was the people, who were crowded everywhere to greet him. The day being a holiday, working men and women had a chance to turn out with their small children. They made most of their opportunity, and to no stratum of British humanity could the President have made a stronger appeal. While the formal features of the event were well staged and managed, the human factor presented the most interest. The interior of the grimy old station, where King George welcomed Mr. Wilson, was carpeted with red, and the walls and roofs were hidden behind masses of flags.

REPLY TO ADDRESS.

DOVER, December 26. — In reply to the address of welcome from the people of Dover, President Wilson said: "We have come through many serious trials together and, therefore, can regard each other in a new light as comrades and associates because nothing brings men together like common understanding, and common purpose. It is therefore with deep emotion and particular gratification that I find myself here afforded an opportunity of matching my mind with the minds of those who with like intention are proposing to do the best they can, and that can be done, in the great settlement of this struggle."

As soon as the party entered Buckingham Palace crowds outside, including several hundred wounded soldiers in the Palace yard began cheering. Then came shouts of "we want Wilson, we want Wilson." In response the President and Mrs. Wilson, together with King George and Queen Mary, soon appeared on the second floor balcony. Their appearance was the signal for renewed cheering, and the crowd, especially the wounded men began calling for a speech. "I do not want to make a speech," said the President. "But I do want to tell you how much I honour you men who have been wounded in this fight for freedom, and to thank you all for the welcome you have so generously given me." As soon as the President's speech was concluded the party re-entered the palace.

Troop Ship Quarantined

Northland Has Scarlet Fever and Smallpox Aboard at Halifax.

Canadian Press:

HALIFAX, Dec. 26.— Up to a late hour this morning, no word had been received from Ottawa with reference to the Northland, which is smallpox quarantined with upwards of one thousand returning troops. The ship is still lying in the harbour awaiting a decision as to whether or not she is to dock.

The steamer Northland arrived today with 1,066 passengers, of whom 77 are civilians and the others returning soldiers. It was expected that the steamer would dock at ten o'clock this morning, but it developed when the health officer went aboard that there was one case of smallpox and one of scarlet fever among the passengers. This made it impossible to allow the ship to be docked or disembarkation to take place, and the steamer remained at anchor in the stream. The two sick men were removed to the quarantine station at Lawlor's Island and the facts were communicated to Ottawa, leaving it to the authorities there to decide whether the ship should be allowed to dock to-morrow or go into quarantine for a period of 14 days. It was considered likely that the former course would be pursued and the disembarkation staff were directed to report at the pier at nine o'clock on the assumption that she would dock.

ADDRESSED THE TROOPS

Eight Thousand American Troops Reviewed by President Wilson —A Plan for Peace.

SETTLEMENT EASY

By Webb Miller.
(United Press.)

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Dec. 26. —(By Courier to Nancy).—A vast sea of tin hats, wave on wave, swept before President Wilson yesterday as he reviewed eight thousand American troops at Langres.

He told the soldiers they would get the kind of peace they fought for.

The 8,000 who marched for the President across a muddy field, were representative of many divisions. It was a dramatic moment, one of the most dramatic in history, when the President of the United States stood before the American boys who had come so far from home to fight and win, and congratulated them on their victory.

"People's Peace."

The President addressed the troops as "my fellow countrymen." He declared that America had a chartered plan for peace and that all nations concerned had accepted that chart, making process of settlement comparatively simple.

"And," he said, "everybody concerned knows that it must be a people's peace, and that nothing must be done in settlement of issues of the war which is not as handsome as the great achievements of the armies of the United States and the Allies."

After wishing the troops a happy New Year, saying it was hard to bid them merry Christmas so far from home, the President dined with the officers of the Twenty-sixth Division. All present wore decorations. Then there was a long motor trip in the rain, with occasional flurries of snow and flickers of sunshine.

Wilson visited the soldiers' billets. He was cheered all along the route by inhabitants. The party halted once when an old French woman appeared carrying flowers for Mrs. Wilson.

Christmas Tree At The Shelter

Real Live Santa Claus Distributed the Gifts.

Although the night was very stormy on Christmas Eve, still it did not stop the Christmas Eve entertainment at the Shelter. May people were unable to attend but the children were there and enjoyed themselves. A real live Santa Claus distributed the gifts to the children. Mrs. Walter Evans and Mrs. Brayley were in charge of the arrangements in the absence of the president of the Aux was delightfully decorated and the diary, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs. The tree Shelter with a myriad of lights was very home-like. At eight o'clock the children marched in to see the tree and hear the programme. Miss Laura McFarlane presided at the piano and Mrs. J. H. Renwick sang three times to the delight of all who were present. Miss Muriel Harvey recited twice to the children.

The children also sang a few pieces.

After a recitation by Miss Nannie Rolls and another by Miss Zetta Windover, both being well rendered. Santa Claus came in a side door and then things began to move. Mr. Joseph Wearing, the Secretary, gave a short address on the value of Christmas.

Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill, past Secretary took the chair in the absence of Mr. A. E. Peck, the president.

The Board was greatly pleased at the generous response from the public for the Christmas treat.

The arrangement for the reception of the guests and the hundred other details were well looked after by Mrs. Reid the Superintendent, who deserves great credit for the efficient way she handled everything

Yesterday Was Substitute Christmas in Germany

Berlin Was Hungry and There Were No Big Dinners—People Are Thankful Peace Has Finally Come—Holiday Crowds Were Half Gay But Not Lively.

(By Frank J. Taylor.)
(United Press Service.)

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—Yesterday was "Ersatz Christmas" in Germany.

Everything in Germany is Ersatz now. Erstaz, the German word for substitute, has come to be the most used word in the Teutonic language, and it was applied to Christ's birthday by a wan, thin girl the correspondent saw in Unter Den Linden. She was standing in front of a shop with her small brother. Their noses were pressed flat against a window, behind which gleamed a gaudy Christmas tree, hung with frosted cakes and coloured candles.

"Sister, do you think we will get candies and cakes this Christmas?" the boy asked.

"Of course not," was the reply. "This is Ersatz Christmas."

Berlin was hungry yesterday. There were no candies and no presents with the exception of trinkets. There were no big dinners, but yet there were no starving. People are thankful peace has finally come.

Scenes in the Stores.

Merchants everywhere have "Ersatz" articles for sale. Caterers and candy-makers displayed high-priced, gaily-coloured sweetmeats which were not sweet at all and had a most unsatisfying effect on the purchaser.

The streets were a mass of people. The crowds were half gay, but not lively. Men, women and children, their faces peaked, their eyes hollow and with no sparkle, walked through the streets. Soldiers presented a sharp contrast to civilians. They have been living well and are fat and bright.

Crowds in theatres, opera houses and cafes endeavoured to put some spirit into Christmas, but the joy was not spontaneous. I noticed hundreds of well-dressed persons staring at edibles displayed in windows.

Will Return to Civil Life

Majority of Officers in the American Army Will Forsake Army Life.

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press Service.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 26.—The distribution among officers of questionaires asking whether they desired to remain in the army or return to civil life, has set thousands of them to wondering what they will do when there is no longer use for them in the army.

A canvas among the men who have led the doughboys, artillerymen, flyers, and all other branches of the service, disclosed that the great majority have filled in their blanks with a desire to return at once to civil lift. At least fifty per cent. of these, it was discovered, will return to their homes, ready to tackle some new pursuit. They regard the war as the turning point in their lives, offering them an opportunity to start anew.

Presentation to Mr. Arthur Brooke

Mr. Arthur Brooke, overseer of the carding department, Auburn Woollen Company, received a pleasant surprise when he was presented by the cardroom employees with a fine case of carvers.

The Address.

Miss Eva Crowe read the address, which was as follows:

Dear Mr. Brooke: We have come to the close of another year and t this joyous season find a fitting time to remember all your many kindnesses in the past, and our pleasant times together, and to express our gratitude for your continued confidence in us.

We would ask you to accept this gift, bearing with it all our best wishes for a "Joyous Christmas," and may the New Year be but the beginning of long years of happiness, health and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of the employees of the Card Room, Christmas, 1918.

Mr. Brooke made a suitable reply.

Banking Returns For the Month

LARGE WITHDRAWALS ON VICTORY LOAN ACCOUNTS.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, December 26. — One hundred and forty three million dollars was paid by Canadians last month on their Victory Loan subscriptions. Savings deposits in Canadian banks were reduced by this amount, according to the bank returns for November reported by the Finance Department to-day.

Even after the payment of this amount on bonds there were savings deposits of $939,329,271 on the books of the banks. The demand deposits were thirty millions more than previous month and one hundred and thirty more than the corresponding month last year. The current loan in Canada was $1,082,709,655, or about $13,000,000 more than in the same month last year.

The statement on the whole shows a highly satisfactory financial situation in Canada.

Contract For Nine Millions

Will Continue Contract on the Welland Canal.

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, December 26. — The contract for section three of the Welland canal, in the vicinity of Thorold, one of the most expensive sections of the undertaking, has been renewed and the world will be continued at an early date. The contract was formerly let to O'Brien, Doheny, Quinlan and Robertson, but was allowed to lapse because of the war. Senator O'Brien has now dropped out of the firm, for the purposes at least of the contract, the contract has been renewed of the other members of the contracting company. The estimated cost is in the neighborhood of nine million dollars.

Bonus Was Appreciated

On behalf of the employees of The Bonner-Worth Company, Limited, the undersigned wish to thank the Management for the generous bonus this Christmas, and other kind actions during the year, and to assure them that such actions are much appreciated by the employees.

THE CITY'S FINANCES.

The figures quoted by Ald. Taylor, chairman of the Finance committee of the City Council in his address at the public meeting which followed the nominations on Monday night, once more made clear to the ratepayers that a surprisingly large proportion of the civic expenditure is beyond the control of the aldermanic board. The important fact should not be lost sight of, and the aspirant for office, whose chief plea for the support of the electorate is his avowed intention of keeping down the tax rate, should be pinned down to something more definite than a general statement. He might reasonably be asked to explain how he proposed to set to work, in view of the fact that approximately 60 per cent. of the money spent by the Council is uncontrolled by that body.

Ald. Taylor showed that during the past year the percentage of the total sum appropriated for different services was as follows: Police Department, 3.2 per cent.; Public Library, 1 per cent.; Queen Mary Hospital, .8 per cent.; Collegiate Institute (debentures included) 7 per cent.; Public school, including debentures, 19.1 per cent.; patriotic grants, debentures, 1.7 per cent.; city general debentures, 5.9 per cent.; city's share local improvement debentures, 7 per cent.; frontage rate, local improvement debentures, 7 per cent.; Provincial war tax 2.7 per cent., and administration of justice, 1.5 per cent.

All of these expenditures are, it should be understood, beyond the administration of the Council, so that the economist who proposes to pare down the tax rate has only forty per cent. of the total expenditure to operate on.

THE CANDIDATES.

The preliminaries are over—it is no longer a question of discussing what candidates should be brought out for the City Council for next year, but of selecting the best ten aldermen that can be secured from the fifteen nominees who have qualified for the aldermanic race. The field of selection is not as large as was expected or as would seem desirable in the best interests of the city. Ten of those who were nominated on Monday night failed to qualify, and among them were several who would have been a source of strength to next year's Council. It is a matter of regret that such men as Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, whose splendid training in Chamber of Commerce work in the cities across the line, would have been invaluable, or Mr. E. F. Mason who in past years, served the city splendidly as a member of the Council, could not see their way clear to accept the nominations that were tendered them.

The field has narrowed down to fifteen men. Of these six were members of this year's Council, and three others, Messrs. J. J. Turner, Jr., Harry Phelan and A. H. Stratton, have had previous aldermanic experience, so that only six of the aspirants for office are citizens without previous municipal service. That Mr. J. J. Turner, who is the energetic president of the Board of Trade, has consented to become a candidate, will be gratifying to the citizens generally, not only because he is a successful business man and has had a good control in the Council, but because his election to next year's board would go much to develop an entente cordiale between the Board of Trade and the City Council. These two bodies have not co-operated in the past as much as they should have, and the closer relationship that should follow the election of the Board of Trade president to the City Council would be of benefit to the city generally. The four Labour candidates, Messrs. Harry Gainey, Alex. Murray, Robert Morrison and James Garside, are among the six candidates who have not been members of any previous Council. The other two new aspirants are Messrs. James Hamilton, of the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, and Mr. Hughson Johnston, both of whom are well known to the public.

Four of this year's Council are missing from the race, Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, Ald. Weir, Ald. Langford and Ald Worth. The six aldermen who are candidates again are Ald. Dobbin, Ald. A. A. McIntyre, Ald. Taylor, Ald. Saunders, Ald. Fitzgerald and Jones.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The social evening under the auspices of the Nurses' Supervision Committee of the Peterboro Health Association, at the Empress Hotel, is heartily commended to the attention of the public, with the hope that the attendance will be as large as the splendid cause to which the fund will be devoted, merits. There is no local organization that has been doing more helpful or necessary work than the Health Association. There is certainly none that has had as little advertising. The Association depends upon a grant from the City Council, subscriptions from a number of of public spirited citizens, and upon the annual "At Home," for funds to carry on its mission in the city. The proceeds of to-morrow night's function will be devoted to the very necessary work of supplying nourishment to patients whose families are not able to supply the milk, eggs and other things that are needed. Many a patient has been helped in this way by the Health Association, and the organization hopes to be in a better shape next year to enlarge the scope of its work. A large attendance to-morrow evening will be of great assistance in this aim.

ADMIRAL BEATTY'S FAREWELL.

The fighting Admiral of the British fleet, Sir David Beatty, will have to write his own story of the war. After his farewell talk to Admiral Rodman and the officers of the American flagship New York, Sir David cannot plead a lack of familiarity with the art of saying the right thing in the best English. If Mr. Kipling and Mr. Conrad and Mr. Masefield had put their heads together to compose the speech that the British Admiral should make when he said good-bye to his American comrades, those masters of the vernacular could not have matched Sir David's sailor valedictory.

It had the spirit of Nelson's reply when he was praised for his victory in the battle of the Nile: "I had the happiness to command a band of brothers." In Sir David's speech was the savor of the sea; the brine must have been on his lips and the north wind in his lungs when he spoke so feelingly to his companions of many a night vigil and call to quarters. It was on the forecastle that he faced them, grouped about him, a historic movement. His heart was in each word, and every word rang with sincerity. What was said, always to the point, and just enough, with a rare sweetness and delicacy, Americans proud of their navy cannot read without emotion, and its effect upon the listening officers will be a memory through life with them.

There was not one of them who did not feel with Sir David Beatty a sense of disappointment that the Germans had not come out to test the battle spirit of the British and American fleets. They agreed with him that "it was a pitiful day to see those great ships coming in like sheep being herded by dogs to their fold without an effort on anybody's part." Like the fighting British Admiral, they could not understand it. It was not the traditional ways of the sailors of the two navies, who had fought some fierce bouts together. We fancy that no Captain who ever walked a quarterdeck could have paid a more delightful tribute to admired comrades than this:

> I want you to take back a message to the Atlantic Fleet that you have left a very warm place in the hearts of the Grand Fleet which cannot be filled until you come back or send another squadron to represent you.

It was not easy for Admiral Beatty to say good-bye to the home-returning Americans. Consider this moving sentiment: "I hope that in the sunshine which Admiral Rodman tells me always shines there you will not forget your 'Comrades of the Mist' and your pleasant associations of the North Sea." And then the handclasps, whose warmth and firmness expressed a good deal more than esteem for Great Britain's admiral with the Irish tongue and the Irish genius for friendship! It had been a joy to serve under a commander who in his daring and skill, his fairness and chivalry, reflected the ideals of the men who had been trained to serve their country at Annapolis. There has been no herald of good-will between American and England more winning than Sir David Beatty, and the measure of his manhood leaves no room for doubt that he is sincere and loyal.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A white Christmas after all.

Everybody seemed glad to see the snow on Tuesday except the snowplough men. And by the way, where were they on Christmas eve?

Mr. Vincent Eastwood's retirement from the Board of Education is to be regretted. He has done most splendid service as a member of that body for the past fifteen years.

The Kaiser preaching a Christmas sermon! What a travesty!

Voice of The People

THE CALL OF DESTINY.

Sir, — It is now a realized fact that an epoch in the history of Peterboro has taken place in the nomination of four labour candidates for the Municipal Council, endorsed by the local Trades and Labour Council under whose control these candidates will be helped and directed as to the wishes of the workers and the good of the city as a whole. Therefore, it will not be a one-man affair, but a Labour platform, which I believe they will stand for.

While Labour is likely to make mistakes, her glory will be in rising above these mistakes. Labour is to be realized as human power; the one essential motive power for the prosperity of the world.

The Canadian troops have been fighting the battles for Democracy and the emancipation of the worker, on the fields of Flanders, and in other parts of the world. Therefore their interests are our interests; they have made the way clear. We must not let the great achievement slow up in civil life. The matter now lies entirely with the workingmen themselves. It is with some difficulty that Labour managed to "qualify," financially support them now, it will be easier next time.

The system on which the Labour candidates are running makes every workingman a councillor, for if any man has a suggestion he will only have to take it to his union meeting, and direct the Labour representatives to take the matter up with their fellow Aldermen. So the responsibility for progress rests with yourselves, for the good management of the city's affairs so far as it lies in the power of the Labour party; and remember that possession of ability demands a duty of service.

It will not be just what the Labour candidates know; it will be what all the organized workers know centred in their four representatives. Labour stands for unity of purpose, a greater and more prosperous Peterboro.

The workingman's time has come to show his metal, and a plump vote for Labour. You will still have enough votes for the other fellow. Labour does not discriminate in creed or colour, but is Labour first, last, and the betterment of the whole race.

Labour must not miss this opportunity of electing workingmen upon the City Council, and so show our appreciation of the work of the boys in khaki who made it possible; for their interests are our interests.

T. TOOMS.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I would wish that you, in your editorial comment on the happenings of the nominations meeting had stated, what you obviously knew, that Mayor Dunean had limited the speaking time of the several candidates to five minutes each. It is true that Ald. Ellgar took twenty-five minutes, but he insisted on a hearing, and his general review of his stewardship was interesting to the meeting. I confined myself to the very briefest possible comment on the two or three things I mentioned. This in deference to the time limit. Others who spoke observed the rule very well indeed.

May I ask you to permit me to state that I should have been glad to say, and this in reply to your remark that very little was said by any candidate in the matter of recognition of the claims of the returned men for a roof over his official head and a joint meeting place. No doubt the theme was in mind. But again time did not wait. Possibly what I will ask you to print here may open the matter up to discussion and it may be that other plans and propositions may evolve.

We have two propositions. A home for the returned man and a memorial in respect to those who have fallen. Take the latter first.

I conceive that it is not part of the duty of the men returned or returning from service to be asked to erect or to contribute to erect a memorial to those who have given up their lives on the battle fields. That is, I respectfully put forward, wholly for the citizens, for those who remained at home.

Why should we be in haste to take this work in hand. I have stood under and strolled about what is the most famous national monument in the United States, that built commemorating the Battle of Bunker Hill. Yet that column was not erected until seventy-two years after the battle was fought.

Again, and probably, the most conspicuous national monument in Canada is that put up on the escarpment below the Falls of Niagara in memory to General Brock. It was not built until General Brock had been thirty-two years in his honoured grave. The beautiful memorial creation in honour of Samuel de Champlain, famous in the dawn of Canada, was not placed where it is until nearly three hundred years after his deeds had become a matter of history. We have both precedent and practice that we should make haste slowly. Public opinion can crystalize and reach common ground as to form, place and cost and afterwards we can erect and recognize.

But to the other. Let us ask ourselves:

Have these men earned what they want? They have.

Are we in debt to them for what they have done? Surely we are.

And if in debt, will we proceed to pay something of that debt? We ought to.

Then, how and when.

One of the men returned, speaking of this matter, said that they wanted a building that would accommodate 2,000 soldiers at times. As a citizen, I demurred, because of cost and especially of future upkeep. There is not, to my knowledge, between Montreal and Toronto, such a building for housing purposes, outside of purely military requirements. I inquired if such a building, for instance, as the West Ward school would do. Fine, he said. And was surprised to find that that important building accommodated about 400 children. And they sit together much closer than the soldiers will sit in occupancy. But what we do in part or in whole, we should do it now.

If elected to the next Council, I will propose that the sum of ten thousand dollars be placed in the estimates for the year, to be raised on the tax papers. No borrowing. That a committee of citizens and soldiers will get together and plan out what such a sum will do. For this is to be remembered, that when a considerable sum of money is to be paid, it is more often than not paid in instalments. Such money should make these men comfortable in a business home and meeting place well furnished. The cost of upkeep to be determined.

And that, if a larger sum than indicated be asked for and found judicious to be supplied, that a money by-law be submitted to the property owners further on. No doubt some further local legislation will be required on account of the bridge. Such a by-law can be submitted at the same time.

I think from my acquaintance with the views of the several candidates and from views expressed by citizens, that the proposition as outlined would receive the support of all. It is moderate, within our means and will accomplish much. For the time being at any rate.

Respectfully,
F. H. DOBBIN.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made, and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LAKEFIELD SERVICES WELL ATTENDED

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 26. — The Christmas services in St. John's Church were well attended. Rev. J. L. Taylor of Toronto was in charge. Hopkin's Te Deum was sung, Palmer's Kyrie and Plummer's Gloria Tibi were used in the communion office, also Smart's Gloria in Excelsis. The anthem, "Behold I Bring You Good Tidings," was sung, Mrs H G FitzGerald taking the solo parts.

Items of Interest From Hastings

HASTINGS, December 24th. — The weather has taken a decided change and is now much colder with heavy snow flurries.

The schools are closed for the Christmas vacation.

Miss Conley is spending the holiday with friends in Toronto.

Our esteemed principal, Mr. Ostrander, has resigned his position, and has accepted one in Deseronto, whither he will remove with his family to begin his duties at the beginning of the New Year. At the close of the school he was presented with an address and a club bag in recognition of his faithful services. Mr. Ostrander was visibly affected, but replied in suitable terms.

The citizens in general regret very much to lose so desirable a citizen. His position will be filled by Mr. Prentiss, who will commence duties in January.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. B. F. Doxsee, when important business was discussed and disposed of, after which luncheon was served by the hostess.

Pte. W. Langley and son Fred, have returned from active service overseas and are receiving the congratulations of their friends on their safe return.

An interesting event was solemnized in the Methodist parsonage on Wednesday evening, when Miss Minnie McConnal, became the bride of Mr. Harry Lobb. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Isaac Snell, the bride's pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Lobb have a host of friends who join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Nurse McGuire of Campbellford, was in town on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Smith motored to Peterboro on Thursday.

Mr. Harold Beavis of Lindsay spent a few days during the week at his home here.

Miss Helen Baker of Peterboro, is spending a holiday at the home of her brother, Mr. Malcolm Baker.

Miss Gertie Hall of Toronto, is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hill.

Miss Olive Humphries spent a few days recently with friends in Peterboro.

Mrs. Nelson Beavis has returned from an extended visit to Lakefield.

Some new cases of "flu" are reported, several members of one family being down with it.

Miss Mae Huycke is visiting with friends in Peterboro.

Mrs. Leslie Gould has returned from Toronto and is spending the Christmas season with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Huycke.

Mr. Wilfred Knight of Lindsay, is holidaying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight.

Mr. Whitley of Toronto was in town during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Stillman of Norwood, called on Saturday.

POSTMEN'S CHRISTMAS A LONG DAY'S WORK

Christmas for the postmen was the busiest day of the year. They reported for duty at four o'clock in the morning, waded into mountains of mail, started distributing about ten or eleven o'clock, snatched dinner down town and in some cases were not finished until seven o'clock at night. For them it could scarcely be called an ideal "holiday," and to add to their difficulties the snow was loose and unpacked when they started on their routes. Of course there was considerable compensation in the gratuities of citizens who always remember the "Posties," and from several reports they fared about as well as usual.

BOARD of ALDERMEN

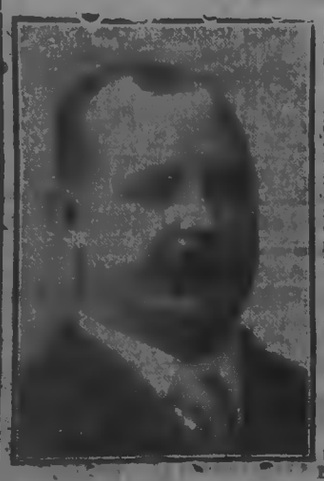
To the Municipal Electors Of the City of Peterboro

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—



In compliance with the urgent request of numerous friends I have consented to stand for election as Alderman for the city for 1919.

Having the benefit of several years' experience in the City Council and occupied important positions such as Chairman of the Board of Works and other influential committees, I would endeavour, if elected, to give my best services in assisting to conduct our civic affairs in a prudent, economical, and business-like manner.

I, as well as every other intelligent ratepayer, fully realize the fact that the city is faced with large responsibilities during 1919. Anything I can do, therefore, to serve the electorate at this critical period will be cheerfully undertaken to the best of my ability.

Soliciting your support and influence, and hoping the very best men may be elected for the Board of Aldermen for 1919, permit me to wish one and all the compliments of the season.

Yours faithfully,

HARRY PHELAN

SUPPLEMENT REGULATIONS

New Pension Provisions Come Into Force January 1—Special Provisions.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.— New pensions regulations come into force on New Years Day. They will follow, in the main, recommendations made by the special committee of the House of Commons, whose findings were published some months ago. But these recommendations have been supplemented in three important particulars.

1. The coming into force of the regulations is fixed for January 1, 1919.

2. All existing cases may be reviewed by the Board of Pension Commissioners in the light of the present regulations.

3. Special provision is made for cases of exceptional hardship.

BOARD of ALDERMEN

Ald. A. A. McINTYRE

As a candidate for re-election to the City Council for 1919 I respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

The coming year will be marked by a number of outstanding questions of grave importance that will have to be dealt with my the incoming Council. These include the proposed overhead bridge on Hunter street, the sewage disposal plant, the two-platoon system for the firemen, and also the question of a suitable war memorial and better and more adequate attention to the many problems connected with the soldiers who are already home and those who will return in the future.

This year the electors will have to mark their ballots for at least four aldermen and not more than ten. I hope to be favoured with one of these votes and if elected will give the same impartial and undivided attention to civic affairs that has characterized by efforts in the past. If you vote for less than four aldermen the ballot will be counted as a spoiled ballot, and if you vote for more than ten the same conditions will apply.

Yours for a greater and more prosperous and progressive city.

German Industrial Leader Sees Country Ruin For Years

Predicted Germany Would Lose the War, But Was Scoffed at by the People—Prospect Very Gloomy to Him.

COLONIES LOST, TOO

LONDON, December 24. — H. T. Greenwall, the Daily Express correspondent, has interviewed in Berlin Dr. Rathenau, head of the German General Electrical Company, one of the largest employers of labor in Germany. He said:

"Germany is ruined for generations to come. It is the greatest calamity that has happened in any country for 2,000 years. We are ruined politically, industrially and economically.

"All our people here do not yet know the truth. I told the German people that they would lose the war, but everybody scoffed at me.

"We have a population of nearly 70,000,000. Half of them can live on what grows on our soil or is found below it. The other half lives on the industries for which all materials have to be bought and paid for by what they sell.

"Now our colonies are going; and Alsace-Lorraine, too, with all the ores and the greater part of the potash production. There is danger too of losing other parts of our country, the Danish and so-called Polish districts, which in reality are German.

"Then comes the question of indemnities. If the indemnities are high, the interest and repayments will take our savings and we will have nothing with which to expand our industries. Black ruin will face us, and there will be a great tide of emigration, probably to South America and the Far East, and certainly to Russia. It will be most dreadful, and the result will be the Balkanization of Europe.

"The disappearance of Germany from a position of importance will be the most dangerous fact in history. Sooner or later the Eastern powers will press on the Western civilization."

Turning to the food question, Dr. Rathenau said:

"Germany has been hungry for three years, but is not yet starving. Everybody who sees Germany will say that she is not starving now and that is perfectly true. But if you talk of provisions to be found in Germany you must say truthfully that they will be exhausted in two months; and if you wait until then to send food, it will be too late, because 70,000,000 people cannot be fed as easily as say 7,000,000 Belgians. Ships are the greatest factor in feeding Germany.

"If the Allies do not send food within two months, what will happen?" the correspondent asked.

"Riots and sickness," was the reply.

Dr. Rathenau said that he had seen the damage done in Belgium and Northern France and his estimate of the indemnity payable for this was £1,000,000,000.

"That sum would, if anything, be excessive," he added. "It would be a war indemnity."

As Candidate for Alderman

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Having had your confidence for the past five years as a member of your City Council, I again ask your approval.

I have, in looking after your interests, tried to be useful, helpful and practical. Such details as have been entrusted to my care have been attended to efficiently and carefully.

There has been little opportunity in the past four war years for what is termed "progressive enterprise" for the city. If the coming term affords such you will not find me lacking in furthering that which is best for both your interest and that of the municipality. I can only ask you to take my past record as an assurance for the future.

I believe that thoroughness of attention to detail in our city administration is the only safe way to success. All else is but a flash in the pan. We must grow as we grow. Careful management, reasonable economy, faithful service are the basis of your municipal progress. I will, if elected, work earnestly for all.

Very respectfully.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

A. A. FOWLER

TO THE ELECTORS:

Having now served a two-year term on your Board of Education, receiving the highest vote on the occasion of my being selected for the honour, I again allow by name to come before you for re-election. My two years service, and particularly that of the last year when I was Chairman of the Property Committee, has given me the experience necessary to more intelligently attend to the important duties of the Board. Having accepted the honour of the ratepayers confidence, I gave the same care and attention to the affairs before the Board as I did to my own private business, and if again entrusted with the work will give the very best service of which I am capable. Knowing that greater School accommodation is becoming necessary especially in the South and West sections of the city, and in order to obtain all the knowledge possible, I visited, in company with Dr. Neal, and at our own expense, the Technical and Public Schools of London and Hamilton.

This Board will in the next two years, be obliged to dispose of considerable business, involving the expenditure of large sums of money, and my two years' experience on the Board, and long business training, should fit me especially for the duties at this crucial period.

I am an enthusiast along educational lines and want Peterborough to have the best Educational Advantages, and I consider that our equipment and Staff are of the high efficiency necessary to properly apply the magnificent System as outlined by the Provincial Authorities.

If elected it will always be my aim to guard the interest of the ratepayers and keep down expenses, endeavouring at all times to see that every dollar spent was properly applied. If my past Service, and future willingness are considered worthy of your support, you can show it on election day by endorsing my Candidature with your vote.

Yours faithfully,

A. A. FOWLER.

For Board of Education

MRS. KATE MORRIS

TO THE ELECTORS:—

The Board of Education in this city, up to the present time, has consisted of men only. Cities as small as Orillia and as large as Toronto, have had women school trustees for Some time—and their usefulness has been recognized by the men with whom they work and by the citizens whom they represent.

Sixty-five women teachers are employed in the schools in Peterborough, influencing more than 2,500 children every school day in the year.

Since the care and development of the children of the city depends so largely on women, in the home and in the school, is it not reasonable to think that the woman's point of view should be valuable on the School Board.

It is with the hope of being of some service in a work that surely requires the co-operation of men and women, that I am a candidate for the Board of Education.

KATE MORRIS.

Board Of Education

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

I have been again honoured with the nomination for member of the School Board for the City, and respectfully ask your support if you think my work in the past warrants it, and that my experience is of value to the Board in dealing with the very important matters that are coming up for consideration during the next two years.

With best wishes for the New Year, I am,

Yours faithfully,

ALD. W. H. TAYLOR'S REVIEW OF THE CITY'S FINANCES DURING THE YEAR

Statement at Nomination Meeting Showing Debenture Issues and Percentage of Expenditures Controlled by the Council—Deals With Other Questions.

In the list of candidates nominated for the Council on Monday night the name of Ald. W. H. Taylor, chairman of the Finance Committee, was inadvertently omitted. In his address at the nominations meeting he reviewed the expenditures of the Council during the year as follows:

This year the Council estimated the expenditures of the City at $506,510.41. In this sum I have included the Provincial War Tax, which is really levied by the Provincial Legislature but which we have to collect and hand over to the Government. In order to give an idea what proportion of the expenditure is for different purposes I have a statement of the percentage of the total sum which was appropriated for different services, as follows:—

Uncontrolled by the Council.

| | |
|---|---|
| Police Department | 3.2% |
| Public Library | 1.0 |
| Queen Mary Hospital | 0.8 |
| Collegiate Institute, including debentures | 7.0 |
| Public Schools, including debentures | 19.1 |
| Separate Schools | 2.9 |
| Patriotic Grants Debentures | 1.7 |
| City General Debentures | 5.9 |
| City's Share Local Improvement Debentures | 7.0 |
| Frontage Rates Local Improvement Debentures | 7.0 |
| Provincial War Tax | 4.7 |
| Administration of Justice | 1.5 |
| | 59.8% |

Expended by the Council.

| | |
|---|---|
| Assessments and Taxes | 1.0% |
| Charity | 1.2 |
| Fire Department | 4.9 |
| Light | 2.0 |
| Municipal Government | 1.5 |
| Streets and Bridges, including oiling streets and snow removal | 6.9 |
| Special Grants | 1.2 |
| Hydrants and Water | 1.8 |
| Miscellaneous (including loss on taxes, etc.) | 3.4 |
| Protestant Home, including debentures | 0.3 |
| House of Providence | 0.1 |
| Garbage Collection | 2.0 |
| | 27.4% |
| Patriotic Grants made this year | 12.8 |
| | 100.0% |

This statement shows what proportion of each dollar is expended for the different purposes.

During this year debentures to the amount of $51,200.00 were issued. Of this sum $13,200.00 was for waterworks purposes, the interest and sinking fund for which are provided by the Utilities Commission out of the waterworks revenue; $10,000.00 was for fire department equipment; $3,000.00 for sidewalks constructed as local improvements, and $25,000.00 to renew part of a block of consolidated debentures which fell due and which did not increase the debt. Debentures to the amount of $5,262.44 were paid off, and the increase in the debenture debt this year amounted to $20,037.56, the smallest increase in a number of years.

As to the future, it is always difficult if not dangerous to predict. But we certainly have reason to expect that we will not have to make a grant to the Patriotic Fund next year, and if we are not called upon for further patriotic grants that will relieve us of an appropriation that this year required a rate of 4.82 mills. We hope, too, that the Provincial Government will not require the war tax, which will make a further reduction of one mill. The assessment for next year will be, for ordinary municipal purposes, about one million dollars more than this year. On the other hand we will probably have to provide for interest and sinking fund for debentures to pay for the high-level bridge on Hunter street and for sewage disposal works. If the bridge debentures can be sold at the rate provided for in the By-law, and if the sewage disposal works cost $100,000.00, at which figure the cost has been roughly estimated, these two works will require a rate of about 2.30 mills. There is also the question of the two-platoon system for the fire department, which, if adopted, will add to the expense. But even if these have all to be provided for, and we get the relief we expect from the patriotic and war tax rates, the Council will be able to reduce the tax-rate, and I hope reduce it substantially. We will need, however, continued careful management and a cautious and careful oversight of all the expenditures.

If you give me a renewal of your confidence I shall continue to serve the City to the best of my ability, and to endeavour to have the affairs of the City economically administered.

WINNERS AT THE GEORGE STREET ALLEYS

The following were the winners of the prizes at the George street alleys. In ten pins, Alex. Stewart, with scores of 214, 236, 260, won the turkey for high total for three consecutive games, and W. Henderson with 177, 255 and 177 was second. Stewart also won the prize of two dollars for seven straight strikes.

In B class in ten pins, P. Dallin with 203 for singles, was high, D. Sharpe with 195, second, and G. Stephens with 189 was third. A. C. Miller, with 157, 216 and 198, in five pins, was high man.

Firemen's New Uniforms and Coats Accepted by Committee

Were Inspected on Christmas Eve and Approved by Both Aldermen and Firemen—Mr. Anderson Made the Uniforms.

BRIGADE LOOKED SMART

A Christmas Eve ceremony that was as pleasing to the Committee as to the members of the Fire Brigade, was the formal inspection of the new uniforms and overcoats at the Fire Hall. The only regret was that Chief Grange who is confined to his home with an attack of the prevelant "flu" was not on the floor to view the force in their new attire.

Sixteen brand new uniforms on sixteen stalwart men made a fine impression. Mr. Anderson, the contractor for the supply of clothing has done a good work, and fitted up as they were the force looked fine. The Committe passed the contract as satisfactory.

Then sixteen overcoats were brought out and donned. Talk of a respectable appearance. You had it then. Made of fine Canadian Frize, well lined, neatly cut and trimmed, the coats were worthy of a worthy brigade. Of nice length and sprinkled at appropriate points with the conventional brass buttons. When the force turns out on the street it will put the police in the shade of spiff appearance. To complete the outfit, and that it should lack nothing to do the thing complete each man had treated himself to a new uniform cap. Solomon in all his glory was not so arrayed, assuming that Solomon had to go about in the rigors of a Canadian winter. The overcoats were supplied by Mr. F. Jenne, who, in bestowing sartorial advice on others, bestowed some on the brigade. The contract was passed as satisfactorily executed.

These things are paid out of this year's appropriation and this is mentioned that the public may not assume that this year is plunging next year into debt.

BERT LYTELL

"UNEXPECTED PLACES"

A METRO PRESENTATION

Bert Lytell Appears in Adventure Play at the Grand Theatre.

A decidedly thrilling and entertaining feature will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre to-day, in which the popular actor, Bert Lytell, is seen as the star. This is the Metro production, "Unexpected Places," which was written by Lieut. Frank R. Adams, and published in the Blue Book Magazine.

The story is that of a "live wire" young New York journalist who, in a most unexpected manner, finds himself mistaken for an Englishman, Lord Varden. German spies are on the trail of the nobleman and when the young American, Dick Holloway, played by Bert Lytell, finds himself the possessor of the Englishman's title he also finds that he has inherited the Germans. Many exciting adventures are thrust upon Dick, but when a beautiful young girl claims him for her cousin he finds that he is fully compensated for all the dangers that he has undergone. The story is full of real thrills and quick action and the cast which surrounds Mr Lytell was picked by Director E. Mason Hopper for the ability which each one will fully demonstrate in the play. Beautiful Rheat Mitchell plays the leading feminine role of Ruth Penfield and others in important parts are Colin Kenney as Lord Varden, Louis Morrison, Edythe Chapman, John Burton, Rosemary Theby, Stanton Heck, and Jay Dwiggins.

Presentations at Worth Plant

Manifestation of Good Feeling Between Employers and Employees.

On Christmas eve, Mr. Dyson Worth, Mr. J. W. Worth and Mr. Edgar Worth were each presented with handsome umbrellas by the men employees of the Bonner-Worth factory. In the presentation of the Christmas gifts, which was done informally in the general office, the employees thanked the Messrs. Worth for the many kindnesses and consideration shown them during the year. Mr. Dyson Worth was further presented with a box of cigars.

Presented With Bag.

Following the above presentation, the girls of the factory assembled in Mr. J. W. Worth's office and presented him with a handsome club bag, wishing him the compliments of the season and thanking him for his kindness to them during the year. To this Mr. Worth made a suitable reply, expressing his appreciation of the co-operation which exists between the members of the firm and the employees. He said that while the war had ceased he fully expected to keep the present number employed indefinitely.

Description of French Camps By Sergt. Mahoney

Peterboro Boy With the American Army Gives Some Idea of American Camps—Sailed From Hoboken.

The following letter was received by Mr. D. Mahoney of this city from his son, Sergt. Jos. P. Mahoney, of the American engineers. Sergt. Mahoney tells something of camp life in France and is a good word picture of the French city of Brest as seen from on board ship:

Sunday, Nov. 24, 1918.
Camp Mencon,
Vannes, France.

Dear Dad,— This is "Dad's Day" with the American soldiers in France. To-day every soldier is supposed to write one letter home to his father. The censorship has also been lifted so we can now tell all about ourselves.

No Submarines.

So, Dad, I will try and tell you all I can remember.

We left Hoboken on Sept. 15 and arrived at Brest, France, on Sept. 28. We had a fine voyage. We did not see any submarines at all. I was on one of the look-out watches for one shift and I did not see any signs of subs.

When we left New York we had a full moon, which was dangerous, but the last night going through the danger zone it was pitch dark, the sea was very rough and it was raining heavy. That was the night I was on watch. The submarines could not work in such weather, so we arrived safely the next morning. It sure was a fine sight to see land again and to know we were in France.

Brest in the Distance.

Brest looked beautiful in the mist of the early morn. The pure white houses, old castles and churches, made a fine scene through the green grape vines and hedges. The town is situated on the side of a hill.

We landed in the afternoon and marched about three miles to camp. We stayed there one week. The old part of this camp was built by Napoleon and is surrounded by a high wall.

Through Nancy.

From Brest we went to 'Gievers.' At this camp we were classified and sent to the different places where we were needed. I stayed there one week and left there in charge of thirteen men to report to Camp Mencon for duty. We had a fine trip, passing through Tours, Nancy and some other French cities.

Promoted Sergeant.

When I arrived here I was placed as sergeant in charge of the pumps and lighting plants. I got along very well. About two weeks ago this part of the work was given over to the Engineers and the lieutenant who was over me, and myself were placed on detached service with the Engineers. We have charge of the construction and repair work. I have charge of the carpenters and at present we are busy building barracks for the French civilians who will soon be working here. I like my work fine and I am learning a lot of useful knowledge.

War is Over.

Well, Dad, the old war is over at last, and I am sure glad. Some of the soldiers will soon be going home. I expect we will have to stay until the French take over this camp. I may be sent to some other place then or they may allow me to go home. I hope the French take this camp very soon. I have a fine room to sleep in. I have a cot bed, stove, desk, shelves, etc. A young fellow is along with me. We have the room decorated with holly and pictures.

Wishing you all a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year, I remain,

Your loving son,
JOS. P. MAHONEY.

PRAISES SALVATION ARMY.

F. A. McKenzie, Noted War Correspondent, Tells of Their Work Among the Boys.

TORONTO, December 24. — The "Gospel of the Frying Pan" is the term applied by F. A. McKenzie, the noted war correspondent, who is on a lecturing tour in Canada, to one feature of the Salvation Army's work in France. Mr. McKenzie has high praise for the army, and in an interview, says: "I have had opportunity, both in France and in England, but more especially in France, of seeing something of the admirable work done by the Salvation Army for our troops. In this work of helping the fighting men, tending the sick and wounded, and comforting the sorrowing and the desolate, the Salvation Army has borne an honorable, and distinguished, and in many ways a unique part.

Part of the Chorus in Harvey Orr's Musical Show, "Miss Blue Eyes," at the Grand on New Year's Day.

The musical score of "Miss Blue Eyes," which is the big holiday attraction at the Grand on New Years' Day, matinee and night, was composed by Silvio Hein and Edward Paulton, who were responsible for the N. Y. recent success of "Flo-Flo."

With a bevy of beautiful girls singing and dancing such numbers as "Nobody Can Take My Heart from You," "A Sort of Subtle Feeling," and "Blue Eyes," are fast becoming strong favorites on the music stands.

Mr. Harvey D. Orr is bringing his original cast of 40 people here, and "Miss Blue Eyes" should prove one of the big hits of the season in Peterboro. The advance plan of tickets opens Monday a.m. at the Box Office.

WEDDING BELLS

BABY—MAHONEY.

A quiet wedding was solemnized this morning of Miss Adeline Mahoney of this city to Mr. Raymond Baby of Windsor, Ont., by the Rev. Father Phelan. They were attended by Miss Mary May and Mr. John Mahoney.

The happy couple left on an extended tour to Buffalo, New York, and other places, after which they will reside in Windsor, Ont.

CARLISLE—GIBSON.

Quietly at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Alex. Gibson, 585 George street, this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the wedding was solemnized of Mary Moffat Gibson and Gordon Douglas Carlisle. Rev. Robert Pogue performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was unattended, looked very charming in her travelling suit of Burgundy velour, a black hat and corsage bouquet of roses and orchids. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left by the 3.40 C.P.R. for a short honeymoon in the West. On their return they will reside in the city.

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH RITCHIE.

The death took place on Christmas day from pneumonia, after a three days' illness, of Mrs. Sarah Ritchie, wife of Mr. Robert Ritchie, Lot 14, Concession 14, Otonabee. She leaves beside her husband, two brothers and three sisters. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. Wesley Robinson, Otonabee.

The funeral takes place on Friday at 1.30 to the Zion cemetery.

MRS. W. J. MORDEN

The death occurred on Wednesday, Dec. 25th of Jennie Fair, wife of Mr. J. W. Morden. She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Fair, three sisters, Mrs. Morden Peaboro, Mrs. Ramsay, Espanola and Lottie at home; her five brothers, John and Edward overseas, Ross of Brock, Sask., Robert, Port Hope and Willard of 206 Westcott street, from where the funeral will take place on Sat. Dec. 28th at 2.30 p. m. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral will be private

MRS. JAMES MAHONEY.

The many friends and acquaintances of Mrs. James Mahoney will learn with deepest regret of her death, which took place at her home in Douro, on Tuesday, Dec. 24th.

Although the late Mrs. Mahoney had been ill for some time, her death came as a shock to many. A kind and genial disposition made her a favourite with all her associates.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Frederick Walsh of Douro, Mrs. James Foley of Indian River, and Miss Florence at home; three sons, Philip of St. Louis, Mich., Frank of California, and Jeremiah at home.

Three brothers also survive her, Daniel and John of Peterborough, and Michael of Bad Axe, Michigan.

The funeral took place from the family residence this morning at 11 o'clock to St. Joseph's church, where requiem mass was celebrated, and thence to St. Joseph's cemetery for interment.

JOHN ROWLAND.

Mr. John Rowland, after a prolonged illness, peacefully passed away at his home, in the Township of Manvers, Bethany, on December 6th, at the age of 61 years.

For years he worked at his trade as a mason, and in many parts of this country there are evidences of his painstaking industry and thorough work. In recent years he has farmed with the assistance of his family, about a mile out of the village of Bethany. His Christian life was not exhibited by a loud profession but by a quiet, peaceful trust in Jesus Christ as his Saviour.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held on Tuesday, December 10th, where an appropriate service was conducted at his residence by the pastor, Rev. W. T. Wickert, and his remains were interred in the family plot, Pontypool, beside those of his devoted wife, who predeceased him some few months ago. He leaves to mourn the loss of a kind father, four sons and one daughter.

MARRIAGE.

A Sensation Has Been Created By a Picture in Toronto

"The Better 'Ole" Has Proven a Bigger Drawing Card Than Any Other Film Ever Presented There—In Peterboro January 2nd, 3rd and 4th, at The Grand.

There is Real Entertainment in the Bairnsfather Play—It is Everyday Life in the Trenches as Lived by Old Bill, Bert and Alf.

"The Romance of Old Bill," as related in the film of "The Better 'Ole," is a stirring story containing a strong vein of humor and a message to all who see it. Old Bill is played by Charles Rock, in whose experienced hands Bairnsfather's character is admirably presented. The striking charm about these master studies is that they are so thoroughly unstudied. The characters reek—that is a sound word to use about the trenches—of truth. We see Old Bill, that philosopher of the trenches; Alf and Bert, those life studies in khaki, the comedy of the uniform. Khaki and cashinations is the motto for "The Better 'Ole." It is better than any play. Only a percentage of people have seen the legitimate version. The screen version begins with a prologue in which we vision Rouget de Lisle singing the "Marseillaise," we see the Three Muskateers of Dumas, "one for three, three for one." These dissolve into our modern trio of warriors—Old Bill, Alf and Bert. We see them in their dug-out, making merry in billets behind the lines, then off to Blighty, and their welcome 'ome. "The Better 'Ole" comes to Canada direct from England, and is now running at the Allen Theatre. The London Evening News says of it, "'The Better 'Ole' is meeting with enormous approbation wherever shown. It gives real entertainment."
